

The Messenger

Volume 2003
Issue 1 The Messenger, 2003

Article 3

2003

Moon

Samuel Keyes

Follow this and additional works at: <http://scholarship.richmond.edu/messenger>

Part of the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation

Keyes, Samuel (2003) "Moon," The Messenger: Vol. 2003: Iss. 1, Article 3.
Available at: <http://scholarship.richmond.edu/messenger/vol2003/iss1/3>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by UR Scholarship Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Messenger by an authorized administrator of UR Scholarship Repository. For more information, please contact scholarshiprepository@richmond.edu.

Moon

In all your brightness, burn
like a vicarious utopia,
virgin fricatrice of the stars;
for in your eyes are the craters
of my monochrome solipsism;
you were there (yes?)
when the first men peeked upward
into the vaulted heavens,
and here, as my eyes close
over the atramentous pages.
And elsewhere, in between,
ever vigilant and ever stuck,
like a raspberry seed
in solar teeth

By Samuel Keyes