

The Messenger

Volume 1989
Issue 1989 The Messenger, 1989

Article 25

1989

The Holy Union

S. K. McMillan

Follow this and additional works at: <http://scholarship.richmond.edu/messenger>

 Part of the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation

McMillan, S. K. (1989) "The Holy Union," The Messenger: Vol. 1989: Iss. 1989, Article 25.
Available at: <http://scholarship.richmond.edu/messenger/vol1989/iss1989/25>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by UR Scholarship Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Messenger by an authorized administrator of UR Scholarship Repository. For more information, please contact scholarshiprepository@richmond.edu.

THE HOLY UNION

Aching for the touch of God
Longing for the caress with primal urgency
Lying naked,
 bathed in the light of pure innocence
Thoughts wandering to taboo regions of the mind
Shall Innocence be forsaken for a moment with the Infinite
For the union to be real
Blood must be shed
 Symbolic Crucifixion
 in the arms of a jealous god
Preparation in the darkness
Soon to step in the light to be forever stained by being washed clean
For God must fill completely
The lust is never-ending
The path to the chamber is full of foreshadowings—
 forebodings of future acts
Is turning back doom
 —or going on?

The Light descends.
The rape begins.
God achieves the penetration.

S.K. McMillan