Editor's Notes

If you're confused about who edits the University Magazine, here's the chance to get it squared away. Joseph E. Nettles, our long time friend and multi-talented former alumni secretary, edited the publication from its beginning until he turned the job over to John Clayton along with alumni duties in 1971. John served splendidly, but shifted the Magazine over to Virginia Carter early in 1973, when Ginny came on the staff as the first Director of Publications.

But the same outstanding ability that made Ginny Carter so attractive to us, also appealed to the University of Maryland, and Ginny moved there this fall to take advantage of a greater opportunity. We miss her, but we have had the good fortune to locate one of the bright young talents in the publications field to take the position as Director of Publications and Editor of the University Magazine.

George Roycroft came to us from Guilford College, where he was Director of Public Information and Publications for five years. During that time, he won more than 20 awards for improvement and excellence from various organizations including the American Alumni Council and the American College Public Relations Association. From 1966 to 1968 he was a news reporter for a TV station in High Point, N. C. He received the B.A. in English from High Point College.

I am confident that you will welcome this young man to our University family. I am equally confident that you will enjoy his work beginning with the next issue of The University Magazine.
Baptists Meet

More than 6,000 persons attended the two evening sessions held in the Robins Center as the University of Richmond hosted the 150th Annual Meeting of the Baptist General Association of Virginia, Nov. 13-14.

The University shared hospitality with the First Baptist Church in Richmond in providing facilities for the Messengers to the Sesquicentennial Meeting. At the University, 452 persons turned out for the UR-Alumni-ae Buffet Dinner and Fellowship Occasion held in the auxiliary gymnasium of the Robins Center on Nov. 13.

At the morning meeting on November 15, the closing session at the First Baptist Church, the General Association passed the following resolution:

"We . . . express our appreciation to President E. Bruce Heilman, his staff and students of the University of Richmond for providing meeting facilities and arrangements for and participation in this historic (Sesquicentennial) occasion."

The Robins Center was host to Sesquicentennial Anniversary of the Baptist General Association of Virginia on November 13 and 14.
Changes Bring New Faculty Leadership and Experience

Major administrative changes involving three deans and two faculty members became effective January 1. Dr. Edward C. Peple, Dean of the Graduate School, has been elevated to Associate Provost; Dean Austin E. Grigg of Richmond College was promoted to Dean of the Graduate School; and Dr. Russell G. Warren, Associate Professor of Economics at the School of Business Administration, was named Dean of Richmond College.

Dr. Edward F. Overton, who was Dean of the Summer School and chairman of the department of education and chairman of the audio visual department, relinquished the Deanship in order to further strengthen the education department and to develop the visual aids department of the University. Max C. Graeber, Assistant to the Dean of the Summer School, has been moved up to Acting Dean of the Summer School.

The changes were made, according to Dr. Charles E. Glassick, Vice President of Academic Affairs, to give new leadership to these divisions and at the same time, to benefit from the experience gained by these administrators.

Dr. Peple has had a distinguished career at the University. After doing his undergraduate work at Richmond College, he went on to Harvard University to earn the Ph. D. He was named to the faculty of the University of Richmond in 1937 and progressed through the ranks to full professor. He was promoted to Dean of the Graduate School in 1965. Among the duties he will assume as Associate Provost is that of chairman of the self-study committee of the Southern Association of Schools and Universities.

Dr. Grigg received his B. A. degree and M. A. degree from the University of Richmond, and the Ph. D. degree in psychology from the University of Iowa. He has taught at the University of Texas, where he was Director of the Graduate Program in Clinical Psychology. At the University of Richmond, he advanced to the rank of professor in 1964. He has been Dean of Richmond College since 1967.

Dr. Warren, who last year was named "Professor of the Year" by the University of Richmond's chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa leadership fraternity; received the B. S. degree from the University of Richmond in 1964, and the Ph. D. in economics from Tulane University in 1968. He joined the University of Richmond faculty in 1968. An outstanding undergraduate at the University, Dr. Warren was a founder and president of the Herman P. Thomas Economics Society, president of the senior class, captain of the University debate team, named the outstanding ROTC cadet, and state president of the Tau Kappa Alpha forensics fraternity.

Dean Overton did his undergraduate work at the University of Richmond, and earned the Ph. D. in education from the University of Virginia. After teaching in several high schools around the state, he came to the University of Richmond in 1946. He has served as Dean of the Summer School since that time. He is a member of a number of professional organizations and is a trustee of Virginia Intermont College and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Graeber was debate coach and a member of the speech and dramatic Arts faculty for five years until he was named Assistant to the Dean of the Summer School a year ago. He did his undergraduate work at Indiana University, and earned the M. A. degree and has recently received for the Ph. D. degree in speech from Bowling Green State University. He joined the University of Richmond faculty in 1967 after a successful business career.
Between Professor and Student

By DEAN RUSSELL G. WARREN
Richmond College

Across the University campus these days one sees brick walls going up on steel frames, and surveyors sighting along the lines of new construction. The drone of bulldozers and snorting of jackhammers fill in a scene that means progress—and a big step forward toward the physical facilities necessary for quality education.

But the most important element of all, the quality of instruction, is undergoing a thorough examination at the University of Richmond, and the results of our efforts in that area promise to match the magnificent teaching facilities we hope to have provided by the $50 million development campaign.

Last fall I was asked to study the question, “what constitutes good teaching?” That’s a large order but the results of that study and others will be used toward determining a long range goal of continued improvement in instructional techniques. The survey of teachers, students, administrators and others is not yet complete but we do have some preliminary conclusions of interest. Remember that these conclusions do not apply to every professor or every student, for the teaching/learning experience must develop within the context of each individual personality.

Conclusion number one: The burden is on the professor to motivate, to present material in an interesting manner and to stimulate the student’s mind. Gone are the days of Socrates when students sat at the feet of the local university master to receive information while worshiping the great teacher. Socrates and that concept died about the same time. Today many students are already so well educated that they expect to receive advanced information presented in an innovative manner.

After all, they have seen the Madison Avenue approach to learning on TV, had stimulating classes in high school, engaged in philosophical debates with friends and family. Lectures cannot be read anymore: one runs the risk of causing the student to question the professor’s academic and teaching ability. Much more effective is the eye-catching visual aid, the guest speaker, a trip into the community to study a subject first-hand. Some members of the Sociology Department, for example, involve their students in off-campus

... The burden is on the professor to prepare material in an interesting manner and to stimulate the student's mind...
projects and some Political Science students work part-time with the Virginia legislature and earn course credit. Motivation by threat has been replaced by motivation by desire. In lieu of duress, progressive professors try to develop a sense of respect in their students to make them work for the subject matter or for the professor.

Students no longer believe that professors have the sole right to determine what is taught. If the course is required, the professor must emphasize the importance of the subject, to help the student understand why he has to take the course. He must point out the value of the information received. Perhaps even more important, the value of the system of logic received from a course must be demonstrated. Just like the rest of us, students need to know why they are working. Most professors have come to appreciate them for not being willing to work for a grade only.

That students ask questions implies that they are thinking. They want to think in their classes. Learning certain facts is important. But, if the student is to be a viable member of society and successful in his job, he must develop thought processes. This is especially important when one realizes that many of the facts presented today will soon be outdated or forgotten. In their stead must be a desire to learn and an ability to think. The classroom which emphasizes memorization and slight thought will go the way of the dinosaur.

Specific examples of this new approach are numerous on campus. Some history professors deal more with cause/effect relationships in history than they do with specific facts. English professors spend as much time having their students evaluate literature as they do in presenting literature. Some mathematicians emphasize the value of the system of logic received in working through a problem as much as they emphasize the importance of a correct answer.
Twenty or thirty years ago, the typical professor was thought of as a distant father figure and his eccentricities were quite often the only glimpse a student received of the professor's "worldliness." Today's students want their professors to be natural, not to display a manufactured image. They want their professor to stand somewhere between a father figure and a friend. Ideally, he should demonstrate the same concern for the students that he would demonstrate for his neighbors. He should trust them until proven wrong, tackle their learning problems through joint effort and care about their non-academic interests when asked to care. He has to admit ignorance on a subject with which he is ignorant, and show excitement about academic and non-academic matters when he is excited.

These qualifications are not difficult to meet for a professor who likes young people but it is an impossible demand to make of anyone else, for natural concern for the young cannot be created. Fortunately, concern can be maintained throughout a professor's career because students are capable of returning a precious sense of warmth, appreciation, and respect which feeds the gifted professor through the worst of times.

In addition to all of these things, a professor must structure tests to be a learning and motivating experience rather than just a negative reinforcement. He must spend long hours in his office to be available to students that drop by, and occasionally he has situations requiring that he be a disciplinarian. He has to be in contact with the outside world to insure that he is preparing his students to enter it, and his knowledge of his discipline must grow. Finally, through a very personal approach, he must induce the student who has developed the habit of memorization to depend on the use of logic.

Some teachers seem to be born with a natural ability but most have to work hard at the job. The graduate education received prior to teaching may complicate the development of a good teacher as much as it helps it. While it does prepare the prospective faculty member in his discipline, it often does little to prepare him to convey the discipline. Most graduate students do some teaching but the experience is largely unsupervised. Moreover, the graduate school often conditions the future teacher to believe that research carries more prestige than teaching. Additionally, the future teacher sees students who are dedicated to his discipline in graduate school and often forgets that the undergraduate student is not nearly so motivated or so dedicated.

The implication of all of this is that the new teacher often reaches his job with little information on teaching skills, the needs of his students, or even with the fundamental premise that good teaching takes intense study, work, and constant evaluation. If the skill is ever acquired it is through the aid of fellow faculty, university development programs and seminars, university emphasis on quality teaching, and most important, the actions of appreciative students.

Certainly the challenges facing a teacher are overwhelming, but they are not impossible to conquer. Many of our teachers have achieved phenomenal success. During my discussions with students they were always able to cite a large number of University of Richmond professors who actively promoted the ideals of good teaching.

Yet if we are to maintain a truly excellent University, increased emphasis must be placed on developing even further an environment which allows each professor to discover the approach to teaching which works on the skills of teaching, and a continued dedication to the fact that the primary event on the campus is one that occurs between professor and student.

North Court and Thomas Hall—Old Buildings with a New Future

Quality education means quality quarters for resident students at the University of Richmond and the university spent some $2 million of the “Our Time in History” funds last summer to provide just that.

Sixty-year-old Thomas Hall, where some of the Richmond College freshmen will live, has been renovated and readied for the incoming students. Where wooden floors have been worn by thousands of feet over the years, new red carpet provides a quiet and pleasant footing for dormitory residents. They also find individual temperature control units in their rooms to give them just the right amount of heat or air conditioning, and each room has been furnished with new beds, desks and chairs.

Across the university lake, on the Westhampton College campus, most of the 200 freshmen will move into North Court, a dormitory currently undergoing the same renovation as Thomas Hall. Wiring and plumbing have been ripped out of the old building and new facilities installed. At North Court, where college women have lived during the 59-year history of the college, the rooms have been made larger and therefore fewer than the 283 women who lived there last year were able to be accommodated this fall. Approximately 230 women will live in the reconditioned dormitory.

Looking east out of the North Court windows, the students will see a new woman’s dormitory under construction. Expected to be completed by August, 1974 the Gray Memorial Dormitory will house approximately 260 women. The dormitory is the gift of former State Senator Garland Gray, and is expected to cost nearly $1,800,000.

More than $60,000 has been spent in constructing eight badly needed tennis courts on the Richmond College side of the campus, so that the University of Richmond tennis team will have an adequate place to work out and the student body will have enough courts for recreational purposes.

The general student body will benefit, also, from the $175,000 synthetic track to be completed this spring. Expected to be a boon to Track Coach Hardy’s track program, the track will provide a place to host track meets at the University of Richmond. The best place to view those meets is from the University's 2,200 seat Pitt Field Stadium which will be painted and repaired.

Construction will soon begin on a new addition and renovation of Boatwright Memorial Library, where $3,250,000 will buy three times the space now available and air-condition the 20-year-old structure.

Plans for the new wing call for increasing the library’s floor space from 29,000 to 100,000 square feet, permitting the library to increase its holding from 210,000 to 500,000 volume in 15 to 20 years. The change will immediately increase the library’s seating from 296 to 1,100.

More than books and people, the new wing will include a total learning resources center where students will be able to use films, tapes, video cassettes and other audio-visual aids.
Roberts to lead City Campaign

Kenneth L. Roberts, president of Central National Bank in Richmond, will lead the Greater Richmond campaign portion of the University of Richmond's "Our Time In History" development program.

Serving with Roberts will be his vice chairman, William B. Graham, president of Insurance Management Corporation; heading the Major Gifts Committee will be William B. Jacobs, a retired senior vice president of Central National Bank; the Special Gifts Committee will be led by S. Wayne Bazzle, president of the Bank of Virginia Company, with vice chairman Carl W. Johnson of Morton G. Thalhimer, Howard Kress of E. I. DuPont de Nemours, and Paul H. Riley of Commonwealth Natural Gas Company.

Public Gifts Committee chairman is Newman Hamblet, executive vice president of Thalhimer Brothers Inc.; chairman of the Parents Committee is John S. Massad of Massad House Hotel; Robert E. Leitch, executive vice president of Bottled Gas Corp. of Virginia, will lead the Blue and Red Brigade. Richard H. Dilworth, president of United Virginia Bank, will lead the Booster Brigade.

Roberts expressed his pleasure at the prospect of leading the Richmond phase of the campaign, noting that the University of Richmond faculty and staff had given and pledged more than a half million dollars to the overall program, and that 23 Richmond firms had committed some $2.5 million to the development program. "It is this kind of cooperation and optimistic participation that will make our campaign a success," Roberts said.

The $50 million development program, launched in March of 1972, is designed to provide the resources for the university's needs for the foreseeable future. Major components of the plan include building a new science center, a new library wing, a new university student center, and renovating all buildings on the campus. Other funds will be used for scholarships, faculty salaries, library holdings and other items.

Moving along on the program, the University already has completed the renovation of two dormitories at a cost of $2 million, will begin construction of the library wing in the spring, and has engaged architects to design the university student center.

DeShazor Heads Annual Giving Effort

Ashley D. DeShazor, RC '41, of Chicago is Chairman of the 1973-74 Annual Giving Program. Mr. DeShazor is leading the efforts of a select group of alumni and associates to achieve a goal of $340,000 from 4,000 donors.

Highlighting the campaign, which will be directed towards persons living outside the Richmond Metropolitan area, will be the increasingly successful Nationwide Telethon (February 3-7) and Class Agents Appreciation Day (February 23).

The top leaders are: P. Henry Poehler, RC '35 of Newport News, Vice Chairman; Dr. Clarence E. Denoon, RC '34, G '35, of Philadelphia, University of Richmond Fellows; Miss Bitsy Epes Hardy, WC '41, of Blackstone, Westhampton Liaison; Lewis T. Booker, RC '50, of Richmond, Trustees; Robert T. Marsh, Jr., RC '22, of Richmond, Friends of the Library; A. E. Dick Howard, RC '54, of Charlottesville, Alumni Giving; Robert M. Stone, RC '50, of Roanoke, Key Gifts; R. Kenneth Wheeler, R '57, L '64, of Richmond, Law School; J. Sherwood Strum, B '60, of Richmond, Nationwide Telethon; Marvin Menkes, R '50, of Hillside, New Jersey, Direct Mail; John Massad of Richmond, Parents Fund.

The campaign concludes June 30, 1974.

ROTC Women  "At ease, men . . . and, er, you women, too!" might be the order from an officer addressing the University of Richmond ROTC Unit—which now includes three women.

No doubt it will take a little adjusting, but both men and women of the ROTC are managing very well, according to Col. Benjamin Harmon, professor of military science and commander of the ROTC Unit at the University.

The three new cadets, all Westhampton College students, are taking advantage of the new opportunities offered by the U. S. Army in the ROTC. Marie Tiedemann, Tamara Richey and Jocelyn Gara, agreed that the major incentive for joining was the scholarship they get as cadets. Jocelyn wants to teach children of military personnel, and Tamara and Marie are planning to go into medicine and hope the Army will provide the necessary funds.

The girls attend classes in map reading, military geography, tactics, military law and other instruction aimed at future officers. They went along on a weekend exercise at Camp Pickett, 60 miles west of Richmond, where the ROTC teaches field tactics.

Uniforms have not yet arrived for the women so they are using men’s green fatigues for field training. They are required to attend classes and drills, but do not have to carry a rifle unless they desire to.

Col. Harmon is pleased with the performance of the distaff cadets, and remarked that “they have a very professional attitude.” This is the first year the Army has opened its ROTC ranks to women and the University of Richmond girls hope to recruit others to join ROTC.

Homecoming  Athletics was the Homecoming ’73 theme with alumni golf and tennis tournaments, a cheerleader and choral reunion, and a tough victory over West Virginia University.

Under the leadership of Dr. and Mrs. L. Arnold Frederick for the University men, and Ms. Jean Brumsey Biscoe for Westhampton College women, the weekend took shape on Friday at the tennis courts on both sides of the University lake. Alumni golfers enjoyed a tournament at Ethelwood Golf Club.

The School of Business Administration met on Saturday for their traditional 8:00 a.m. breakfast in the Richmond College Refectory. Tours of the Robins Center, and recently renovated North Court and Thomas Hall dormitories were conducted. Former chorus and glee club members gathered in Cannon Chapel for a "Fall Sing Thing" and former cheerleaders got a chance to whoop it up with the current varsity cheerleaders at the Robins Center.

After a sandwich lunch on the Robins Center patio, alumni and alumnae boarded buses at noon for City Stadium to see the University of Richmond football team beat West Virginia University 38-17. A Spider Club reception was held after the game at the William Byrd Motor Hotel.

On Sunday, Dr. Jack Noffsinger, pastor of Knollwood Baptist Church in Winston-Salem, N. C., led a worship service in Cannon Memorial Chapel at 11:00 a.m. Music was performed by the University Choir. The service concluded University of Richmond Homecoming Celebrations.

University Center Plans Caudill Rowlett Scott, a national architectural firm in association with the Richmond firm of Rawlings, Wilson and Fraher has been selected by the University of Richmond as architects for a proposed $4 million university student center. The building is expected to be completed by the fall of 1975.

Rawlings, Wilson and Fraher has been in practice in Richmond since 1955 and has participated in the design of several major buildings at the University of Virginia, including the Education Building, the Drama School, the Military Law School and the School of Architecture.

Caudill Rowlett Scott is a large firm of architects, planners and engineers with offices in Houston, New York, Chicago and Los Angeles. The firm has specialized in the design for educational facilities since its founding in 1946. It has received numerous awards from the American Institute of Architects. Last year, the firm received the highest honor of the AIA for outstanding contributions to the profession.

The architectural firm has pioneered in the team approach of design, sending specialists in design, management and various engineering disciplines to the client. It also employs fast-track scheduling, a technique which shortens the time required for design and construction by overlapping phases of the process which are normally scheduled sequentially.

The Houston firm has done work for Harvard University, completed five major buildings for Duke University, including a new University Union there; the University of Akron, the University of Houston, Trenton State College and others.

Applause For The Players The University Players received prominent recognition in the 1973 Playbill, a magazine published annually by the Alpha Psi Omega Theatre Fraternity. The magazine is published for the purpose of affording university and college dramatic organizations the opportunity to acquaint themselves with what is being done by their contemporaries and to serve the Fraternity as an official organ. Three University productions, "The Misanthrope," "Rhinoceros" and "Detective Story" were cited as particularly good examples of university and college theater in three specific categories: classic theater, characterizations, and nostalgia.

"Junque" Shop Opens On Campus A shop designed to recycle industrial and business materials has opened on the University campus. Appropriately called "Ye Old Creative Junque Shoppe," the new venture is located in Building B and is open every Tuesday and Thursday, from 3 to 5 p.m.

It is patterned after the Boston Children's Museum project, "Recycle." The purpose of the shop is to bring scrap materials from Richmond area businesses and industries to a central location so that area teachers will be able to come, and, for a nominal fee of $2, fill a bag with whatever they want.

The project is sponsored by the UR Student Education Association.
Poets Read Work  A lecture by one of the nation's top scholars in English literature and readings by two young poets with growing reputations were presented during November under the auspices of the George J. and Effie L. Scay Educational Fund.

Dr. Francis Lee Utley, a Fulbright scholar and visiting professor at colleges and universities across the nation, will lecture on Nov. 9. Poet Arthur Vogelsang, editor of The Ark River Review, gave a reading of his work on Nov. 15; and Dr. Rudy Shackleford of Gloucester, who has composed both music and poetry, appeared Nov. 20.

A fourth presentation in the series was given by Ms. Maura Stanton Cecil, who writes under the name of Maura Stanton. She gave a reading of her poetry in the first of the series on November 1.

Dr. Utley, who has served as a Fulbright lecturer at Padua and Venice and as a visiting professor at Columbia University, Harvard University and the University of California at Berkeley, lectured on "The Seven Deadly Sins Then and Now (Medieval and Modern Psychology)" on Nov. 9.

Dr. Utley, a visiting professor this year at the University of Virginia, is Professor of English at the Ohio State University and Acting Director of The Ohio State Center for Medieval and Renaissance Studies. He has served as a consultant in literature for Random House Dictionary and as a consultant in folklore and mythology for Encyclopedia Americana.

Vogelsang poems have appeared in The New York Quarterly, the Iowa Review, Kansas Quarterly, Ploughshares and other publications. He has taught at the University of Iowa and Wichita State University. Dr. Rudy Shackleford's poems have been published in The New Republic, Prairie Schooner, Mississippi Review, The New York Times and The New York Quarterly. In 1970 he won first prize in the Emily Balch Poetry Contest sponsored by the Virginia Quarterly Review.
Scholarship Winners  Kappa Alpha and Theta Chi Fraternities have been declared the co-winners of the 1972-73 Interfraternity Scholarship Cup and the Raymond B. Pinchbeck Award. Both awards are given annually. The Interfraternity Award is based on scholarship averages, while the Pinchbeck award goes to the fraternity showing the greatest improvement in scholarship over the previous year, providing the fraternity's average is equal to or above the all-men's average.

To win the Interfraternity Award, Kappa Alpha Order captured first place for the first semester with an average of 2.716 out of a possible 4.000, while Theta Chi placed first in the second semester with a 2.695 average.

Kappa Alpha Order advanced from fourth place last year to first place in the first semester and Theta Chi climbed from tenth place last year to first place in the second semester.

Emeritus Status On November 19, 1973, the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of the University of Richmond awarded emeritus status to thirteen retired faculty members in recognition of their loyal and distinguished service to the University. The thirteen who were honored are:

Dr. Spencer D. Albright—Professor of Political Science Emeritus
Miss Hannah L. Cocker—Music Librarian Emerita
Miss Fannie G. Crenshaw—Professor of Physical Education Emerita
Dr. William J. Gaines—Professor of French Emeritus
Dr. Marjorie J. Rivenburg—Professor of Latin Emerita
Dr. Samuel W. Stevenson—Professor of English Emeritus
Miss Pauline Turnbull—Professor of Latin Emerita
Dr. J. Hundley Wiley—Professor of Sociology Emeritus
Dr. Jean G. Wright—Professor of French Emerita
Mr. Ellsworth Wiltshire—Professor of Law Emeritus
Judge M. Ray Doubles—Dean of Law Emeritus and Professor of Law Emeritus
Dr. Joseph C. Robert—Professor of History Emeritus
Miss M. Catherine Bell—Registrar of Westhampton College Emerita

“Quick, Watson, the needle,” Sherlock Holmes would command in time of crisis. “I gave at the office,” the United Fund prospect might say when confronted at his door.

But what about the annual giver who each year gives to the University of Richmond? What should he do when asked to pledge to the “Our Time in History” campaign? Well, first he should recognize the difference between an “annual” gift, (a one-shot burst of generosity to help the University’s annual budget) and a capital campaign pledge (a three-year, or more, investment to equip the University to become one of the best anywhere).

During the current fiscal year (July 1973 through June 1974) alumni, alumnai and friends of the University in the Greater Richmond area will be asked to make three-year pledges in support of the $50 million “Our Time in History” Development Program. Such investments will go into capital and endowment supported programs. During this year, Greater Richmond donors will not be asked to make a regular contribution to the annual giving program. We don’t believe in asking people more than once to give in any one year. It’s confusing and dilutes the result.

However, in order to maintain the continuity of our very successful annual giving program, each donor who pledges to the capital program will be given credit for having participated in the current annual giving program . . . and that credit will be maintained over the payment period of his or her pledge. Of course, next year we hope he (or she) will want to resume giving something extra on an annual basis . . . because the University’s day-to-day needs are always there . . . even in times of special programs.

Thus far, we have talked about the donors who live in and near Richmond. What about those who live away from Spider Land? For them, the annual giving program will be conducted this year pretty much as it has in the past several years . . . the alumna in Roanoke . . . the Westhampton alumna in Washington . . . the parent in Salt Lake City . . . all will be asked to give to the Annual Giving Program.

Next year (July 1974 through June 1975) the out-of-towners will be asked to make their three-year pledges to “Our Time in History.” In the following years they will be asked to resume annual giving.

So in brief: From July 1973 through June 1974, donors in and near Richmond will be asked for capital pledges. From July 1974 through June 1975, donors away from Richmond will be asked for their campaign pledges.

The net result: Only one request a year for a gift . . . with special emphasis this year in Richmond for capital pledges —and special emphasis for the same purpose next year elsewhere across the nation.
To All Students, Faculty Alumni and Alumnae:

One of the most distinctive features of the University of Richmond is its "coordinate" structure. There are very few colleges or universities in the United States with this distinction. Since each institution should aspire to emphasize its distinctiveness, the Board of Trustees has appointed a committee to study coordinate education and has asked this committee to prepare a report containing a statement or definition of coordinate education at the University of Richmond which can be used internally as a guideline for the administration and faculty. The intention of this report should be to define, preserve, and enhance all the best qualities of coordinate education, and to identify and correct its weaknesses.

The committee is studying these issues, particularly in the areas of student life, curriculum, faculty structure, administrative structure, and physical plant. Interviews are now being conducted and forums will be held later. It is the committee's intention to consider thoroughly all points of view relevant to coordinate education in the University. In the Spring, we will invite your comments on specific issues before the committee.

The Board is convinced of the importance of the study which the committee is undertaking to the future of the University of Richmond, and the committee members are fully committed to this trust and responsibility.

Sincerely yours,

We hope we've made our point... and you won't be needing a Watson's needle, or find yourself saying... "Why, I already give to the University every year."

Let's hope you do give every year. But let's hope that the year for "Our Time in History" pledging will mean something very special to you... as it does and will to all our students and faculty here on the campus today and tomorrow. The Faculty and Staff already have pledged more than $530,000 to the campaign... and Trustees (aside from the Robins matching funds) are well on the way toward their $5 million goal.
No S.C. Title—But a Super Year

With an all-veteran team returning, everyone knew that 1973 was going to be the Year of the Spider in the state of Virginia. Head Coach Frank Jones left no doubt before the season started. He didn’t pull any punches. He came right out and said that this was going to be his best football team.

Jones didn’t disappoint anyone. The 1973 Spiders finished the season 8-2 and accomplished every goal that they had set for themselves except one—the Southern Conference title. But this team may have accomplished more than any other ever at the University of Richmond.

The Spiders started the season by shutting out their first three opponents, Davidson, V.M.I. and Wake Forest. Next came a close win over the surprising Furman Paladins, followed by two great victories over Southern Mississippi and West Virginia.

The record stood at 6-0. As a reward for their accomplishments, the Spiders jumped into the Associated Press’ top 20 list for the first time in the school’s history. In addition, because of the great win over the Mountaineers, Pat Kelly, the stellar senior linebacker, was named the National Lineman of the Week by AP.

Everything was ahead of Richmond, or so it seemed.

The Spiders were riding high with a supposedly easy one coming up against Northeast Louisiana, but they ran into a fired-up Indian crew down in Monroe and came up short 14-8. Down the drain went visions of an undefeated year, a major bowl, and continued national recognition.

Probably the biggest loss in that game, aside from momentum, was the season-ending injury to runningback Bob Allen. Without Allen for the big game against East Carolina, the Spiders were hurting at a position that was a strong point when the season started.

Richmond finished the year winning two of its last three, the final being a 31-0 romp over William and Mary in Williamsburg, but the big goal of another Southern Conference title went down with Allen in Monroe.

The Spiders never recovered from that trip down South.

Collectively and individually, Richmond’s ’73 Club accomplished as much as, or more than, any team in the football history of the University.

The Top 20 ranking startled a lot of people all over the country. Richmond has been playing football for 92 years and that was the first time that the Spiders have been mentioned in the same national story with the Ohio States, Alabama and the like.

All season long, Richmond was ranked in the top ten in the nation in defense against scoring. In fact, the Spiders recorded more shutouts, (five) than any major college team in the country. Five shutouts in ten games is phenomenon in college football today with the emphasis on the offense.

Individually the Spiders did well this year.

Barty Smith finished a great career for Richmond. He accomplished just about all you could ask of one player. He broke all the schools rushing records for a season and a career, while also being acclaimed as the best blocking fullback in college football.

He scored 14 touchdowns this year, thirteen coming on the ground, also a record.

Smith was first team all-conference and picked up third team All-American honors by the Associated Press. He was named the outstanding offensive player in the State by the Roanoke Valley Sports Club and it is expected that he will be honored by the other cities in the state accordingly.

Smith was not a one-man gang this year. Five others were named to the All-Southern Conference first team, with four more making the honorable mention list. Pat Kelly, from East Brady, Pa., was named to the All-Conference list for the third consecutive season. In addition, he was named as the best defensive player in the state by that same Roanoke group.
Lee Pearson, the senior defensive end from Portsmouth; Jim Amrhein, a senior offensive guard from Fredericksburg; Vic Moye, a defensive tackle from Palatka, Fla.; and Bob Loprete, a senior defensive back from Colonia, N. J. were all selected as first team All-Southern Conference choices.

Offensive guard Tommy Shiflett, wide receiver Mike Mahoney, center Ramon Perez, and defensive tackle Ace Owens were all honorable mention.

The accomplishments of the Richmond seniors did not go unnoticed nationally. Smith, Kelly and Pearson, all three-year starters for Frank Jones, were selected to play in the Blue-Gray Game in Montgomery, Alabama. Jones was one of three co-coaches for the Grey squad in the nationally televised affair.

In addition, Smith was selected to play in the East-West Shrine Game in San Francisco and more invitations are in the mail.

Without a doubt, the 1973 football season will be remembered for a long time around the University of Richmond. It will be thought of as the year that was and also as the year that could have been.

MINOR SPORTS BLOSSOM

Swimming: Coach Norris Eastman's team swept through its first three meets of the 1973-74 season undefeated. They opened in Hampton with a 70-30 win over Hampton Institute. Ned Dunford (23.46 in the 50 Free) and Eric Graetzer (11:37.0 in the 1000) set school marks. In UR's opening meet in the Robins Center Natatorium, the Spiders defeated Appalachian State, 69-39, and Loyola College, 75-32. Six school records were set with Tom Primavera notching two of them. The freshman from Cherry Hill, N. J., set marks in the 200 Free (1:53.57) and 100 Free (52.25). Dunford broke his record in the 50 Free with a 23.44 timing, Tony Lovette set a new 1000 Free mark (11:22.7) and also won the 500 Free, Bob Wells broke the 200 Breast mark (2:25.44), and the 400 Medley Relay team of Dave Gouger, Bob Wells, Tim Cairney, and Eddie Pierce set a new mark of 3:54.16.

Wrestling: The Spiders opened their first wrestling season with two losses, but bounced back for a couple of victories before being slammed to the mat by William and Mary College. George Mason knocked off the Spiders 39-12 and Campbell College posted a 42-9 win. Madison went down 25-20 and the Spiders whipped Norfolk State 27-20, but William and Mary downed the Spiders 39-6. Coach Don Pate has been encouraged by the performance of freshman Steve Crocker from Hampton. Crocker is undefeated in five matches and has four pins. Bill Turner and Mac Nichols both have 3-2 records.

Rifle: The Spider marksmen opened with a double win over Georgetown and Virginia State. The Spiders had a tally of 1005 to Georgetown's 990 and Virginia State's 979. David Caulkins was the top shooter for the Spiders.

Since our last notes we have been saddened by the deaths of Blanchie Morgan and Sallie Adkisson Ryland, both so uncomplaining and courageous in their final illnesses. We cherish the memory of two of our members and堞imated personalities.

Gazelle Stubbs Smith and her grandson, Blount, went on a Caribbean cruise in June after his graduation from the Norfolk Academy. He is now enrolled at the University of Virginia.

Anna Lee Willis Eppright and her husband had a recent delightful trip visiting relatives below San Antonio and Austin.

Kitty Vaughan Willis, after her flight to Hawaii, spent March in and around San Francisco, April in Mexico City with trips to Cuacuacu, Taxco, Guadalajara, Chihuahua, Puebla, Mexico and Acapulco, returning to Princeton via Richmond, Williamsburg, Ulmephe and Ulmephe.

Mrs. Jane Thorpe, their home where her four married children came in turn for vacation. Her latest "petit voyage" was to Homecoming at Westhampton in response to Dean Gehring’s note asking all former Student Government Presidents to gather informally—a fine meeting of a few old-timers and then down the years to the active President.

Ruth McEwen spent October with her sister, Eloise, in Northern Virginia. She expects to be in Williamsburg for part of the Christmas season and to visit her nephew, family in Norfolk during the month in March, seeing friends in Georgia and South Carolina enroute.

Frances Shipman Sutton and her husband attended the World Peace Through Law Conference at Abidjan, Ivory Coast. Afterwards they went to Kinshasa, Zaire (Congo) and to Johannesburg, South Africa.

Dr. Blount, went on a Caribbean cruise in June after his graduation from the Norfolk Academy. He is now enrolled at the University of Virginia.

Jeffrrie Heinrich says she does not get about as much as she did but holds "the aging process need not dim one's interest in cultural, entertaining and meaningful activities. She is participating in a very interesting orientation on Edgar Cayce, his life and work.

The pears have arrived and members are busy selling them. Our aim is to raise money for Washington this year.

Our members morn the passing of a loyal and faithful member, Mrs. Leslie D. Bell (Elizabeth Williams ’22). We shall miss her.

Washington, D. C. Alumnae Club
President: Mrs. Bernard Cline (Esther Wendling ’42), 3433 Greenreave Drive, Falls Church, Virginia 22041.

The Washington Club has participated again this year in two fund raising projects sponsored by the Associated Alumnae Clubs of Washington, D.C. One of these projects was a football benefit with the Washington Redskins.

In August the club sponsored a Coke Party for incoming freshmen. Several sophomores also attended.

The club held a luncheon in October. Our special guests were Dean Gehring and Mrs. Jane Thorpe, Alumnae Secretary.

The club is planning a potluck dinner for January and a theater party for the spring.

Do you know that when I called Leslie for news she was actually resting? She had the busiest summer and early fall of anybody I know; first, she, "Book", and Hanhah visited friends in London, then to Chicago she can just sit silent and her family, on to Austria, Switzerland and I don’t know where else having wonderful times the entire seven weeks they were away. Their two children were with them in Richmond for a whole month they had two girls from England who came to see the United States, starting in Virginia. Four days after the girls left Leslie’s half brother and his wife came for a visit. I called Leslie right after their departure and she said she was going to rest for a whole week, then go, as good grandmothers should, to stay with Lewis and Nancy’s children while they went to Germany for eight days. The Bookers have few idle moments!

Celia and her husband had an interesting four weeks trip to Italy, Austria, and Hungary. Later they had their five grandchildren at the beach. They will have them again at Thanksgiving and then they will go again in the winter. Juliet had a grand ten days trip to Copenhagen and now says she keeps busy doing this and that but especially enjoys the time she can just sit still.

Thelma and Elsie are both well, but have no special news. Thelma goes with Bob on his golfing trips to Farmington and around.

Ruth and her husband had a wonderful week at the Newton family reunion in North Carolina where their grandmother and father had lived. They met cousins whom they had neve seen but now know and love best.

Eva and Charlie enjoyed their river cottage, had interesting trips to the Peaks of Otter, to visit friends at “three chimneys” and the Dooley Mansion at Swannanoa.

The new house at 2924 Willston Place, Falls Church, is a member of the A.A.U.W. Board, our College Board, does church work, helps raise beautiful roses in their garden, and goodness knows what else. She and Catherine had a pleasant trip to South Carolina during the fall during the State Teachers meeting, while helping at the registration desk, she was glad to see Reba D. Hash.

From the grapevine I heard that someone had seen Louise Duke Brantley not too long ago. We have had no news from her for ages.

Narcissa Hargroves has had interesting trips representing the Baptist World Alliance at a celebration of one hundred years work begun by American Baptist missionaries at Nagaland in North East India. The people there are the only Christian state in India.
There were about 50,000 people at the celebration and the natives had worked for years to get ready for it. Narcissa said it was a memorable experience for them. They visited other missionaries on the way, stopped in Burma to meet with Baptist leaders there and then went to Hong Kong.
This past July they expected to go to East Germany and Switzerland. I have had no recent news.

Juliet wrote that their travels had been about the same as those last year however they had gone to their third and last granddaughter’s wedding in Illinois and from there to see Rebekah in Missouri. They had visited friends in Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio and Michigan also. At home Hilda is busy with her many activities and interests—a very happy person.

Thelma, returning from a homemakering, gardening, and enjoying her grandchildren.

Elsa continues with her art. She has had one man shows at Virginia Beach, Williamsburg, Norfolk and Hampton, as well as others outside Virginia. The news media has given interesting reports of her work and awards. One painting was pur­ based by Judge Frank Gallo, a famous sculptor whose work is in many fine gal­ eries and who is also head of the Art department at the University of Illinois. She looks forward with excitement to her one man show at the Chrysler Museum on April 15, 1974.

From Tampa Gladys Bentley wrote that she recently joined the A.A.U.W. there, too, attending a Regional meeting, being represented at a prayer group, goes to lectures, book reviews and seems to have a nice life.

Louise Story, in Courtland, keeps well and happy helping her brother with his work.

It is with sorrow I report the death of Elizabeth Bell Williams in September.
She lived in Portsmouth and is survived by a daughter, son, and sister. Lucille Ledman Kersey’s death was earlier in the year. To both Elizabeth’s and Lucille’s families we extend our sympathy, and also to Alice Garnett Thomas who mourns the loss of her husband.

Stella H. Ti and her family had a happy famly gathering this summer in Chatham when an older sister and her husband celbrated their 50th wedding anniversary.
Three generations were present. From Chatham Stella went to Massachusetts with her daughter and her husband and visited her sister and her husband in Cambridge.
Her daughter-in-law studies piano at the New England Conservatory, teaches piano, gives concerts, is a wonderful wife, and good mother to two bright little boys. At home Stella is very busy with all her many interests and activities. She had this to say about our class reunion and I quote, “Our Reunion last year was very special and very beautiful! I shall always be grateful for the strength and beauty of Westhampton, the great minds that inspired and helped mold my life, and for the beauty of the campus (the pines, hills, and sunsets) that fostered by dreams”.

Now may I add a P.S.? (I mean Purposedly Saved). This is especially for you who haven’t sent me one word about your family and what goes on in your life—I remember the rhyme from the days when I was young and more foolish: “Has all the ink in the world gone dry? Are all the pens split and the paper, too, is there none to buy?
Are you not deep in this awful plight Then why in the world don’t you ever write?”

May Rudd Harris and husband, Harry, "visited" their beloved Mexico this summer when they had a wonderful time visiting around with three couples, close friends from their former days there.

The response of the Class of 1928 to our round robin was splendid! I am very grateful to each of you for answering promptly but regret that for lack of space the letters must be condensed.

Before our reunion last spring Gray Robinson French and Louise Massey Crisp made a trip to Florida, visiting Cecilia Hunt Wight, Betty Sherman Cale, Sarah Cudd Gaskins and Margaret Chapin Perry. Louise planned to spend a week in July at Montreat, N. C. expecting to see Sarah and Margaret again and perhaps check on Elnora Hubbard Robinson at Farmville. Elnora moved from Goshen, N. Y. to Farmville, Va., where her sister, Hazel, joined her in August.

Helen Covey Milius writes: "All my travel must be vicarious this summer, except for a few days at the Greenbrier. Our daughter will be at home until college opens, and we're all rereading Shakespeare as she prepares for a seminar in the fall. She is teaching herself to play the recorder, so I dust off the piano to accompany her. My husband is helping her take flower pictures in black and white, processing them in the darkroom. We're busy around the house, with periodic pauses to observe a hummingbird or admire a monarch butterfly emerging from the chrysalis. We rejoice in having put two broods of blue birds into the trees and also on the Board of the Lewis B. Puller Center, a new interest is ceramics, knitting and doing volunteer work at the Puller Center, a sheltered workshop. Of course, I'll continue to work in the church and community as I have for many years as an elder. Also, I want to visit in Green Bay, Wisconsin, where I have lived since 1962. In February 1968 our grandson was born. I have been helping in whatever way I can at the Chateau Lake Louise and Jasper Park Lodge and other beautiful places of which we've all seen pictures. The trains went on strike during Pat's vacation, so she finally had to fly from Edmonton to Toronto to Boston. She says it's difficult after seeing so much to settle back into routine again.

Pat Millea has returned from an extensive Canadian vacation, which started in July in Montreal from there west on the Canadian National Railway's super-continental train all the way to Vancouver! After several days in this city, she and her companion started back east, staying at Chateau Lake Louise and Jasper Park Lodge and other beautiful places of which we've all seen pictures. The trains went on strike during Pat's vacation, so she finally had to fly from Edmonton to Toronto to Boston. She says it's difficult after seeing so much to settle back into routine again.

Also busy with her social and volunteer activities is Elise Stephenson. She is enjoying having her sister, Elizabeth, with her. Elizabeth is executive secretary in the Psychology department at VCU.

The "Anderson sisters" continue to be active leaders in Richmond. Mildred Anderson Williams is now Regent of her chapter of the D.A.R. Frances Anderson Stallard is deeply involved with her U. of R. trusteeship and volunteer work as tour lecturer for the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts. She says, "The lectures on the different aspects of art each fall have enriched my life and ment more depth to every European visit."
Finger Lake section of New York State.

As fond parents, we are always proud of the accomplishments of our offspring. Jane Little Gray's son (a doctor in the Navy) is stationed in the East Coast and has bought a home there. News of Mary Ryland Babcock's children: "Jud" is now making his home in Vermont; Bill is in the real estate business in Richmond; Mary lives in Durham, where her husband is interning at Duke, and they have a baby daughter born in Oct. '72; Anne lives in Chapel Hill where her husband is a law student, and they also have a daughter born in Oct. '72.

Our hearts were saddened this summer with Valerie LeMasurier Jones in the loss of a son in a tragic accident.

Some of you in far-off places—please write us news about yourselves and families.

Margaret Bowers Gill is writing this news since Lucy could not get to it following a delay of nearly two weeks in getting out of Europe. She called as she and Paul passed through Richmond on the way home to South Carolina from Washington, D. C. and she spent the night after having been up for 23 hours. Wilfred and I spent a happy week with them last summer at their lovely home on a golf course at N. Myrtle Beach, S. C.

Dot Harrison Enslow was in Richmond to see Hamilton's oldest sister in late September. She came all the way east after having attended the Epic convention in St. Louis as a delegate to a women's meeting. With her were her elder daughter, Christiane and Chris's 7 year old son, Jason. They stayed with Martha Kiis Moore in Hanover where Martha has resumed residence. Martha and I tried to get as many nearby classmates together as possible. Helen Denoon Hopson wrote invitations including a map, to a buffet at Martha's but had to return to Fredericksburg before the middle November deadline. I had thought this would make it easier for all of you to let me hear from you. The only one returned was a short note from Jeanne Decker Swank, and it came back from the post office marked moved, address unknown. This will explain the lack of news at this writing.

In the meantime I have checked with the Alumni Office and have Jeanne's new address so you can correct the list mailed to you last spring: Mrs. Kenneth Swank, 400 East Danforth, Apt. 138, Edmond, Oklahoma 73034.

Among the college graduates in May were Pam's son, G. G., from V. M. I., and Russell's daughter, Rissell, from Vanderbilt.

The engagements include Janice Conant McCoy's daughter, Deborah, with an upcoming wedding summer and Bigh's daughter, Connie, with plans for a February wedding.

I see Betty Butterworth regularly in the grocery store, and she told me that she and her family enjoyed a pleasant trip to Puerto Rico and St. Thomas. Our deepest sympathy to Maria Carter Satterfield, who lost her mother, and Frances Orrell Dunn, who lost her father recently. I am afraid that's it for this time. Maybe this year's Christmas cards will bring news from some of you for the next letter.

Mary Lee Smith Chapin and daughter, Julia, attended Homecoming in October, along with the rest of the class. She was on her way to Richmond via New York City— including the arts (theater, especially) and problems of prisons and ethnic groups, church work and civic duties.

Billy Jane's mother has been ill. Dot's mother is recovering nicely from her catastrophe operation.

You will have received information by now about Reunion plans. I hope you will all plan to be there. Meanwhile we could use some information about Dot Ihnken and Billy Jane. Mary Lee also wrote about her interesting work as "assistant to the Task Force for the Nuclear Test Ban, a citizen's lobby whose aim is a comprehensive test ban on nuclear weapons." She attended debates at the U. N. concerning this subject. She and Louis are very involved in many fields in New York City—including the arts (theater, especially) and problems of prisons and ethnic groups, church work and civic duties.

the 7th grade. This year they've had an extra daughter, an exchange student from the Philippines.

Another recent visitor to college was Lorane Graves duPuis who lives in Saco, Maine. It was her first trip to Virginia in 19 years. She brought along her daughter and they had a delightful time visiting "Teach" Grubbs, touring the campus, and seeing the historical sites. Her oldest son Joey will start school next year.

After college, Lorraine Feinberg Kaplan went to graduate school at N.Y.U. for her M.A. in Education. Since then she says "I've run the gamut from school marm to house frau to school marm again." Now she's teaching the 6th grade in Teaneck, N.J., and just loves it. She and Paul have two children in high school, a 17-year-old girl who is a senior, and a son who's a freshman.

Martha Harris Matthews lives at Hollins, Va., and is working full time at the Roanoke County library. Her husband retired from his job with Roanoke County and now is managing two shopping centers.

Down in Nashville, Tenn., Jean Bishop, touring the campus, and they had a delightful time visiting "Teach" Grubbs, touring the campus, and seeing the historical sites. Her oldest son Todd teaches biology at Armstrong High School.

Since 1971, Alice Clarke Lynch has been appointed General Registrar for the City of Richmond.

Doris and Dori Balderson Burbank had a wonderful 10 day trip to Hawaii last May with a group from the Va. Federation of Women's Clubs. Doris is president of the Monument Heights Woman's Club. While in Hawaii she was interested in talking with U. of R. graduates there. She plans to return there in January on a U. of R. tour. She became a full-time teacher this year and is teaching Center working with teenage children.

In June, Jean Tinsley Martin and her husband Roy took 8 Cadet Girl Scouts on a bike ride from Natechez to Nashville in June and July. Jean mostly drove "sagawagon" but did ride 20 to 30 miles each day. Two of their children, Barry and Brian, have two children in high school, a 17-year-old girl who is a senior, and a son who's a freshman.

Thanks to "Boog" Rosenberger Allen, classmates have been contacted for the first time in years. Garnetta Anderson Coates responded and she has reason to be proud. Her daughter will enter WestPines this fall to begin pre-med study. She is a semi-finalist in National Merit Scholarship competition from Va. She has appeared on Round The Classroom Quiz twice and her group achieved the highest score ever won on the program. Garnetta and children traveled to interesting points in Va. last summer.

Billie Bryan Mackey lives in Silver Spring, Maryland. She was married in 1970 to James Mackey who is an electrical engineer at the Naval Ordnance Lab. Billie works at NIH. Shirley Wingfield, Baumgardner Werner, Shirley Wingfield, etc.-the Badlands, the coast. In addition to chasing horses too and shows little fear when riding. Jimmy (6) loves the outdoors and is involved now in dancing, ice skating, swimming and horseback riding. Norfolk for several weeks before leaving the Coast Guard. The couple have been active in the Coast Guard Wives' Club. We are all sorry to hear of the death of your aunt, Mrs. E. J. Hill. Chester, Virginia 23831

In May Barbara Crawford and three Silverstein Zimmerman whose husband is Chaplain of Green Acres Baptist Church, to begin work as Preschool/Children's Director at Parkview Baptist Church in Lakeland, Florida. (509 Parkview Place, Lakeland, Florida 33801)

Jane Lanier Synowitz wins the "most busy student" award. I had to take a nap after all of this. Garnetta and children traveled to interesting points in Va. last summer so she had super news. She visited Nancy Harrell (this family also visited in California summer last). Nancy Baumgardner Werner, Shirley Wingfield, Laura Mapp, and Robbie Moyer Rice. Robbie lives in a beautiful setting in Bluefield and her husband Ervin has made some of the farm into a golf course. The Banks family visited places too—the Badlands, Black Hills, Yellowstone and Grand Teton. Macon continues as a teaching assistant. Mary Louise was also a leading role in "The Boyfriend" which Macon directed. Mary Louise works at the National Institute of Health in Bethesda editing bibliographies. Weil, this is the old swan song. Erma Bombeck Barnes is retiring. But I want you to know writing your juicy gossip has so inspired me that I am back at school taking Journalism. Don't get excited—I'm doing it ever so gradually, one class at a time. See you in the spring.

Phoebe Goode Holloway and family are living in Buena Vista, Virginia where her husband, Lewis Holloway, III is Treasurer and Business Manager of Southern Seminary Junior College. Besides working in the college library, Phoebe is working on her Master of Arts degree at Madison College. This spring she exhibited her works at the Glen Maury Arts and Crafts Show and this fall she had an exhibit of her prints and oil paintings at Southern Seminary. In addition to chasing horses too and shows little fear when riding. Jimmy (6) loves the outdoors and is involved now in dancing, ice skating, swimming and horseback riding. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hill moved to 5002 Hillwood Avenue, South Hill, New Jersey 07078

First, news from the cradle! Kitty Whitty Fiege and John are the very proud parents of a second boy, William Charles, who arrived in July. Kitty writes that he's "good as gold and gorgeous." They are living the life of Virginia country gentlemen on an old country estate in Virginia.

Our sympathies are extended to Joan Silverston, who had moved to Richmond in August. Their new address is 200 Sheffey Lane, Richmond 23235.

This fall I'm taking an evening course at Washington College and I'm excited and I'm amazed at the changes that have taken place on campus—especially in North Court after this summer's renovation.

If you have news of your own, please let us know. We are always on the lookout for interesting stories.
Peaks of Otter. From Cathy’s description, Williamsburg over Thanksgiving by way of The next morning, when the waitresses are especially that first night out when, with no service at MCV and I am definitely enjoying my first year in Montana, they already consider themselves Montanans and have enjoyed a spectacularly beautiful fall. Wilson has been busy setting up his practice, but the highlight of the trip was Betty’s first attempt at sleeping outside; she nearly froze the first night and didn’t sleep a wink. Sheila Floam Shochat writes that after husband Steve completed his pediatric surgical residency at Boston’s Children’s Hospital, they spent a year in England at Fulbright House. They made a 2-month car trip through ten countries in Europe with their children before returning to the U.S., where Steve began teaching and clinics in a new school (Lake Braddock) and a medical center for young children. Their two daughters are Francie, 6½ and Lisa, 4. She still finds time for gardening, needlework and has taken a class in ceramics. Barbara Powell Burtchett was married in August of 1969 and gained not only a husband, William, but a daughter Sharlaine. She received her Masters of Religious Education from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in 1967, and taught for seven years in Chesterfield County. Carl is a Plumbing Contractor, and they live in the suburbs of Virginia Beach. They have made several enjoyable trips to the mountains of West Virginia over the years and are now looking forward to visiting the mountains of Tennessee. They have been married for thirteen years and are the parents of two children, a daughter, Janet, 2½ and a son, Tony, 3. They enjoy spending time together as a family, and are looking forward to a fun-filled summer ahead.

Cathy Carr Elverston and family may recommend it. Though we’re speeding toward Christmas, this writing finds us glancing back to “those lazy, crazy, hazy days of summer” and reports of friends’ vacations.

J. C. Shapley Conroy wrote: “She and the children spent two weeks at the Jersey Shore while Bill attended Rutgers University for his second summer, working toward a degree in Political Science. He has been commuting frequently to Richmond for his dental work. He makes it a habit to have dinner together when his mother’s health allows.”

Julie Perkins and family have taken a trip to Disney World and plan a return trip when Michael is older. Betty Lou has a 6th grade Girl Scout troop this year which she took on vacation with a group of mothers. Betty Lou’s first attempt at sleeping outside; she nearly froze the first night and didn’t sleep a wink. She still finds time for gardening, needlework and has taken a class in ceramics.

Dick and I vacated our rental at Virginia Beach in August—sort of an experimental trip since we took two month-old Kendal and two-year-old Carter. Happily, we all enjoyed it and even the logistics of such traveling worked out more easily than we had expected.

Cathy Carr Elverston and family may have topped and broken that record with their bicycle trip last summer. On their ten-speeds, they cycled from Charlottesville up to Afton and down the Parkway to the Peaks of Otter and then back to Charlottesville through the valley—four days for about 300 miles and one day at the Peaks of Otter. From Cathy’s description, it must have been quite an experience—especially that first night out when they had no sleeping gear and no motel where they stopped, they spread a tarpaulin on the floor of the men’s room (the only place they could find for the two young boys). The next morning, when the waitresses arrived to open the restaurant, the Elverstons were outside cooking pancakes on their camp stove. They had to make a trip to Williamsburg over Thanksgiving by way of Surrey, including Jamestown and Yorktown. She and Ed have “settled down atop Church Hill in a restored home” and walk to work (about a mile) at MCV, where Ed is supervisor of the service laboratory at the MCV Community Health Center. In 1973, Nancy Smith Scarborough and Charles and their two sons Charles Wylie, 5, and Michael, 2, recently moved. Their new address is 10916 Woodhaven Drive, Fairfax, Virginia. She still finds time for gardening, needlework and has taken a class in ceramics.

Betsy Uhl enjoyed her trip to Colorado in late May visiting with Polly Wettlaufer, and seeing Denver, Colorado Springs, the Air Force Academy and lots more. Polly is still busy painting and redecorating their home. She works part-time as the co-ordinator of volunteers at the Community Development School for Handicapped Children. Joan Miller Hines has gotten her real
My husband, John, has a new position in computer operations with Jefferson Mills, Inc. here in Pulaski. I have also been working for the same company since June but will go on leave for Christmas. Much of my energy is spent chasing 2 year old Chris!

The Alumnae Fund Drive will be starting soon. Please watch each in and each do your part to raise our class percentage of participation from last year's figure. Fran Stewart Starr and Sandra Gross Schneider are our class chairmen and need your help.

The Spring issue is mid-May. Please take a few minutes to send me a postcard in order to update our class news.

Thank your go to our past secretary, Pat Diggs Gravely, for the excellent job she did. I want to thank her for all the notes and pointers she has given me. Her husband finished his internship and entered the U.S. Navy. He is stationed at Mayport, Florida, where he is medical officer for a destroyer squadron. Their new address is 8151 Alderman Road, Apt. 1305, Jacksonville, Florida 32211.

Jane Bohannon Atkinson and Ken visited England and Scotland. Recently they have been busy fixing up their new home at 2103 Laurel Brook Road, Fallston, Maryland 21047. June is currently employed as an adult services librarian for the Baltimore County Public Library.

Janet Overstreet Godfrey has a new home at 1276 Riverdale Parkway Drive, Coshocton, Ohio 43812. Her husband recently graduated from the University of Alabama with a degree in Metallurgical Engineering. He is now employed as Technical Manager for the Clay Corporation.

Mary Kerns McGraw wrote that they spent a few days at Fernandina Beach, Florida. They are looking forward to a visit from Bonnie Bowman Nelson and Bob. Mary wants to personally recommend Martha Dorman Clark's father as a doctor for anyone in Maryland and Virginia who is going to have a baby. Mary also wants to thank everyone who helped with the Alumnae Fund.

Claudia Grundman can now be reached at 4616 W. Franklin Street, Richmond, Virginia 23226. Pam Gordon is attending T. C. Williams Law School. Her new address is 5010 Downey Lane, #104, Richmond, Virginia 23228.

Jane Cunningham Prugh says she thoroughly enjoyed teaching 8th grade civics at Byrd Middle School in Henrico County while Beth Fredrickson is working in gastroenterology at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond. Butch is now a major in the Army and enjoying medical practice at Fort Bragg Army Hospital. Their new address is 105 Baltzell Avenue, Ft. Benning, Georgia 31905.

Heppert Hock Dolan and Richard have a new home at 1720 Cloverdale Road, Richmond, Virginia 23233. Richard is now an accountant with Ernst and Ernst. Heppert keeps herself busy raising their two children, Duke (Richard Edward III), who was born in August and Shannon Elaine, who was born in November.

Martha Dorman Clark and her husband are now in Washington, D.C. at 2407 Calvert Street, NW, #718, zip 20008. While in Paris, Martha attended Cordon Bleu for nine months and received the Diplome de l'Annee. When I spoke to her on the phone she expressed an interest in giving cooking lessons and in catering luncheons and cocktail parties if anyone might be interested in taking advantage of these skills should give Martha a call at 387-8107. She said all arrangements are flexible to fit your schedule. From December until mid-August, before her son was born, she worked in Washington as administrative assistant to the executive director at the American Foreign Service Association, the labor union for Foreign Service personnel.

A son was born to Pat Shaw Cottrell and Russell on July 4. On August 1 Pat returned to work for the Defense and Telephone Computer Technical Support. Between the two she has been keeping very busy.

Susan Lee Harris' husband Paul has a new job as Financial Vice President of Universal Restoration, Inc. in Washington, D.C.

Judy Parrish Ratcliffe attended the wedding of Rebecca Darden to George Bemfield on July 7, 1973. Rebecca and George are now living in Gretta, La. at 300 C Ruby Street, 70053.

Kathleen Brown Miller Morrall and Lance went on a two week camping trip to Colorado. Their son, Jason, proved to be quite a camper. Lance and Karla will probably be at Fort McArthur, San Pedro, California until early summer.

Mary Gearing Foster and Ray have a new daughter, Margaret Scott, and a new address, 90 Raleigh Road, Newport News, Virginia 23601.

Chuck and I spent most of our free time traveling. Last winter we spent ten days in Hawaii. This summer we visited Los Angeles again and also took in Las Vegas, the Grand Canyon and several other national parks. I do hope I will be hearing from more of the class in the near future. Drop me a note and let us know what you are up to.

Thank you all for your contributions to the Alumnae Fund. There was an obvious increase in our participation percentage this year. Perhaps next year our standing will increase even more.

In most circles, no news is considered good news. However, the "no news" policy makes it rather difficult to write an article. All is not lost though—one person did contact me. I recently received a call from Mrs. Rick Morris (Sharon Morrissey). She reported that she is quite well and expects to be in Richmond quite soon. Use this column as a vehicle to let me know. A card or letter would be most informative; we could all use a little light reading every now and then.

Diane Smith Cummings and husband, Harry, a 1972 U of R graduate, are living in Virginia Beach. Their address is 5600 Bentley Court, Apt. 102, Virginia Beach, 23462. Diane is working in a bank and Harry has a job with the FBI.
Mary Alice Curtin is working for the Department of Labor in Washington, D.C.

Barbara Crews Haugh and husband, Gene, live in South Boston. Barbara teaches sociology and psychology at the high school, and Gene works in the planning department of J. P. Stevens, Inc.

Diane (Tarkington) and Peter Biehn are the proud parents of a son, Andrew Moulton, who was born on September 13 at the University of Virginia Hospital. Ann (Stewart) and Rusty McDow and Nancy (Clevinger) and Chuck Sara are Andrew's godparents.

Diane Briggs Myers and Stuart are living in Charlotte, North Carolina. Diane teaches at an elementary school near their home, and Stuart is an electrical engineer and is employed by Duke Power Company. I attended their wedding in Richmond and enjoyed seeing such friends as Bev Browder, Marylu Gates, Cathy Perkins and Nelle Haag.

Also living in North Carolina are Ann Greene Turner and Ralph, a 1968 U of R graduate. Ann is a bank examiner with the U.S. Treasury Department, Comptroller of the Currency, and Ralph, too, is a bank examiner. They both were transferred to the Raleigh sub-region and their address is 1104 Manchester Drive, Cary, N.C.

Lucy Bone, who had been living in Richmond and working for the telephone company, is now back in Tennessee. She and husband, Richard Orgain, a 1972 U of R graduate, live in Memphis. Their address is 32 N. Belvedere, Apt. 12, Memphis, Tenn. 38104. Richard is a first year student at Southern College of Optometry. The Bell System transferred Lucy, and she is working for South Central Bell Telephone Company. Lucy's also taking a graduate math course at Memphis State University.

Harriette Turner Evans and husband, Tim, have moved to Columbus, South Carolina. Tim is attending the University of South Carolina and Harriette has a job programming for S.C. Power and Gas Company.

Help Expose the Excitement of the University of Richmond

In city after city—Miami, Atlanta, Chattanooga, Nashville, Dallas, Cincinnati, Cleveland, New Orleans, Philadelphia, New York, Wilmington, Hartford—wherever the University of Richmond has visited, students and their parents have become excited about UR even though they had really heard little of it before. You can do the same thing simply by having information about Richmond sent to them. Fill out and send in the form below for someone who you think should know about Richmond. If you would like material about Richmond to have on hand to give to friends, just fill in your own name and address.
