January, 1992

As usual, we took the opportunity to move everything around while you weren't here! No, seriously, things aren't as bad as they seem. This last move involved moving people, not books. Most of the material is still where you left it in December. Below is a handy dandy guide to what's what and what's where in the Library.

CIRCULATION DESK - This is located beside the elevator on the second floor of the Library. This is where you check out books, sign up for computers and get reserve materials. You may also use the terminal on this desk as a card catalog to look for material in the collection.

COMPUTERS - A temporary computer lab has been set up in the basement using the study rooms. There are 7 computers, 1 of which is reserved for printing only. We were unable to link these terminals together to expand the printing capacity. The computer for disk to disk transfers is also located in the basement.

CARRELS - The carrels will not be assigned until next year. This is because of various problems that surfaced with the construction of the carrels over break. At this time, the lockers are unlocked and you may feel free to use them. More information about carrel assignments will be available later in the semester.

READING ROOM - Many students have wondered what that little room with the comfortable furniture located by the first floor copiers is for. This is the new student reading room. The Library has stocked this room with newspapers and popular magazines.

PLACEMENT/MARTINDALE-HUBBELL - These materials are now located in the first floor hallway by the United States Code Service.

Please bear with us over the next six weeks. We know that things, as they are now, are not ideal. If all goes well, the Library will be back to normal by mid-February.
