Director's Message

On behalf of the entire law library team, we offer our support, services and sincere hopes that you have what you need during the unprecedented circumstances. We know that this presents many challenges. Our goal is to meet your study needs and provide relevant resources as best we can to support students, wherever you are located.

We have worked with publishers for online textbook access, and we continue to provide live research and technology support. We hope that you're safe and able to get what you need for law school and life in these changed times. If there are any ways we can help, please let us know.

- Roger Skalbeck, Associate Dean

Featured Resources

Prepare to Practice

This year's Prepare to Practice sessions are available virtually, through Blackboard. Check out MuseNews to see how you can access these sessions, which are required for students seeking Summer Public Service Fellowship stipends.

Graduate Access to Online Resources

Graduating from law school doesn't mean you lose access to all your Muse Law Library resources! MuseNews explains what you can access, how, and for what length of time post-graduation.

Remote In to Use Creative Cloud Products

Do you ever need to use Photoshop, InDesign, or other Adobe Creative Cloud product? You can now remote in to one of our computer lab computers to use this high value software. Details on MuseNews.

Supporting Student Symposia

The Muse Law Library team supports student symposia with multimedia expertise and navigating the CLE process. MuseNews has examples of our work in this area and information about how we can help your event plans.

Library News

Celebrating Women's History Month

In honor of Women's History Month, the Muse Law Library team conducted research on important women in legal history and Richmond Law's history. Multimedia Production and Technology Specialist Carl Hamm put together the following slides celebrating their lives and work. MuseNews created a gallery of these slides for your enjoyment, education, and future reference.

Reserving Seats for Exams

If you're looking for a quiet study space or a place to take an exam, we're here for you! Learn how to reserve a seat or carrel in the Law Library on MuseNews.
