MAGNIFICENT Robins Center Opens

The University of Richmond's 10,000 seat Robins Center was packed to capacity at 8 p.m. on Dec. 2, as E. Claiborne Robins, Jr. tossed up the first ball to open the Center and the basketball game between the Spiders and No. 2 ranked University of Maryland Terripins.

The standing ovation given the Robins family as President E. Bruce Heilman expressed thanks in pregame comments, had hardly died away as the Terps took over the lead and relentlessly demonstrated their skill. The Terps justified their ranking, defeating the Spiders 82-50 as John Lucas and Tom McMillan displayed their star qualities.

But the sting of defeat was softened by the pleasure of attending Spider basketball games in the new facility. "We are so proud of this educational tool," said President Heilman. Many were the compliments he received on the new building as he mingled with alumni and guests after the game.

Described by one sports writer as a "sports palace," the new building does have luxury in abundance. Carpeted offices for the physical education faculty and intercollegiate athletic faculty are decorated in a pleasant blue and red. Locker rooms, several to serve football, basketball and baseball, carry the red and blue theme as does the main arena, with red and blue seats. The tartan surface on the basketball court is trimmed in red. The acoustics are great—like listening to a stereo in your living room. There are seven handball courts, two squash courts, three exercise-weight lifting rooms. In the wrestling room, with red cushions on the wall and a blue mat, there is space to hold four matches simultaneously.

The auxiliary gymnasium has floor space twice that of Millhiser Gym and also sports a synthetic surface. Two dormitory rooms, with accommodations for 60 men, will be available for visiting teams. A movie room with theater seats will be used to show game films.

The Olympic size swimming pool has high and low diving boards, and viewing compartments beneath water level. Swimming Coach Norris Eastman called the facility the "best I've ever seen."

It was a great occasion on the University campus in spite of the loss to the University of Maryland. The Robins Center is truly a magnificent building.

Highlight Boatwright Festival

By Betsy Curtler

With its second Boatwright Literary Festival this winter, the University of Richmond will be sharing in the excitement of what promises to be a major literary happening. On January 29 and 30, the Library of Congress "Conference on the Teaching of Creative Writing" will bring together many of America's most prominent authors. Following it, from January 30 through February 2, the University will bring a group of major authors and critics, including Richard Wilbur, George Garrett, William Harrison and Leslie Fiedler, to campus to continue the creative excitement on a working basis with students, faculty and alumni. Because of these two events, The Associated Writing Programs, funded by the National Endowment for the Arts as the coordinating agency for all college and university creative writing programs, will hold its annual meeting in Richmond at the same time. The Advisory Board of AWP includes Anthony Burgess (A Clockwork Orange), John Ciardi, Wallace Stegner and Allen Tate, and many of its members will be on campus to participate in the Festival.

The Festival program will include evening addresses, readings, and a film showing with commentary, as well as daytime forum discussions and workshops on fiction, poetry and children's literature. Lively discussions are expected this year, because the authors who have been invited are not only some of the most distinguished, but some of the most innovative of America's living writers.

In poetry, for example, Richard Wilbur—Library of Congress poet and recipient of most of the country's poetic honors—will share the podium with Diane Wakoski, the University of Virginia's twenty-nine year old, fiery, motorcycle-riding poet-in-residence. Mr. Wilbur's gently subtle verse appears in The Beautiful Changes, Ceremony, and Things of This World, and has been widely anthologized; he is also the major translator of Moliere. Ms. Wakoski's first, prize-winning volume, The George Washington Poems has been followed by three others, the latest titled Motorcycle Betrayal Poems.

Leslie Fiedler, the controversial dean of American literary scholarship (and the author of four novels), will lead discussion of the future of the American novel with Peter Taylor, William Harrison, George Garrett, and David Madden. Mr. Fiedler's highly original and sometimes disturbing criticisms of American character and imagination have helped shape modern fiction. Peter Taylor, fiction writer-in-residence at the University of Virginia, has published a novel and four volumes of short stories, which are known for their quiet, yet vivid writing and insight into Southern character. Once a theology student, William Harrison is interested in American economics and sports as well as in contemporary world literature. His short stories have appeared in The Saturday Evening Post, Cosmopolitan, Esquire and Playboy, and he has published four novels.

George Garrett and David Madden have followed what seems to be the contemporary path from the novel into filmmaking. In addition to his many published works, Mr. Garrett has helped direct and write scripts for three movies made by MGM, and his latest novel, The Death of a Fox, is now being made into a film. President of the Associated Writing Programs and Director of Creative Writing at the University of South Carolina, Mr. Garrett is a knowledgeable and lucid spokesman for almost every area of contemporary writing. David Madden's interest in film grows out of research for his novel in progress, Bijou, set in a New Orleans movie house of the 40's. He is editor of Film Journal. (Those who heard Mr. Madden read on campus last year will remember the charm of his rendition of Cassandra Singing.)

Made possible by an alumni endowment, the entire program of the Festival is free and open to the public. It promises to be one of the highlights of the University's academic year, and should be an ideal opportunity for alumni to share with students in the excitement of contemporary writers and writing. OUR TIME IN HISTORY

Our Time in History - An Update

Tiller, Robins

Tiller Leads Campaign

The "Our Time in History" Development Program for $50 million has received a major thrust toward success with the selection of F. Carlyle Tiller, Jr., '48 as General Campaign Chairman. Tiller, President of Wheat, First Securities, Inc., was named General Chairman by Rector of the University, Robert T. Marsh, Jr., '22, and E. Claiborne Robins, '31, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees.

A native of Richmond, Tiller graduated from John Marshall High School, received his undergraduate training at the University of Richmond, and a graduate degree from the Wharton School of Finance of the University of Pennsylvania. He was elected President of Wheat, First Securities, in 1970.

In accepting the General Chairmanship, Tiller expressed his deep appreciation for the University and what it has meant to him. Addressing a joint meeting of Richmond College and Westhampton College faculties, Tiller stated, "I have been a student here, a faculty member, and an interested alumnus, and I am grateful for the opportunity to lead the "Our Time in History" Campaign to make the University of Richmond the best small private University in the nation. I pledge that I will do my very best to achieve success."

The campaign team now includes E. Claiborne Robins, Honorary Chairman, Robert T. Marsh, Trustee Committee Chairman, and Trustee William B. Thalhimer, Jr., Chairman of the Development and University Relations Committee. In the coming weeks, Chairman Tiller will be selecting top leadership for other campaign positions.

The "Our Time in History" Development Program was launched in March, 1972 after three years of intensive study by University Trustees, Faculty, Students, Alumni, and Administration. The Campaign is divided into two phases of five years each, culminating in 1982. Phase I, with a $30 million goal, has facilities priorities, including additional classroom space, renovation of existing educational facilities and residence halls, an enlarged and renovated library, improved science facilities, a new University Center (Student Union) and new administrative facilities. As estimated $20 million will be spent on facilities. In addition, $10 million has been allocated for general operations, additional student scholarships and professorships. To date, $9.1 million has been committed from Trustees, corporations and foundations, and other friends.

A vigorous campaign for the Greater Richmond Area is scheduled for 1973-74, with a national alumni effort programmed for 1974-75.

Campus Planning Firm's Report Presented

A preliminary report on the needs of the campus has been submitted to the University by Perkins and Will, a consulting firm engaged by the Board of Trustees last year.

The report, which now will be studied by the administration, faculty and students before being submitted to the Board of Trustees for their approval, includes recommendations on where to locate a university commons, new science building, and new athletic fields. Included in the report is the suggestion that the campus be encircled by a circumferential road with parking lots scattered along the perimeter of the road.

The consultants have recommended that the university construct an expanded library equipped with every kind of learning tool, expanded instructional facilities for Westhampton College and renovation of Ryland Hall for classroom and office use.

Pitt Field, according to the planners report, would be turned over to track and field events, and a new baseball diamond and other athletic fields located along River Road. Other items, including campus lighting, bicycle paths, protecting trees, traffic control also will be considered.

The report, characterized by President E. Bruce Heilman as "only a guess at what we are going to do," proposes to locate many of the new structures around the lake, including the university commons, administrative services complex and library addition. A major new academic area would go up between the Cannon Chapel and Modlin Fine Arts Center.

Why a Will?

By Charles W. Patterson III, Director of Estate Planning

Why a Will? : To provide scholarships to help students meet the ever-rising costs of education.

Many alumni/ae have asked why the University of Richmond is interested in informing them about wills and estate planning. There are two simple answers to that question.

First, the University is an educational institution, and our primary purpose is to educate. The University experience has already provided our alumni/ae with their basic education, and we are concerned with their continuing education in matters which relate to their personal well-being and that of their loved ones.

A recent survey in the United States came up with some interesting facts about estate planning:

- (1) Seven out of every eight adults die intestate (without a valid will).
- (2) Less than 50 per cent of those with estates of $60,000 or more have a will.

A few years ago a prominent business man in New York died without a will. His estate was valued at about $25 million. The costs and taxes totaled almost $20 million, thus leaving his family with only 20 per cent of his estate.

Many of you have read Catherine Marshall's book To Live Again in which she says, "Peter, to the surprise of all who had known him well, had left no will. If only he had known how much it left to be taken care of."

Only through a valid will are you able to:

- Decide who is to receive your property and how
- Choose the organization or person you wish to supervise the settlement of your estate

Why a Will? : To help provide the advanced educational equipment needed to enable today's student to meet the demands of tomorrow's society.

- Lessen the amount of Federal estate tax your estate will have to pay
- Name the person you wish to serve as guardian of your minor children
- Make specific provisions for the University of Richmond or other charitable organizations

Even those who have wills sometimes do not spend enough thought and time in planning for something which is so important. For example, Benjamin Franklin, the wise leader of early America, left an endowment to the city of Philadelphia, which now amounts to over $1 million. But Ben stipulated in his will that the money would be used to buy watering troughs for horses. Of the adults in the United States today who have wills, eight out of ten provide for outright distribution of their estates; for example, leaving everything to a spouse who in turn leaves all assets to children. This, of course, is the most costly way of leaving assets to loved ones.

You can see from all of these facts that there is a need for educating people about estate planning. We sincerely hope our program will provide that educational service for our alumni/ae and friends.

The second reason University of Richmond is interested in informing its constituents about wills and estate planning can be found in past annual reports of the University of Richmond. "In 1929, the University received a $200,000 bequest from the estate of Mrs. T. C. Williams, Jr. The gift is to be added to our endowment . . . other gifts, contributions, and bequests amounting to $196,665 were received by the University during the year ending April 30, 1953. Included in this amount were a bequest of $22,869 from John A. Morris and a bequest of $1,000 from Horace Z. Oakley. . . . The following bequests were received during 1968-69: Estate of Odus B. Hinnant—$2,500; Estate of Juliet Thomas Walker—$12,790.83 to establish a scholarship fund. . . ."

Bequests have played a major part in the University's existence even from the very beginning.

In recent years funds provided by wills have contributed immensely to the progress made by the University.

- (1) Several scholarships have been created by the will of an alumna.
- (2) A substantial amount for educational facilities has been made possible by the bequest of an alumnus.
- (3) Several endowed professorships will be established by future estate gifts.

So you see wills and estate planning are important to the University of Richmond because by education we help others and by bequests others help the University.

Remember—your will is probably the most important, single document you will ever be called upon to sign. Be sure it is prepared the right way, the best way, the only way—by your attorney.

Have you made your will?

Did you remember the University of Richmond?

Why a Will? : To endow Professorships for talented and dedicated scholars who provide the educational direction and counsel for tomorrow's leaders.

A UR Tradition

When President Frederic W. Boatwright decided upon Collegiate Gothic as the architectural style of the University of Richmond campus, he began a tradition University leaders have struggled to maintain for almost 60 years.

In 1946, when Dr. George M. Modlin was named President, one of the stipulations of his assumption of that position was that he retain the Gothic style during his administration. As President, all architectural plans would be subject to his approval.

"At the ceremonies naming me as Dr. Boatwright's successor, Dr. Douglas Southall Freeman, Pulitzer Prize author and rector of the Board of Trustees, told me the Board wished the Gothic style to be retained," Dr. Modlin said.

Since the end of the Modlin era in 1971, the Board of Trustees has retained the right to such decisions. President Heilman, according to his assistant, Charles Patterson, has no power in this area.

Carneal and Johnston, UR architects, speculate that the University's $20 million construction plans for the next five years will maintain the Gothic style.

The Gothic style was begun in 1914 when the University moved from its downtown campus to its present location.

The University's original architect was Ralph Adams Cram of Boston. When he came to Richmond in 1912 to begin the building plans, he hired Carneal and Johnston to assist him. Later the Richmond firm became the University's official architects and except for a short time during the depression years when the science buildings (Puryear, Richmond, and Maryland Halls) were constructed, have designed all new buildings.

The original buildings, Ryland Hall, Thomas Hall, Brunet Hall (refectory), North Court, and the Power Plant, are all still in use.

Characterized by pointed arches, cloisters, towers, buttresses and arched windows with tracery, Gothic architecture originated near Paris in the 12th century. It anticipates the Crusades and man's aspirations toward the sublime and the infinite that was to culminate in the culture and learning of the Renaissance. The term "Gothic" is believed to have originated when fifth century Goths, having no hatchets, bent together branches of trees to form arch-like roofs. The pointed arch is the most distinctive Gothic feature. Thus, Gothic architecture is frequently associated with the barbaric tribes of central Europe.

Gothic architecture is usually constructed from limestone which weathers well.

"Gothic buildings actually look better with age," said James R. Beck of Carneal and Johnston, Inc. "This is its greatest advantage over modern styles."

Ryland Hall was begun in brick and cast stone (concrete-like stone) and, consequently, some corners have crumbled. Buttresses, which are small columns jutting out from the wall proper, are also found in Ryland Hall. They provide lateral support for the heavy vaulted ceilings of the hallways.

Gothic buildings are seldom solid rectangles. They are constructed in small segments that may be extended in several directions. North Court, for example is constructed in a box around an English courtyard with an additional leg forming the classroom section.

The large window in the south wall of Ryland Hall exemplifies tracery. This technique involves the cutting of glass into various shapes and designs and supporting them with pieces of concrete and lead to make the window. It resembles a stained glass window. The coats of arms decorating the building are those of the family who donated large sums of money toward the construction of that building.

The new Robins Center is a modernization of the Collegiate Gothic style. Pointed arches as well as a decorative pointed-arch motif are utilized in the building.

Of all the buildings on campus, the science buildings are the least Gothic. Constructed in the late 1920's and early 1930's by Charles M. Robinson, Inc., their arched cloisters pay lip-service to Gothic architecture. According to Dr. Modlin, an additional, more Gothic story was intended for each rectangular building.

According to Carneal and Johnston, Inc., it was President Heilman's wish that the new President's home be colonial in style.

When the new university was being planned in 1911, no style had been determined. Through his travels and studies in England and Germany, Dr. Boatwright was familiar with the European traditions in both administration and architecture. He eventually utilized the English concept of several small colleges within one university. Concerning the University of Richmond's architecture, however, Dr. Boatwright had made no decision on the style when he conferred with Ralph Adams Cram in Boston in 1912. According to Dr. Reuben E. Alley, of the Richmond College Class of 1922 and a University Trustee, who is presently compiling a history of Dr. Boatwright's association with the University of Richmond, the two men settled on the Collegiate Gothic style during that first meeting.

Cram's firm, Cram, Goodhue, and Ferguson, Inc., of Boston, was known on the East coast for their collegiate and church architecture. Although Gothic architecture was Cram's own particular interest, the company's work was not restricted to this style. The firm is responsible for the Princeton University Chapel and Graduate College, the buildings at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and at Williams College, and the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

The ground-breaking ceremonies occurred at the site of Ryland Hall in 1912. Ryland Hall is actually two buildings. Robert Ryland Hall, which houses the administrative offices of Richmond College, was named for the first President of Richmond College who served from 1840 to 1866. Its companion building, Charles H. Ryland Hall, housed the UR library from 1914 until the completion of the Boatwright Library in 1955. A nephew of Robert Ryland, Charles H. Ryland served as trustee, treasurer, and librarian of Richmond College.

The Ryland Library wing, which now houses the psychology department, was the most elaborate room on the new campus when the University moved into the new facilities in 1914. Although a separate library building had been planned, the cost of constructing WC's North Court was almost twice the $100,000 estimate. Since there was not sufficient money available for a separate library building, the Ryland Library was added as a wing of the administration building. With its dark-panelled and high-vaulted interior furnished only with bookshelves and a long, wooden study-table, it resembled the students' study hall at Oxford or Cambridge.

M Caldwell Butler, RC '48, for 10 years Republican leader in the Virginia House of Delegates, has been elected to the U. S. Congress representing the 6th district of Virginia. The Roanoke attorney will serve the remainder of the term formerly held by Richard H. Poff who was recently appointed to the Virginia Supreme Court.

National and state Republicans strongly supported Butler's candidacy. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Senate minority leader Hugh Scott praised him in Roanoke appearances and he received strong backing from Gov. Linwood Holton, his former law partner.

Butler was attending the University of Richmond when he met June Nolde and they were married a week after his graduation from law school at the University of Virginia. Now one of their four sons, 18 year-old Henry Nolde Butler, is a student at Richmond.

Ernest B. Jordan, Jr., B '62, an English teacher at Chesterfield County's Robious Junior High School has been chosen as Virginia's Teacher of the Year.

Jordan, a 32 year-old Richmond native says that he aims "to make learning an experience to treasure . . . something no child will be willing to give up."

Chesterfield School Supt. Robert Kelly said of Jordan: "The proof of his dedication is the fact that he had declined all offers to work as an administrator. He wishes to remain a teacher."

Jordan was selected by a screening committee that took into account teaching experience, professional preparation, philosophy of teaching and educational and civic service.

The three-member screening committee was made up of two teachers, one of whom was last year's winner, and a retired State Department of Education official. The department appointed them.

Jordan will be a candidate for National Teacher of the Year Award, which is jointly sponsored by the Council of Chief State School Officers, the Ladies Home Journal and Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc.

Jordan came to the Chesterfield school system in 1965, following work as an employment and claims interviewer, for the Virginia Employment Commission. In that job, he said, he often tried to find work for dropouts, and he decided to teach to help students remain in school.

Jordan has a bachelor's degree in business education from the University of Richmond and a master's degree in elementary education from Virginia Commonwealth University.

Joseph A. Jennings, RC '49, a member of the University's Board of Trustees, has been promoted to the position of Chairman of the Board, and Chief Executive Officer of United Virginia Bank, Richmond. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Omicron Delta Kappa, and Phi Delta Theta, Jennings has been with the bank since 1938.

During World War II, he served in the U. S. Air Force and worked part-time at the bank while a student at the University. Following his graduation, he joined UVB as an analyst in the Investment Division, where he has spent most of his career with the bank. Advancing through the official ranks, Jennings was elected an Executive Vice President in January, 1967, and was promoted to the position of President and Chief Executive Officer in January, 1971; he was elected to the Board of Directors of the bank at that time.

The newly-named Chairman is a past president of the Richmond Society of Financial Analysts and has served as Executive Vice President, Vice President and a Director of the Financial Analysts Federation. He is a member of the Bond Club of Virginia. Jennings serves on the Board of Directors of the Life Insurance Company of Virginia and the Commonwealth Natural Gas Corporation. He is on the Board of Governors of St. Christopher's School and the United Givers Fund. He is a Director of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce and the Virginia Mental Health Foundation. He served as National Chairman of the University's first Annual Giving campaign in 1970-71.

Dr. W. H. Leftwich Director of Student Affairs

Dr. William H. Leftwich, RC '52, associate dean of the Summer School, has been elevated to a newly-established position of director of student affairs at the University of Richmond, President E. Bruce Heilman has announced.

Dr. Leftwich will assume temporarily the duties of the Dean of Students of Richmond College and the School of Business Administration, a position vacated recently by Dean William E. Baker, RC '59. Dean Baker, who served six years with the university, has resigned to enter private business.

The University administration has been reorganized "to put all aspects of student life under an officer who will hold rank at the vice presidential level," said President Heilman.

Dr. Leftwich will be responsible for university-wide student activities, including such functions as dormitory life, counseling, health services, social activities and discipline.

"Dr. Leftwich is extremely well qualified for this important position," said Dr. Heilman, "and is expected to render a significant service to the university in this new capacity."

Dr. Leftwich, a professor of psychology, earned the B.A. and M.A. degrees at the University of Richmond before going on to Purdue University to earn his Ph.D. degree. He worked briefly with the state of Virginia as a job analyst and with Psychological Consultants, Inc., in Richmond. He joined the University of Richmond faculty as an assistant professor in 1961, and moved up steadily to chairman of the department of psychology where he was serving when he was named Associate Dean of the Summer School in 1970.

Dr. Leftwich is a member of a number of honor organizations including Omicron Delta Kappa and Psi Chi psychology honor fraternity. He is a member of the Virginia and American Psychological Associations, the Virginia Academy of Science, Who's Who in the South and Southeast, and in 1971 was elected to Outstanding Educators in America.

Dean Baker accepted a position as Communications Consultant and Account Executive with Design and Production, Inc., of Alexandria. He will establish an office in Richmond.

“Are you employed by one of the companies listed inside?”

“If you are, think with me for a moment . . . Let’s say you send the University of Richmond $100—your employer MATCHES your gift and likewise sends $100 to the University — the Robins family MATCHES the entire amount!! You sent $100 but the University received $400! Unbelievable, but true! Please do two things for me:

1. Send your gift today to the University of Richmond Annual Giving Program.
2. Inform your personnel office or other appropriate persons at your company that you’ve done so.

That’s all, and what better way to take advantage of matching money from two sources.”

My First One Hundred Years, E. Emmet Reid, RC '92, The Chemical Publishing Co., Inc., New York, 1972, 220 pp., illustrated, $10.00. Reviewed by Dr. William E. Trout, Jr.

On June 27, 1972, Dr. E. Emmet Reid celebrated his one-hundredth birthday by releasing his autobiography, "an interim report," his 284th publication. Characteristically, he continued working on his next book, methods for the preparation of organic sulfur compounds.

With pleasing simplicity and clarity he tells a story of living, of hardships, and of successes that will delight his many friends and inspire younger chemists of all ages.

The story is more than a scientific report, although the very interesting details are there for the chemist to read. It is a perceptive account of the early life, education, and career of a great scientist, teacher, research worker, writer, and Christian gentleman.

Beginning with his ancestors of revolutionary times and the world in which they lived, he traces his childhood as his Baptist-preacher father moved from state to state, providing new friends and new surroundings.

Young Emmet had little formal education before entering the Homestead Academy, near Richmond, at the age of twelve. His mother taught him to read and he read extensively. From his father he "acquired a wide vocabulary and the habit of speaking correct English." After three and a half years at the Academy, Emmet entered Richmond College, where, by "passing over" two lower courses in each of three subjects, he earned the M.A. degree in four years.

A loyal alumnus, Dr. Reid has contributed generously to his alma mater. The University gave him the honorary LL. D. degree in 1916 and more recently named the E. Emmet Reid Chemical Library in his honor. A bronze relief portrait done by his son, Alfred, hangs in the library. Dr. Reid is proud of his part in bringing his long-time friend, Dr. Garnett Ryland, to Richmond.

Young Reid taught briefly at Mt. Lebanon College, in Louisiana, before beginning graduate work at the Johns Hopkins University in 1894. Here he worked under the great chemist, Ira Remsen, who determined the course of his career. After several years of undergraduate teaching at the College of Charleston and at Baylor University, Dr. Reid returned to the Hopkins as a Johnston Fellow. He tried two years of industrial research before he was appointed, in 1914, Associate Professor at the Hopkins, where he continued until his retirement, twenty-two years later.

At the Hopkins, Dr. Reid directed the research of eighty doctoral candidates, consulted for industry and for the government, and taught classes. He was one of the founders of the University Baptist Church, near the Hopkins. He continued his life-long interest in music, was a church organist, and even received a patent on an electronic organ.

The thirty-six postretirement years, since 1936, have been astonishingly fruitful. Dr. Reid continued as consultant. Adding up the number of years that he consulted for five industries totals 153!

He organized a "research circuit" of about ten colleges and universities, advising on research. Dr. J. Stanton Pierce was his associate at the University of Richmond.

I counted 75 publications that have appeared since 1936 bearing Dr. Reid's name. Among them are a ten-volume set on "Organic Chemistry of Bivalent Sulfur," "Invitation to Chemical Research," "Catalysis, then and now," "Chemistry Through the Language Barrier," and this autobiography.

Dr. Reid's honors list is impressive: the Leon P. Smith Medal, the Herty Medal, the LL.D. degree from the University of Richmond, the honorary D.Sc. degree from the Johns Hopkins University, the Chemical Pioneers Award of the American Institute of Chemists, besides membership in Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Lambda Epsilon (honorary). At a dinner in his honor held in Baltimore in 1971, Dr. Reid was given a substantial fund, which he presented to the E. Emmet Reid Chemical Library of the University of Richmond.

Dr. Reid has lived to see the phenomenal development of chemical research, both in the universities and in industry. He has the satisfaction of knowing that his is an important part in this development. He continues to be an inspiration to all who know him.

A MAN FOR THE KINDERGARTEN

Reprinted from the editorial page of the November 15, 1972, Richmond Times Dispatch

Captain Kangaroo, Mister Rogers, Bill Cosby, and Commander Hooper of Sesame Street are men who entertainingly teach preschool and primary-grade children via television, but how many men does one find "live" and in action in classrooms of the early childhood? Few. Even as some occupations have been deprived of the talent that women might contribute to them, because of sex-role stereotypes, so, too, have some positions lacked for male influence.

"The School Bell," newsletter of the Richmond Public Schools, tells the fascinating story in its November issue of a young man named Judd Proctor who is defying tradition by teaching kindergarten at Norrell School on the Northside. Proctor hardly brings to the task the credentials of a flaming revolutionary —a bachelor's degree in business from the University of Richmond (June, '72 graduate).

"I know that I could probably make more money in business," he says, "but I enjoy working with kids too much."

Proctor became enamored of a career in elementary education after spending summers in a church-sponsored Community Action Program in Highland Park and assisting at a private kindergarten. When he earns his teaching certificate (he's currently a student teacher), Proctor will join a district minority in the state's schools. Last year, according to State Department of Education records, only 2,792 men were among the ranks of 28,049 elementary-school teachers in Virginia. But the minority is slowly growing. Five years ago, 1,855 males were teaching elementary grades. No breakdown by grade level was available, but males in kindergarten are generally much scarcer than males in the higher elementary grades, which is to say, they are about as numerous as one-room schoolhouses.

No male liberationist, Proctor simply believes that teaching the little people should no more be considered exclusively a woman's domain than should administration be viewed as an all-male bastion. And anyone who has witnessed how avidly tots in an inner-city school—some of whom come from fatherless homes—take to a male visitor to their classroom, must feel intuitively that education would be improved by a more equally distribution of the sexes in the varied tasks of the schools.

CHARLOTTESVILLE AREA ALUMNAE CLUB

President: Mrs. William Randolph Crews, Jr. (Julie Perkinson '62), 57 Georgetown Green, Charlottesville, Virginia 22901

The Charlottesville club hosted an "On To School" party on July 30th at the home of Mrs. Pat Talley '53. Several incoming freshmen, current students and alumnae attended.

For our fall meeting the club held a covered dish luncheon at the Wesley Foundation on September 30th. We were very privileged to have two of our own members as speakers. They were Dr. Martha Carpenter, '51, a doctor in pediatric cardiology at the University of Virginia Hospital and Miss Mary Sue Terry, '69, a third year law student attending the Univ. of Va. Law School. Their topic was most interesting and also quite pertinent to many young women today. They discussed their roles as women, in traditionally male-dominated careers—specifically, law and medicine.

Our principal money-making project for the year was selling pecans. As our club is a newly organized one, we were not as successful with this as we had hoped.

Plans for a Candlelight Party are in the making. It will be held near the end of February at the home of Mrs. Peggy Hantzmon '54. This will take the place of our winter meeting.

MARTINSVILLE ALUMNAE CLUB

President: Mrs. Ebb H. Williams III (Gayle Gowdey '61), Chatmoss, Martinsville, Virginia 24112

The Martinsville Alumnae Club entertained new and returning Westhampton students at an "On To School" party in August at the home of Mrs. Ebb H. Williams III. Seventeen students from the Martinsville area are attending Westhampton this year.

Dale Peterson of the National Park Service at Yorktown, presented a program on ecology. After showing a film illustrating man's misuse of land in pursuit of progress, Ranger Peterson led a discussion on ways of alleviating environmental problems.

We enjoyed the large turnout of alumnae for the coffee and are looking forward to a successful fund raising activity—our annual Card Party and Fashion Show in February.

The officers for the year are Mrs. Jack Bain (Hannah Barlow) President; Mrs. L. T. Hall (Marjorie Rhodes) Vice President; and Mrs. Charles B. Rowe (Nancy Taylor) Secretary-Treasurer. After lunch Mrs. Bain introduced Mrs. Richard P. Stone, National President, and Mrs. Clifton Long, Alumnae Secretary, who gave interesting talks about Westhampton today. The club decided to send get well cards to Miss Pauline Turnbull and Miss Mary Virginia Daughtrey. A letter was written to Dr. Heilman suggesting that all buildings planned for our campus conform to existing architectural styles.

Plans are being made for an early spring meeting. We hope to have a panel of Westhampton students to present the program and to invite local high school juniors and seniors interested in Westhampton to attend.

I was sorry to hear from Jeffries Heinrich of the death of her brother Mr. T. O. Heinrich of Richmond in August. She is still not feeling well but was on hand to assist as usual in the annual holiday plum-pudding project at her church.

Gazelle Stubbs has not felt up to her usual travels, which she plans to resume, but she and her grandson, Blount, a senior at Norfolk Academy, "kept the home fires burning" while his parents, Byrd and Henry, were on a Caribbean cruise. Gazelle's older granddaughter, Carter, after working two years, enrolled at the American University at Washington and in August received a master's degree in counseling and guidance. She is now a college guidance counselor at the Stone Ridge Country Day School in Bethesda, Md.

Blanche Morgan, who still lives at the Winslow Hotel in New York City, phoned me recently. She had visited her sister-in-law in Norfolk and had planned a trip south again in October but had been prevented from doing so by illness. I hope we can persuade her to join us in our family Thanksgiving gathering. There will be only twelve of us as my daughter, Jeanne, and her husband, Lauck Walton, and their four children plan to spend Thanksgiving as usual at their mountain cabin near Woodstock, Va.

November 10th, on Kitty Vaughan Willis' kind invitation, Harold and I drove to Princeton and had lunch with her at the Faculty Club, a charming place and a delightful day. Kitty's home is lovely and she has so much energy—still takes language classes and travels about half the time. She has many conflicting plans as to her next trip that I shall have to report on that later. Her four children are all married. The daughters live in New York City, Princeton and Boston respectively and Clodius Willis, Jr. is a professor of French and linguistics at the University of Vermont. She has twelve grandchildren, the oldest of whom, a New Yorker, is a freshman at Princeton.

We would like to express our deepest sympathy to Nell Combs Leslie on the death of her husband, Joe Leslie, in November. We have cheerie memories of him as he sang with Nick Carter, Pete Dunford, and Tiny Wicker occasionally at Richmond College when we were freshmen.

It's a shame more from our class did not attend the Westhampton alumnae dinner at Homecoming, for it surely was an outstanding occasion. There was a most delicious dinner and afterwards Mayme O'Flaherty Stone, alumnae president, presented to the college a beautiful fountain of hand carved Italian stone, given by Hannah Coker in honor of our Leslie Booker for the many things she did for the college as alumnae secretary and also because she is always so nice and thoughtful. Dr. Heilman graciously accepted the fountain and expressed appreciation to both Leslie and Hannah for what they had done. Later the guests gathered around the fountain where the water and lights were turned on. This fountain is two-tiered with a pineapple terminal and stone scroll edge. It has been placed on the green near Keller Hall and the Fine Arts Building. There is a large octagonal walk around the fountain. Leslie and Jeanette were the only ones from our class there, and I am sorry.

The four benches which we gave to Westhampton are now placed in front of the Fine Arts Building where they are both useful and attractive.

Eva Timberlake West's daughter, Sarah, works as Red Cross Field Director at Fort Lee Hospital. Eva and Sarah took a trip up the Blue Ridge Parkway to Roanoke and Salem.

Do any of you remember Mildred Balingier Andrews? Eva talked with her and said Mildred was delighted to have news of Westhampton.

Edith and Rachel are well and keep busy doing the usual things at church and home, also with their children and grandchildren.

Ruth Wallerstein Thalheimer and her husband lived a simple and relaxed life at Cape Cod for seven weeks during the summer. They now have a new great granddaughter who before she was a month old came to spend the day with grandma!

Claudia spent three weeks abroad in the early summer. She sees Thelma and Elsie from time to time and says they are both well.

Muriel attended her John Marshall Class' 54th reunion and enjoyed seeing the friends there.

Celia and her husband went to Italy in the spring and are now thinking of Florida. Celia was at Virginia Beach with grandchildren in the summer.

Virginia Moncure says she is still riding her bicycle and is busy with church work.

I thought Juliette Woodson "took the cake" when she said she had no news but had just been behaving herself in a most uninteresting way. Doesn't that sound exactly like her?

Jeanette and her sister, Catherine, had a nice trip to Spain and Portugal in the summer. Now Jeanette is at home doing college work and keeping busy.

In May Leslie and "Book" went to London and in October they had Sir John and Lady Burrows from Surry, England with them for a visit. Between May and October Leslie was busy taking care of "Book" who hurt his back in a fall from a chair at Second Baptist Church—(no, he wasn't asleep, the chair slipped!) Leslie never rests and always has many things to do. She is president of the Elizabeth Kates Foundation and each month goes up to the State Farm for meetings. Then there is church work, D.A.R., Woman's Club, bridge and book clubs, dinners for family and friends—you name it and she does it—she is truly a wonder.

cal Society, English Speaking Union. She attends art and literary lectures, plays bridge and has other social activities. She also has a brand new grandson!

Mary Fugate's activities are much the same with the exception of completing the two years on the Westhampton Alumnae Association Board. As president I know she did much towards making the Danville A.A.U.W. rank 13th in the nation in net membership gain.

Hilda Lawson Jecklin and her husband had several interesting trips seeing the country, going to craft fairs, different theater productions along the way, and visiting relatives. At home Hilda enjoys having friends in to dinner, sewing, playing bridge, and gardening.

Mary Bristow Thompson and her husband keep up their daily activities. They spent a few days at the Homestead and have had a trip to Florida. Mary works two days a week at the James Monroe Lawyer's Museum in Fredericksburg.

Dorothy Winfrey Couble lives at Vinson Hall in McLean. She sews for Navy Relief and enjoys helping those less fortunate. Her two daughters are happily married and she has five grandchildren.

Elsa Wallerstein Gerst is our most talented artist, I believe, and we are proud of her accomplishments. She stays really busy with her painting and other activities which include traveling, being a board member of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Norfolk Symphony and her Hermitage Museum Auxiliary. She has shown paintings at the art museums in Norfolk and Richmond and has had several one man shows this year at Virginia Beach, in Winston-Salem and Norfolk. Both daughters are married and each has three children all of whom are quite talented and have many interests. Elsa writes that they all have good times together with no misunderstandings or generation gaps.

Louise Story is happy, having a busy and interesting life in Courtland.

Rebekah Lawson McReynolds had a difficult time this summer with a broken vertebra. She has now graduated from crutches to cane and hopes to be able to walk normally before long. She enjoys living in the country and the time the Jecklins were there was especially nice.

Lutie Holland Bell hated to miss the class reunion. She had nothing special to report except that she enjoys seeing her children and grandchildren.

Mary Rilee Wright's husband has not been well but we hear that his condition is improving and we are thankful.

I hope those of you who didn't write are all fit and fine and when the time comes for the next letter everyone will send me some news.

Do have a nice Christmas and may the coming year bring us all much happiness.

While in Washington and Richmond recently I was able to pick up some news on our classmates. Gray Robinson French had just returned from a visit to her daughter who lives in London, and this time she combined a Scandinavian tour with her trip across the Atlantic. In Richmond I had a long phone visit with Elise Stephenson who, since retiring from teaching, has found time for some fascinating group tours to interesting areas of our own country. Henriette Greenbaum Kohn and her husband, Ted, had returned the day before from an automobile trip through the English countryside, and Mildred Anderson Williams and her husband had spent his sabbatical leave from the U. of R. on a trip around the world.

Some of our Richmond classmates are busy with alumnae and community activities. Frances Anderson Stallard is on the Board of Trustees of the U. of R. and Nora Turpin Turner is parliamentarian of the Westhampton Alumnae Association. Mildred Williams is Regent of the Commonwealth Chapter of the D.A.R.

Since returning to Winter Park I have received news on some of you from our loyal and hard working Alumnae Fund Chairman, Margaret Chapin Perry. Louise Figgs Nicolls has retired from teaching and filling her life in Parsley, Virginia with things she enjoys doing. Hazel Anderson Carpenter is planning a trip to Mexico and Florida with her husband before Christmas. Our own trip to Mexico last summer was a heartwarming experience because of the hospitality of our Mexican and American friends there. Pauline Scott Cook writes with pleasure of her three fine children and five grandchildren.

As you know, our 45th Class Reunion comes up next April. Our fortieth reunion was especially enjoyable to me. Not only was it an opportunity for renewing long-treasured friendships but also for noting how the members of our class have grown in experience, interests, poise and charm with the years. Our forty-fifth should be even more rewarding!

We all send our sympathy to Sarah Cohn Ettenheim whose husband, George, died suddenly about a year ago. Sarah is still on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin where her primary interest is in local government with emphasis on elections. As she writes: "this time of the year 1972 brings into focus for many people some of the things which interest me the year around." Constantly researching, she expects to publish in the spring another analysis of voter patterns. Sarah continues to serve on several civic and political commissions appointed by the Governor. Family-wise, her oldest grandchild attends the University of Houston and her youngest is aged 4. Sarah's daughter in Seattle and her son in Pasadena follow in their parents' footsteps, holding various civic and community positions.

Sallie Belote Copes has taken early retirement from teaching. She and Chester are enjoying their leisure and seeing the U.S.A. They went to California for their niece's wedding, touring the west thoroughly along the southern route. They drove up the Pacific Coast, returning home by Yellowstone and the northern route. More recently, Sallie and her husband spent some time in the beautiful New England states.

Pat Millea has been enjoying some New England trips, as she was close enough to make several to Cape Cod during the summer. Then in September, Pat had a vacation in Maine, with a group of 60 people, up to Northeast Harbor on Mount Desert Island, at a resort hotel, the Asticou Inn. She says: "when I tell you that the group were members of the Appalachian Mountain Club, you can guess what sort of vacation it was. I had more exercise than I've had in thirty years! We went on 'flat' walks along carriage roads originally constructed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Most of the land formerly owned by his family has been turned over to Acadia National Park. I even climbed a couple of mountains, went on boat trips, toured the park, shopped at Bar Harbor . . . in a way this was like renewing an old acquaintance. One summer while I was at Westhampton, Lois McIntosh and I went with my family to Southwest Harbor on the other side of the island."

Lucy Wright Pitts retired recently from teaching. She is enjoying her present job of keeping house for the family. Her son, Gary, is a senior at Randolph Macon College, a political science major. Lucy's sister, Wilhelmina, lives with George and Lucy, while sisters, Jean and Gladys, are in Richmond and Fredericksburg. The four Wright girls are lucky enough to have frequent Westhampton reunions!

Lib Jones Newton and Phil are both teaching at Northampton High. Sallie saw them last summer while visiting at home and reports that Lib was fine.

Virginia Prince Shinnick was on crutches when she wrote, having suffered a broken ankle this summer. We hope she is well by now.

From the Commonwealth magazine, published by the Virginia State Chamber, comes this interesting item about our Gladys: "Miss Gladys L. Smith has been elected first vice-president of the National Association of Insurance Women. Miss Smith has been a bond underwriter for Marsh and McLennan, Inc. for 25 years."

Now for more news of our reunion! Carolyn's youngest—a daughter, Irene Vaden Broadus—was to be married in August . . . Carolyn has 3 grandchildren. Her home in Chatham, Va. was open for Garden Week. She has a son in Vietnam. Jean still lives in Gloucester, Va. and keeps busy with Woman's Club work, church activities, and likes to play bridge. Anne S. Garrett has 4 children (2 are still teenagers) and 3 grandchildren. Gwen has 4 grandchildren, ranging in age from 18 to 8. Mary Matthews' oldest son in the Navy was to be discharged on July 1. He was the only physician on the USS Coronado, with 500-600 men aboard! He is married and has 1 son. Her daughter teaches in Chesterfield County, and her youngest, another son, attends W & L. Geneva is listed in Who's Who of American Women. Virginia is still very active in the field of education. Dee is taking piano lessons. Phyllis has retired from teaching. She was recently hospitalized, is minus a gallbladder, and is getting along O.K.

Some of our members have really been "on the move." Katherine and her husband, Glenn, not only visited the Far East and the Philippines, but had an extended tour of the United States in the process. They traveled from Nov. 10, 1971 until April 4, 1972. Those of us in the Richmond area are rejoicing because the Hesbys are again operating the Chesterfield Tea Room! Muriel has a well on the Piankantank River! A house will come later. Did you know she took a trip several years ago to the Galapagos Islands on a square rigger? She has also had a work assignment in Costa Rica and other Central American countries. Zephia and her husband had a "grand tour" of music centers in Europe in 1970. She is again teaching Latin and also French. Helen has been to Europe 3 times in the past 10 years. She and her husband were planning a trip this summer to Hong Kong, Australia, etc. Her daughter is a bank examiner in New England in the Federal Reserve system. Her youngest son, Jimmy, Jr. is at VPI majoring in mechanical engineering.

Notes from those unable to attend were shared and revealed the following: Virginia Willis Cowell and her family have a farm in Rapidan, Va. She has 2 grown sons, one of whom recently returned from Vietnam. Julia Ann Fippin Berlet was planning a trip to Europe. "Cappy" and her daughter were also leaving for Europe. Lucy LeGrand Furney lives in Clearwater, Fla. and is substitute teaching. She has 2 sons and 1 daughter. Dr. Dorothy Jones is now living in Rock Hill, S. C. Buena Perkins Myers' husband has been quite ill. Dorothy Carver's husband is a missionary and they live in Japan. Olga Pitts De Shazo has 9 grandchildren. Ruth Cole Weber lives in Huntsville, Ala. and has 3 children. One son was in the Air Force. Mary Lucille Saunders had an operation for cataracts and, at the time of the reunion, was enroute U.S. on her last furlough. Since then, some of us had the pleasure of seeing her either at lunch on Sept. 30 or for tea on Oct. 15 at the Chesterfield. Katherine was our gracious hostess.

Betty Newcombe and her sister inherited a house and furniture from their ancestors in Maine. They asked the Smithsonian Institution, if they would be interested, they were, and set up a whole room including family portraits! Betty retired this past June after teaching many years at Katherine Gibbs School.

I have had an unusual year, to say the least! A coronary on New Year's Eve and unable to work until March, hit and knocked down by a truck while on vacation in July in Nashville, Tenn., (broke bone in wrist) and the latest catastrophe—home was broken into and completely ransacked while I was attending a meeting in Philadelphia. Several valuable articles were stolen. Please send me news about yourselves.

Ruth Parker Jones wrote to say that June 5, 1971 was a true red letter day for her as it was the birth date of her granddaughter, Parker, and the day on which her son, William Tall Jones, Jr., graduated from the University of Georgia with a degree in business administration. He spent 14 months in Vietnam prior to that and is working in Austin, Texas as a manager for Best Products, Inc. Parker's parents are Ruth's older daughter, Beth (WC '63), and Tim Ellington who live near Ruth in Franklin. Her younger daughter, Meg, graduated from Mary Baldwin in 1972 with a major in psychology.

Sue and Herbert Chermiside are among the busiest people I know. They are gardening, swimming and sailing enthusiasts in summer and avid skiers in winter. Also during the winter, in addition to their regular jobs, Herbert teaches law two nights a week and Sue is in her final year of night school working toward a diploma in art. She has her studio at home. Last summer some of her work was entered in a show in her home town of Honeoye Falls, New York. In between times she pursues her interest in genealogy and keeps up with her far-flung children and grandchildren. Son, Chuck, after quite a few years in San Francisco, has moved his family to Virginia and is a research administrator in the University of Virginia School of Ecological Sciences. Daughter, Mary, and her husband, Chris Flanagan, are in Chicago while Chris is in law school.

Lou White Winfree sent me a letter from Judie Hodges Schulte. She and Harold are the proud grandparents of Mark Daniel Brinkley, the son of their older daughter, Kathy. Daughter Lynn was married in May to Cloves Oliveira of Brazil. They met when both were teaching in California, but are now living in Brazil. He teaches in Juiz de Fora, 100 miles from Rio. Judie's son, Fred, is working on his master's degree in environmental engineering at Purdue.

Lou and West Winfree had a trip to Scandinavia last summer. The most unusual part of their trip was the "mail ship" cruise up the west coast of Norway, across the Arctic Ocean to the Russian border and back again to Bergen. Lou wrote, "This ship is the communicating link between all the little fishing villages on islands and mainland along the way. As it takes a cargo (much of it fish) we could get off and walk around the villages. Mountains and fjords were beautiful. There were delightful people as cruise passengers from around the world (about 50 on each ship). There are about ten of these ships plying back and forth all the time, and the cruise lasts about 12 days." While in Europe, Lou and West became grandparents for the third time—their son Rupert's little boy.

Other travellers this past year have been the Schultes with a trip to Switzerland, France, England and Scotland, and Helen and Billy Hopson with trips to Europe and Hawaii.

Alice Pugh Bartz and Warren spent Labor Day with Alice's parents in Petersburg. They joined Lou and Margaret Gill for lunch one day. I hear Alice was recently honored with a testimonial dinner.

When Paul retired and we moved to South Carolina I had but one misgiving. I feared time would hang heavy on our hands, but if these last two years have been any indication of the future, my fears were for naught. We have, of course, become involved in all the usual church and civic duties, ranging from baseball coach to poll watcher, to rummage sale chairman to volunteer health department worker. Ever present are our real reasons for moving here—golf for Paul and the ocean for me. Margaret and Wilfred Gill have flattered us by spending a week of their vacation with us the last two years, a custom we hope they'll continue. Our daughter, Sue, graduated from the University of South Carolina this past summer. An art history major, she earned her last six credits on a university-sponsored tour of the major art museums in six European cities, then wound up her trip by visiting friends and relatives in Germany and England. This winter she's back in Columbia, working and taking some courses toward her master's degree.

Thanks to Dot Hill and Gene Keever for sending news about Gloria Tyler Robertson's doctorate received from William and Mary. She is only the second woman to earn a doctorate there. Congratulations, Gloria! Her daughter, Robin, entered Wake Forest this fall, and, according to Dot, is an outstanding ballet dancer.

Dot and Stonie were in Europe this summer. It has been a busy year for her with Bob graduating from U. of Va. one day and getting married the next. He and his wife, Pat, are in Richmond this winter—Bob, working at Virginia Treatment Center and Pat, finishing nursing at MCV. Her daughter, Brooke, is still at VCU and son, Tom, has another year at Norfolk Academy. Her other daughter, Fleet, is teaching in the Boston public schools. Dot is teaching and working on her master's.

Molly Warner Stephenson's Jim is retiring from the Air Force and they are living in Clearwater, Florida, after a long jaunt over the country with their three children.

Gene Shepherd Keever's son, Mac, was a page at the GOP Convention. He is very active in politics and at the U. of R. where he is a senator. Her son, Jeff, is also at U. of R., and daughter, Suzy, at Norfolk Academy now, anticipates being in Westhampton in two years. She's vice-president of her school.

A very interesting chat with Millie Goode on the phone brought news that the Class of '44 was well represented at the U. of R. on Parents' Day. Millie and Skee were also on the trip to Hawaii with Mary and Bill Graham. Most exciting was her news that they saw Kay Hanley and hubby for a brief chat. Kay greeted them with beautiful leis and some Macadamia nuts which they are going to raise.

Doris Neal's daughter was married in August and Evermond's Penny was married in November.

Ellen Mercer wrote that they were in Copenhagen, Goteborg, Barcelona and Madrid this summer. Keith was elected an honorary member of the Spanish Speech and Hearing Association in Spain.

Nita Tiller Elmquist's son, Randy, an honor student at St. Christopher's, was awarded the rank of Eagle Scout recently.

Nat Lum keeps in touch with Westhampton through two nieces there now.

Our Ann Stansbury was Homecoming Chairman this November.

We extend deepest sympathy to Anne Green Sheaffer in the recent loss of her father.

Ann Stansbury would like the addresses of Nancy Lubasch and Ruth Van Ness Cotton, if any one has them.

Thanks so much for the letters and calls. It really helps if you will pass on what news you have. I am listed in the Richmond directory if you are in the area.

Mary Frances and Buddy Wood are taking full advantage of Buddy's better working hours now that he is running the Credit Union at Bellwood by going to the theater and traveling. They had a wonderful trip to Nova Scotia this summer and have taken several week-end jaunts. Daughter Cathy loves the University of North Carolina where she is a sophomore.

Ellen Hodges Proxmire writes that Mary Ellen is a senior law student at Marquette University and younger daughter, Jan, recently was married to her longtime beau. Her youngest, Douglas, is a happy twelve year old. Ellen's bridal and party business is a real success and she and her four partners have a real thing going. Ellen has been playing a lot of tennis these past few years and has played in many tournaments.

We know everyone will want to extend deepest sympathy to Lucy Harvie who lost her mother.

Virginia Gibson Williams is doing volunteer work at the new Chippenham Hospital in south Richmond. Walter was recently named an Assistant Vice President of Morton G. Thalhimier, Inc. real estate firm.

Please include us in your Christmas card list and add a note of news about yourselves and your families. The deadline for our next news letter is May 24 and we'd love to have a good one for you.

Mrs. Elmon T. Gray
(Pamela Burnside)
Waverly, Virginia 23890

It is indeed impossible, but our 25th Reunion comes up this year. The dates are April 27, 28. You'll be getting information later, but please mark and save the time on your calendar!

News from Woody Wood Roorbach revolves around Emily, in the 9th grade. Gretchen in the 6th, and Ashley, 3rd; and their skiing and summer vacations in New Hampshire.

Millicent Hutcherson Taylor is working full time for the American Association of School Administrators (a professional association). Her Cathy is in her second year at Florida State and was elected sophomore senator to the Student Council. Millicent and Sim moved into a new home recently and are off to Las Vegas in December.

From Seth Darrow Shannahan comes news that her son, William III, was married in May to a very dear young lady. They are living near Oxford where Will is completing courses at Chesapeake along with being this year's golf champion at their club. Bob is a junior at Richmond College with plans to go to Law School. Jennifer, now 14, is a high school freshman and on the varsity hockey team. Seth became duly licensed to sell real estate last March, so if you are looking for good Eastern Shore property try Helaine White, Inc.!

Betty Stansbury Lomax is still teaching dance at Catawba College and has formed a Dance Group which performs jointly with the Music Theater Department. She attended a choreography workshop at the North Carolina School of the Arts and got lots of new ideas—also found out it was very important to "keep up" in your field of teaching. Sarah Bishop Wilbourne's daughter, Connie, is a P. E. major at Catawba where she graduates this year and has worked with Betty for two years as May Day chairman. Betty's husband, Bob, and three other dentists have just moved into their newly completed office building—contemporary on the outside, but thanks to Betty, good old Virginia Colonial Williamsburg inside. Betty and Bob had a lovely trip to Hawaii to the International Civitan Convention.

Renie Barbour Fenlon and Pat have a son who is a junior at the University of the South, where he plays soccer and another son, Mark, who is a freshman at West Georgia College. Their two at home, Scotty in the 9th grade and Laurie in the 7th, keep Pat and Renie busy with their many activities. Pat does a good bit of travelling for assorted hospital programs, but they are all anxious to work in a soccer game at Sewanee.

There is little change in Lily Brittle Heper's "status quo". She's still an "every day housewife", but 1972 brought them the return of their elder son, William Douglas, from his Army duties in Vietnam and Germany. They also gained a son-in-law when their daughter Ann married Elmore Hartman III. A fifth grader, Philip, still keeps Lily busy at home.

We were sorry to hear that Anne Gill's mother has recently gone to a nursing home. Anne is busy running a house, a yard and a dog, as well as keeping up with her teaching.

After spending two summer vacations working on their cottage Dottie Lloyd Stine and Les have finally reached the point where they can relax and enjoy Lake Winnepesaukee and the White Mountains of New Hampshire! Les, as President of Rando-matic Data Systems, works around the clock, and travels a great deal. On occasion Dottie gets to go along and this year went to Reno and to California. She spends her spare time working in ceramics and studying china painting. Their three children are well, happy, and busy!

The Army has finally transferred Arline Moore back to the part of the country they like the best! Bob is now chief of anesthesia and operative service at Martin Army Hospital at Fort Benning. Roberta, their 21 year old daughter, has finished her junior year at Averett College in Danville and will work one year at Danville Memorial Hospital as a lab technician before she gets her degree next June. Hugh is at Texas State Technical Institute in Waco, Texas for a course in radio and T.V. repair work. Patty is in the seventh grade, and Anna in the second.

Kitty Candler Martin keeps busy with club and church work, but her main function is to listen to her younger daughter relate every detail of her busy life! Her older daughter finishes at Hollins this year. Kitty does a little substitute teaching and has had many frustrating experiences with microscopes, etc!

From Lois McClanahan Garrett comes news of the marriage of Sallie Curtis Clement's daughter, Mary Susan, to David Franklin Miller. Lois' daughter, Kathy, spent the summer taking a typing course, and then had nerve enough to help out in her father's law office!

Boo Koltukian Cowles and Sidney have come back from an extended trip which brought them home by way of Athens, Amsterdam, Heidelberg, Munich, Paris, and Zurich. Boo says that fortunately they visited the Olympia Stadium before the violence. Sidney had been running a fertilizer plant near Surahaja, on the island of Java for ten months, and Boo and the children visited him for several months while he was there. They are settled back in school now. Son Sidney finishes at Georgia Tech with a biology major and intends to do graduate work in ecology. Mary is a junior and wants to go to Westhampton. Martha is a sophomore and Jim is in the 8th grade. All three enjoy playing in the band. Boo says that she substitutes some, that she and Sidney teach adult Sunday School classes at First Baptist Church, and that everything grows so fast in Florida that they are constantly busy with their yard!

We seem to have that problem in Virginia too, so I sympathize with her! Don't think I've taken on any new projects, except to try to teach a Yoga class once a week—and have played a good bit of tennis this year. I hope you all will make plans to come back for our reunion so that we'll have a most successful one! Don't forget to mark down the dates!

Girls, check with your college bound children. They may be studying with the son or daughter of one of your former classmates. When Mokey Rounds Holloway's letter revealed that her oldest, Ric, was a freshman at the U. of R., I learned that my oldest, Stuart, also a freshman, has classes with him. Mokey just completed her term of office as vice-president of Maryland Heart Association in time to accept the office of president of her church's United Methodist Women. She is a hospital volunteer in her "spare time".

Jeanne Schanen McKenry's daughter, Barbara Jean, is a freshman at the University of Delaware and Ludi Hickerson Wiley's daughter, Martha, is a sophomore there. Jeanne is substituting in the public schools of Cherry Hill, N. J. and Ludi is substituting at the Friends School in Wilmington. Ludi's daughter, Katherine, a junior in high school, spent the summer in Germany with a group of students. Ninth grade Doug is interested in dramatics and fifth grade David in band.

Helen Lampathakis Kostyal's daughter, Karen, our baby cup winner, spent last year in India attending the University of New Delhi. During the trouble between Pakistan and Bangla Desh, the family had many anxious periods with no communications from her. She returned safely in June and is working with the National Geographic Society in Washington, D.C. Their second daughter Kristi is studying dental hygiene at Old Dominion University and their youngest, Kim, is a senior in high school. Helen and her two youngest daughters joined Barbara White Balderson and her daughters for a weeks vacation in Atlanta before school started.

Libby Givens Pierce and Buckey's Hawaiian vacation was especially memorable because of their visit with May Lee Yook Chung (Class of '49), her husband, Raymond, a native Hawaiian, and two children.

Audrey Lynn Moncure's oldest daughter, Lynn, married William Barber in June. Both are seniors at the U. of R. Her next daughter is a sophomore there.

Win Schanen Mitchell's Karen is a freshman at the University of Georgia. Their fifteen year old son, Paul, spent three weeks at the National Boy Scout Camp in New Mexico. Win is president of the Episcopal Church Women at her church and vice-president of the high school PTA.

Betty Sims Loving has two children in college in North Carolina. Her home church in Rapidan, Va. invited her to be guest soloist to commemorate their 200th anniversary.

Agnes Feild Burke and family toured Canada this summer, and later, their oldest daughter, Ann, visited Rome with her Latin class.

Some of our class relocated recently. Louise Covington Randall moved to Ft. Morgan, Col. in July where her husband was appointed associate minister after graduating from the Methodist Seminary in Denver in June. It didn't take Louise long to become involved as she is a teacher's aid and room mother at the school.

Wilda Whitman Oakley is living in Titusville, Fla., near Cape Kennedy, as Bud is an engineer with McDonnell-Douglas. Wilda is teaching in the high school and son, Brett, is a student in junior high.

Mary Jane Wood Bryan works in her husband's business in Newport News. Their daughter, Pam, is at Radford College. They have a son who is a senior at Christchurch and a ten year old son who attends Trinity Lutheran in Newport News.

Ruth Pittman Gurley's husband has also opened his own business in Newport News, and manages four arts and crafts shops in the surrounding area. Their son, Bill, and Frannie Sutton Oliver's son, Ray, are sophomores at Lynchburg College. Frannie and family camped in New England and Canada this summer.

Tish Earl Pfang does volunteer work with emotionally disturbed girls in the Washington area. Barbara Coleman Augustine is a volunteer at a Day Care Center in Alexandria. Barbara has been impressed with the similar patterns our lives follow and noted the tremendous contribution to community and family we are making.

The class expresses its sympathy to Margaret Alexander Anderson, who lost her mother in June.

Mrs. Donald G. Edel
(Mary Ann Coates)
618 Overhill Road
Birmingham, Michigan 48010

We extend our sincere sympathy to Jackie Jardine Wall, whose husband passed away.

Eleanor Persons Hays' family has arrived safely in Japan where Mt. Fuji can be seen from their home. Bob is director of the General Contracts Branch of Yokosuka Naval Base.

Addie Eicks Comegys and family have returned to Massachusetts after three years in D.C. where her husband was Acting Assistant Attorney General. He has joined a Boston law firm and Addie sounds happy to get back into the swing of things. She was looking forward to a pleasure trip to Bermuda, a business trip to San Francisco and Squam Lake, N.H. as often as possible during the summer. Her daughter, Lee, is doing volunteer work at Children's Hospital in Boston.

Jeanne Hootman Hopkins sent an interesting letter from Nancy Judges Jansma to share with us. Nancy is still in Amsterdam and manages to see a little more of Europe each year. Recent trips included Normandy, Brittany and the invasion beaches as well as the U.S. Cemetery at Omaha Beach. Vacation was spent in the mountains of Norway. Nancy is treasurer of the American Women's Club. Her daughter, Pamela, plays on the volley ball team which plays against other international schools.

It was a rare treat to hear from Janet Storm Pengelley, who just moved from Melbourne to Perth, Australia. Just to catch everyone up, Janet lived for 13 years in Persian Gulf, one year in England, and has been in Australia for five years which they now regard as home. Janet was a writer for Sunday School materials for the Anglican Church. Bruce has taken a job which involves him with the development of huge natural gas fields recently discovered off the northwest coast of Australia. Swimming is their life, writes Janet, which all began in Bahrain's hot climate. The children swim seven to eight miles per day. Their daughter, Jerry, 17, swam in every national championship while in Melbourne which took her to every capital city. She placed fourth in women's 100 metres freestyle final last February and seemed certain of a place on the Olympic team. Always in the past, the first four would have gone as a team, Janet explained. However, selectors decided otherwise, unfortunately. Kathy, 14, is a very promising swimmer, holding many Victorian records. She won four gold medals at the Winter national championships. Richard, 12, is also interested in swimming, soccer, cricket and a newly acquired parrot! Janet's description of their trip to Perth is fascinating. Janet compares the distance to crossing the U.S. The similarity ends there since 800 miles of the trip is void of towns and another 300 mile stretch had unsealed roads which resembled travelling over corrugated iron, with monotonous scenery—mostly scrubland. They hopefully watched for kangeroos but saw only dead ones! They love Perth's glorious climate and are only five minutes from beautiful surf beaches washed by the Indian Ocean.

Please let me hear from you, particularly if we have not heard from you recently. Also would like to ask if you would be good enough to condense news to Alumnae letter form as much as possible since there are no longer class agents to help perform this task.

Mrs. Harry J. Barnes
(Cos Washburn)
595 South Valley Road
Southern Pines,
North Carolina 28387

New address for Carol Jones: Eastridge Apartments #341, 800 Longview Road, Knoxville, Tennessee, 37919 and this comment: "No other changes in status."

Polly Newman Smith and family proved they are bona fide campers this summer. They spent a month touring out west and spent nary a night in a motel. They went as far as Las Vegas and saw all the sights including Boulder City, Yellowstone, and the Grand Canyon. While at the Air Force Academy they saw the basketball try-outs for the Olympic team which you and I cheered on TV.

Polly had talked to Edie Jackson Jones recently and reported her family A-OK. Linda Goodman Lewis made a trip to New Orleans this fall. The last Goodman girl (little sister Nancy) wed this summer.

The Barnes finally went somewhere. Harry and I departed on a glorious Orient adventure on October 3. We spent a week in Tokyo with side trips to Kyoto, Nara, and Nikko. We saw Mt. Fuji and considered ourselves lucky as it is visible only eighty days out of the year. From there we went to Hong Kong and shopped, shopped, shopped buying nothing but junk for our three kids. We were really ready for Halloween when we returned as each had kimonos, happy coats, and coolee hats. We spent a week-end in Bangkok with good friends finding it frustrating trying to shop, visit, and sightsee. When our chartered flight landed in Raleigh a new record had been set: no other plane had ever landed carrying as much baggage.

While in Japan I coerced other members of our party into attending the Kabuki Theatre and found that Miss Lutz had penetrated my appreciation and my understanding. It was magnificent. I now know why she found the Orientals such a fascinating people with their quiet dignity and efficiency.

News is scarce if you don't write. Happy 1973 to all.

Members of our class who sang in the chorus were Suzanne Prillaman Wiltshire, Genie Borum, Patricia Steckman Shifflett, Emily Damerel King and Barbara Enrouty Thomson.

Mrs. Stephen A. Zinn
(Ruthi Greenfield)
11 Athens Road
Short Hills, New Jersey 07078

Dodie Tyrrell (who is one of our best correspondents) wrote me a nice letter. She is working on the marijuana project at UCLA. Dodie has the most interesting assortment of activities! In August, she went mountain climbing in the Tioga Pass area of the Sierras and then went dove hunting and duck hunting in the San Joaquin Valley in September and October.

Gloria Greenfield Harris received her doctorate in psychology in June and then the family took off for Greece and Israel for the summer. They have moved to 439 Belvedere Ave., La Jolla, California 92037. Husband, Jay, is taking a sabbatical at the La Jolla campus of the University of California. Gloria is in private practice at the Family Conciliation Center. Dodie visited them in their new home and writes that "both boys are absolutely handsome."

I received a change of address card from Drusilla Young Balzano and Frank. They are now located at 70 E. Cedar, Apt. 1602, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Laurel Burkett Patterson writes that her household has returned to normal after a difficult year healthwise. Daughter Lori started the first grade this past fall and Leigh Ann is in the third grade.

Lynn Mapp Wiggins says that she and Ben have made their contribution to Westhampton's future enrollment—their third daughter, Sallie Mapp, was born in October. Lynn's "extra" time, has been spent doing P.T.A. work, some volunteer teaching in a headstart kindergarten, and Jr. League activities. The Wiggins family spent several happy weeks this summer at their cottage at Sandbridge, near Virginia Beach.

Sarah Hudgins Rice and Fred will be leaving Okinawa where Fred has been principal of a junior high school, to go to Europe. Naturally, they are most excited about the appointment.

Kitty Whitby Fiege and John will be moving in early December to Virginia's Eastern Shore where John will be president of a new community college. Son Jay is loving nursery school. With her new free time Kitty has been involved in organizing a public library and other volunteer work. She says it's a good life and that women's lib is barking up the wrong tree. There's a good topic for discussion at our next reunion!

Barbara Ferguson Quissaunee and husband, Abdul, left Kabul, Afganistan in January, 1971. Abdul had been Dean of the College of Engineering there since 1963. They spent last year in Cincinnati where he was visiting professor in civil engineering at the Univ. of Cincinnati. Barbara worked in the University library. She says that she has taken awhile to be acclimated to the American way of living and isn't completely readjusted yet. Abdul is working for Share Engineering which is an Engineering Consulting firm. Jamila, 8, is in third grade, Michael 7, is in first grade, and Eshawn 2, keeps Barbara busy at home. Their new address is P.O. Box 376, Nassawadox, Virginia. They have bought an old house and are looking forward to remodeling it. Barbara recently met with Eva Frances Rue Mapp.

As for the Zinns, we are in the throes of decorating our house and I'm sure the rooms get larger as I go to do them! We did some traveling last spring and went to Morocco and East Africa. Being on Safari in Africa was quite unlike any other travel experience I've ever had, truly fascinating, especially sleeping in a tent with the monkeys waking us up in the morning and the Beware of Elephants sign hung on a tree outside! I'm lucky that I have a boy scout type for a husband!

Both of our children are in school at least part of the time so I keep busy with the usual PTA activities as well as doing publicity for the League of Women Voters, all of that being squeezed in between indoor tennis games! We took a delightful trip to St. Thomas in October. In June, Steve took over as Director of Radiology at the Jersey City Medical Center, a 700 bed hospital. It keeps him on his toes but he loves it.

Please write me and let me know what you're doing. Even if it doesn't seem very exciting to you, we'd love to share it with you.

Mrs. Richard E. Hansen
(Judith Acree)
181 Longstreet Avenue
Fredericksburg, Virginia 22401

The week end of May 19-20 saw various members of our class gathered in Richmond to share our tenth-year reunion activities. We particularly appreciate the work of the girls in the Richmond area. We had a "girls only" dinner on Friday at Sandra Britton Saunders' home, hostessed by Sandra, Tuckie Smart Paxton, and Sherry Ratcliffe Crawford; and a social hour/dinner on Saturday to which husbands and escorts were invited. One highlight of the weekend was the very complete scrapbook compiled by Toni Cousins Ewell.

On Friday night the following new officers were elected to serve for the next five years: President—Toni Cousins Ewell, Secretary—Judith Acree Hansen, and Finance Chairman—Libby Wampler Jarrett. We thank our outgoing officers, Betty Morris Blankenship and Diane Light Riffer, for their service these past five years.

Diane has asked that special mention be made of the girls who have helped her report the class news for the last five years: Sharon Alderson O'Connor, Barbara Davies Brewer, Patsy Chewning Young, Judy Acree Hansen, Julie Perkinson Crews, J. C. Shapard Confroy, Sandra Nunn Wallace, Anne Clodfelter Tucker, Sherry Ratcliffe Crawford, Libby Wampler Jarrett and Carolyn Parsley Davis.

Anne Clodfelter Tucker's new address is 147 Middleburg Hunt Rd., Hampton, Va. 23366.

Joyce Garner is still teaching physical education at Central Conn. State College in New Britain and is having a log cabin built in N. H. near Mt. Washington, where she hopes to enjoy both hiking and skiing.

News arrived from many quarters this time. After four years in Va. Beach, Anne Nunnally Nielson recently arrived in England, where Navy Commander husband Niel expects to be stationed for the next four years. Three growing boys (11, 8, and 4) keep her busy, and house-hunting problems (such as one $63,000 house with no "indoor plumbing") have provided some brief anxiety, but she anticipates moving soon into a lovely Tudor home and invites passing '62 friends to contact her at her English address: Le Chalet, Southside, Gerrards Cross, Buckinghamshire.

Judy Trunzo, our own "French ambassadress," was in Charlottesville for a few days in late summer visiting family and talking with professors about her dissertation. Before her return to Paris and a new job (scheduling classes, trips, etc. for college students on their junior year abroad with the Center for Overseas Undergraduate Programs), Julie Crews talked with her briefly and commented afterwards, "As she talked about the French political scene, the diapers churned in my dryer!"

62 classmates who have recently visited foreign shores include Anne Morrow Donley and Barbara Harrell Holdren. Anne and Clark Donley, in Nov. 1971 toured England and Scotland, including the Island of Mull, and delighted in the advantages of traveling in a non-tourist season. Anne recalls particularly the "high teas, no central heating, the many interesting and wonderful people, as well as the sights of Coventry, Stonehenge, Mull, Iona, etc." She writes that in 1970 she resigned as head librarian at Bryn Mawr. The next year she suffered through the "administrative rigmarole" directed at her as a non-degree graduate student enrolled in an under-graduate general chemistry course. In April 1972, she and Clark experienced the birth of their first child, for which they had trained in the Lamaze method. They moved in August 1972 to 1305 Hampshire Road, Charleston, S. C. 29412.

Jim and Barbara Holdren spent three weeks in Germany attending the Olympic Games—one of Jim's long-time dreams as a track coach. They stayed in a picturesque Bavarian ski resort, took 750 slides, and were only affected personally by the Arab-Israeli episode when bomb threats held up their return plane for four hours. Other news from the Holdrens includes a new Richmond address (9274-B Three Chopt Rd.); two busy children—Cathy (4) and Jimmy (2); and Barbara's many activities—church, Women's Club, tutoring, "seamstressing," baby-sitting for working friends, and grading high school English themes.

Barbara Davies Brewer and Dick recently enjoyed a relaxing fun-filled vacation in Hawaii, minus the three children who stayed happily at home with a sitter.

Patsy Chewning Young and Bill were anticipating a trip to England in November—a welcome change from the daily routine of two children and many "extracurricular activities."

Bett Burrus Brooks is teaching biology at Culpeper High School in Culpeper, Va., where husband, John, also has a new job as "Coordinator of Federal Projects" for Culpeper County. Their chief hobby remains camping. They spend many week ends in the nearby mountains and enjoyed camping vacations last summer at Myrtle Beach, S. C., and Jekyll Island, Ga.

Libby Wampler Jarrett, Harry, and three children have moved to Lynchburg (4612 Fieldale Rd.). With youngest, Amy, in nursery school, Libby is singing again (with a chorus at the Fine Arts Center) and playing a lot of tennis.

Nancy James Buhl has left Idaho and moved back east to 4 Buckwood Ct., RD 5, Ballston Spa, N. Y. 12020.

Margaret Taylor Sheldon and Bob, an Army Major, have bought a house and like living off base for a change. They have three children: David (1st grade), Molly (kindergarten), and Mary Ann (2 years old).

Darlene Morgan is teaching 7th and 8th graders in Northern Virginia as well as taking courses in library science, aiming for library qualification by the end of next summer.

Alice Hall assures us that she has "not dropped off the face of the earth" but is still in Washington, D.C., trying to curb Reserve Bank expenses.

I'm sure our classmates join with me in expressing our sympathy to J. C. Shapard Confroy, whose father died last August from injuries sustained in an automobile accident. J. C. thanks all those classmates who heard of the accident and sent notes to her and her family.

M. J. Willett Puckett writes that Ray's drug store in Amherst is now nine years old, and their children—Gwynn (8), Chris (6), and Andy (2) are a lively bunch. Ray and M. J. attended their 10th Reunion at M.C.V. but couldn't make it to W.C. as the two were so close together.

Lindy Powell Jamerson has concentrated her efforts in the educational field. Co-chairman of Roanoke's Fleming High School English Dept., her primary interest for the past three years has been film-making, and she has co-authored a number of curriculum guides for teaching film on the secondary level. In addition, she has served as curriculum consultant to English Departments in Lynchburg, Franklin County, and Roanoke County schools.

Patricia Dabney Denton writes that Beverly Neale Johnson was in England last spring while Merwyn studied at Oxford University. They have been living in Switzerland for three years now, and hope to return home by next summer. Their son, Neale, 6, speaks the Swiss dialect fluently and daughter, Sarah, is beginning to speak a few German phrases.

Elaine Robertson Snyder was recently elected to the administrative board at Plaza United Methodist Church in Charlotte, North Carolina. She is taking sewing lessons in night school in addition to keeping up with husband, Phil, ten year old son David, and fifteen month old daughter, Amy.

Carole Bradley is a music resource teacher at Glen Allen Elementary School in Henrico County. Nancy Hall Lyon's husband, Bill, is her principal. Carole also enjoys working with Mr. Erb in Cafur. (Chorus of the Alumni and Friends of U. of R.)

Betsy Burton Hannah received her masters in music from Indiana University, June 1967. She is now married to an architect and is quite career oriented. She has seven pianos which are used by about fifty students for group piano lessons. Betsy does a lot of performing herself and has studied two summers at Teachers College, Columbia University in the Robert Pace method of teaching piano. She will be teaching piano pedagogy at U. of R. next summer.

Betsy Uhl writes that she and her sister drove to New England in June. They especially enjoyed Concord, Boston and Sturbridge in Massachusetts, and Bar Harbor and Acadia National Park on Mt. Desert Island, Maine.

During July and August Linda Fridley Betof and Bob spent five weeks traveling and camping in Scotland, Wales, and Norway. They also visited London and Paris.

Carole Hanson Gonzaga and their two year old son, Gian, have flown to Munich to join Tony. He came in third in the large annual international vocal competition in Bavaria, prompting an agent to ask to represent him in getting auditions with Germany's various opera houses in order to get a contract starting with the '73-'74 season. Carole and Tony plan to be in Munich until the opera season starts next fall.

Judy Barnhart Parr writes that she and Jerry expect to be settled for 12-18 months more while the army sends Jerry to graduate school. Judy has retired from teaching kindergarten and is having a grand time at home with Lisa, 4.

Diana Davis Ward and Aubrey are now in Columbia, Maryland where they have bought a townhouse. This past summer they toured France, Italy, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Holland and England.

Lucille Phillips Lebold and Al are busy getting settled in their new home. Their address is 474 Cheshire Court, Newport News, Virginia 23602.

Carolyn Powell Kelly and Vince have bought a home in Arcadia, California. They stay busy camping and sailing. Carolyn is a guidance counselor and writes that she loves her work.

Mary Teene Rainey and I met for lunch on VEA Day. She is staying very busy teaching biology and taking graduate courses in night school.

Mary Bruce Ford Wood and Andy went to Madrid in November with the Richmond Bar Association.

Pat Ryan has been appointed Coordinator of Fine Arts at Denison University and also was elected to the University Senate. She spent last summer in an acting company of the Colorado Shakespeare Festival.

The class extends its sympathy to Frances Mayer Arehart on the death of her mother in October.

With the hopes of a better response by our class, the format of our column was changed. As a result, I was swamped with a letter. The following is an excerpt from that letter sent by Mrs. Virgil H. Goode, Jr. (Martha Brandt): "In view of the fact that the class of 1970 appears to have the poorest participation percentage in WC alumnae giving, our plans for offering criticisms of the University in our column could seem to some a little out of place. If we as a class are indeed to present suggestions and criticisms, perhaps we should also keep in mind the advice: 'Put your money where your mouth is.' I expect that our eagerness for reform would be better received if we would support it with more financial generosity."

I sincerely thank Mrs. Goode for her letter. She has brought to the surface a vitally important problem of which the majority of us are guilty. So, take heed, class of 1970.

At last report, Helen Outen still is teaching at Lee-Davis High School in the biology department here in Richmond. Mrs. Rick Morris (Sharon Morrisett) is at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, with her teacher-student husband.

Just a reminder that we won't have much of a column unless I hear from you. If you are too busy to write, you can call.

My number is 288-6768. And, remember your school with a contribution, no matter how much or how little. I plan to.

John A. Clayton, '62

With the opening of the magnificent new Robins Center, the University of Richmond has entered a new era. No one who attended the first varsity basketball game to be played on campus since 1947 could have failed to be impressed by the enthusiasm and excitement shown by the capacity crowd. 10,000 people at a UR basketball game! Imagine!

The basketball program should be given a strong boost soon, if not immediately. The wrestling and swimming facilities are the very best with intercollegiate and intramural competition in those two sports to get underway soon. For the first time in many years, male students will not be forced to race to their rooms in wet sweat suits following gym classes. Every student will have an individual locker.

The excitement of opening night still lingers on. Those who were there will long remember the thrill of seeing the Robins family reluctantly rising to be recognized and the Spider fans, who, having suffered through years of discomfort at Blues Armory, Benedictine High and the Arena, rise as one to show their appreciation for making it possible for sports to return to the campus. It was indeed a night to remember.

This is my final U of R Magazine. Beginning with the Spring issue the editorship will be assumed by Virginia LaSuer Carter, WC '53. You can look forward to receiving an increasingly improved publication. Ginny, a national award winning editor, is the newly appointed Director of Publications and as such will coordinate all University publications.

Editing the alumni magazine has been mostly enjoyable and I thank those of you who have commented favorably about the style and content changes we brought about.

An emotional moment long to be remembered by the 10,000 in attendance—the standing ovation as the Robins family was recognized prior to the opening game. Mrs. Ann Carol Robins Haskell is partially visible behind her mother.
