Director's Message

We've made it to February. The shortest month of the year. The Valentine's Day holiday is approaching. Also, our state's General Assembly will soon conclude their legislative session. Check out this month's newsletter to read about Virginia's Heart Balm Act, explore the concept of social infrastructure, and learn about resources to help you master tools like Microsoft Word and extend your law school success skills.

We are happy to welcome and support all law students, whether you're on campus or out in California. We have new physical books and continue to provide tools and sources you can access anywhere you can get online. If there's anything we can do to ensure your comfort and success, please let us know.

- Roger Skalbeck, Associate Dean

Campus Connections

One Book, One Richmond

The current One Book, One Richmond selection is "Palaces for the People" which focuses on a concept called social infrastructure. Read this post from the MuseNews blog for details on how to listen to or read this book electronically. You can also find out how to sign up for a talk on February 24th by the author, Eric Klinenberg.

Technology Tips

Microsoft Word - More than Word Processing!

You're probably not using the Microsoft Office Suite to its full potential! Kim Edwards,

Director of Technology Services, shares an awesome resource for improving your tech skills in Musenews.

CALI Lessons for Law School Success

In addition to more than 1000 lessons on substantive areas of the law, CALI worked with leaders in the field to develop lessons focused on how we learn and strategies for law school success. Read this MuseNews blog post for an overview and access to help with topics such as time management, exams and note-taking.
