Director's Message

As we approach the mid- semester, courses are ramping up and work and activities continue. Thankfully, Fall Break is not far off. We've highlighted a few things you can do during break and beyond, and we close the library for two days, so everybody has a chance to relax and get away.

Right now we're recruiting people to join our advisory board, SLATE (Student Library and Technology Exchange). Working with you, we want to explore ideas about the library and provide a way for us to hear from you. We also have a fun research contest to announce, and we're thrilled to feature our electronics recycling system. This idea came from students in the Environmental Law Society, and our Operations Manager, Stacy Price made it all happen.

In closing, I want to remind everybody of two things we value here in the library: books and well-being. Every month Mei Kiu Lo creates a list of our new print and electronic titles, many of which you can see in our front lobby. For well-being, see the announcement that counseling services are available twice a week here in the library. Thanks to Hilary Delman and CAPS for this support.

Have a great week and a relaxing break.

Roger Skalbeck, Associate Dean

Student Counseling Services

Student Counseling Services

The law school has made counseling services available in the law library. Hilary Delman, a counselor from Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS), will be available every Tuesday and Wednesday from noon until 4 p.m. She will meet with law students in room L2. These services are both free and confidential. To make an appointment, email her directly at hdelman@richmond.edu.
