Many changes are occurring within the Law School and every effort is being made to report on these changes. There are, however, a great many other developments, both within and without the Law School, that are of interest to alumni, friends, faculty and students. Readers are, therefore, encouraged to submit items of general interest, of either news or commentary value, for publication.

Dean's Farewell

by Dean Thomas A Edmonds

As many of you already know, this is my tenth and last year as dean at T.C. Williams. I simply believe that this is long enough for anyone to serve in this type of position at any one institution, and I have already far exceeded the national average tenure for law school deans of 3.8 years. I will be leaving in January to assume the deanship at my home state university law school, the University of Mississippi, where I began my teaching career twenty years ago this fall.

Naturally, I leave Richmond with the same mixed emotions I experienced as I moved here from Florida State in 1977. It has been a rare privilege to work with what must surely be one of the most loyal and supportive groups of alumni anywhere in the country during these past ten years, and I shall always remain vitally interested in your future successes and accomplishments. The academic and co-curricular programs at T.C. Williams are stronger and more effective today as a result of your interest and support, and I know that under new academic leadership the quality and reputation of the law school will continue to be enhanced in the years to come. I am almost as excited for you and your future under a new dean and a new president at Richmond as I am about the fresh agenda and opportunities which are in the offing for me at Mississippi!

Thank you again for all you have done to make my administration at Richmond so enjoyable and productive, as well as for the thoughtful letters and telephone calls I have received from many of you since my decision was announced in the Richmond newspapers late last summer.

Dr. Samuel Banks Becomes 6th President

by Randy Fitzgerald

Dr. Samuel Banks became UR's 6th president December 1. The Board of Trustees announced their decision after a special meeting on July 28, 1986. Dr. Banks, president of Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pa., was the unanimous choice of the University's Presidential Selection Committee.

Dr. Banks received a bachelor of arts degree in English literature from Duke University, a master of divinity degree in theology from Emory University and a Ph.D. in psychology from the University of Chicago. He has clinical psychology experience, and is an ordained minister of the United Methodist Church. He is the first non-Baptist to be elected president of UR.

Dr. Banks is married to Dr. Joanne

Trautmann Banks. Mrs. Banks is a professor of humanities and English at the Pennsylvania State University Colleges of Medicine and Liberal Arts. She is a pioneer in the field of teaching literature to medical students and she was recently honored by the Society for Health and Human Values "for creative and dedicated leadership in the furtherance of human values in medical education."

Mrs. Banks is co-editor of the six-volume Letters of Virginia Wolf. She has also authored numerous books and articles on literature and medicine, a field in which she is a pioneer.

Mrs. Banks' personal interests center around her family. She is very interested in the well-being of handicapped people, with whom she has special experience because of the Bankses' multiply-handicapped, 9-year old son, Piers.

At Dickinson, President Banks promoted new academic associations between the fine arts and music by bringing these two departments together in a technologically sophisticated building born out of an old gymnasium.

The new gym, built under Dr. Banks' guidance, was inspired by his feeling that the life of the body and the life of the mind should be integrated. In the classroom that overlooks the basketball court, professors from psychology, philosophy and the classics have studied sport as an important part of human culture.

At Dickinson, Dr. Banks has taught one course a year in the Department of Psychology. In addition, he is a lecturer at the adjacent Dickinson School of Law and an adjunct professor of behavioral sciences at the Pennsylvania State University College of Medicine.

He is also a professional magician and he teaches a non-credit course for seniors on introductory magic—its skills and its relation to the psychological concepts of perception and motivation.

He and his wife both enjoy deep-sea diving. Dr. Banks is a supporter of all college athletics, but is particularly enthusiastic about football.

James A. Westbrook To Be Second Allen Chair Professor

James A. Westbrook, the Earl F. Nelson Professor of Law at the University of Missouri-Columbia School of Law, will be the second George E. Allen visiting professor of law at T. C. Williams. He will be teaching Alternative Dispute Resolution and Conflict of Laws during the Spring semester.

Professor Westbrook began his teaching career at the University of Missouri-Columbia School of Law in 1965 and became a full professor at that institution in 1970. He was named the James S. Rollins Professor of Law twice, serving in that position from September 1974 to August 1976 and again from 1980 to 1981. In 1976 he was appointed Dean of the College of Law and Director of the Law Center at the University of Oklahoma and served in that capacity until 1980. Professor Westbrook received his LL.B. with distinction, from Duke University School of Law and his LL.M. from Georgetown University.

The author of numerous published articles, Professor Westbrook has also written a large number of arbitration opinions. He is the co-author of a book entitled Dispute Resolution and Lawyers which will be published by West Publishing Company in 1987. He has served as a labor arbitrator since 1973 and is included on the roster of arbitrators of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. He has served on several panels and delivered speeches on the arbitration process and the Alternative Dispute Resolution Movement. Professor Westbrook was the 1985 recipient of the Loyd E. Roberts Memorial Prize in the Administration of Justice. The award is given to the University of Missouri-Columbia Law Professor, who, during the year preceding, has made the most significant contribution to improving the administration of justice, either within Missouri, nationally or internationally.

The George E. Allen Chair in Law was established in honor of the late Richmond trial attorney by his sons George Jr., Wilbur and Ashby.

The Allens gave the University $150,000 with the hope that the fund could grow through other gifts to $1 million to create a fully funded distinguished professorship. The George E. Allen Chair was the first endowed chair in the 116-year history of the University's T. C. Williams School of Law.

Shepherd Wins Distinguished Educator Award

Professor Robert E. Shepherd, Jr., recently received the University's 1986 Distinguished Educator Award. He was one of six University faculty members honored during this year's Opening Convocation held on August 28, 1986.

The award recognizes faculty members for outstanding service to the University and their field as well as superior teaching ability. Faculty, students, alumni, administrators and trustees are involved in the selection process each year.

Professor Shepherd also won the award in 1980 and last year he was chosen to address the University Community at the 1985 Opening Convocation.

Guernsey Receives Tenure

The University of Richmond Board of Trustees recently awarded tenure to Thomas F. Guernsey, Jr. and promoted him to full professor. Professor Guernsey, who delivered his tenure address to law school faculty and students on September 24, joined the faculty in 1980.

A graduate of the University of Michigan, he received a J.D. degree from Wayne State University and a LL.M. degree from Temple University.

Professor Guernsey teaches first year property and evidence. He also teaches and has been instrumental in the development of the Interviewing, Negotiation and Counseling course and competition at the law school.

William Ruckelshaus Keynote Speaker At Environmental Symposium

The T. C. Williams School of Law has begun the second period of its 3 year campaign to raise $150,000 in funding for the Robert R. Merhige, Jr. Center for Environmental Studies. The funds will be matched by a challenge grant awarded by the Virginia Environmental Endowment.

$50,000 was raised and matched by the Virginia Environmental Endowment during the first matching period which ended March 31, 1986. The Law School has already received outright gifts and pledge payments totalling $12,546 since the start of the second matching period on April 1, 1986. Additional pledges of $23,100 have also been received.

Recently, the Merhige Center was a sponsor of an environmental workshop/symposium entitled, "The Dying Bay: Challenge and Response." The Honorable William D. Ruckelshaus keyed the event which brought together humanities scholars and lawyers who have researched and written in areas related to the environment and individuals instrumental in establishing and directly affected by the Chesapeake Bay Agreement of 1983. The Dying Bay Symposium was also sponsored by various divisions of the University of Richmond, The Virginia Environmental Endowment, the GTE Foundation Lectureship Program, and the Virginia Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy.

During his visit to campus, Mr. Ruckelshaus attended a special fundraising dinner which raised over $6,000 in contributions to the Merhige Center.

Information regarding the Merhige Center and/or the fundraising efforts of the Center may be obtained by contacting Kim Bram, Director of Alumni and Development for The T. C. Williams School of Law at (804) 289-8029.

Law Fund 1986/87

The 1986/87 Law Fund team kicked off this year's campaign on September 24, 1986. W. Birch Douglass, III, L'68, a partner with the law firm of McGuire, Woods & Battle, chairs this year's campaign. This year's team will be working to reach a total capital and annual goal of $378,000 with 50% alumni participation.

As of November 1, 1986, the Law School has received outright gifts and pledges totalling $46,310 with participation at 30%. In addition, unpaid pledges total $27,021.

Firm scholarship co-chairs, A. T. Mayo, Jr., L'70, and Archer L. Yeatts, III, L'67, continue to add firms to the Law School's successful Firm Scholarship Program which now includes 71 firms throughout the state.

Douglas W. Conner, L'61, serves as the chairman of the Law School's Estate Planning Program which seeks estate gifts for the benefit of the Law School. Part of this effort is the newly created Endowed Bequest Scholarship Program. This program allows an alumnus to begin funding an endowed scholarship during his or her lifetime and then complete or increase funding of this scholarship by a bequest under his or her will.

Class agent decade chairs have been working towards increasing alumni participation. Three decade phonathons were held in October and November. These phonathons focused on never givers from the individual decades and produced 252 new pledges totalling $18,910.00. A. James Kauffman, L'62, led the 60's decade phonathon; Richard Cullen, L'77, and James F. Stutts, L'77, chaired the 70's decade phonathon; and Gregory S. Hooe, L'80, and Donna D. Lange, L'84, chaired the 80's decade phonathon.

Pia Triggiana, L'83, and Terri S. Lovelace, L'85, are co-chairs for six general phonathons. The first of these took place on November 13 and was staffed by law student members of the legal fraternities, Phi Delta Phi and Phi Alpha Delta. Law student callers received 145 pledges totalling $5,390. Law students and alumni participated in the second general phonathon which was held on November 16. 169 pledges totalling $8,086 were received during this phonathon. The efforts of each law student and alumnus at the general phonathon is greatly appreciated.

Law Weekend 1986

Despite the rainy weather, attendance at Law Weekend 1986 reached record levels. The weekend began with the Barnett Memorial Golf Tournament held at the Crossings Golf Course. Herb Sebren, L71 received the Lowest Net Score trophy and Bob Brown, L77 received the Lowest Gross Score trophy. While the golf tournament took place, the Law School faculty, staff and students celebrated Jean Morris Tarpley's 35th anniversary at T.C. Williams. A pink dogwood tree was planted on the Law School grounds and a special reception was held in her honor. Mrs. Tarpley was also recognized at the annual Fall Gathering and presented with a gift by the Law School Association.

Approximately 600 alumni, students and friends attended the annual Fall Gathering. This year's event was held at the Hotel Jefferson and included a special tribute to Dean Tom Edmonds who will be leaving T.C. Williams in January. Law School Association President, Reggie Jones, read a Resolution of Appreciation recognizing Dean Edmonds' contributions to T.C. Williams during the past ten years. He also presented Dean Edmonds with ten engraved pewter Virginia cups on behalf of the Law School alumni.

The annual business meeting of the Law School Association was held Saturday morning. During this meeting, W. Birch Douglass, III, L68, J. Sloan Kuykendall, III, L77 and Carrie S. Camp, L84 were elected to the Law School Association Board. O. Leland Mahan, L64 was elected Vice-President and Judge Donald H. Kent was elected President of the Law School Association.

The business meeting was followed by a Bloody-Mary Brunch at which alumni and friends enjoyed a breakfast of crab imperial, curried fruit, sausage balls and pastry before attending the UR vs. VPI football game.

The Student Bar Association sponsored an Indoor Tailgate Party for alumni, students and their families after the football game. The event included clowns to entertain the children and a fried chicken dinner to satisfy post-game hunger pains.

In addition to the class reunions held both Friday and Saturday nights, the Legal Forum sponsored a Tort Reform Debate on Friday afternoon of Law Weekend.

Legal Forum Sponsors Speakers

by Sharon Moon, L'88

This fall, many interesting and important speakers visited the UR campus. Opening the semester lecture series on September 17, 1986 was Edwin Meese, United States Attorney General. The lecture was sponsored by The T.C. Williams School of Law and the University of Richmond. Mr. Meese, who's daughter is an undergraduate at UR, delivered the Constitution Day Address before a standing room only crowd in the Camp Theatre. Mr. Meese spoke about the farmers' efforts in drafting the Constitution and fielded questions from the audience. Mr. Meese is a graduate of Yale University and holds a law degree from the University of California at Berkeley.

The Legal Forum presented a lecture by Lawrence G. Wallace, Deputy Solicitor General of the United States Justice Department on September 25, 1986 in the Moot Court Room of the Law School. Mr. Wallace is the senior ranking official in the department and has argued ninety-two cases before the Supreme Court. His B.A. and M.A. degrees are from Syracuse University and he holds a law degree from Columbia where he was editor in chief of the law review. Mr. Wallace taught at Duke University where Dean Thomas Edmonds was one of his students. Mr. Wallace spoke about the Justice Department's role in selecting the cases which the United States appeals to the Supreme Court.

The Honorable William D. Ruckelshaus delivered the Keynote Address at The Dying Bay symposium, held October 10-11, 1986. Mr. Ruckelshaus is affiliated with the law firm of Perkins & Coie in Seattle, Washington and serves as the U.S. Representative on the United Nations World Commission of Environment and Development. Mr. Ruckelshaus was the first administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, and in 1983, again served as its fifth administrator. The Dying Bay symposium was a two-day event focusing on the need for further clean-up efforts in the Chesapeake Bay.

Legal Forum also hosted a Tort Reform Debate on Friday, November 7, 1986. The debate featured local attorneys involved in the tort field. The debate was held in conjunction with the alumni weekend activities.

T.C.W. Mourns Loss of Judge Willard I. Walker

by Kevin Williams

Judge Willard I. Walker, Richmond Circuit Court judge and a member of the faculty at The T. C. Williams School of Law, died of cancer September 28. He was 57.

Walker was educated at Washington and Lee University and taught law courses at the University of Virginia before joining the faculty of T. C. Williams as an adjunct professor, Dean Thomas A. Edmonds said.

"Judge Walker has made a tremendous contribution to our trial practice program over the five years that he has been with us," Edmonds said. "He took great interest in helping to equip lawyers with sound trial skills while teaching and while in practice," Edmonds said.

Robert E. Shepherd, Jr. said that he had known Walker for many years and found him to be an "exceptionally skilled trial lawyer and a very good and caring judge." Shepherd said that Walker liked working with students and that he maintained a relationship that was supportive of his students even outside of the classroom.

Paul J. Zwier said Walker's choice to leave the law firm of McGuire, Woods and Battle and serve as a state court judge "demonstrated his concern for working out justice for all kinds of people at all levels of life." Zwier said that accepting the appointment to the bench would have been a great sacrifice because it entailed giving up a lucrative position.

Edmonds said Walker had a special fondness for T. C. Williams and its students that went "above and beyond the call of duty." To that end, Walker's family has established a scholarship at the Law School in his memory. Dean Edmonds noted that he has already received a large number of contributions to the fund, a reflection of the "respect and admiration" that the community had for Judge Walker.
