

The Messenger

Volume 2002
Issue 1 The Messenger, 2002

Article 4

2002

melting

Claudine Mead

Follow this and additional works at: <http://scholarship.richmond.edu/messenger>

Part of the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation

Mead, Claudine (2002) "melting," The Messenger: Vol. 2002: Iss. 1, Article 4.
Available at: <http://scholarship.richmond.edu/messenger/vol2002/iss1/4>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by UR Scholarship Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Messenger by an authorized administrator of UR Scholarship Repository. For more information, please contact scholarshiprepository@richmond.edu.

melting

you wrap a strand of my hair around your finger and twirl it around till you let it go away when i need to be alone but come back in 45 minutes because you know that pretty soon i'll want you there is never a moment when i cannot stop thinking about the way you look up when you are confused is how i feel when your too-deep blue eyes adore me even when i complain that they forgot to put the dressing on the side by side is a very nice place your arm around my shoulders when i feel cold nights bring back memories of our first walk through the snow fell from the sky almost as easily as i fell for you have a way of changing the radio stations way too quickly we rushed under the willow tree when we got caught in the rain on our way to the movies aren't as fun if you're not whispering some silly or ridiculous comment every other second to none is the way i see you when you've just surprised me with a box of chocolates satisfy cravings like no other person knows the extent of your failure to put your turn signal on my way to the library i like to take the scenic route so that i can dawdle past the forget-me-nots are almost as cute as the dimples in your face to face we sometimes argue over the little things are much more entertaining when we do them together always feels so good thing you know that when i am buying you gifts i just don't care how much i'm spending time with you always makes me forget where you leave off and i begin by Claudine Mead