From the Editors:

The Editors of the Review dedicate this issue to the memory of Dean Muse, whose recent death has brought to a close an important era in the life of this Law School. Even amidst the sadness of his passing and the uncertainties associated with a change of leadership, there is an atmosphere of quiet excitement in anticipation of the school's future. Whatever the future may hold, it may be said that the Law School's past is a monument to the devoted efforts of Dean Muse.

The Virginia lawyer will be particularly interested in several decisions of the Virginia Supreme Court that have been noted in our Recent Decisions section. Of further practical value will be the lead article by Murray Janus which is directed to familiarizing the practitioner with Virginia's new Rules of Criminal Procedure. This issue also provides carefully researched and well-written articles in the areas of administrative law, antitrust law and counsel fees in corporate actions.

This volume includes a Book Review section for the first time, as we continue to make an effort to provide valuable material for a larger and more diverse readership. The Editors are grateful for the participation of two members of the Law faculty in this endeavor.
