Here's the POWER!

VEPCO is ready to accept whatever demands may come with the National Defense Program.

Years of planning and building by this business-managed company are behind our readiness to serve. Already, VEPCO's output of power exceeds the forecast for 1960's demands —10 years ahead of time. The electric industry as a whole has increased electric generating capacity since World War II by 35%.

There is no power shortage in America today, nor in VEPCO territory. And we pledge our every resource to meet the future needs of our national economy and to preserve our national security.

Seldom has an address won such universal acclaim as the remarks of Dr. Ralph C. McDanel (page 5) at the Alumni Dinner. Every alumnus felt a glow of pride in the knowledge that teachers like Dr. Mac, men who have refused to "put a price tag on their brains," have given strength and character to this institution through the years. Such men have given unstintingly of their golden knowledge, have labored in the service of the college and the community, and have rubbed off on the students they have touched some of their high idealism.

In a day when too many persons attempt to be all things to all men, when double-talk and double-dealing too often are the rule, Dr. Mac's forthrightness is refreshing. There is never any doubt how he stands on an issue. There is never any inclination to compromise with what he believes to be right.

Laboring as he did through his early career in the shadow of the great Mitchell, his worth as a teacher went unnoticed for many years. Instead of sulking in a corner, he continued to work and to grow. After twenty-five years of service to his Alma Mater he stands today in the company of the great teachers this University has produced.

His worth has extended far beyond the classroom, and far beyond the campus of the University he learned to love when he was a student thirty-five years ago. In the councils of the Baptists of Virginia whom he has served as president, his voice is authoritative. Every Sunday scores of Richmond men gather, as they have for more than a score of years, to hear Dr. McDanel conduct one of the most popular Bible classes in the city. It was partly in recognition of his contribution to the Baptist denomination, and partly in recognition of his service as a teacher and lecturer that Georgetown College in Kentucky conferred on him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws this past commencement. It was a doubly appreciated honor, coming as it did from a college which years ago conferred the Doctor of Divinity degree upon his distinguished father.

Dr. Mac will wear his honors lightly. He'll still be accessible to every student who seeks his counsel. Students will continue to find him pessimistic, inclined to take a dim view of things in general, and in particular, but they will find none of the bitterness of cynicism. They will find a man who has unlimited confidence in his God, a reasonable amount of confidence in his fellow men and an understanding of their foibles and weaknesses, and an abiding faith in the certain triumph of right.

Whether one agrees or disagrees with Alumnus Keppler's (page 15) views about college football, he can applaud the workmanlike way Coach Ed Merrick has gone about the task of doing the job assigned to him. Sports Editor Laurence Leonard paints an admirably realistic picture (page 7) of the man Merrick and the way he operates. Both Merrick and his line assistant, Boyd Williams, the old Syracuse star, have gone to work with vigor and enthusiasm. The results of their knowledge and their energy were manifest in the successful spring practice and the further results of their recruiting should be evident this fall.

Olin Richardson isn't champion any more. When Richardson ran 100 yards in ten seconds way back in 1909 he set a record which had been four times tied but never bettered until Walter (Baby) Nelms turned the trick with a sparkling 9.8 at Quantico. (See page 11.)

Jack Burcher's boys aren't the first set of University of Richmond twins but, so far as can be determined, they are the only set with different birthdays. (Page 19.) Both twins are proud owners of University of Richmond rattles which are sent to all alumni who send the glad tidings to the Alumni Office.

Commencement '51

A GAINST a backdrop of war and rumors of war, 303 University of Richmond students received degrees at commencement on June 4. The uncertainty of the times was reflected in the weather, which threatened rain that never materialized, but nonetheless forced the exercises indoors. Parents and other friends of the graduates found the degree-conferring program well worth the three dollars some of them had to pay for illegally parking their automobiles outside the First Baptist Church.

Although there was a sharp drop from last year's 342, the total number of graduates passed the 300-mark for the third consecutive year. The decrease was attributed to the fact that the veterans of World War II are fast disappearing from the campus. (In his annual report to the Board of Trustees, President Modlin pointed out that veterans comprised only 26 per cent of the student body during the year just ended, as compared with a high of 80 per cent for 1946-47. For the academic year beginning in September the veterans will comprise probably no more than 10 per cent of the enrollment.)

There were jobs aplenty for all the graduates who wanted jobs—and were free to take them. (See page 11.) A number of them faced jobs of top priority with the armed services.

There was little of the sweetness and light characteristic of commencements. Dr. J. Hillis Miller, '24, president of the University of Florida, spoke in his commencement address of "the brutal realism of life." He told the graduates that human nature is "perverse and selfish and, in many respects, unintelligent and thoughtless."

He defined an optimist as "a person who in this atomic age believes that the future is uncertain."

(The preceding evening, Dr. William O. Carver, '91, professor emeritus of comparative religion and missions in Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, said in his baccalaureate sermon "we have reached a situation unequalled in all history for its worldwide tragedy, unequalled in the desperation of fear, concern, confusion which grips mankind. Christians can no longer take refuge in pietistic exemption from the tragedy, the needs and the doom of mankind, without hearing or heeding the truth as revealed to us in Jesus Christ.")

President Modlin, in his charge to the graduates, pointed out that many of them would be required to take up arms in the Korean conflict and the global war which may follow. "All of you," he said, "face the probability of long years of living in a military economy, demanding sacrifices that must be borne with understanding and in good spirit. The war between Communism and our free way of life," he said, "is basically a struggle for the minds and loyalties of the people of this earth. Communism can never conquer our country if we remain faithful to the high moral ideals of Christian democracy which are our heritage."

In addition to the 303 students who received degrees in course, the University conferred honorary degrees on five distinguished men and one woman—Miss Blanche S. White, executive secretary of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Baptist General Association of Virginia for 25 years. She received the degree of Doctor of Letters. Doctor of Laws degrees went to Dr. Hillis Miller, '24, and Justice Willis D. Miller, '14, of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals; the degree of Doctor of Science to Overton D. Dennis, '10, well-known Richmond businessman, and the degree of Doctor of Divinity to the Rev. William B. Denson, '26, pastor of the Melrose Baptist Church in Roanoke, and the Rev. O. W. Sawyer, pastor of the Union Baptist Church in Chincoteague.

Although all educational institutions, particularly those on private foundation, will find the going rough in the years immediately ahead, President Modlin told the trustees that the future of the University of Richmond is "secure." He saw as the chief need more endowment to make possible adequate salaries for members of the faculty. (The University's endowment is now $3,232,209, and the plant assets are valued at $3,415,300. Total assets are $9,487,074.)

than $1,000,000 are under construction or will be under construction soon, President Modlin said. He referred to the Alumni-Student Center building which has been promised for the start of the 1951-52 session in September; The Law School building (see page 10) for which the contract will be let this year, and the Boatwright Memorial Library which will be under construction next year or in 1953. The library—which will be enlarged when more funds become available—will cost approximately $500,000.

From the standpoint of enrollment, President Modlin found the outlook encouraging, although there can be no doubt that enrollment will be further reduced next year, both as a result of the disappearance of the veterans and the manpower demands of the armed services. Another adverse factor arises from the transition of Richmond high schools to a 12-year system, which means that very few students will graduate this year.

The establishment of Army and Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps units on the campus is expected to draw students who otherwise might have enrolled in other colleges which do not have such units.

All in all, the University expects a year which will be difficult in view of the spiraling cost of operation and the decrease in the enrollment, which will be the smallest since the close of World War II. However, the enrollment is larger than pessimists had feared, the school has embarked confidently on a building program, and faces the future with determination and confidence.

Two ROTC Units On Campus

Thanks to two ROTC units, University of Richmond students can qualify for both a bachelor's degree and a commission in either the Army or the Air Force. Both ROTC units have sent a skeleton staff to the campus in preparation for the start of operations this fall and as the BULLETIN goes to press, workmen are converting two of the men's barracks into headquarters for the military.

In addition to the Army Transportation ROTC announced previously, the University was successful in its application for an Air Force ROTC. The two units will enroll several hundred students this fall and ultimately a maximum of 600.

Persons accepted for the ROTC will retain their civilian status but will be required to take required basic and advanced courses in military science and tactics. During the latter two years they will be compensated at the rate of $27 per month.

All ROTC students who do satisfactory work in the classroom and on the drill field will be exempt from military duty until they have completed their degree requirements.

Col. Robert C. Larson heads the Army Transportation ROTC as professor of military science and tactics, and Lt. Col. Raymond G. Teborek is professor of air science and tactics for the Air Forces unit. Although neither would admit it, they expect to engage in spirited rivalry for the incoming students who are eligible for ROTC training.

A MONUMENT—

TO ALUMNI GIVING

A MONUMENT to every alumnus whose giving through the years has made it possible, the Alumni-Student Center building will be ready for use this fall. As the ALUMNI BULLETIN goes to press, the campus post office is preparing to move into its handsome and spacious quarters on the first floor and the contractor was still confident that the building will be complete when the 1951-52 session begins on September 17.

Certainly it should be completed and furnished well before the alumni return to dedicate it at Homecoming on October 27.

Old grads who joined the "Sidewalk Superintendents' Tour" conducted by Dr. R. E. Loving, '96, on Alumni Day were impressed with the exterior appearance of the building and also with the variety of facilities offered inside the four-story structure which nestles comfortably into the ravine between the Administration Building and the dormitories. It has a "Country Club" appearance when viewed from the lawn of the Administration Building but the size of the building does not become apparent until it is seen from the other side of the ravine.

A large and well-equipped College Shop will replace the old fire-razed frame structure which has been an eyesore through the ages and in recent years has been referred to uncomplimentarily as the "slop shop." This shop and the post office will occupy most of the space on the ground floor.

On the second floor will be located the Alumni Headquarters, a faculty lounge, and barbershop.

On the third or main floor (this floor is entered at the ground level from the lawn of the Administration Building) are a large lounge for students, a recreation room, and a multiple-use room in which student organizations will hold their meetings. The memorial lounge, in addition to day-to-day use as a recreational spot for students, is large enough for informal dances and can be converted into a meeting room for alumni at Homecoming and Alumni Day.

Offices for the publications, a central mailing room and a reference room for the joint use of the publications will be found on the fourth floor. In addition there is a large storage attic which may, with the passage of years, provide additional space for student purposes.

Members of the board of trustees whose affirmative vote a year ago had made possible the construction of the building, could find in the '51 Fund evidence that the alumni intend to make good their promise to pay off in a few years the additional $50,000 needed for the structure originally planned. The 1951 Fund—the second largest in the five-year history of the fund from a monetary standpoint and by far the largest from the standpoint of the number of contributors—stood at $25,164.83 on July 1. This figure compared with $26,155.67 on the corresponding date last year.

As of July 1st a total of 1,281 alumni had contributed to the '51 Fund—as compared with 1,053 at the corresponding date last year and 1,077 for the entire calendar year of 1950.

With the monetary total less than $1,000 behind last year's pace it is possible that the final total will exceed the $28,609.34 for the '50 Fund.

(This year's total is doubly creditable in view of the fact that none of the money contributed by alumni to the new Law School Building was credited to the '51 Fund. Had this been done the total would have been far in excess of last year. All contributors to the Law School Building were listed, however, as contributors to the '51 Fund.)

'15 Does It Again!

With the consistency of old Joe Lewis in his prime, the men of 1915 mopped up again in the friendly rivalry among the classes for first place in the 1951 Alumni Fund with a score of 58.97—not as good as last year's 77.77 per cent, but still good enough to beat off the challenge of the class of 1903 which scored 47.83.

The men of 1903 closed with a rush to sweep from 12th to second place in the closing weeks. The class of 1911 (8th last year) came in third with 46.51, and 1907 was fourth for the second consecutive year, with a percentage of 43.48.

Others in the first ten: 1916 (42.11%); 1906 (40.00%); 1921<sup>7</sup> (39.62%); 1926 (38.61%); 1917 (36.21), and 1909 (35.71%).

For the second consecutive year the class of 1949 led in the number of contributors—79 this year as compared with 55 last year. The men of 1950 were in second place with 56, and 1948 was third with 45. The class of 1941, last year's runner-up with 41, again scored 41 but dropped to a fourth place tie with the Old Guard. The class of 1926 had 39 contributors, there were 38 each from 1927 and 1931, and 37 each from 1930 and 1937.

ALUMNI-AE DAY

The globe-trotters were Mrs. Mary Anne Guy Franklin, a teacher in the Richmond School System who taught a year in the Fulham Secondary School in London; Mrs. John Daniel Brian, '34, who has been in Venezuela since 1948; Mrs. Henry Carter Miller, '41, and Miss Eva Sanders, '24, who is a missionary nurse in Nigeria, South Africa.

Earlier in the day Miss Frances Farmer, '31, law librarian and instructor in legal bibliography at the University of Virginia, and Miss Ruth Henderson, '21, of New York City, director of international activities for the Girl Scouts of the United States, had been speakers at the annual Alumnae Hour.

Members of the graduating classes were

Faith Of An Alumnus★

I AM SURE I need not say that I am greatly honored by being invited to speak on this occasion. The honor appears all the greater when I remember the able speakers who have preceded me in years past and when I think of the many distinguished alumni who would have been far more eloquent and altogether more acceptable speakers than I can ever be tonight or any night.

There are many reasons for choices of speakers—lots of them not too complimentary to the speakers—but I am going to cherish the thought that tonight—for once—the reason was not one of those uncomplimentary ones. My appearance is due, I believe, to the calendar. Thirty-five years ago this month, by the grace of God and the kindness of several professors, Dr. Boatwright announced to an expectant world that I was a Bachelor of Arts of Richmond College. For the past twenty-five years I have been collecting monthly checks from the University of Richmond—as a member of the faculty. And it might be said, somewhat parenthetically, that no matter how reluctantly and grudgingly those checks were given (which is the standard treasurer-banker attitude) they were always distributed on time. This is a distinction of the University of Richmond not shared by all educational institutions these past twenty-five years.

When, several weeks ago, I received the invitation to speak tonight I began to wonder what I should try to speak about. It could be, I thought, an apologia pro sua vita, sort of an attempt at a justification of twenty-five years of a misspent life. Or I could pour a few more vials of oil on the still smoldering embers of the MacArthur-Truman controversy. Or I might discourse at length, and without shedding any light or giving any answers, on the general subject of international relations, a field in which I have been inaccurately accused of being an expert. Whatever temptations came from any of these I have tried to resist, although you may detect some evidences of the apologia.

Last December the outgoing president of the American Historical Association used as the title of his address to that organization, "Faith of a Historian." I am going to paraphrase his title and call my remarks to you, "Faith of an Alumnus." Whatever it may do to and for you it will give me the opportunity to speak from the heart of certain matters which have been very close to that heart for the past thirty-nine years.

Back in the good old days I was told that all good sermons had a firstly, a secondly, and a thirdly, and if by reason of strength they had a fourthly and a fifthly they were too long. Accordingly, I have only three divisions which you have probably already thought of in your own mind. They are: Faith in the past, faith in the present, and faith in the future. Faith has been defined in one way as "the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." In another definition it may be a firm belief or trust. Certainly the faith of an alumnus in the past of the University of Richmond is more than the evidence of things not seen. It is faith in things that are a matter of historical record, things which may be seen and known of all men. Comparisons are odious and statistics are worse. We need neither in the appraisal of the contributions of this school during one hundred and twenty-one years.

We think first, and properly, of the contribution to the denomination that established the institution and which has supported it in varying degree through the years. It is seldom realized that the denomination has received more than it has given. It is right and proper that this should be so. And let it not be forgotten that our contribution to Virginia Baptists has by no means been limited to the education of hundred of preachers. More hundreds, yes, thousands of laymen who today and through the years, give and have given leadership in our churches have received some of their training here.

And who can adequately evaluate the contribution this institution has made through the years to the city whose name it bears? The religious, intellectual, cultural, and civic life of Richmond has been affected ever since the days when that first small group of potential preachers gathered together in 1832 on the farm out Brook Road to work and study that they might be better prepared to interpret the will of God to a needy world.

On many notable occasions the City of Richmond has rallied to the assistance of its college and for this we are all grateful. At times there have been evidences of the ancient town and gown attitude and some proof of the saying that a prophet is not without honor save in his own city and among his own people. The complete end of that attitude will perhaps never come, even among some of our own Richmond city alumni, but two things may be said: First, good public relations are formed on a two-way street and it is barely possible that we have at times been somewhat remiss, either in our service to the city or in making that service known. Second, it may be said with confidence that over the period of the thirty-nine years of my recollection there has been a constant improvement both in the service of the school to the city and the appreciation by the city of that service.

We would make no claim to the service and reputation of some of the larger and more ancient institutions of higher learning to the world at large but I would remind you that our contributions of the past have not been limited either to the city of Richmond or the Baptist denomination. Throughout the State of Virginia, the nation, and indeed, the world, men who owe something to Alma Mater have served and are serving their day and generation.

I would suggest, also, that an alumnus may take pride in the high academic standards which have been consistently maintained. We have placed the major emphasis where it belongs in a college, on scholarship. We have not tried to do those things for which we were not fitted by faculty, resources, or equipment. We have not cheapened our degrees. I believe we have quite well approached the golden mean which Pope had in mind,

"Be not the first by whom the new are tried Nor yet the last to lay the old aside."

In this day we know that we must replace that log on which the student sat with adequate buildings and equipment but no one has yet devised any substitute for the Mark Hopkins who occupied the other end of the log. (And I suggest that not even the miracle of television will be able to do that.)

Surely an alumnus has faith in the past when he recalls the great teachers who have served this school in other years. I make no attempt to call the entire roll but as one whose recollections go back thirty-nine years, I cannot refrain from making a partial listing. First on any list would be that outstanding educational statesman, Frederic William Boatwright, whose life for more than sixty-five years has been the life of Richmond College and the University of Richmond and who for fifty-one of those years, an unparalleled record, served the institution as its president. One of Dr. Boatwright's greatest assets was his ability to surround himself with able teachers. Who can ever forget or adequately assess the contribution of a Gaines, a Ryland, a Loving, a Harris, a Metcalf, or a Mitchell? In my lifetime, and in that of many of you here tonight, these men, and others whom we could name, have been the makers of the University.

I remember some twenty years ago when a Baptist pastor from another state passed through Richmond and visited our campus. He was properly impressed with the beauty of the setting but, as he told me later, he decided to send his two sons here because he was impressed with the long tenure of so many of the members of the faculty. He thought that a school where people stayed around so long would be a good place for his boys to visit for awhile.

Then I remember a visit of a former student just a few days ago. He is a professor in another institution of higher learning. In the course of the conversation he told me that the assistant professors in his department were paid a beginning salary which is larger than that received by some of the full professors here. When I told him that, his natural question was, "Well, how do you keep them?"

★Address delivered by Dr. Ralph C. McDanel, '16, at the annual Alumni Dinner in Millhiser Gymnasium on June 2. The occasion marked the 25th anniversary of Dr. McDanel's association with the University as professor of history and the 35th anniversary of his graduation. Two days later he received from Georgetown College in Kentucky the degree of Doctor of Laws in recognition of his service to his fellow man as a teacher and Christian leader. Dr. McDanel is past president of the Baptist General Association of Virginia, and is past national president of Omicron Delta Kappa. At its last annual convention ODK presented Dr. McDanel with its certificate of meritorious service.

I replied that to many men and women there were other things that compensated for the smaller salaries. I might have told him that there was a congenial atmosphere in which to work; there was a real pleasure in being a citizen of no mean city; there was joy in a feeling of service rendered; there was a real satisfaction in putting down roots. I should have said that his question should be directed to a Gaines, a Loving, a Mitchell or others who did not put a price tag on their brains. Back through the years, my friends, you have profited by those compensations, whatever they may have been. The application to the future I will leave to your earnest consideration.

Perhaps this note on the faculty problem provides a good transition from the past to the present. I am quite conscious of the fact that many of you find it difficult to have the same degree of faith in the present that you have in the past when you think of the giants who walked the paths of this enchanted spot when you were here. I assure you that some of us share your feeling. We shuffle along in their shoes (far too big for our puny feet) and wonder whether time and some slight degree of effort will ever enable us to touch, as it were, the hem of their academic robes. But do not despair. Have faith in the present of your Alma Mater. All is not lost. We have a good faculty! Don't be ashamed of it because many of the members are strangers to you.

The school, like the play, must go on, and we who constitute the present troupe of actors are making a serious and determined effort to play our roles with the same degree of fidelity exemplified by the masters of days past.

Five years ago, when Dr. Boatwright decided to retire, the Trustees of the University were faced with a problem both difficult and unique. They were completely inexperienced in choosing presidents! There is, I am sure, universal agreement that they made an "A" on their first test. Dr. Modlin, coming into a most difficult position at a particularly difficult time, has demonstrated by his boundless energy, his engaging personality, his wise judgment and his complete loyalty to his job that you may have faith in the present of your University on the score of its administrative leadership.

An account of the achievements and problems of the present you have heard, or will hear, from others. Let it suffice for me to say that we are still doing business (and good business) at the same stand. Of course, we are handicapped in our business by lack of equipment. How we have got along so far without adequate library facilities is at the same time a source of wonder and a tribute to improvisation. We still have the hope that the Baptist churches of Virginia will respond, and that right early, to this obvious need of the university which they foster. They agreed to set their hand to this plow some years ago but there has been some turning back and the furrow has not yet been completely run.

Many of you have seen and I am sure, admired, a concrete example of how you may have faith in the present. The Alumni-Student Activities Building is not only an example of faith but an evidence of the fact that the mills of the gods grind slowly on this campus. To be exact, they have ground for thirty-four years in this instance. Some of you, like me, contributed your first money for this building in 1917! We have had a long wait, but there it is, at long last! And some of us are sufficiently naïve to believe the contractor when he says it will be ready for occupancy in September! The thanks of generations of Richmond College students will go to all of you who have made it possible and to those trustees, who for once, were willing to take a chance on the alumni.

One is tempted to comment on the present state of our athletic program. Many of you will feel that the less said about that the better. In the matter of caliber of our teams, in the columns of contests won and lost, let us say that there are indications of coming improvement. Three additional things may be said: First, we are greatly in need of improvements to our athletic plant, to this gymnasium and to our field equipment. These needs have little, if any, relation to a program of intercollegiate football but are vitally necessary for our intramural and physical education programs. Second, you may confidently believe that whatever may be done in the conduct of intercollegiate sports, it is going to be done honestly, both on the part of the official representatives of the institution and of the students involved, which is only what you should expect.

Third, you may also confidently believe that no money contributed for any other object will be used for the support of a policy of athletic subsidization.

These things of the present are enough, perhaps too much, for my comment. They add up in my mind to a deep and abiding faith in the present. All of us can suggest needs, changes, and improvements but allowing for all those, and they are many, the over-all picture is good.

If the past is commendably sure and the present inspires faith, the future must be reasonably bright. Reasonably is the correct word. How bright depends on many factors, over several of which you as alumni have a high measure of control.

It was suggested some years ago that one of the besetting sins of some Virginians was to translate the letters "FFV" to mean "faith in former virtues." As a historian, or better, a teacher of history, I am supposed to live largely in the past but if history teaches any lesson at all it is that we cannot rely on the record of the past for the accomplishments of the present and future. If we are to have faith in the future of the University of Richmond, that faith must inspire works, else it is dead.

A university needs faculty, students, buildings and equipment. The students we have in sufficient numbers in most schools of the University with a reasonable prospect that such a condition will continue. It used to be said of the late Dr. R. E. Blackwell, for many years the distinguished president of Randolph-Macon College, that he prayed the Lord to give him a small college and the Lord answered his prayer. Here and now, and not for the first time, I would like to be listed as one making the same prayer for Richmond College! We will not try to define the word "small" but be content with the generalization that we do not need in the present, and will not need in the future, more students, but better students. And I use the word "better" in much more than the academic sense. We need more students who come to college for a serious purpose, who come to the University of Richmond because they want to come here and are not in this institution as a place of last resort for either academic or financial reasons. We need more students who come with a beginning sense of loyalty and pride, a loyalty and pride which it is hoped may be developed while here to the end that they may become sustaining sons and daughters of the academic mother who has nourished them. We need, in short, the sons and daughters of you, and of people like you, if we are to have faith in the future of this University. The future is largely in your hands. If it is not so now, see that you make this school the kind of place to which you will be willing to send your children if we have what they want in the way of higher education.

The other needs of the University will never grow less than they are now. How those needs are to be met is a question to which only you have the answer. I believe it may be truthfully said that no church-related school in the United States has ever received completely adequate support from the denomination that fostered it. Those that have prospered have found individuals of means who were willing to invest their money in that best of all investments, the education of youth. Even the state supported colleges have found it difficult, if not impossible, to wring from a reluctant legislature what the colleges regard as adequate funds.

This condition is not likely to change. Indeed, if the present tendency toward Federal support of education continues, the privately endowed colleges are going to find their financial problems multiplied. A pat solution would be for the private schools to shut their doors or throw themselves into the all-encompassing arms of the Federal government. I hope I will not live to see the day when either of these things will happen. I believe that you share my views and believe that institutions such as ours have a necessary role to play in the scheme of American education, that in a very particular way we

CAN MERRICK LEAD SPIDERS OUT OF FOOTBALL WILDERNESS?

By LAURENCE LEONARD

Sports Editor, The Richmond News Leader

AMID the stately pines of the picturesque, rolling campus of the University of Richmond there is at present an important building program.

From this architectural work may come a new road that will lead from the football wilderness.

Carving the route of the destinies is a hard-headed, hard-working, confident 35-year-old, willing to look a job in the eye, pick up the loose strings and go out in an effort to lasso a wild steer.

Rougher the job, the better Edwin J. Merrick likes it.

That being the case Ed Merrick loves his present position. He is the man charged with the responsibilities of moving the Spiders into a position of football prominence.

Out of the mire that has been disastrous seasons is the goal at U. of R., and no man could face the arduous assignment with more zeal.

What Merrick can make out of nothing—or almost nothing—remains to be seen.

He has taken over the remnants of a squad that won only two out of ten games. One of those victories came over downtrodden Virginia Tech and the other over small, out-manned Randolph-Macon.

But Merrick, fortunately, does not have to depend upon the varsity remnants of a year ago alone. From the freshmen of last year, the present coaches feel they can expect worthy performances of seven or eight. To this they will add more than a dozen "topflight" high and prep schoolers of a year ago.

With all of this, the immediate conclusion would be that the outlook is starting to glitter. But don't be easily misled.

Richmond's road is a thorny one, and if Ed Merrick has his way the thorns will be more pronounced.

Why is it thorny now? Because the scholarship help given Merrick is not comparable with that of some—rather a majority—of the opponents.

Why is it likely to become even thornier? Because Ed Merrick doesn't want to go along on an idea of playing the smaller schools.

"You can make more money losing to Kentucky or Tennessee than you can when you get bumped off by somebody that doesn't count," Merrick says.

The result is that already Richmond has been included on the 1952 schedule of the University of Miami. That is just a beginner. In 1953 the Spiders will play one of the powers of the Southeastern Conference and may meet two of them. Shortly there will be announced the scheduling of the series with one of the Eastern purists.

Building up the schedule is just as important to Merrick as building up the team.

"So we might be lucky enough to get a good team," he explains. "What does it matter, if we haven't a respectable schedule for it to play?"

Already Merrick has altered the 1951 schedule and added three games since he took over in the spring. Wake Forest was returned to the schedule and George Washington will be played at Alexandria. Boston College was added.

There is a note of optimism at Richmond that stems from the enthusiasm of the new coach. Truth is, the optimism might be a little too sharp, for Merrick has been away from the college scene for four years while building winners at Fork Union Military Academy. He may have a tendency to under-rate some of the opponents.

The infectious enthusiasm of Merrick and his staff hit the Spider squad in spring practice. It was sharp and worked diligently.

When the spring work showed flaws, Merrick's job was to correct these flaws.

When convinced that the corrective measures were not available from the talent at hand, Merrick combed the highways and flushed a few likely young men who might be the answer.

Winning prep and high school teams were much in evidence as Merrick moved from town to town, from campus to campus. He took in the coal mines and the steel mills and when he talks about the young men he expects in September Merrick smiles a smile that more than indicates he expects something good.

Quarterback having been the point with less sharpness in the spring, it was given No. 1 priority in the talent hunt. The harvest was full.

Three talented young men of exceptional promise and one other with more than average ability.

Two of these, Billy Bauder and Chris Napoli, come from one of Pennsylvania's most productive football areas. Bauder, 5-feet-9-inches, 175 pounds, played at Bethlehem High School and was All-State. Napoli, 5-feet-10-inches, 175 pounds, is from Easton.

Bob Johnson, 6-feet-2-inches, 185 pounds, comes from West Virginia's coal mining section and passes with marked skill.

Brent Holder, 6-feet-2-inches, 170 pounds, stood out at Varina High School and was one of the more widely admired young men in Virginia's Group II football.

Four other backs whose talents were widely sought have told Merrick they will wear the Red and Blue.

Two of these, Bob Reilley, the fleet 165-pounds, 5-feet-11-inches, was the best ball George McDaniel, 170-pound, 6-foot Hope-well boy who has played on two unbeaten teams in as many years, were with Merrick at Fork Union. Another, Joe Hanlon, 170-pounds, 5-feet-11-inches, was the best ball carrier on a Kulpmont, Pa., High School team that lost only three games in two years.

The fourth, John Zupicich, 200-pound, 5-feet-10-inches from Coal Township, Pa., is modeled along the lines of a Sherman tank.

Zupicich visited Richmond several times in the spring. His tremendous power was pointed up in motion pictures of his team's games. John's work brought the team an undefeated record as Eastern Pennsylvania high school champions.

But backs alone cannot carry the Spiders upward. There were insufficient blocks from the guards in the spring. So Merrick and Line Coach Boyd Williams looked for strength there.

They've obtained Don Ingram, 210-pound,

Westhampton Alumnae Fund Sets New Record

SHOWING an increase of nearly $2,000 over last year, the 1951 Alumnae Fund has surpassed that of any previous year by a large amount. The total amount contributed in 1950-1951 was $7,690.50 as contrasted with $5,848.50 in 1949-1950 (which was, incidentally, more than had ever been given before). In addition to the $7,690.50 reported, there was another gift from one alumna of $2,500 to set up a special fund for Westhampton students. This brings the total giving for the year by Westhampton alumnae to $10,190.50.

The Alumnae Fund Committee, with Katherine Roberts Hesby, '32, as chairman, and Virginia Clore Johnson, '24, Margaret Leake, '31, Ruth Latimer, '45, and Cora Lynn Chaffee, '46, as members, deserves great credit for this excellent showing. In addition, the many class secretaries and group leaders who wrote letters to their classmates and in other ways assisted with the Fund, are greatly to be thanked.

One interesting fact is the increasing number of large gifts. In addition to the one contribution of $2,500 already mentioned, there was one gift of $1,250, and one of $1,000, several others of $200 and $100 apiece, and a great many gifts of $50 and $25. This is most encouraging, for large gifts are necessary if the swimming pool is to be built at any time in the near future, the Woodfin Memorial Fund to be built up to the point where grants to alumnae for research in history can be made, and our other projects carried out. It is only as we all work together and give to Westhampton to the limit of our means, whether it be $5 or $5,000, that we can achieve our goals.

Following are statistics on the 1950-1951 Alumnae Fund, and a complete list by classes of contributors.

Broaddus Heads Law Alumni

TO W. Richard Broaddus, Jr., of Martinsville, goes the honor of heading the Law School Association at a very momentous time in the School's history when the dream of a new building on the parent University of Richmond campus is soon to be realized.

He was elected by the largest gathering of alumni ever to attend the annual dinner meeting which was followed by a dance at the Hotel John Marshall. A member of the board of trustees of the University of Richmond, Mr. Broaddus is a past president of the University's Society of Alumni and of the Alumni Council. He is a member of the House of Delegates from Martinsville and Henry County.

W. Moscoe Huntley of Richmond was chosen vice-president; Thomas P. Bryan of Richmond, treasurer; and Virginia Ivey, executive secretary.

David J. Mays of Richmond, Wade S. Coates of Tazewell, and C. Lydon Harrell, Jr., of Norfolk, were elected to the Executive Council for three-year terms.

Judge Burnett Miller, Jr., of Culpeper, presided as toastmaster over the meeting, arrangements for which were made by a committee headed by Harold H. Dervishian.

President Modlin, after welcoming the alumni, told of the progress of the campaign to raise funds for the new law school building. He displayed the architect's drawing, which, if constructed as drawn with the two wings, would cost $400,000. The central portion without the wings, which would cost $200,000, provides for the library on the first floor with the courtroom above it. The building the University hopes to be able to construct would cost $300,000, whereas the ideal building would cost $400,000.

The University intends to let the contract for the building this year but, because of the military situation, construction might not be started by December. It will be begun as soon as permission can be obtained from the Government, and it is hoped that the new building will be ready for the Law School by September 1952, or not later than September, 1953.

Dean William T. Muse gave a progress report on the Law School, and then introduced Albert H. Cotton, a new full-time member of the faculty, who is a graduate of Duke University and of Yale Law School. He was employed for a number of years in administrative agencies in Washington, and last year taught at Louisiana State University.

The Dean pointed out that there has been an expected drop in enrollment during the past year; however, the enrollment during the coming year will not drop too drastically because under present regulations law school students are deferred as long as they stay in law school.

W. RICHARD BROADDUS, JR.

For the past three years, in the wills drafting contest among all the law schools in the State, our school has been honored by receiving third, second and first place, and in the contest on copyright law, our winner of last year is one of ten in the nation whose articles are being considered for publication.

Our law school has had better than average records on passing bar exams, not only exams in the State of Virginia, but exams in other states, particularly West Virginia where our record of 100 per cent is maintained.

After brief remarks by Robert J. Skahan, president of the Student Bar, on the activities of the students and their contribution to the building campaign, the Secretary read her report on the progress the alumni had made in their part of the campaign to raise $75,000 for the building fund. A total of $27,177.50 had been raised from 265 of the 800 law alumni, or a little more than one-third of the goal. (Note: $2,560 has been added since the annual meeting.) (The Special Gifts Committee has reported gifts of $30,000 from corporations and other non-alumni friends.)

Judge M. Ray Doubles, president of the Association and former Dean of the Law School, expressed his thanks to the alumni for their cooperation with the campaign. He pointed out that the law is a learned profession, and the public expects more of a lawyer than the handling of a case. The public expects him to be a leader in his community, to serve in the legislature, and to have a good knowledge of the law, and be among the political forces. The place for such training, he said, is on the campus of the University.

West Virginia Likes Our Law School

By VIRGINIA IVEY

MORE than one-third of the out-of-state students in the University of Richmond Law School come from the neighboring State of West Virginia—a circumstance which can be attributed both to the excellence of our school and to the similarity of the laws governing the two states.

Back in 1862 when the nation was torn by Civil War, the part of Virginia west of the Alleghenies tore itself away from the mother State and set up business as the sovereign State of West Virginia. The new State retained, however, the great body of common law of Virginia as a foundation on which to build its own law.

With this basic similarity in law and the adjacent position of the two states, it is natural that men and women in West Virginia should look first to Virginia when contemplating a law school outside their native State.

Our Law School can in no sense be termed a "local" school, although the great body of our students come from Virginia. Numbered among the alumni are men and women from as far west as New Mexico, Washington, and Hawaii, as far north as Maine, and as far south as Florida and Puerto Rico. Over the past few years almost one-fifth of the total enrollment has been out-of-state students, with as many as thirteen different states represented at one time.

Of these out-of-state students more than one-third have come from West Virginia. Almost without exception, these West Virginia graduates have established an excellent record in their bar examinations and in their accomplishments in their chosen fields of endeavor. Many are successfully engaged in the practice of law, and several of the more recent graduates have distinguished themselves in appointments to positions of public service.

Among these recent graduates is Charles Berkley Lilly. After receiving his LL.B. degree in 1947, he returned to his home at Beckley, W. Va., and entered practice in the

Placement Picture Bright For June Graduates

By CLARENCE J. GRAY, '33

Dean of Students, Richmond College and School of Business Administration

JOBS PLENTIFUL, salaries better than ever!

That is the job outlook for the 1951 graduates, as revealed in reports from college placement officers all over the country. Employment demand has reached record proportions in most fields since the beginning of the Korean crisis. The upsurge continues as employers recruit manpower for defense production, and the military services take their share. The placement picture is bright for the half million June graduates of colleges and universities. The field is wide open for men who are not subject to draft. Most of them have several offers from which to choose. Opportunities for women in business, industrial and government jobs are on the increase. Draft-eligible men and others subject to military call have met with rather strong employer resistance on occasion, but some companies continue to make offers to the better candidates without regard to their draft status. One company official pointed out that no promising young man would be turned down just because he might be subject to military call. Such interruption for military service, he emphasized, must be expected by industry in the future.

Salaries are at a new high. Countrywide, the average starting salary for graduates with bachelor degrees is about $250 a month. Many begin at $275 a month. The range is from $225 to $325 a month, with some offers in excess of that amount, particularly for technically trained personnel. During the past five years, average beginning salaries have increased from $20 to $50 a month.

A national survey of 150 well-known business and industrial concerns, conducted by Prof. Frank S. Endicott of Northwestern University, revealed that increased employment of college and university graduates was expected in the fields of engineering, chemistry, physics, accounting, general business, marketing, and production management. Opportunities in the fields of sales, banking, and teaching (especially in elementary schools) continue strong. Government positions have attracted both men and women graduates. Many liberal arts colleges report that their graduates are in greater demand than ever before.

Confusion about draft legislation and Selective Service policies, particularly in the early part of the session, had its effect upon the interest of seniors in placement activities. Attitudes ranged from "What's the use?" to "Let's look the field over and see what happens." Placement officers have had their hands full trying to focus the attention of draft-eligible men on long-range planning beyond the period of military service.

According to a recent survey, 51% of the June graduates in Richmond College and 12% of the School of Business class will enter graduate or professional schools. This represents an increase of 5% over last year in each of these divisions. About 12% of the RC class will enter the teaching profession, a slight decrease attributable in the main to the military situation. Business, industrial, and government jobs (including the armed forces) will absorb the remaining 37% of the RC class and 88% of the SBA class.

The number of employment calls has doubled last year's figure. Many seniors have been able to choose from two or more job offers. The demand for chemists and accountants exceeds the supply of available candidates.

As usual in this first installment on placements, the record is incomplete. The names of graduates who have tentative offers but who have not made final commitments will appear in a later story, if up-to-date information is made available to us.

GRADUATE AND PROFESSIONAL SCHOOLS

Actual acceptances for advanced training show that medicine again tops the list, followed by theological studies and business administration. Future candidates for the M.D. degree at the Medical College of Virginia include three Phi Beta Kappas: Bill Cassada (recipient of the first Garnett Ryland Award in Chemistry), Walter Draper, and George Reece. Others who will begin medical studies are Arthur Frazier, Stuart Nottingham, Robert Proctor, Bill Rusher, Frank Sasser, and Raleigh Wright, at the Medical College of Virginia; Fred Davis at the University of Virginia; and James G. Plackis, M.A., '51, who goes to McGill University, Toronto. Tom Harlow has been accepted by the School of Dentistry at the Medical College of Virginia, and Bill Rollings by the School of Pharmacy.

Walter Anderson, Phi Beta Kappa graduate and recipient of the S. C. Mitchell Award in History, will continue his theological studies at the College of the Bible, Lexington, Kentucky. Horace Twine will journey to Fort Worth, Texas, to enter the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. The Louisville contingent, to date, is made up of John Edmunds, M. Kenneth Russell, and Bill Stennett, who take up their studies at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary there. L. Burke Crowder, another Phi Beta Kappa member, has a full-time pastorate at Columbia, Virginia, and will postpone his seminary work for a while.

Willie Reams, research artist extraordinary, will carry forward his work in biology at the Johns Hopkins University. Our third-generation Spider and winner of a Phi Beta Kappa Key, John E. Williams, has been accepted for the Veterans Administration Four-Year Training Program for clinical psychologists at the State University of Iowa. Tom Garnett, retiring chairman of the RC Honor Council, has chosen the School of Social Work of the Richmond Professional Institute. Albert Murden has been awarded a scholarship for graduate work at Harvard. He hopes his draft board will permit him to accept.

Enrollees at the Graduate School of the University of Richmond include Howard Lum, John Hope, and James Abernathy. Phi Beta Kappa Adwin F. Green, the first RC student to receive the degree of B.S. in Public School Music, has started graduate work at the UR Summer School, and hopes to teach music in the Fall. Bill Hargis, UR graduate laboratory instructor in comparative anatomy this past session, received his Master's degree in June, and will go on for his doctorate at the Florida State University.

TEACHING POSITIONS

It is encouraging to report that the percentage of male students who expect to enter the teaching profession immediately after graduation has more than doubled in the past five years. This year's figure would be higher still if it were not for the military situation. Some candidates will enter the military services, others will start their graduate work sooner than they had originally planned.

Opportunities in the elementary field are still bright, with the prospect of even greater opportunities as enrollments rise and the supply of teachers is reduced by the call to defense industries or to the Armed Forces. There has already been some adjustment in the oversupply of secondary schoolteachers. It is expected that high school enrollments will show a gradual increase until the mid-1950's. Then a sharp rise, caused by the World War II children who will start high

BUSINESS ALUMNI ORGANIZE

The University of Richmond School of Business Administration Alumni Association began as an idea in the unprotected head (no hair) of Dean Miller. The Dean contacted a few alumni in regard to having a Business School Alumni Breakfast on June 2nd. The response was such that plans were made for the breakfast at the Hotel Jefferson.

Forty-two alumni and nine members of the faculty were present at the breakfast. We were both pleased and disappointed at the turnout—pleased that we at least made our guarantee to the hotel and disappointed at not seeing many of the fellows we had expected.

Dean Miller introduced our two distinguished guests, Paul Saunier, Jr., '40, and our good friend, President Modlin. They both had encouraging words to offer us as an infant group. The members of the faculty were introduced.

Walter (Bo) Nelson, '50, was elected president, Rudolph Hetzer, '50, vice-president, and William C. Farmer, '50, secretary-treasurer.

The breakfast was adjourned and everyone went out to the campus to spend a very hot day talking to old friends and watching our Spiders get stung by the Camp Pickett boys.

This was "D Day" for the Business School's Alumni Association, and as yet we aren't completely organized, but it will not be long. We hope to contact all the alumni and create a real interest for the newest group associated with our school.

It is the desire of the officers to get a complete and correct mailing list in order that we may inform you of our progress and of coming events. So drop us your correct address and any others that you have. You don't want to miss out on a single thing.

At present there aren't any policies or goals, but we hope to have them ready soon, so get those addresses in, so we can pass the good word on to you. Send them in to Dean Miller's office or to William C. Farmer, 1409 Pensacola Avenue, Richmond 22, Va.

school about that time, will create a greater demand for high school teachers until the time when enrollments level off.

A. T. Dudley has been teaching physics and general science at Glen Allen High School since he completed his degree requirements in February. Charles C. Bellos starts in the Fall at Highland Springs, where he will instruct in mechanical drawing and physical education. Hal Bonney, this year's winner of the J. Taylor Ellyson Medal in History, will teach history and English in the Norfolk County Public Schools. He will be joined there by James L. Holdaway. Other graduates who have accepted teaching positions are Warren Anderson, in Halifax County; Jim Britton, in Northumberland and Lancaster counties; Malcolm McConnell, in Warwick County High School; and Harry L. Holloway, Jr., M.A. '51, who will take up his duties at the Churchland High School in Norfolk County.

BUSINESS, INDUSTRY AND THE GOVERNMENT

The effect of the defense program is most noticeable in these areas. Appointments as physicists at the Naval Proving Grounds at Dahlgren, Virginia have been received by Kenneth Williams and Phi Beta Kappan James Sutherland. Ed Tyler will join the Engineering Department of the Glenn L. Martin Company, in Baltimore, Maryland. James P. Morgan has accepted a position as a dye-plant chemist at the Burlington Mills, Altavista, Virginia. Earle F. Worley will be engaged in office administration at Fort Lee, Miami, Florida, will be the headquarters of Lawrence Alexander as he assumes duties as a pilot with the Eastern Air Lines. James Seay is a co-ordinator at Byrd Field for the same line. Herbert Hunt will move off to Charlotte, North Carolina for a position in transportation.

Bruce Banks has returned to active duty with the United States Air Force. Johnny Thomas, RC Senior Class prexy, and Paul Garber expect to report for duty with the Air Force. Vernon Ford has postponed his plan to enter the teaching profession in order to qualify for Army O.C.S. Another Army man will be George Bruce. Bob Jennings will join the Navy, and Bob Johnson and Bill Neal the Marine Corps. An incomplete list of others expecting calls to military service includes Joseph Brooks, Lowell Brosky, Henry Cobb, Bill Cox, Ralph Graves, R. Y. S. Hallett, Keith Loury, Lewis Mock, Peyton Pollard, and Bob Stevens, who is reported to have signed recently to play professional baseball. Bob is another example of Athletic Director Mac Pitt's sound advice to young athletes: "Get your degree first!"

Graduates who have actually accepted business positions are numerically larger again this year in the field of sales and sales promotional work. Ed Whitlock, Jr., is with the Arabel Manufacturing Company, in Atlanta, while Sam Flannagan will enter sales work with the U. S. Rubber Company, in Charlottesville. Sales trainees in Richmond include Cary Davis, with Armour & Company; and Leo Schmidt, with General Mills. David Otey is selling for a Richmond jewelry concern. The Atlantic Refining Company has selected Wes Brown, president of the School of Business Administration Class of '51, and J. D. Lilly for the retail instructor program. Murrell Nuckols will enter supervisor training with the Albemarle Paper Manufacturing Company, here in Richmond. The Firestone Company has chosen William Davis for its retail training program, and Garland Long will devote himself to retailing with D. M. Boney & Company. Curtis Oakes will join our loyal alumnus, S. Frank Straus, '35, in the Virginia Independent Food Dealers Association.

Placements in the field of life insurance sales include Kenneth Motto, with the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company; E. Philip Crick, with the Prudential Insurance Company; and Warren Hawkins, with the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Company. Others who have selected the field of insurance are Quarles Bashaw, with the Virginia Life Insurance Company; Bill Claytor, who joins the A. B. Claytor Company, in Bedford, Virginia; and Herbert L. Jeffords, Jr. Claims adjusters and insurance investigators include Boyce Wornom,

STEPHENS SIGNS PRO CONTRACT

Spiders Second In State Race

Three members of the 1951 baseball team which took runner-up honors in the Old Dominion last spring were voted places on the all-State nine.

One of them, Bob Stephens, the Spiders' hard-hitting first sacker, signed a professional baseball contract with the Cleveland Indians a couple weeks after he received his degree of bachelor of science in business administration. He was sent to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Cleveland's farm in the Class B Three-I League.

For the third consecutive year he finished well above the .300 mark in hitting and was the unanimous choice of the Old Dominion's coaches for the place at first base and the further honor of captaining the mythical nine.

After hitting .338 as a sophomore and .375 last year, Bob had trouble finding the range at the start of the current season and it wasn't until the 11th game—against William and Mary—that he hit the .300 mark. He fattened this to .354 by the close of the season and drove in 22 runs as he led the Spiders in their game but futile quest of the State title.

An all-State berth also went to Jerry Frampton, the talented left-hander from Petersburg who finished with a mark of 6-2. Billy Mitchell, a former all-Stater who worked very little at the start of the season because of a sore arm, finished strong with a 4-0 record. The third all-Stater on the mound corps, Ralph Graves, who pitched the Spiders to the State championship the preceding year, was ineffective and won only one game while losing five.

The third all-State man on the Richmond team was Paul Loehr, the former Benedictine star and a transfer from Belmont Abbey, who did a great job patrolling left field. He hit .284 for the third highest mark on the team. (Ralph Owens, right fielder, hit .289.)

Mac Pitt's Spiders finished with an over-all record of 11 victories and 8 defeats and were in the thick of the fight for the State title and the championship of the northern half of the Southern Conference. A twin setback by the University of West Virginia Mountaineers dimmed Richmond's hopes for the Conference title and Virginia nosed out the Spiders, 3 to 2, in the last game of the season.

TWO TRACK RECORDS FALL

A University of Richmond track record which has stood since Hector was a small pup was erased from the record book by speedsters Walter (Baby) Nelms who set a record of 9.8 seconds in the 100-yard dash.

That same afternoon, at Quantico, Tommy Beane, a sophomore, ran the 220 in 22 seconds to erase two-tenths of a second from the record set by H. R. W. (Speedy) Vail back in 1932.

Until Nelms' flying feet set the new mark in the century no one had bettered the record of 10 seconds flat set by Olin Richardson in 1907. L. S. Liggan tied it in 1916, Virgil H. Goode tied it in 1926 and H. F. Hamilton ran a 10-second hundred the following year.

It was again tied in 1937, this time by Jack Bristow.

Although the Spiders lost three of their five meets with State opponents, the results of Fred Hardy's coaching were evident as he built the nucleus of what should be a winning team next year. The team's work-horse was Captain Murrell Nuckols who scored points for Richmond in the hurdles, the high jump and the pole vault. Richmond had a good miler in Joe Porter, a sophomore, and a very fast relay team in Tom Harlan, Sam White, Beane, and Bob Parsons.

In dual meets, Richmond lost to V.P.I., V.M.I., and Virginia, and defeated William and Mary and Hampden-Sydney.

with the Employers Mutual Insurance Company; Harry Hastings, with the National Surety Company; and Thomas Webb, with Liberty Mutual.

Professor William Warren, Placement Director of the School of Business, who has kindly supplied us with information on graduates of this newest division of the University, points to a noticeable increase in the demand for accountants, particularly in private accounting. Placements in accounting include Charles Neatour, with the E. R. Carpenter Company; A. D. Dodd, with the A. M. Pullen Company; and James S. Howell, with the Titmus Optical Lens Company, of Petersburg. Edward L. Harris will assume duties in accounting at the new Louise Obici Memorial Hospital in Suffolk. Field auditing for the Travelers Insurance Company will occupy the attention of Thomas O. Morris.

The First and Merchants National Bank has Giles C. Engledove, Jr., on its staff in credit work, and will start Bowman Taylor in a training program. Stuart Marsland will enter investment banking with Brooke and Company, of Philadelphia, while Robert Mann remains in Richmond as a banking examiner with the State Corporation Commission.

Jay Samuels has been placed with the Pictorial Offset Company, in New York. Bill Rock returns home to Kilmarnock, Virginia, for a position with W. A. Cox and Company. Bill Bannister remains in Richmond with the Southern States and Iron Roofing Company; likewise, Richard L. Gary, whose job is in office management with the American Oil Company. Ed Miltz has an interesting job as a technician in the department of visual education of the Baptist Foreign Mission Board, here in Richmond.

Two of the most enterprising '51 graduates are Sam Weiman and Ralph Owen. Sam will give full-time attention now to his duties as a partner in the Weiman Bros. Bakery, here in Richmond. Ralph will return to Jarratt, Virginia to go into farming with R. H. Parson. No food problem there!

In the next issue, we'll bring you the news on additional placements, including the plans of August graduates. The story will be complete—with your help.

guests of honor at luncheons held in Mill-hiser Gymnasium and in the dining room at Westhampton College. At the men's luncheon, announcement was made of the establishment of the Garnett Ryland ('92) prize to be awarded annually to the outstanding graduate in chemistry. Clarence E. Denoon, '34, chairman of the committee which sponsored the award, presented a scroll to Dr. Ryland who, in turn, made the presentation of the first award to William A. Cassada, Jr.

Medals to the three outstanding graduates of these divisions of the University were presented to James A. Payne, Jr., of Front Royal, Richmond College; William R. Newhouse of Chicago, Business School, and F. Elmore Butler of Richmond, the Law School.

Westhampton College honored a veteran teacher with the presentation of a silver plate to Miss Margaret Ross, professor of English at Westhampton College. The presentation was made at the annual meeting of the Westhampton College Alumnae Association. The alumnae elected Mrs. T. Preston Turner, '29, as president of the Association, succeeding Pollyanna Shepherd, '37, and Mrs. Louise Thompson Chewning, '37, as vice-president.

University of Richmond men elected the Rev. Vernon B. Richardson, '35, pastor of University Baptist Church in Baltimore, as president of the General Society. He succeeds Robert T. Marsh, Jr., '22, president of the First and Merchants Bank of Richmond. Dr. Reuben E. Alley, '22, of Richmond; G. Edmond Massie, III, '41, of Richmond, and David Nelson Sutton, '15, of West Point, Va., were chosen vice-presidents. The Rev. Joseph H. Cosby, '29, recently elected headmaster of Hargrave Military Academy, was named secretary, and J. Earle Dunford, Jr.,

'48, of Washington, and Wildman S. Kincheloe, Jr., '33, of Richmond were elected to the executive committee.

R. W. Nuckols, '21, of Richmond was re-elected to the Athletic Council.

Edward J. Fox, '17, of Washington was elected president of the Alumni Council. E. Claiborne Robins, '31, of Richmond, and S. Frank Straus, '35, of Richmond were chosen first and second vice-presidents, respectively, and Thaddeus T. Crump, '48, of Richmond, Watkins Fugate, '32, of Roanoke, R. E. Booker, '24, of Richmond, and Rev. Beecher L. Rhodes, '09, of Norfolk were elected to the executive committee.

Can Merrick

6-foot-1-inch transfer from Potomac State Junior College; Billy Thacker, 195-pound, 6-feet from Richmond's Glen Allen High School; Charles Bellis, 210-pound, 6-feet-1-inch from Easton, Pa., and John Stella, 210-pound, 5-feet-10-inches from Kulpmont, Pa.

Mike Potakavic, 210-pound, 5-feet-11-inch tackle from Bethlehem, Pa., and Wayne Leibeck, 195-pound, 6-feet-3-inch end from Camden, N. J., and Jack Buchinski, 185-pound, 6-feet-2-inch end from Kulpmont, are others to enroll in September.

Add these to three durable young men who matriculated in February and you have more than a faint idea of why there may be cause for a slight touch of optimism.

Star of the spring game was a rugged, immovable young man from Scranton, Pa. Scranton is in the high coal region and John Gavlick is just like that hard coal.

Gavlick came in from FUMA. He is quick-thinking and senses a play in its formative stage.

When U. of R. diehards saw Gavlick backing up the line as defensive center their thoughts faded back nearly twelve years—to that team of 1939 when a guy called Ed Merrick rendered similar service.

Merrick on Gavlick: "Whatever achievement a fellow named Merrick might have had at center will be eclipsed by Gavlick."

Less sensational than Gavlick but very formidable was Erik Christensen, 215-pound tackle from Woodbridge, N. J., via Fork Union, a detour that is becoming somewhat commonplace.

Gavlick, Christensen and Glenn Krumel, of Hopewell, a 170-pound, 6-feet-2-inch halfback, matriculated in February. They were not long on the campus before their deeds had made them well known.

Krumel and Corky Johns, 180 pounds from Pottsville, Pa., carried the ball with profound success in that Red and Blue game.

In fact, Johns looks like the most outstanding young man up from last year's freshman team. Others of that group showing promise are: Backs, Ed Elliott; Center, Al Pecuch; Guard, Frank D'Armi; Tackles, Sherwood Frostick and Walt Garcia; and End, Toby Bonds.

These young men will be fitted into a pattern that already includes Backs Billy Farris, Ralph Shoemaker, and Joe Purina, Tackle Leo Antonucci, Guards Tony Raccioppo and Vic Falls, and the center and captain-elect, Johnny Mac Brown.

These are the young men who will carry the burden of a new Richmond football team. They are the nucleus for the new building program, one that is being moulded for long-range production. Certainly it can hardly be a winner in one year—but there is hope aplenty.

Faith Of An Alumnus

preserve and transmit the "word of life and the light of knowledge."

Accordingly, we who have faith in the future of the University of Richmond must be constantly up and doing. I believe we increasingly are and will be. I remind you that your school enjoys today greater alumni support than it has ever known. An increasingly large number of alumni deserve and get great credit for the fine way in which they have responded to Alma Mater's call for assistance.

Fortunately, we do not have to depend entirely on our own small means. We have it always in our power to raise up friends for the institution. The older I get the more convinced I become that not a penny is contributed to the support of this school except through the direct or indirect influence of an alumnus. There is abundant proof of that in many of the tangible assets of the University.

I have faith that through an increasing alumni interest and support, we are going to get the badly needed income and buildings.

For some reason, whenever I think along these lines I am reminded of that conversation between Jesus and His disciples when He asked them if they, too, would leave Him. You will remember that Peter replied, "Lord to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life." In all reverence I say to you: We have none other to whom we may go. You have the words of life for your Alma Mater.

I try to refrain from casting myself in the role of the prophet; that of the Monday morning quarterback is much easier. I make these two prophecies, however: One is that the University of Richmond will never be perfect in every detail. I know of no human agency that is and it can hardly be the exception. The second prophecy is that the University will never be better than you, its alumni, make it.

Have faith in your school! Faith in all the meanings of that fine word. A pride in its glorious past, a belief in the performance of its present mission, and a confidence in its assured future.

Our Law School

law firm of Ashworth and Sanders. In addition to his enjoyment in solving the problems of his clients, Lilly's fees were lucrative enough to enable him to return to the annual Law School banquet and dance each year, and it was while he was in Richmond at the banquet last year that he was notified of his appointment as Assistant United States Attorney. Since then he has been pursuing his practice in Beckley three days a week and attending to his duties in his Government office eighty miles away in Charleston the other four days.

After finishing his degree requirements in January, 1948, second in his class, George W. Stokes was appointed Assistant Prosecuting Attorney in Welch, W. Va., where he effectively performed the duties of his office until he was made Assistant Attorney General for the State of West Virginia in January of 1950. His search for the most minute point of law to support his case has been so diligent and his arguments so convincing that the Supreme Court has felt compelled to uphold his side of the case in almost every instance.

Lorentz C. Hamilton, Jr., returned to his home in Grantsville, W. Va., after graduating in 1948, to engage in practice with his father, who has also been Prosecuting Attorney for a number of years. It was not long before "Ham" was Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, and now there is another member of the firm. His brother, Victor, received his LL.B. degree this June.

Homer W. Hanna, Jr., is a young man who has been quite fortunate in his meteoric rise in public life in the past year. He has recently been designated by Governor Patterson of West Virginia to a six-year term as a member of the Public Service Commission. At the age of twenty-five, he is one of the youngest members ever to serve on the Commission. The office is comparable to a position on the Virginia State Corporation Commission. After Homer was awarded his LL.B. degree from the Law School in 1949, he went to New York University to undertake graduate work and successfully completed his requirements for the Master of Laws degree in 1950. He was employed in the land department of the United States Fuel Gas Company until September, 1950, when he undertook the duties of his first public position, that of Assistant Attorney General, which he held until his recent appointment.

The male contingent does not have a corner on the law in West Virginia. There have been two husband and wife teams in Law School in recent years. This June Mr. A. Carl Carey, Jr., and his wife, Mrs. Mary K. Carey, received their LL.B. degrees in the same ceremony. This is the first time that husband and wife have been awarded degrees at the same time in the history of the University. Mrs. Carey is employed as Law Clerk in the Office of the Attorney General of West Virginia, where she will occasionally be assigned a case for argument before the Supreme Court. Her first argument is scheduled on the docket for August. Mr. Carey, a reserve captain in the infantry, had to report for active duty three days after Commencement to Fort Meade for classification and assignment. The other husband and wife team to obtain their law degrees were Mr. Edward B. Simms and his wife, Mrs. Virginia S. Simms, and they are now engaged in practice in Charleston. Mrs. Simms graduated in 1949, and Mr. Simms in 1950.

In 1940 Miss Ara L. Long of Pine Grove, W. Va., graduated in law. She has since married and is now Mrs. Sumney. For three years she was in private practice in West Virginia. During the war she accepted a position with the Office of the Housing Expediter for Southern West Virginia in Charleston; within the last two years she has been transferred and is with the same office in Washington, D. C.

These and others of West Virginia's sons and daughters, trained in our Law School, are leaving their mark on the legal records of their State and nation. The Law School will welcome others of their caliber from our neighboring states beyond the Alleghenies.

Commander John B. Kaufman is making his home in Coronado, Calif. since his retirement from the Medical Corps of the U. S. Navy where he served forty-one years.

1899—

The Rev. R. W. Neathery of Falconer, N. Y. writes that he and Alma Mater are building simultaneously. He is in the process of erecting a $75,000 building at the First Baptist Church where he has served as pastor for thirty-five years.

1900—

The Rev. Alan P. Wilson celebrated the fifty-first anniversary of his ordination into the ministry on April 15. On the same day his wife was ordained and will serve with him in Santa Rosa, Fla. She has assisted him in the services for some time since cataracts of the eyes have made it difficult for him to fulfill all of his pastoral duties. They both serve as independent missionaries in the Community Church which has a membership made up of ten different denominations.

Prof. A. C. Harlowe of Prestonsburg, Ky., recently celebrated his eighty-first birthday. Although he has retired from teaching, he is still active in his church where he serves as chairman of the board of deacons.

Since his retirement from the ministry Dr. J. W. Cammack has travelled extensively throughout the United States. At the present time he is in Tucson, Arizona. He continues to maintain a residence in Richmond where he spends the summer months.

1903—

Dr. William Thalheimer is assistant pathologist at the Grasslands Hospital, Valhalla, N. Y. He has written a number of articles for leading scientific journals.

Dr. Powhatan W. James has retired as president of Bethel Woman's College in Hopkinsville, Ky. He and his wife will move to Dallas, Texas, where he will devote his time to literary pursuits.

Dr. Jay B. Hubbell, '05, professor of American Literature at Duke University, has been honored with the degree of Doctor of Letters by Southern Methodist University in Dallas. The degree was a tribute to his fame as a teacher and writer and particularly his two-volume American Life in Literature which has been published by Harper & Brothers.

Editor, the ALUMNI BULLETIN:

Here is a pretty piece of wallpaper decoration for you—a colorful propaganda leaflet from the Red and Blue Club. I am returning it because it does not match my color scheme, and my wastebasket is already full. On it appears your name as Public Relations Director for the Athletic Staff. This does not disturb me nearly as much as the solicitous message signed by President Modlin, indicating top-echelon endorsement of the Red and Blue Club. This latter is enough to justify my complaining as an alumnus to you as the Alumni Secretary. Here is one alumnus who wishes that President Modlin would refrain from applauding such programs.

I will refrain from saying that this folder is a series of tri-colored non sequiturs. (Let the Red and Blue Club look that one up!) Still, there are a number of statements in this appeal for funds that will not hold water. May I take them up in order:

1. "... the Club will work to develop better football teams—to attract top-caliber students—in short, to insure a well-balanced athletic program that will be an asset to both the University of Richmond and the City of Richmond." By what obscure reasoning does the Red and Blue Club conclude that in building up the athletic program it will be attracting "top-caliber students"? Evidently the idea of attracting good students was a parenthetical afterthought on the part of whoever composed the text, since it is inserted between dashes and not further explained. In my brief experience very few "top-caliber students" have ever made the varsity. A few have, and this is rewarding. Many others have acquitted themselves admirably in competitive sports on a sub-varsity level. I am heartily in accord. But your Red and Blue Club suggests that the University of Richmond wants good athletes first. If the athletes happen to be good scholars—how fortunate! This is implicit in the preceding paragraph where it is said that the money will go "EXCLUSIVELY to the building up of the athletic program of the University." I would venture to say that the number of good students you could attract with an athletic program would be small indeed.

2. "A balanced program of intercollegiate athletics is a basic part of a sound educational system." True, but when is the program balanced? You might say that college exists for the undergraduate in two broad aspects: the academic and the social. Certainly the academic should be more important. And yet, within the past two months I have received two pleas for contributions to the University of Richmond. One strongly stressed the need for a Student Activities Building; the other bid for contributions, at "$100 or up," towards a better football team. I have not yet been officially impressed with the need for a better library—a very crying need, as I remember, and must the Baptists do it all?—for an increase in scholarships, for better faculty salaries, for an improved graduate program, for better classroom facilities in the humanities. Perhaps such necessities do not touch the sentimental alumnus as deeply as a victorious football game.

3. "Good football games draw good crowds . . ." So do bear baiting contests, Frank Sinatra, Congressional investigating committees and free beer. What part should a university play in drawing crowds? Decidedly a small one.

4. "Athletics and scholarship go hand in hand." This simply is not true. In my academic life at Richmond, Columbia and Princeton I have known very few real scholars who could make an off-tackle plunge, although many might pay to see someone else do it. So far as I know, Einstein does not attend football games. I do, when the price is not prohibitive, but you won't lure me into contributing a fat sum from my meager earnings to purchase better football games when so many other things need repairing first.

One final complaint: Nowhere in this red-white-and-blue literary effort does the Club indicate how it intends to spend the money it gets. What will you do with my "$100 or up"? Buy football players? Increase the coaches' salaries? Install foam rubber seats in the stadium? Pay Red and Blue Club officers? Some itemizing is in order. Presumably a contribution would entitle me to the six "privileges" listed on the back fold. Even in these inflationary times such privileges are expensive if I must pay "$100 or up" for them. Or even $10.

Sincerely,
PHILIP KEPPLER, JR.

Whitman: "He now occupies a conspicuous place in literary histories . . . and is generally recognized as one of the two or three most important American writers . . . But it cannot be said even today that his place is definitely fixed."

Dr. Hubbell was a member of the staff of Southern Methodist from 1915 to 1927 and for the last years of his stay there was E. A. Lilly Professor of English and editor of the Southwest Review.

Dr. Hubbell comes of a distinguished University of Richmond family. His brother, Paul E. Hubbell, '11, is now professor of history at Michigan State College at Ypsilanti. His father, the late Rev. David S. Hubbell, was also an alumnus.

Chief Justice Edward W. Hudgins, '05, of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals is within sixteen months of breaking a modern-day record for service on the Old Dominion's highest tribunal. In February 1952 he will have served on the bench of the Court for twenty-two years, eight months short of the record established by the chief justice who retired in 1946. Justice Hudgins was appointed in 1930 when the tribunal was increased from five to seven members.

The Chief Justice and Mrs. Hudgins are currently touring Europe where they are guests of their son, Commander William H. Hudgins, aide and flag lieutenant of Admiral Robert B. ## FREEMAN, GAINES H-S SPEAKERS

Two of the University of Richmond's most distinguished alumni, Dr. Douglas S. Freeman, '04, and Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines, '12, had the principal roles in the Hampden-Sydney College commencement on June 11.

Dr. Freeman, noted historian and author, delivered the commencement address, and Dr. Gaines, president of Washington and Lee University, spoke at the dedication of the new Frank Stoddert Johns auditorium.

In his address Dr. Freeman said that if "life is to be anything more than a race for the mass production of weapons increasingly destructive, the bewildered peoples of the turbulent mid-century must accept the restraints of religion, must learn more of the arts of self-government, and must have the inspiring solace of the humanities."

The honorary degree of Doctor of Science was conferred upon Dr. Freeman.

Supreme Court of Appeals is Associate Justice Willis D. Miller, '14, who is the only Richmonder in more than 100 years to be appointed to the tribunal. Justice Miller received the honorary degree of doctor of laws from Alma Mater in June.

1906—

Jesse F. Wood has retired as vice-president of the State Planters Bank and Trust Company in Richmond. He is a former president and secretary of the Richmond chapter, American Institute of Banking, and has served as instructor in banking and public relations courses. The first Christmas Savings Club in Richmond was begun by him some years ago. He was the first president of the Richmond First Club.

Sidney Fields writes entertainingly of Morris Sayre, '06, who has just retired as president of the Corn Products Refining Company after a long and distinguished career. He remains with the company in an advisory capacity, however, as vice chairman of the board.

Mr. Sayre, whom Fields thumbnails as a "tall grey man of 65, constantly delighted with the idea of being alive and working," has been hard at work ever since his undergraduate days when he sold stereoscopic views and operated a Summer boarding house in order to pay his college expenses.

After covering the four-year course in three years and winning both a B.A. and a B.S., he went to Lehigh for graduate study in engineering. Recently, Fields recounts, Mr. Sayre reread some of the letters he sent to his mother while he was an engineering student at Lehigh. In one of them he asked if she could dig up $12 for a blue serge suit because "I've worn right through the pants of the only suit I've got." In another he told her he was moving from the dormitory to a boarding house "because the food is better and I can have all the milk I want. But it's going to raise my board bill from $2.00 to $2.50 a week, and I'm going to have to work much harder."

"Work much harder" has been the motto of the man Sayre who started as a boiler washer at $75 a month and worked his way to the position of president of Corn Products Refining Company, now a $133,000,000 business.

His business genius and his high ethical conduct have won for him the universal respect of American business, which expressed confidence in his leadership by choosing him as president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

The same hard work he gave to extracurricular activities as a student—Mu Sigma Rho literary society, the Messenger, and the Collegian—he has given to the University as a member of its board of trustees. Active in alumni affairs, he has served as president of the General Society of Alumni.

Senator A. Willis Robertson, '07, a vigorous critic of Senator McCarthy's methods in attacking the State Department, has been chosen for appointment to the Senate Appropriations Committee to replace Senator McCarthy who is being "bumped" from this committee.

Mr. Robertson knows how it feels to be "bumped"—he was removed from the committee in 1949 when Senator Dulles, a Republican, succeeded Senator Wagner, a Democrat.

Press approval of Senator Robertson's elevation has been general. One editorialist pointed out that as a member for a decade of the House Ways and Means Committee—the most important committee in the lower branch of the national legislature—he became a recognized authority on taxation.

Dr. E. P. Wightman of Rochester, N. Y. writes that his son, Dr. Arthur S. Wightman, has been appointed Assistant Professor of Physics at Princeton University. He has also been awarded a National Research Council Fellowship to undertake a research problem at the University of Copenhagen, Denmark.

World Peace must begin in the minds of men, Kenley J. Clark, '09, superintendent of Mobile County (Ala.) schools, told the graduating class of Howard College at commencement last month.

He told the students that "there can be no innocent bystanders," that every right-minded person must add his voice to the clamor for brotherhood. He pointed out that "before the 19th century there had been no public discussions of world peace, but before the end of the century more than 400 peace organizations had been formed."

He urged a "world development movement," through the United Nations, "to help raise the pitifully low standard of living of the three-fourths of the world's population who are hungry and chronically sick from malnutrition."

The program, he conceded, would take "billions of money spent over a long period of years," but "it would make friends for democracy, something that war, spending trillions, could never do."

"If the United States could have the great honor of leading United Nations into a world development movement," he continued, "then we should indeed be fulfilling our destiny as the most prosperous nation and as one truly dedicated to democracy."

In recognition of his contributions to education, Howard College conferred on Mr. Clark the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

1909—

G. Edmond Massie, Jr., of Richmond, has announced his candidacy for one of Richmond's three seats in the Virginia State Senate. He has served as a member of the House of Delegates since 1944 and is a member of numerous committees including the Committee of Appropriations. He has stated that his major interests are education and public health, particularly in improving conditions for tubercular patients and in the State's mental hospitals.

An Atlantic crossing is just a ho-hum experience for Dr. George W. Sadler, '10, secretary of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board.

GARDNER, HICKERSON TO TOUR JAPAN

Two University of Richmond alumni, Dr. E. Norfleet Gardner, '14, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Henderson, N. C., and Dr. Clyde V. Hickerson, '20, pastor of the Barton Heights Baptist Church, Richmond, are among the seven distinguished ministers who will go on a preaching mission to Japan this fall.

Dr. Hickerson was invited by the foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist Convention to head the tour.

Others who will make the tour in addition to Dr. Hickerson and Dr. Gardner, are Dr. Monroe F. Swilley of Atlanta; Dr. M. Ray McKay of Little Rock, vice-president of the foreign mission board; Dr. John L. Slaughter of Birmingham and Dr. Roland Q. Leavell, president of the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Tex.

When he sailed from New York last month he was embarking upon his 25th crossing of the Atlantic Ocean. He planned to return July 18 after transacting mission business in England, France, Italy, Switzerland, Spain, Lebanon, Jordan, and Israel.

His packed program included laying a cornerstone for a building at Spurgeon's College in London, an address before a pastors' conference at the Baptist Theological Seminary at Zurich, Switzerland, and a visit to a missionary agricultural settlement near Tel Aviv.

On April 18 Prof. Titus W. Beasley, '18, head of the department of History and Government at Southwest Baptist College in Bolivar, Mo., had breakfast in Bolivar, lunch in Chicago, another lunch while flying high over Cleveland, and then ate dinner in a coffee shop in New York. In a week's time, thanks to the speed of air travel, he went from Bolivar to New York to Washington to Virginia and back to Bolivar.

The principal purpose of the trip was to attend the rededication of the statue of Simon Bolivar in New York City, a ceremony which Mr. Beasley attended as honorary consul of Venezuela. He was the guest of the General Venezuelan consul in New York, Antonio Davila-Delgado, and of the Minister of Foreign Relations of Venezuela, Dr. L. E. Gomez Ruiz.

Prof. Beasley took advantage of his trip East to visit a brother in Norfolk and another brother in his native Appomattox County.

Captain Irving T. Duke, USN, '22, is authority for the statement that the battleship Missouri which he commanded "did her job all right" in the Korean war.

The job included blasting Communist troops, installations and cities all up and down the coasts of Korea. The Missouri's gunners became such experts at the job that they "laid fire down within 400 yards of the Army spotter."

Aside from the climate, Korea is very much like Florida. "Imagine the Yankees in Jacksonville and the Confederates in Miami and you have the Korean war," he told reporters.

Captain Duke, who took command of the Missouri three months after she had gone aground off Old Point Comfort, is now stationed at the Naval Proving Ground at Dahlgren.

VAUGHAN GETS THE WORD

Editor, the ALUMNI BULLETIN:

My wife and I who now live in OHIO were visiting my mother last month in FLORIDA. While there a mutual friend of ours from our old home town in MICHIGAN came to see us. He brought a friend of his from ILLINOIS who owned a furniture factory in INDIANA, and who had a distributor in TEXAS. I was telling this friend about my college days in VIRGINIA and while talking about our thrilling game with Georgetown (WASHINGTON, D. C.), I mentioned Smitty Morris, our captain. The man from ILLINOIS said: "Could the Smitty you mention be Smithson Morris, our dealer in Fort Worth, TEXAS?" He was. Thanks to an eight-state round robin, Smitty and I are corresponding again after 15 years. He writes me that he ran into Roger Levertson, '35, and Owen Neathery, 35, in Dallas, TEXAS the other day.

Incidentally, Smitty has one daughter and no sons. I have three daughters and no sons. How's that for production of a former University of Richmond football captain and former University of Richmond boxing captain? Richmond will just have to get future material from some other source.

Sincerely,
FRED J. VAUGHAN, '35.

Westhampton Class Notes

You have received the Alumnae Letter enclosing the booklet on the state of the Alumnae Fund. Weren't you pleased with yourselves? 58.3% is not bad as compared with other classes is it? However we can do better and better. Your response to pleas for the Fund was handsome but what of news and letters?

There were two replies to the letters Elizabeth and I wrote. The first was the return of my letter to Mary Weaver Collins (Mrs. Roger Winslow) marked "unknown"—who knows her correct address?

The other response was a real one, a nice letter from Dot Gary Markey, who is living in Yonkers, N. Y. Dot's daughter, May, just turned sixteen, is doing well in school and in art. Of course none of her talents can be traced to Dot, they must stem from "Dad" John, who divides his time between teaching at Pace College and doing statistical research. There is also a son Ross who aspires to be either a musician or a wild Indian—perhaps his Social Studies teacher should have him study "Careers."

Dot's third book "With Sun In Our Blood" recently published, was the February Selection of the Liberty Book Club. The copy which she sent to the College Library is being passed around among a few of us before being relinquished to the Library.

Dot says her next novel based in Tidewater Virginia has some chapters dealing with our college days and to quote—"Friendly, I hasten to add. They were good years." Who would gainsay that? While Dot is modest about her accomplishments there is no reason for me to hide her light under a bushel or keep it out of the BULLETIN. She was elected to honorary life membership in the Mark Twain Society.

The fact that Jennie Phillips Le Sueur has a daughter at Westhampton should mean an occasional visit from Jennie but I have heard nothing from her. How about it Jennie?

Don't you think that when school or spring planting, or whatever it is that detains you, is over you should take half an hour to write your group leader a letter? Dot and I think a round robin would be wonderful.

Theresa Pollak has taken a leave of absence this year to do more painting, herself. The students of Mary Baldwin College selected her to be the first Virginia artist to have a one-man show at their college. They purchased for their permanent collection one of her paintings. Congratulations, Theresa! But that's not all! She had three paintings selected by the jury, from nearly 1,000 submitted for the 150 for the Virginia Artists Exhibition at the Virginia Museum. Her "City-Scape" was chosen as one of fourteen to be sent out as a traveling show throughout the state. She is giving much of her time and energy as Chairman of Promotion Committee of Linden Gallery.

"The Linden Gallery is an organization of about fifty artists of Richmond and other areas of the state who are cooperating in the venture of establishing and operating a gallery in Richmond. They are giving both time and money as well as making their work available to make the gallery a possibility."

Ruth Henderson was one of the two speakers at Commencement! Again '21 shines! Artist! Speaker and International Executive! Here's hoping we all heard Ruth and then got a chance to see Theresa's paintings!

(Note to the lesser members! What are your lines of interest this year? I know they must be worth telling! Come on, don't be so modest—Uncle Sam still carries mail for one or three cents! Do take the hint!)

As ever,
"SIS LITTLE"
(C. L. DUPUY)

1922—

Classes all around us but never '22 in the top ten. We possibly can't be top in amount of contributions but in percentage—well there's our goal—let's get busy!

I'm willing to be shocked by a letter or even a card from you—just a sentence of news.

Cissy writes that her daughter, Narcissa Daniel Hargroves, has been elected president of the Sophomore Class at Mount Holyoke College. That's wonderful. Congratulations, Narcissa!

Saw Zola and her husband at May Day. We had a few seconds together—and how grand that was. She looked fine and tho Mr. Leek had been sick some time ago, he's the picture of health now.

It was a pretty May Day though another wet one—Margaret's Jane was a mighty lovely Court Lady. My address is still 58 Gillis Road, Portsmouth, Va., so let me hear from you.

Love,
ELIZABETH.

Did you know that Eva Sanders is in America again? Inez Hite had a long letter from her recently, stating that she left Ire late in February to accompany a sick missionary home. Knowing Eva we feel sure that only such an urgent need would have taken her away from her work in Nigeria. From the time she boarded the plane in Lagos she has been amazed at the speed of this country. She laughingly says that even in church she can't keep up with the singing! Well, I'm glad she picked up enough "speed" to get to Commencement in June, for she certainly found many of her friends eager to see and talk to her. Meanwhile, her address while in this country is 3101 Woodlawn Ave., S. W., Roanoke, Virginia.

For all of the class of 1924 I want to extend sympathy to Frances Baldy in the loss of her father, the Rev. R. T. Waterfield, a retired Methodist minister, who died in April. Frances is still in Germany which must make this grief doubly hard to bear.

Carlene Broach Wagner writes that her daughter Patsy, who graduates from George Washington University in June, has set July 7 as the date of her wedding. Carlene fails to mention the name of her future son-in-law but writes that on the maternal side he is a descendant of the Masons of Virginia, so that makes it all right with me!

Did you notice in the Alumnae Fund statistics that our class rated seventh place in the top ten classes as to percentage of contributions? Thank you '24 for your fine response.

Do write me during the summer about vacations, trips, and everything.

You will all be interested in the note from Pat Atwill (Billie Gordon's daughter) about the baby cup we gave her when she graduated from Westhampton this June. The original cup was destroyed by fire some years ago. Pat says: "Please convey to the class of '25 my heartfelt thanks for their thoughtful and imaginative graduation gift. I don't know when I have been so pleased. You could not have chosen anything that would have been more appropriate or more wanted. You must have realized how heartbroken both of us were about the loss of the original—and now I have something tangible to prove that I am the class baby. Thank you all from the bottom of my heart."

We were distressed to hear that Billie's father died suddenly the week before Commencement. Our deep sympathy is extended to both Billie and Pat. They were in Richmond only long enough for Pat to get her degree.

Evelyn Boatwright Lynch writes that Gladys Wright Cocke, Emeline Stearns and Cathryn Henna were at the Alumnae luncheon at Westhampton during Commencement. As far as I know those four were our only representatives at that time. Evelyn expects to go to Maine for the summer as usual.

Billy Spangler Rogers and her husband sold their paper and had planned a trip east, but before their plans materialized her husband was taken ill with a coronary condition. They have now moved back to Weaverville and Billy expects to take her old job back as librarian.

Martha Lipscomb Walsh has been working on the Ryland chemistry prize—she was asked to represent Westhampton among the chemistry majors. She and Bob are back in Newark and Martha keeps busy with various activities. She is a member of the board of several charities, is vice-chairman of Volunteer Services in the Red Cross and active in the D.A.R.

Connie Christopoulos (now Mrs. Nicholas Georges) lives in Norfolk, and is active in civic and social work there. She has no children. Last summer she and her husband went to Europe and for the first time Connie saw her family home and relatives in Greece.

We heard of the death of Virginia Holladay shortly after the last BULLETIN was published. She died of a heart attack in Chattanooga, Tennessee, while on her way to Nashville for a physical check-up before returning to her missionary work in Africa.

GERTRUDE HARPER BEGGS

Miss Gertrude Harper Beggs died of a heart attack in Boulder, Colorado on April the eleventh. She was professor of Latin at Westhampton 1919-1920 and again from 1921 to 1933 after a year's leave of absence to teach in the University of Shanghai in China. After going to China a second time she spent her last years in Colorado.

Miss Beggs received her B.A. from the University of Denver. She was a Fellow of Yale University in 1903-1904 and received her Ph.D. the same year. She was a student in the American School of Classical Studies at Athens in 1912. She was granted the LL.D. degree from the University of Denver in 1914. From 1905 to 1914 she was professor of Greek and Latin at the University of Denver and from 1917 to 1919 she was dean of women and professor of Greek at the University of Minnesota.

Miss Beggs was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Mortar Board, and Pi Beta Phi. One of Westhampton's most scholarly teachers, she was an inspiration to clearer thinking and finer living and will be remembered by her students with affection and gratitude.

Miss Grace Landrum died in April, after a long illness, out in Ohio where her sister lives. We were speaking of her affectionately last year at the reunion and I know that you will be saddened to learn of her death.

Have a nice summer and let me have some news of you and your family in the fall.

MICKEY McVEIGH RATCLIFFE

I wish all of you could see Tom Rudd's new home—it is a dream. The setting is very rustic with a stream running thru the grounds, frisky squirrels, lovely trees, gorgeous birds and the loveliest view from a huge picture window. Her new address is 15 Towana Road. She extends a cordial welcome to you all to drop in for a coke and a chat whenever you can.

Roma's daughter, Jackie, is Secretary and Treasurer of the Alumnae Daughters Club of Westhampton. She looks exactly like Roma and I picked her out of a group without any difficulty. I know you are proud of her, Roma, and so are we all.

Miriam, whose husband had to come East on business, has been in Richmond visiting Jimmy. I haven't seen her yet but I hear they're having a grand time.

Our deepest sympathy to Helen Moon in the recent death of her mother.

I have had quite a few letters this time and am always so glad to hear from you. I wish that I could boast of a letter from each of you during my Secretaryship—I'll bet that would set a real record!

Mildred Pope Andersen, my old Bridge crony while we were in Norfolk, wrote me such a grand letter and says everything down her way is under control. Her daughter, Jane, who has been quite ill, is now on the road to complete recovery. Good work, Jane, keep it up.

Edmonia Burkholder Wilbourn also sent me a most interesting letter bringing me up to date on her activities since college days. Jim has a church in Clarksburg, W. Va. and you can reach them at 326 Rosemont Avenue. They have a daughter, Mary Libby, who is 14 and a freshman in High School. They have lived in five states and find that there are "wonderful, friendly, interesting folk everywhere." Monie is President of Woman's Work for her District and Vice-President of the Clarksburg Council of Church Women—add to this "slumber parties and get-togethers for Mary Libby's gang and it all adds up to a busy, interesting life." It all does sound interesting and very, very, happy and I look forward to hearing from you again soon.

Didn't you love the booklet the Alumnae Fund Committee sent out? It shows '29 is right in there pitching. Now how about a little more steam on the ball so that we can score a home run?

Love,
VIOLET.

P. S. As you can tell from that last paragraph I have a teen-age son who simply loves baseball—but I didn't realize it had such a hold on me, too!

1931—

The 20th reunion was a tremendous success. Twenty-eight of us came back: Miss Harris, Page Cauthorne Spellman, Virginia Beck Hargrove, Frances Givens, Lucie Francis Samuel, Anne Jones Berkholtz, Louise Sanford, Amelia Ullman, Carolina Beattie, Elizabeth Gill Minor, Lauretta Taylor Sullivan, Allene Pace Lecky, Phyllis Johnson Pope, Nancy Moseley, Alice Bristow Moessinger, Selma Rothschild Mann, Johnnie Adams Irby, Josephine Nunally, Elizabeth Curd Sheppard, Maud Mahaney, Tina High Begore, Frances Kerr Barnett, Hattie Hable Moeschler, Laura Thornhill, Frances Farmer, Gertrude Murrell Du Pont, Virginia Tabb Moore, Catherine Seay Spencer, Margaret Leake—and our class baby, Barbara Sullivan. We missed each one of you and talked about and discussed your letters. But some of you were entirely missing in news about yourself. It isn't too late to send in an account of yourself to date to go into our booklet begun at the 10th reunion. Send this to Carolina.

We started off with a bang with supper at Page Cauthorne Spellman's home with the Richmond group entertaining. Elizabeth Thomas who helped us through many trying ordeals with our references in the library was back with us for the occasion. There were 20 of us present. The weather was perfect, the spaghetti superb—so Miss Harris says—and we were very flattered to have the photographer come by to snap a picture of us all in action. Although no one would admit that they couldn't see a word of your letters in the fading twilight, some brave soul suggested that we might go inside to stronger light and memories exchanging.

The next day was spent at the college. Frances Farmer lived up to her reputation by making a delightful address in which she gave us some idea of the stupendous job she is doing in the University of Virginia Law Library. Luncheon followed and then the dinner that night.

The following day dawned—hot but with a nice breeze blowing. Miss Harris invited the girls staying at the college to come over to her apartment for breakfast. We all journeyed up to Elizabeth Gill Minor's for a lunch. Her home, about 25 miles west of Richmond, is situated in the rolling country and the ride up was a treat. Fifteen of us gathered for box lunches and we stayed and stayed and talked and talked. Elizabeth's daughter, Betsy, and Lauretta's daughter, Barbara, were with us. The weather was just right for all of our outdoor affairs—a trifle hot, but if you are interested in seeing evidence of all the gatherings, Carolina will have some snapshots, taken by various people. We plan to have prints made so if you weren't present and would like some, let her know.

And now we are all getting our breath and making plans for the 25th reunion when we will ALL be present. Am sure Carolina would be interested in having a volunteer for the planning job. She did a bang-up job of this one. Will give you some detailed news in the next issue.

1935—

Estelle Veazey Jones, Betsy Marston Sadler, Lola Williams Pierce, Harriet Walton, Sue Whittet Wilson, and I still hope to hear from you who have not yet responded to our letters that were written in March.

Margaret Walker Knowlton's whereabouts has been unknown for several years. Betsy's letter addressed to Margaret at 12 Dexter Street, Holyoke, Massachusetts, has not been returned, so we judge that is now her address.

I had a nice note from Katherine Grace; she lives in Port Washington, N. Y.

Helen Caulfield Ballard attended the A.A.U.W. Convention in Richmond, and an attractive picture of her was in one of the local papers.

Sue Whittet Wilson was chairman of her church's garden tour, which was both a financial and social success. Her son, Buddy, who was the first baby born to a member of our class, was awarded a medal by the Thomas Jefferson Cadet Corps as the best recruit in 1951 in his company.

Betsy Marston Sadler, no doubt, learned whether she has kept her youth or is getting older when she spent a weekend with her daughter's scout troop at Camp Pocahontas.

Harriet Walton had a combination job and vacation when she taught hockey for three weeks in June to Sargent College students at Peterborough, New Hampshire.

Estelle Veazey Jones thinks that Uncle Sam is not going to recall Don to the Navy, as they expected until recently. Their daughter, Stella Sue, has recovered from scarlet fever with no ill effects. Estelle is being promoted next year; she is leaving elementary work and will teach math and science at Hermitage School, Henrico County's new high school.

Mary Pat Love works at McGuire Hospital during the week and spends weekends in Kenbridge, where Arthur is raising tobacco between tobacco markets.

Majorie Puryear Carwile was in Richmond in April when she and her son visited her parents. Marjorie has been employed for a number of years by Sinclair Oil Company and lives at 4809 Hamilton Street, Edmonston, Maryland.

1937—

Alice (Bunte) Pownell and Jo Ann Kent Bouchard (class of '38) made a quick trip through Richmond this spring on their way to Williamsburg. Next time, Bunte, do plan to stop over—we'd all love to see you. Bunte is now living at 307 Second Street, Elkins, West Virginia and is a district administrator for the State Department of Welfare. She received her M.A. in psychiatric social work at R.P.I. in 1948.

Arnold and Rhoda Cornish Sparrow also made a surprise visit to Richmond on their way back to Brookhaven from meetings at the Oak Ridge Lab. It was truly delightful to see them again and hear

ESPECIALLY FOR YOU

For young men and women who are preparing themselves for business and professional careers, The Life Insurance Company of Virginia has designed a special plan which offers maximum protection at minimum cost.

If you cannot, just now, afford to own—on a regular plan—all the life insurance you need, but can look forward with reasonable assurance to a good future income, this special plan will ideally suit your needs.

Ask a Life of Virginia Representative to tell you about the many advantages of our Modified Life Plan.

about the boys (David, almost four, and Alan, a year old) and their new home. Rhoda is working part time with Arnold at the Brookhaven Lab.

Hope to see or hear from all of you soon.

Sincerely,

ELIZABETH ANGLE.

1938—

As you will notice, our class is doing its part in keeping the birthrate on the increase.

Way back on September 19 David Hamilton Goodman put in his appearance. He is the third child of Augusta Straus Goodman (ex '38) and her husband Bob. They also have an eight-year-old son and a daughter of six. At that time they were planning to move into a new home at Virginia Beach in November—address—106-88th Street.

Julia Gunter Davidson and Jim now boast a third son, Douglas McNeill, born January 5.

On January 9 the Charles H. Wheelers (Liz Darracott) welcomed a new arrival, William Darracott. They have two other children—Chuck, who is nearly eight and Anne who will be five about the same time.

Olive Messer Lewis and Gordon have a new son, William Latane, born in April. I enjoyed a brief visit with Olive while she was here in the Medical College Hospital, and she looked wonderful! This makes four children for the Lewises—one daughter and three sons.

Elizabeth Shaw Burchill and her husband Bert are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Jean Truby, born April 12. They also have an older child, a son.

Incidentally, those of you who desire University of Richmond baby rattles may obtain them by contacting Leslie Booker, Westhampton College Alumnae Office. Please designate your choice, pink or blue.

Hilda Kirby is doing secretarial work for the E.C.A. She left last November for Ankara, Turkey, and if the Marshall Plan continues, she will be there for two years. Sounds quite exciting to us "homemakers" back here in the U.S.A.

The Noltings have really been celebrating these last few weeks. March 21 not only ushered in spring for us, but a series of viruses as well. Since then we've had 3 cases of chicken pox, 3 cases of German measles and 1 each of red measles and mumps. At present we're having the second cases of those last mentioned. Some fun! However, our boys have come thru remarkably well. I know some of the rest of you have been having similar experiences.

A nice long letter from Adele Maxie Riddick brings the following news: "Being 10,000 miles away from home myself, it is rather hard for me to keep up with the goings-on of the class, but I can give a report on myself, Nancy Orthey Rowan and Virginia Russell. I am now living in a quaint little 5 room quonset hut in Okinawa with my husband, who is the assistant mess sergeant at the officers' club here, and my daughter who is a 4 year old terror. Ginny Russell, who was formerly employed by the Public Information Office of the Army here where she wrote features and women's news for the tri-weekly newspaper and gave a weekly broadcast about women on our local radio station, is now working for Barclay Co., a large export and import concern. She returned from a visit to the princess of Thailand—that's old Siam—a few weeks ago and is now living with me until she gets her own quarters with her employers. The building of her home has been delayed several times because of the torrents of rain we have in April and recently by the holiday for "mamazan's bones," which is a queer Okinawan religious custom consisting of having the youngest daughter in the family scrape what meat remains on the bones of a body after it has been cut up and left to decay in the tomb for about a year so they can be kept on the family altar in a vase. At present Ginny handles most of her business over the cables and through the mail, but as soon as her passport comes through she will be able to travel through India, Japan, Hong Kong and other Far East countries to contact her customers personally. She has friends among the native royalty in all these countries and should find her position most interesting. In contrast to Ginny's life of travel and excitement, Nancy is leading a calm, happy life with her husband, 6 year old daughter and 3 year old son in her lovely little home in Arlington, Va.

"I said Nancy was leading a calm life, but I really should not have made such a bold statement about anyone with two children. One daughter is enough to see that my life is anything but calm. Ginny and I gave a birthday party for Sharon—my daughter—last Thursday and bedlam prevailed. There were 17 children between the ages of 2 and 9 who all had to stay inside the house because of the usual rain, plus 3 maids who accompanied some of the smaller children, my own maid, Ginny, another friend and myself—just 24 of us in those 5 rooms. Besides, Ginny managed to obtain horns, ticklers, stuffed animals, confetti and other such party favors from Barclay Co. These simple favors which are the usual party fare in the States are most unusual on Okinawa, and the kids were delirious with joy and wanted to stay on indefinitely after the party was over. They are still talking about the party as the biggest event in their lives on Okinawa.

"In case you ever help the Richmond College classes out with their news, Capt. Donald Trump, also in the class of '38, is now an Army chaplain in Korea. He bought a home in Ettrick, Va. while stationed at Camp Lee, and his wife, Bertie, and his daughter Diane, who is almost one, are living there now waiting for him and expecting another baby in August. Bertie is not a Westhamptonite herself, but she has given us another prospective future Westhamptonite anyhow.

"So far we have no idea when my husband's tour of duty in Okinawa will be finished, but I am sincerely hoping it will be sometime when we can be in Virginia to attend a class reunion since we are naturally going to take a trip back to visit families and friends on our return from the Pacific, no matter where we may be stationed. Perhaps in the near future at one of the reunions one of the alumnae living in Richmond can have a little party for all the class young fry where they can meet their prospective collegemates and we can all admire our exclassmates' children while secretly thinking our own is the smartest and cutest of all.

"I am enclosing a small money order to try to help our class percentage of contributing alumnae. Please let us have some news of our class in the next BULLETIN. That's the only way I have of keeping up with most of the girls."

Remember your alumnae fund! It's not yet too late to send in your contribution for this year.

Help Wanted

An assistant in the Alumnae office who can type and take dictation is needed. If you have attended Westhampton, and would like to work for the alumnae four hours a day, please contact Mrs. R. E. Booker at 4530 East Seminary Avenue, phone 4-8551, at once.

So-long until next fall, and let one of us hear from you during the summer, either Doug Baldwin, Jo Cosby, Khaki Leake or me.

PEGGY NOLTING
Rt. 8, Box 658
Richmond, Va.

1940—

It hardly seems possible that a whole year has passed since our reunion last spring, and I only wish as many of us could have the fun of getting together this year. I am sorry that I will not be able to attend any of the Alumnae Day functions on June 2, but am to have the pleasure that day of being a bridesmaid in Dot Duke's wedding to Frank Madden. The wedding will take place at three o'clock at St. Paul's Catholic Church, and after the reception the bride and groom will leave for a northern wedding trip which will take them through New England and up into Canada. Our best wishes to the newlyweds!

It is always a pleasure, but never a surprise, to hear that Dell Williams Smith is filling a place of leadership. Dell is the new president of the Thomas Jefferson Junior Woman's Club. Also serving as an officer is Connie Atkisson Holloway, newly elected second vice-president. Dell and Connie recently attended a meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs at the Shoreham Hotel in Washington.

I was interested to learn that Ann Ellis Harrison has been made president of the Nostrae Filiae Alumnae Chapter. There was a recent meeting of the Chapter at a tea, at which time Miss Keller reviewed Frances Parkinson Keyes' Joy Street.

I am just catching up with the news about Mary Sue Carter. She was married last August to Gene Patterson, of New York City, where they are now

If it is made by FOSTER STUDIO there will be living. Gene is night desk editor for U. P. Our best wishes to both of you, Mary Sue.

There are two new baby girls to tell you about. Fontaine Davenport Reid was born April 27 at the Medical College of Virginia Hospital to Jane Davenport Reid and Emmett. Fontaine is their second child, the first being a boy who is now around five years old, I believe. The other new baby is the daughter of Libby Johnson Alvis and Frank. She was born March 26 and is named Nancy Ryals Alvis. I saw Libby in town a few weeks ago. She's looking fine in spite of having her hands full with three children. They had not yet moved into their new home at that time, but hoped to get in within a few weeks. Their new address will be 1305 Alger Road.

I understand that Frances Bailey Gill and her family are moving into her family's house. It seems that Dr. Bailey has been in New Mexico for a while and Mrs. Bailey is joining him there. I don't know how long Frances will be there, but for the present her address is 27 Willway Road.

I saw Patsy Joblin on the bus the other day and enjoyed chatting with her. I also talked with Lucy Baird, who was getting ready to leave for the Preakness in Maryland.

Dell and I had a good time (at times a rather "hectic" time) working on the card party in April. It was quite a successful party and will probably be an annual occurrence. I hope those of you who missed it this year certainly won't miss it next year. Among the Forties there were Pauline Cortopassi, Lucy Baird, Dot Duke, Anne Ellis Harrison, Elsie Mattingly Dickinson, and of course Dell and I.

Hope all of you have a grand summer, and don't forget that I'm interested in hearing from each of you.

Sincerely,
KITTY LYLE
2920 Noble Avenue

Here we are sailing along with plans for a gala reunion and by the time you read this all will be over but the friendships we hold fast. Wish I could foresee the weekend and tell you who "came" but that will be the pleasant task of your new Class Secretary.

The class benefit in the home of Mayme's family was quite a success from every standpoint but financially. However we did raise a little money for a gift to College and those present had a fine evening. Representing '41 were Miss Rivenburg, Jean Dickinson, Mary Bass, Louise Morrissey, Henrietta Ellwanger, Margaret Wrenn, Mayme and I. Also present were Dr. and Mrs. Smart. Commander Kessler was entertaining and the musical part of the evening was delightful. Our thanks to the artists, Lillian Baker and Harry Fore, for their attractive musical arrangements. Sorry others of you in Richmond vicinity couldn't be there.

I promised a list of more babies and proud parents so here they are. Strangely enough all are girls.

To go back a little over a year I'd like to announce Betty Anne Harris who arrived April 3, 1951. Frances and Jim live in Dover, New Jersey and through Frances I learned of another baby, Moira Ann Hegarty, daughter of Bernice Stephenson Hegarty and Richard. Her address is 475 Maidstone Road, Gillingham, Kent, England. Bernice's husband is in the British Navy.

Smitty and Rex Tillotson have a daughter, Mary Susan, born on May 9 and weighing seven and one half pounds.

Phyllis Coghill Brown and Roy have a second daughter born in April. Her name is Maria.

Teeny Evans Hardin and Bristow have a second daughter, too. I don't know her name or birthday, but I understand Teeny and Bristow are living at Virginia Beach.

Sorry to have regrets from some of you who can't come back in June. Frances Willey Harris wrote that she couldn't come since she has had a spring visit in Richmond. Betty Acker Gillespie wrote she'd be unable to attend. Her new address is 2 Princeton Road, Cynwyd, Pa. (Mrs. Chandler Gillespie). Margaret Brittingham Curtice is coming all the way from Salt Lake City.

Holden Slipek and Ed plan to be back. Ed is the Trial Justice in King George County. I haven't heard from Eleanor Kindell Miller, but hope she has returned to the States. Did I mention her new daughter in a previous BULLETIN? Leslie Ann was born on October 10. Paul Watson is back in the Service, but hope to see Jeanne at all of our get-togethers.

Every day brings a few more letters. Now if I can just find time to collect a few girls to help me, I'll get your questionnaires pasted in our scrapbook.

My best wishes always for each one of you. If each of you takes a turn at being Class Secretary, I'll be an ancient old lady before my time rolls around again and you have to read my letters.

Always,
ANTOINETTE.

News is a scarce commodity this time. We would love to hear from more of you.

Recent visitors to Richmond from Dayton, Ohio were Ethne Flanagan Higginbotham and Lee. Evelyn McAuley Winston was here from Danville, Virginia, with York, now four, and daughter Sharon who is fifteen months old. Norma Palmer Cogbill saw Evelyn and found out that they had moved into their new house and she had revived her interest in puppets. She often entertains children in the nursery during church services. How about your new address, Evelyn?

Mary Grace Scherer Taylor, Ann Robey Gaudling, Sally Gonzalez Seavers, Jane Maire Massie and I were at the Alumnae meeting at Varina. We wish more of you local girls would be active in the Richmond chapter.

Frances Calisch Rothenberg's son Paul was in May Day at Collegiate with Ethel Levine Bass's child. Our children are growing up. Just think, the class baby, Teddy, is eight. I scanned through the records this morning as the breakfast club was on the air and found records of forty-two boys and forty girls. I wish we had eighty-two pictures for the scrapbook.

Mary Virginia Mangum Arrington and daughter Sherrill Bruce visited Mrs. Mangum in Cleveland recently. They now have a cabin cruiser which Bruce keeps at Gloucester.

Karl and I went over to Petersburg to see Rosalie Want Jacobs and Boy. Rosalie had just finished a beautiful job of redecorating the house. She had seen Jean Hood Redford who is planning to leave soon to join Chan in Germany.

We congratulate Jayne Maire Massie as she begins her duties as junior vice-president of the Fifth District, Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs. She was also chosen outstanding junior in the Brook Run Junior Club. Sally Seavers is historian of the same club and also president of the Richmond Chapter Mortar Board Alumnae.

Harriet Howe Byrider was here to be in Jean Beck's wedding. I also saw Ann Frank Patterson in town.

Joanne Barlow Williams has moved into her new home in Windsor Farms. Sally Seavers' new address is 2908 Maplewood Road in Lakeside. Sally had a card from Lillian Jung who was vacationing in Florida.

May Thayer Holt and Douglas were proud parents recently at the christening of Morris. Mary Owen Bass was godmother.

I won't take all the blame for the lack of news. Let me hear from all of you soon.

Sincerely,
ANN PAVEY GARRETT

Just a wee bit of news this time. There just doesn't seem to be much happening now, or rather it never gets to me.

Ann Stansbury and her little ones have come back to Richmond to live, since Warren is again in the service. The last I heard he was at Oakland, California, hoping to get to Norfolk in July.

Millie, Skee and Courtney spent a weekend in February with Evermond. In spite of the ice and the difficulty they had getting there, Millie said it was well worth the trouble.

Dot Hill called while she was in Richmond with Stony, who was delegating with the dentists. Molly had visited her in February. Kirky is keeping house and hopes to be in Chapel Hill this summer while Walt continues his studying. Gene Shepard Keever is teaching math and science at Churchland.

Arriving just a bit past the last deadline was news of Buttsie Muller's wedding to John Goldsmith, December 23. One Westhamptonite, Dolly Lederer Maass, was a bridesmaid. Buttsie continues to work for the Book-of-the-Month Club and keep an apartment on Central Park Avenue. John is with the advertising department of Sonotone Corporation. He served with the Army infantry for four years and is now on inactive duty as a captain.

Helen and Tom Patrick have moved to Bridgeport, W. Va. Tom was transferred from the Richmond to the Charles Town plant of Southern States Corporation. Life is different out there, to say the least, says Helen.

This will be my last letter as class secretary. Ann Burcher Stansbury, who is back in Richmond now, has agreed to serve as your secretary for a while, so send all the news you know to her. Her address is Mrs. Warren A. Stansbury, 5814 Guthrie Ave., Richmond, Virginia.

We were all happy to hear of Bitsy Rosenbaum's marriage to Dr. Henry Hurwitz, Jr. on April 15. Their address is DeWinter Building, Apartment 8, Dorwaldt Boulevard, Schenectady, New York. The best of everything to you, Bitsy.

Betty and Eddie Adair are the parents of a daughter, born April 5. Her name is Marion Templeton Adair, and you should have seen the birth announcements, in case you didn't. They were in the form of a miniature life insurance policy. Very appropriate, since the baby's pop is an insurance man!

Doris Mills sent a wonderful letter just chock full of news about her. She is working in Atlanta as secretary to a man who has an export firm and is also president of a large cotton waste organization. Doris is intrigued with Atlanta—says the symphony orchestra is excellent. Her address is 2214 Peachtree Road, N. E., Apt. 2. She says to send her love to all the girls in our class.

Gin and Guy Friddell are also parents now. Their son, Guy, Jr., was born April 27, and all three are doing quite well. Congratulations! The baby weighed 8 pounds, 4 ounces at birth, by the way.

Had a letter from Conway, saying that their daughter, Linda Lee, is getting to be a great big girl now. She and Van are planning to move into a house sometime soon. They may already be in. Let me know your new address, Conway. She also says that Van is crazy about his work up there.

According to Conway, Alice Gray is up to her neck in Junior Woman's Club work these days.

Also had a long letter from Libby Kibler Keihn. She is taking courses at Syracuse University, trying to get her M.A. so she can teach there. Fred is still in school up there, working toward his Ph.D. Her address is 803 Comstock Ave., Syracuse.

Please let me hear from you soon. My address is still 4418 Walmsley Blvd., Richmond 24, and I'm always glad to get any news from anyone. If you're not doing anything yourself that you consider important, tell me about someone else who is.

And don't forget, we're still planning that picnic for sometime this summer.

Love,

1946—

The news for this issue is quite sparse but after our June Reunion there should be lots to tell you.

Pat Williams wrote me a short note recently telling of her approaching marriage to Robert W. Burnett of Rundel Park. He is a member of this year's graduating class at the University of Rochester. He served four years in the Air Force and was discharged with the rank of captain. Pat's the director of occupational therapy at Grasslands Hospital, Valhalla. She says they'll be married on August 4 in Rochester and will be living there at least for a while. Our very best wishes go to them both.

Jeanne (Pebworth) and Charlie Gammon announced the birth of their baby daughter recently, Allison Ray, born April 17, weighing 6 pounds 12.5 ounces. Though it's a trifle early for predictions—Jeanne says her hair shows reddish tendencies, her eyes probably will be brown since they are very dark and she's a fair-skinned Westhampton prospect.

Ruth Smith Tschau (Mrs. Donald N.) and Don are living in Drexel Hill, Pennsylvania—646 Childs Avenue. Don's practice is there now and they're quite happy to be together again. I thought perhaps you'd like to correct the addresses on the lists which Connie sent out—giving names and addresses of all our classmates. If perchance, any of you failed to receive your copy, please advise Connie or me and we will try to see that you get one. We'd also appreciate any corrections you might have.

Bev Ryland bumped into Nancy Todd Lewis in Richmond and discovered Nancy's address is Hobbsville, N. C. I had heard she and Bibby were in Carolina felling timber but didn't know exactly where.

Mary Lou (Willis) and "T" Bareford are living in Petersburg. "T," back in the Army, is an instructor at Fort Lee.

Bev and her mother are planning a tour to Central America this summer. She's one gal who never lets the grass grow under her feet in summer. Will be anxious to hear all about it—first hand.

Jean White Robeson had a brief siege of thyroiditis, "a rare and easily curable inflammation that does not affect the gland's functions"—this spring and Grandmother White had a great time keeping Martha. As of April, Martha had stood alone for  $\frac{7}{8}$  seconds but still seemed to prefer crawling to any other type of navigation.

Connie Reid Rowlett, Marian Lawton Kinzey and Amy Hickerson Dalton have been most diligent about planning our Reunion for this spring and I'm sure we all wish to thank them and any others who've been instrumental in preparing for the weekend. Our thanks especially go to Connie for the list of class members, and if at all possible let's attempt to keep it 100% up to date.

That's all for this time. Do hope each of you has a pleasant summer and that lots of you were able to go to Richmond, June first.

Love,
ALTA.

P. S.
Dear '46ers,

We certainly missed all of you who were not present at our reunion. You were with us in thought for a part of the class could not meet without recalling each member. There were twenty-five at the dinner Friday night. Gale Abbot and Ellen Hodges Sawall traveled the greatest distance to be with us. Gale had some pictures of her little girl, and what a darling she is! She said that Jeanne Sasser wanted to come but the distance from Georgia was too great. Sue, too, has a little girl. Ellen's two daughters are five and two. They live in Wisconsin where Warren is busily engaged in politics for the Democratic party. Nancy Todd Lewis and Connie Reid Rowlett traveled from North Carolina. Nancy is a busy housewife and Connie, in addition to her housekeeping duties, works for the telephone company in Charlotte. She had pictures of little Mark, Pat Husbands Berton's small son.

Jean White Robeson came down from Copley Hill at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville where she keeps house for her husband and baby girl. She told us Jackie Hodges is now the mother of three youngsters. Nooky Richardson was there and said she had taught school the past season. Mary Lou Willis Bareford came from Petersburg where she is living since her husband has been stationed at Camp Lee. Bev Ryland arrived from Lexington and her school teaching duties there in time for the dinner.

Jeanne Pebworth Gammon traveled from Norfolk with her six-week-old daughter. She visited Lola Carter Goodell and her little girl. The Goodells are proud owners of not only two automobiles but an airplane as well! Mary Frances Bethel Wood came from Portsmouth where she is active in club work and this past winter substituted in high school. Zu Anderson drove down from Arlington, Va., where she is employed in the county health department. Ann Ware Frye and Joyce Eubank were unable to come from Washington in time to be present at the dinner Friday night but were at the luncheon Saturday. Anne has an apartment right near the school in which she teaches which is very convenient. She and Joyce kept us confused with their time as they have daylight saving time at their home.

Then there were the Richmond girls there who were fortunate not to have to travel in the heat to be present. Cora Lynn Chaffee has completed her studies at R.P.I. and after a month's vacation at Virginia Beach will return to Richmond to work. Virginia Gibson Stewart has found time to redecorate her new apartment, in addition to her job at the Research Department of the American Tobacco Company. Lucy Harvie and Caroline Goode are two career girls at the Medical College. Jeanne Yeamans and Lelia Phillips are career girls, too, for Miller and Rhoads. They have been harmoniz-ing their voices and entertained us with some of their songs at the dinner. Frances Anne Beale is a librarian in the public library where she helps boys and girls select their books. Marjorie Webb is a school teacher. Barbara Richie Branch and Amy Hickerson Dalton have careers plus being housewives. Barbara teaches school at Midlothian while Amy is employed at a bank here in Richmond. Amy invited the class to her home for a lovely tea on Sunday afternoon. There we got acquainted with Anne Harris Wood's small son who visited us awhile.

Libby Thompson Schmidt has a little girl five months old. She stays busy taking care of her and making plans for her new home which should be completed this fall.

In addition to catching up with what we had been doing for the past few years there were a few business items to be discussed. We agreed to send some of the money in the treasury to Mrs. Booker to be used for the Maud Woodfin Memorial. And, of course, we decided to have another reunion in '56, our tenth. Let's all plan to be there then!

Sincerely,
MARION KINZEY.

There is little news this time. The letters from you all get fewer and farther between—please, please write one of us and let us know what you are doing, etc.

We got a grand letter from Beth just after the last letter went to press. By the time this BULLETIN comes out she will be back south of the Mason-Dixon—she is taking a medical internship at Duke University Hospital which will last one year. As reported in our last letter Julia Dickinson also graduated from med school this June so '47 now has two M.D.'s. Congratulations to both of you! Beth reported some news about Twyla Jo Newhouse. She is living in Columbus, Ohio, and is engaged and hoping to be married "in the very near future." She is teaching two classes of freshmen in speech at Ohio State University and getting her M.A. at the same time. So good to hear news of her.

We also got a letter from Dottie James Foster telling us about the arrival of their second son, Richard Edward, on March 31st. Dottie says that her two sons, Darrell and Dickie, really keep her busy. She and Junie love their church and seem to really be enjoying Norfolk. She went to a W.C. alumnae club meeting in Norfolk but didn't see anyone from '47 there—where were you girls?

All of you will be glad to know that Ollie is back in the States. She and her two children, Alston and Hal, came up from Panama on a naval transport and are staying in Philadelphia with Hank's family until he gets his orders and joins them here. Ollie, we just hope they will station you near Richmond so we can see you once in a while at least.

Mimi is really sparkling these days! A diamond on that third finger, left hand has really put the sparkle in her eyes. The lucky man is Jack Horgan who works for the Federal Reserve Bank here in Richmond. They are planning to be married in September. Pat Guild is also sporting a diamond. She and Robby are planning a fall wedding also. Robby works for the same airlines that Pat does. They have found a small house near Norfolk and will settle there—for a few years at least. As you know, Betty Brown became Mrs. "Buddy" Parsons on April 14, in a beautiful wedding here in Richmond. Betty was a beautiful bride as we knew she would be. She is continuing to work at MCV where she is a psychologist.

Martha Jeter is now working in the Outpatient Clinic of MCV doing some statistical work. She plans to take the State exam for Employment Interviewers and hopes to get a job with them. I'm sure we all wish her the best of luck in anything she does.

Carolyn Marsh has left her alma mater and is now in the Personnel Department of Miller and Rhoads. Sounds interesting, Carolyn. Keeling Coles is sporting a new car these days—a green Plymouth—that's grand, Keeling. Now you have no excuse for not visiting some of your classmates! Lena and Holmes also have a new car—a Chevrolet—and, although we have had no definite word, they were to have left Fort Belvoir and gone back to Missouri. Let's hear from you, "Dick," and send us your new address.

Several of our classmates should be in their new homes by now. Sam and S. F. were to move in in June—at long last, eh S. F.? Helen and Jack Shea are also building and are probably in by now. Martha and Bob Allen are also new home owners. Martha had an emergency appendectomy in the spring but is fine now. So glad to hear it, Martha. All of you write and tell us about your new houses and send your new addresses.

Alice Mason Cralle is going to summer school at the University of Virginia to finish work on her M.A. Congratulations, Alice. In the fall she will be teaching in Richmond.

We got a grand letter from Ann Wiley which said she was still at Langley Field and still liking it a lot. She said she was living in the same apartment "but no visits from the girls at school came from last year's letter to the BULLETIN, so I won't count on any this year. I hope I am in for a pleasant surprise though."

As you all probably have noticed, in reading other class letters, a lot of classes have been keeping a class scrapbook. We decided that although we didn't start one when we graduated it would be a grand thing to keep and look at when we all get together at reunions, etc. PLEASE send pictures of yourself, family, babies, new houses, engagement, wedding and baby announcements, anything about yourselves and your families to your group leader. Send any pictures, clippings, announcements, etc., that you have had since June 1947—not just from now on. But please send some and keep sending them. We want to have a big scrapbook by next June, our 5th reunion! Hard to believe, isn't it? Be thinking of plans for that reunion because we will be writing you for suggestions in the fall.

So long until the fall and have a grand summer. PLEASE WRITE US THE NEWS.

MIMI, BETTY, NANCY, BETSEY, AND IZZY.

Have you ever heard of a June bride in May? Well, that is just exactly what Jean Brumsey was! Jean, who was to marry John Biscoe on June 16, had her plans abruptly changed by Uncle Sam, who is Johnny's boss, and the wedding took place at the First Baptist Church in Richmond on May 12. Judging from several reports, however, everything went along smoothly despite the unforeseen rush. Flip (Orrell) Dunn wrote that Jean looked "like a magazine cover." Faye Kilpatrick was one of the four bridesmaids, with Jean's sister as matron of honor.

Faye, herself, has been busy keeping up with Bob now that he is in the Navy. She resigned her teaching job in Richmond and went to Woodbury, New Jersey, while Bob's ship was in repair dock and was there for about two months. Now that his ship is back in Norfolk, they have an apartment at Virginia Beach for the summer, which should be wonderful. Her address there is Ocean Lake Apartments, 213 Sixth Street.

I think that Flip had an abundance of news about brides this time. She told me of a tea that she gave for Jean in the latter part of May. She said Brumsey took all of her pictures for them to see. She also brought news of Suzanne Lovern's impending wedding which is set for July 14. She and Sam Peeler will be married in Richmond, but will be living in Staunton. Eleanor Pitts is another one of our brides—Mrs. Bill Rowan. They are now living in Washington, but I don't have a definite address as yet. Let us hear from you, Eleanor! Pat Adams and Barbara Wood Miller were two of her attendants.

Betty (Hardin) Elmore wrote that she had had a nice long letter from Marian (Hall) McTyre in South Hill, Virginia. We have quite a bit of news to catch up on from her for she wrote about her daughter, Kate, who is already 16 months old. Marian and Burnley are now planning to build a home this year and are up to their ears in blueprints, busy working with the architect, and all.

Jeanne Decker was married to Kenneth Swank on February 10 and Sally Taylor was in the wedding. Jeanne and Ken honeymooned in Florida and are now settled in their apartment in Baltimore. He is teaching at Johns Hopkins and is taking some courses, too. Jeanne's cooking endeavors must be fruitful, because she wrote that they had just given a dinner party for eight, which is quite an accomplishment, I would say! Speaking of Sally, she must be an English teacher par excellence! One of her senior students won an essay contest sponsored by Thalhimers and received a traveling wardrobe and a 10-day trip to Paris by plane. I am sure it was largely due to the fact that she was under Sally's tutelage.

Betty also relayed the news that Peggy and Jerry Cunningham are busy with their new home in Richmond and Peggy is becoming a gardener. Jerry has re-enlisted in the National Guard which calls for two weeks training in July, so Peggy plans to visit her home in Washington while he is away. From Peggy came a word about Marian Kuehl, who you will remember was in our class for two years and is now living in Germany. They have just completed a three-week tour of England, Holland, France, Luxemburg, and Sweden. Won't she have lots of interesting experiences to share with us when she returns to this country next year?

Seth and Bill Shannahan are now proud parents of William III who arrived in March. Seth must be determined to turn him into as good a sailor as she is, for the birth announcement showed a baby in a sailboat! Doris (Vickers) and Charles Hall flew to Bermuda to honeymoon after their March wedding and Doris can do nothing but praise beautiful Bermuda. She says the culinary aspects of marriage are still a little above her even though she does use three cookbooks! Betty Elmore says she and Jim have been busy keeping their spacious yard. She says that her better half planted a patch of vegetables, but the fish have been biting too well for him to stay home and garden!

Frances Stewart has a full calendar for this summer, attending camp, Ridgecrest, a meeting in Louisville for Student Secretaries, and many other gatherings. We have another new address for Elsie (Keyser) Robinette for she moved this spring to a new little bungalow in Franklin, Louisiana. Alice Goodman wrote that she expects to see Elsie sometime in July or August when she comes to Richmond for a visit. Arleen Schaefer has been taking some Red Cross classes at the University of Virginia and says it seems wonderful to be going to classes again. Alice was praising Arleen's ability as a seamstress, too.

Rosemary (Lawson) Strickman wrote recently—once more from New York. It seems that she and Artie loved the East more than California after all and returned to their beloved New York where her hubby is in the sportswear business. I wish all of you would keep me informed of new addresses as well as Rosie does! I am trying to once more compile a correct list of names and addresses for everyone, so if anyone has been receiving her BULLETIN hit or miss or after much delay, I wish you would drop me a card with the correct information on it.

Annabelle Kidd is still living in New Jersey and studying voice in New York. How about some more news, Annabelle? Monty's regular epistle arrived with news of several of our class. Congratulations go to Pat (Fuller) and Tom Gatlin upon the arrival of their son, James Fuller Gatlin. I can imagine how elated Betty (Hengeveld) Bradshaw is now with Brad home from Japan. They are living in Spokane, Washington, as Brad is stationed at Fairfield Air Force Base, and have a six-room house on the base. Pat (Parlow) Daniels and Dave and their little girl are moving to Kansas City, Missouri, as Dave has been transferred. Monty and Ralph have been playing host and hostess to much company since the summer weather has hit at Wrightsville Beach. They were fortunate to have a five bedroom house there at the beach and have been enjoying basking in the sun. She is quite elated over the "dream house" they are moving into in Wilmington—brand new with all the deluxe trimmings of dishwasher, etc. Isn't she the lucky one, though?

No one knows how much I hate to lose a good group leader, and I want to thank Hannah Barlow for faithfully doing her part for the BULLETIN for the past three years. Hannah is quite happy that she has been chosen by the Baptist Foreign Mission Board to go to Japan to carry on her work and she will be sailing on August 10. We will think of you very often, Hannah, and will be wishing you much luck and happiness. We will look forward to hearing from you as frequently as possible.

Summer is here and I am planning my vacation as the rest of you are. I am anxiously marking the days until June 17 when Ginna Herndon, her cousin, and I will start out on our trip west. Our tentative goal is Colorado and we can't wait to get started. Will tell you more about it next letter. Hope you will all have enjoyable vacation days and please write us about them!

Love,
JACKIE.

Our much-anticipated first class reunion finally came—a weekend filled with joyful greetings, fast and furious conversation, news galore, and a real invigoration of that old '49 spirit. Oh, and a new secretary—me, Hathaway Pollard, who would like first to include Ida's letter to you and then to add news from the reunion. Quoth Ida:
Dear '49ers:

By the time this BULLETIN is in your hands a great many of you will probably have heard all the news I have—and then some—from the reunion get-together. But for the benefit of those who could not be there I shall relate the news I have—some weeks before the reunion.

Lots of changes have taken place in the life of each of the '49ers—and I wish you would write and tell me the details. It's been grand hearing from so many of you. Won't more of you write? Each of us is interested in all '49ers whether they were with us all four years or not.

Janet Richards Stanton writes that if there were any way possible for her to have done so she would have been at the reunion "with bells on." However, her doctor put "thumbs down" on traveling at this time, as she is expecting a baby in July. From other reports the same reason kept many of the '49ers at home this weekend.

From Bobby Rodewald Forrest comes the following news: Peggy Harris Barnett and Bill are still in Raleigh, where they will remain for another year, when Bill will receive his doctorate. Peggy stopped teaching the first of the year to take a secretarial job. Bill and Peggy are thrilled about the prospects of becoming parents in August.

Jane Dens McManigal and Micky will be in Newark, Ohio until June—and then Micky will be given a definite territory; so they don't know where they will be living next. Bobby writes they have an addition to their (Jane's) family—a little puppy. Izzy Taylor and Bobby see each other often—Bobby says Izzy is "still having a beautiful time working for her father. Her pride and joy is her white German Shepherd dog, who really is a beauty." Iz went on a fishing convention to Boston and had a grand time. She, too, wants to come to the reunion, but says she has been away right much and doesn't think she will be able to make it.

News of the Forrests is that they're to become parents in July. David is to be released from the Navy in July, but he is going to extend his duty until Bobby is able to travel; so they will probably be in Florida until sometime in August. In the meantime David is in the process of looking for a residency in obstetrics and gynecology; so they don't know where they will be living next. However, Bobby says they love their vacation spot for the time being.

Izzy wrote that Susie Dickinson Hurt was in Pensacola while she was in Boston. Susie, tell us more about your trip.

Cary Walker sent regrets that she could not be at the reunion, but she says California is just a little too far away! She is still teaching nursery school in Pasadena, but is to be married this summer to Dr. Sheldon C. Crane. She writes that they have bought a three bedroom house 1,800 feet in the mountains.

Julie Moller finishes her sophomore year at MCV in June and plans to spend the summer with her family in Caracas. Martel Dailey, Olive (Trader)'s husband, will graduate from MCV in medicine in June and will intern at Norfolk General Hospital. Olive plans to be "a lady of leisure" during the summer.

Nelson Weber will receive his Master's degree in psychology in June from the University of Richmond. He and Ruby (Patterson) will be living in Richmond until then. Another Richmond couple are Ann (Carter) and Bill Kraft. Ann is still working for the Health Department.

Ann Bing wrote a real newsy letter—She says Randy Mann Ellis writes that Marsha, a year old in April, really keeps her busy. Randy says she doesn't have time to do anything but look after the baby, and watch television. She has had to give up her art classes.

Mag Knapp Howe is still in Charlottesville. She and Joe are now living in a trailer, and Mag is doing some teaching.

From Ann comes the news of two weddings—Jane Sanford is to be married June 23rd to Bill Jennings from Parkersburg, West Virginia. And Ann's marriage to John Abbott will take place June 13th. Gussie and Joyce Roberson will be among the attendants.

Also from Ann came the news that Alec and Mary B. Haskell Finlayson have a new daughter.

An addition to the family of Thomas and Caroline Lynn Doyle came April 4th—Thomas Martin Doyle, Jr.—Eight pounds and six ounces.

From Alda Marlin Noftinger comes the news that Mitzi Verra is working in Washington, but I don't know any details.

Alda and Bob have been living in Wilmington, Delaware, since March, where Bob is working with the Design Division of Engineering for Du Pont.

Jackie Smith Hagan writes she went to New York Easter, and Rennie (Peggy Reynolds Nolan) came over Saturday from Westfield, N. J. and they shopped and had lunch together. Jackie also said that Joyce Roberson and Frosty Goforth are to be married in the late summer.

An announcement came recently from Raymond and Bobbie Todd Clark about their son, Peter Raymond, who was born February 3rd. Gevie (Nager) and Don O'Donnell are the godparents for Peter. Gevie and Don are now living in Bronxville, N. Y., where Don has gone into business.

Jules and Jean Meyer Kluger visited Jules' parents in Lakeland, California in April. Jean talked to Flo Zenke in Chicago on her way out. Jules and Jean are living in Enfield, N. C.

Beth Wilburn's engagement to Raymond Hooker, Jr. has been announced by her parents. Ray is in Medical school at MCV and was graduated from Duke University. The wedding will take place July 7th in Union, S. C.

Ann Morano, Alberta McCullough, and Diane Brown are still teaching school. Alda writes that Diane is sporting a new blue Buick.

Jean Moody, Sallie Van Dyck, Hathaway Pollard, and Libby McNeal were among those at the Westhampton May Day dance.

Jane (Ferris) and her husband, Elliot Hatcher Barden, are to move in their home in the vicinity of Westhampton in the near future. They are now living on Parham Road in Richmond.

Virginia Grabeel is now Mrs. John Gordon Cole, Jr. and is living in Blackstone, Va. Let us hear from you, Ginny.

Elizabeth Hsu is continuing her work at the University of Michigan, but plans to be in Hampton for the summer.

Another June wedding will be that of Charlotte Wheeler and Henry Green Mullins, III, in Newport News.

It has been lots of fun being secretary for the class of 1949. Thank you for the wonderful cooperation.

Here's to a successful second reunion, and may all return to the fifth in 1954.

Love,
IDA.

The reunion: Dinner at Franklin Terrace 6:00 Friday, June 2—'49ers—about 30 strong convened and attempted to cram two full years of news into one all-too-short evening—I shall recall for you as much as I can remember. First, those present: May Lee Yook, Peggy Hassell, Elizabeth Pahnelas, Joyce Parrish Wills, Libbie McNeal, Anne Carter Kraft, Kitty Carter, Betty Jeanne Evans Hopkins, Ann Rice White, Rosie Calhoun, Martha Hall, Audrey Bradford, Mimi Anderson Gill, Cynthia Patrick Lawson, Lou Winn McCutcheon, Peggy Harris Barnett, Jean Moody, Harriet Smith, Mag Knapp Howe, Jean Harper, Jean Meyer Kluger, Susan Dickinson Hurt, Frances Hix, Ruby Patterson Weber, Brooke Triplett, Gloria Reid, Kacie Smith Spratley, Mary Anne Peddicord Williams, and me. And I must not omit Flo Grey Tullidge, who, though physically in Germany, was present by letter. Flo sent greetings to all '49ers, commenting that the three things she missed most were her family, the class of '49, and Miller and Rhoads. Via "Aunt Cyn" came greetings from Ida Eanes Patrick; she was quite occupied at home with her brand new son, A. Woodfin Patrick, III. May Lee informed us that she had resigned from her library job for the summer to take some courses in the University of Richmond graduate school. Martha Hall is now located in Charlottesville, where she is teaching. Ruby Patterson Weber plans to teach in Danville, where Nelson has accepted a position as personnel consultant with the Dan River Cotton Mills. Ruby will remain in Richmond for the summer, however, continuing with the State Agriculture Department.

Gloria Reid will be married in the late summer to Larry Jenson. From Kitty Carter came news that Pat Eagan has completed her medical technology course at MCV and is employed by two doctors in Richmond.

To Jean Moody I propose a merit badge (plated with '49ers' gold) for mimeographed lists of names, changes of names, and current addresses of the class. Copies were given to all present at the dinner, with the remainder to be mailed to those not present; so I hope that by now most of you have your list. If not, just contact me, and I shall gladly send same. Another highlight of the evening was the scrapbook of the class since graduation—a grand job by Ida—but notably lacking in material. Please do send clippings of all engagements, marriages, and other achievements, and any announcements, letters, or other material about yourself or classmates to me or to your group leader so that our scrapbook will be complete.

On Saturday I chatted briefly with Flo Crute, Jane Sanford, and Kitty Wyatt, who were in Richmond for the day. They had spent the morning at Westhampton and joined several other '49ers for lunch downtown.

Sunday's tea in Keller Hall brought three additions—Helen McDonough Kelly, Betty Ann Allen Doub, and Mitzi Verra. Helen is working in a department store in Charlottesville and plans to teach in the fall, while her husband continues graduate work in chemistry at the University of Virginia. Mitzi is doing personnel work with the government in Washington and is living in Arlington. Sally Van Dyck is working in Miller and Rhoads for the summer and living with Ruby Weber. And more news from Sally: her engagement to Arthur Wood, political cartoonist for the Richmond News Leader.

Omissions please forgive—but do not hesitate to remind me of them. All news of classmates is important—which reminds me, a few classmates were not included on the mimeographed list. Those called to my attention so far are: Janet Rogers, Nancy Kizzia, Lee Winter, Helen Blood, Flo Zenke, Mary Chase Woodward, Enid Friedman, Bella Mitzman. Any information leading to their addresses will be gratefully appreciated, as well as any other names and addresses that managed to escape listing, and any changes of address since listing.

To all '49ers who made this such a newsy letter—many thanks. Here's hoping for more of the same and for a real resurgence of that old '49 spirit.

Love,
HATHAWAY.

As June rolls around again and another graduating class becomes Westhampton alumnae, it suddenly makes us realize that we have been out of college for one year. There have been so many interesting and exciting events since last year and even since the last issue of the BULLETIN.

First of all, I want to say how wonderful it was to see about thirty girls from our class at the luncheon on May Day. We wish that it had been possible for more of you to have been there. We enjoyed having Miss Rudd, our class sponsor, with us and hearing her words of greeting from the college.

Karen Marie Kostyal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Kostyal (Helen Lampathakis '50), who received the Baby Cup in May for being the first daughter born to a member of the Class of '50.

Piggy, in her cute, crazy manner, gave a little speech and presented the Baby Cup to Helen Lampathakis Kostyal for little Karen Marie who was born March 31. After a discussion of some class business we left Wakefield Grill to attend May Day activities at school.

The Class of '51 were unlucky to have a rainy afternoon for the Coronation, but the wet weather did not dampen the spirits of the lovely queen and her court. After these activities Miss Rudd served tea to girls in our class at her new home near the campus. This is the home that was built for Dr. Kathleen Bruce and presented to the college after her death. We did appreciate Miss Rudd's interest in our class in giving the tea and in helping us with the luncheon.

So much news and chatter was exchanged at the luncheon that my pencil was kept busy trying to jot down all of it to tell you. Weddings which are going to occur this summer were big items of the conversations.

Starting with our June brides, Barbara White was married to Lester Balderson, Doris's cousin, in a small afternoon ceremony on June 2. Doris was maid of honor. I saw Wilda and Helen at the wedding. Lester and Barbara have bought a lovely home on Patterson Avenue and have much of it furnished.

Next in our list of weddings was the marriage of Betty Sims to Robert Loving which took place at Rapidan on June 16. I was maid of honor for Betty. Ludie, Pat, and Ida were among the girls in our class at the wedding. Betty and Robert will be living in North Carolina where Robert is an engineer with his uncle's construction firm.

Wilda Whitman's marriage to Bud Oakley will take place June 30 in Portsmouth. Westhampton girls in her wedding will be Helen Lampathakis Kostyal, Barbara White Balderson, and Joyce Bell.

So far my calendar shows three July weddings in our class. Lorraine Feinberg is to be married on July 3 at Union Temple in Brooklyn. Pat Kelly's marriage to Alex Jordan will occur on July 28 in Warrenton. Pat and Alex plan to get an apartment and Pat will be teaching in Richmond next fall. July 28 is also the date for the marriage of Barbara Lee Jones and Harry Jones of Berryville. It was a big surprise when we heard about your engagement, Barbara Lee. You must like the name Jones.

August seems to be the most popular month with seven girls in our class planning weddings then. On August 11 Bea Covington will be married to Billy O'Flaherty in Wadesboro, North Carolina. Aggie Feild, Bettie Lane Barnhill, Mary Elinor Covington, and Mayme O'Flaherty Stone will be the Westhampton delegation in the "big event." After their marriage Barbara and Billy will be living in Miami. Bea looked very excited and happy about her wedding plans at the lovely tea given by Mrs. O'Flaherty soon after Bea's engagement was announced in May.

Nancy Chapin was in town for May Day and looked stunning in a white suit and a black picture hat. She and Charlie are planning to say "I do" on August 18 in Pittsburgh. Chapin is busy working as a ticket agent for TWA airlines now.

Carol Siegel writes that she is so excited over plans for her wedding on August 19. The bridegroom is a lawyer in Passaic, New Jersey, but I haven't heard his name.

Gene Hart is planning her marriage to Talmage Joyner of Richmond for August 18 in Dendron. Rosa Lou Soles, Fran Sutton, and Louise Triplett will be in her bridal party. She and Tal will be living in Richmond after their wedding.

August 25 will be a red-letter day for three girls in our class. Mokey Rounds and Dick Holloway will be united in marriage in Salisbury, Maryland. Margaret Buck will be a bridesmaid. Cathy Krause will be married to Lindy Keeney, a young minister from Baltimore who was at Southwestern Seminary while Cathy was there. I am the third person for whom this date is important since I am planning my wedding to Bucky Pierce, an engineer with Hungerford, Inc., here, for that day. It will be an afternoon ceremony here in the chapel of First Baptist Church. After our wedding we plan to get an apartment and I'll continue working at the State Library.

Among the engaged girls in our class are Rosa Lou Soles and Mary Howard. Rosa Lou and Mandley will be married when he returns from Korea. Mary Howard's fiance was a state policeman, but I haven't heard his name. We'll be anxious to hear more about your plans, Mary.

In addition to all the engagements and weddings many other interesting things have happened to girls in our class. Congratulations go to Bettie Lane Barnhill who was tapped into Pi Lambda Theta, honorary educational fraternity, at the University of Tennessee. She received her M.A. in education in May.

Congratulations also go to Barbara Beattie who is really going places in her work. She left Richmond in May to become assistant to the executive secretary of the American Collector's Association, an international trade organization. Barbara will be traveling, but her headquarters will be in Minneapolis.

Among girls in our class who are traveling is Libby Rowse who is going to California this summer. The Schanens are planning to spend part of the summer in Canada. Joanne Waring, Barbara Taggart, and Tish Earle are going to the University of Mexico for summer study. Louise Covington and Miriam Weddle will be at Virginia Beach in June.

Margie Canada plans to come back to Virginia for a vacation after completing her exams in occupational therapy in Boston. She'll return to Boston in July to work for four months at the Boston State Hospital.

Jack and Sue Peck House are living in Covington where Sue has been tutoring a fifteen-year-old child this year. Sue may be moving if Jack's job transfers him. Also in Covington this past winter were Fran Sutton and Terry Noble who were rooming together and teaching there.

Ellen Largent, Julie Wann, and Claire Noren met in New York late in April where they saw some plays, went to Radio City, shopped on Fifth Avenue, and of course they did lots of talking about Westhampton.

One girl who is continually traveling in our class is Lee Davis. I had lunch with her when she was in town this spring to present a puppet show. The puppet company with which she is traveling has toured from Maine to Florida this year and Lee seems to like her work quite well.

Mary Lee Rankin plans to enter the Training School at the Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville this fall. It was grand to see Joanna Maiden in town during graduation weekend. She has completed her first year at the Training School.

Congratulations go to Dot Warner Gardner who has a little boy, William Rush Gardner, III, born on April 10.

Many of the girls who have been making classrooms hum as teachers will have busy summers. Jean Tinsley plans to take some courses in education at R.P.I. and Doris Balderson will work at the Virginia Electric and Power Company. Christine Coates, a former member of our class, also works there.

Weddings were among the news about the non-grads in our class. Charlotte Westervelt and Nancy Blanton were June brides. Charlotte will live in Seaford, Delaware where her husband works for Du Pont.

Patti Black is working as a private secretary to the president of a furniture company near Chicago.

It was grand to see Peggy King Nelson and Tucky Bellows Morissett at the May Day luncheon. We do hope that more of the non-grads will participate in alumnae activities for all of you really "belong" to the Class of '50.

Best wishes for a wonderful summer to each of you.

Love,
LIBBY.

Westhampton Alumnae Local Clubs

Atlanta Club

President: Mrs. Jean Grant, 991 Wadsworth Drive, N.W., Atlanta, Georgia.

The Atlanta Club met during the last week in March. Two Westhampton students, Jane Moseley and Joan Dalvé, met with the club and brought last minute news from Westhampton. Miss Turnbull had sent down her colored views of the campus and the members of the club thoroughly enjoyed the slides.

Jean Grant was elected the new president of the club.

Eastern Shore Club

President: Mrs. W. T. Roberts, Jr. (Jeanice Johnson), Parksley, Va.

The annual spring luncheon and business meeting of the Westhampton Club in Accomack and Washington counties was held May 26 at 1:30 o'clock at the Eastville Inn.

Miss Florence Spady gave the invocation.

Due to the absence of the president, Mrs. W. T. Roberts, Jr., Mrs. Charles Little, vice-president, welcomed the members and conducted the business meeting.

It was decided to send $50.00 to the Westhampton Club Fund.

Twenty-five members were present, and each one was requested to stand and tell her name and address.

Mrs. Patrick Foley invited the Club to meet with her in the fall.

Recording Secretary.

Hampton-Newport News Club

President: Miss Millicent Claire Hutcherson, 15 Westover Avenue, Hilton Village, Va.

The Peninsula Branch of the Westhampton College Alumnae Association met this spring at the home of Mrs. Harold Sniffen on Chesapeake Avenue, Hampton, Virginia. Our guests were Miss Fanny Graves Crenshaw, Professor of Physical Education at Westhampton, and Mrs. R. E. Booker, Secretary and Treasurer of the Alumnae Association. Miss Crenshaw brought us up to date on college activities and new opportunities which our college offers, and Mrs. Booker outlined the work which the Alumnae Association has accomplished this year.

Possibilities of a fall fashion show were discussed and the membership list was revised. We would like to take this opportunity to ask any alumna of Westhampton, living in or near Newport News or Hampton, who was not contacted for this spring meeting, to get in touch with one of the officers listed below or Mrs. Blake W. Corson, Jr., 33-C Elizabeth Road, Hampton, Va.

Officers for the coming year are:

Pres., Miss Millicent Hutcherson.
Vice-pres., Mrs. Richard Shepherd.
Sec. & Treas., Miss Helen Porter.

Halifax County Club

President: Mrs. Dorothy Bagwell McDannald, Halifax, Va.

The Halifax County Club held a dinner meeting on May the 16th. Betty Lawson Dillard was our hostess, and it was a joy to meet in her beautiful new home. Our attendance was almost one hundred per cent and we had several visitors. Miss Lough, Mrs. Leslie Booker and Mrs. Ruth Tyree were with us from Richmond, and they added much to our meeting. After Miss Lough had reviewed the school's activities she talked with us informally about current events. Mrs. Booker gave us a report on alumnae activities and offered several helpful suggestions regarding our productivity. We are anxious to make our high school students more Westhampton conscious, and hope to have a meeting in the near future that will include prospective college students.

New York Club

President: Mrs. Jules F. De Dan (Frances Gottlieb), 137 Walker Court, West Orange, N. J.

Our administration officially began a year ago in New York City at the Women's National Republican Club. Those elected at that time were: Frances G. De Dan, President; Dorothy Brumbaugh, Vice-President; Lillian Jung, Secretary; Dorothy Ihnken, Treasurer; Mary Duane Hoffman, Historian.

During the summer, we held an officers' picnic meeting aboard our cabin cruiser, "Restless." Plans were formulated for our next gathering October 21, 1950, at the Clubhouse in John Wanamaker's store, New York. Due to the serious eye operation on my husband, his hospitalization, and long convalescence at home, it was impossible for me to carry out our plans. I expected to turn the meeting over to our Vice-President, but the Board felt the entire project should be postponed rather than deny me the privilege of presiding at our first function.

On Saturday, January 27, 1951, therefore, we held a luncheon meeting at The Harvard Club of New York. This was made possible by Dorothy Brumbaugh, our Vice-President, who holds membership there. Ironically enough the worst snow storm of the winter occurred on that date, but it did not prevent us from having an enthusiastic gathering.

It has long been the tradition for The New York Club to contact the Richmond College Alumni and plan for a combined dinner and meeting. This year the girls felt that since we had been handicapped in starting our activities, we should dispense with the combined meeting and concentrate on our own group. However, let me say in passing that, should conditions next winter prove more favorable for such a project, Richmond College Alumni will find us ready and willing to revive the custom.

Our last function was held on Saturday, April 28, 1951, at the Clubhouse of John Wanamaker's in New York. Following luncheon (at which we had the delightful experience of being forced to request more place settings) we had our meeting.

Our guest of honor was Miss Roberts, the Dean. (May I add also it was the delight and thrill of the De Dan household to have her as our weekend house guest?) Miss Roberts brought us up to date on campus improvements, changes in personnel and curriculum, and gave us an insight into the hopes and aspirations for the Westhampton of the future. As she spoke, some of us thought we had better reexamine our diplomas to make sure we really did attend the same Westhampton College. It was wonderful to note that Richmond as a City and Richmond as a University are becoming mutually conscious of their blessings and advantages. That will enrich the collegiate lives of both boys and girls and send them throughout the nation ready to proclaim the advantages of Richmond, or Westhampton if you will, as an Alma Mater.

Before our meeting adjourned, Emily Carlson offered us the use of their inn, The Kittle House at Mt. Kisco, New York, for our next luncheon meeting. What is even more astounding, she and her husband will provide transportation from New York for those who need it. We were all overjoyed at this suggestion because reasonable meeting facilities are at a premium in New York. Here let me explain that due to crowded conditions, John Wanamaker's will no longer provide the Clubhouse.

We have set a date to be with Emily on Saturday, October 6, 1951. We shall make every effort to match her gesture of hospitality and good will with an enthusiastic turnout.

New York has been referred to as "the black sheep of the Alumnae Association." Naturally, as its President, I regret this appellation. In all fairness to us, however, I wonder how many appreciate our problems in gathering a group. We are The New York Chapter, it is true; but when you consider we come from New York State, New Jersey, and Connecticut, you will realize that the term, "New York," is used rather loosely. Consider also that our officers come from New Jersey, Long Island, and Westchester County, New York; and you can understand that an officers' meeting is a major project. The average traveling time per member to New York for a meeting is two hours. Remember also the amusements and other attractions offered by New York City, and you will admit the pull in the Alumnae direction must be strong.

Our membership is a flexible and puzzling thing. Girls come from Virginia and elsewhere for advanced study in New York. While in our section of the country, we claim them as our own. Many, however, return to their native states. It is true we have alumnae living permanently in and around New York; and on them we depend to maintain our identity. This is not intended as a pessimistic attitude but as a realistic one.

Our greatest aim and ambition for the future is to establish our Chapter on a firm membership and financial basis, with adequate meeting facilities, and greater attendance. In short, we hope to prove a blessing not only to ourselves but our Alma Mater.

Richmond Club

President: Mrs. G. Edmond Massie III (Jayne Maire), 7705 Woodman Road, R.F.D. 4, Richmond, Virginia.

The Card Party in April was most successful under the leadership of Mary Babcock. More than $400.00 profit was made for the Swimming Pool Fund.

On April 24 the spring meeting was held at Irene Stoneman's home "Varina on the James." It was a beautiful day and more than seventy alumnae attended.

Anne Seay Jackson was elected Vice-President and Amy Hickerson Dalton was elected Treasurer. Twenty-five dollars was voted for the A.A.U.W. house in Richmond.

This year of 1950-51 was a most successful year.

Washington Club

President: Mrs. Lester E. Tharpe (Kay Moore) 6214 43rd Street, Hyattsville, Maryland.

The Washington Chapter of Westhampton College Alumnae enjoyed a joint picnic with the local alumni of the University of Richmond in Rock Creek Park, Monday evening May 14.

Leslie Sessoms Booker and Dr. Rivenburg (of the Latin Department at Westhampton College) brought us up to date on the "goings-on" at Westhampton and the men contributed football pictures in color and a talk by Leslie's husband, R. E. Booker. The long awaited Westhampton Wedgwood plates were shown and will be purchasable at homecomings or by order to Leslie.

The president of the chapter, Kay Moore Tharpe, '28 (Mrs. Lester E.), graciously accepted a second term following unanimous urging. The following slate, suggested by the committee, was elected: Mary Watkins Brock Clevinger, '36 (Mrs. F. M.), Vice-President; Gary Turner, '25, Treasurer; Helen Anderson Hendricks, '24 (Mrs. W. A.), Secretary.

HELEN A. HENDRICKS
Secretary.

ALUMNI CHAPTERS

Baltimore

Friendliness and simplicity were the bricks and mortar of our spring dinner meeting, which once again was held at the Stafford Hotel, between Madison Street and Mount Vernon Place (names that mean much more to us than to most Marylanders). There were no speakers or music or dancing girls; all that we wanted to do was get to know each other a little better. The features were a few off-the-cuff remarks by Dr. M. L. Breistein, '15, about "the old Richmond College where professors and students knew each other intimately," and a brief, impromptu report by William F. Rowe, Jr., '48, on "the Richmond College of 1942 and 1948."

On the first Thursday of each month, except during the summer, a few of us—sometimes just two, sometimes as many as ten—meet for lunch at the Engineers' Club, at 6 W. Fayette St. All alumni are welcome, including Washingtonians, Pennsylvanians, and even Virginians. Just phone Davis Ratcliffe, at Lexington 4830 during office hours, a day or two before the first Thursday in the month, say that you are coming, bring 90 cents with you to pay for lunch, show up at noon at the club, and that will make you a Life Member of the First Thursday Club.

Among those who have attended recent meetings are: Reverend W. Clyde Atkins, '25, Pastor, Eutaw Place Baptist Church; William Hugh Bagby, '17, President of the Bagby Furniture Co.; Dr. Dudley P. Bowe, '15, obstetrician; Dr. M. L. Breistein, '15, ear, nose and throat specialist; Charles C. Broadus, Jr., '31, Terminal Manager, Cochrane Transportation Co.; Paul A. Cohen, '24, Building Inspection Engineer for the City of Baltimore (Paul is the head man; you can see his name signed on permits in building and elevators all over town); E. F. S. Dickinson, '34, who runs things at Sherwood Feed Mills, Inc.; Lawrence J. Edberg, '38, who is teaching chemistry at the University of Maryland.

Martin J. Logan, '27, General Motors (in charge of Chevrolet sales in Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, and D. C.); Reverend Herbert O. Mayhew, '28, Pastor, Loch Raven Boulevard Baptist Church; Bernard C. O'Sullivan, '30, attorney, who soon will leave for extended active duty as a major in the U.S.A.F. Reserve; Davis T. Ratcliffe, '24, Assistant Secretary, New Amsterdam Casualty Co.

William F. Rowe, Jr., '48, Group Insurance representative of the Travelers; F. Ralph Swanson, '26, a past president of the Baltimore Alumni Chapter, and Supervisor at Western Electric; Benjamin H. West, '27, who works both as past-and-present treasurer of the Baltimore Alumni Chapter and at Western Electric; Dr. Channing Ward Wilson, '25, Senior Research Chemist of the Gas and Electric Company of Baltimore.

Officers for the coming year are: Martin J. Logan, '27, President; Dr. Channing Ward Wilson, '25, Vice-Pres.; Lawrence J. Edberg, '38, Secretary; Benjamin H. West, '27, Treasurer.

DAVIS T. RATCLIFFE, '24, President.

Philadelphia

It was Rittenhouse Square on the outside but it was the University of Richmond campus inside the Chateau Crillon while Dean May L. Keller was speaking before the Philadelphia Chapter of the Alumni Association on March 30. Between the wordage of Miss Keller and the color slides made and shown by Miss Pauline Turnbull, the Alumni had a memory rewarding trip to yesteryear.

During the course of Miss Keller's informal and sprightly chat the names of Chancellor Boatwright, President Modlin, Dr. Gaines, Miss Lutz, Dr. Lough, Miss Brown, Dr. Loving, Dr. Ryland, Dr. Harris, Miss Crenshaw, and "Coach" Dobson rang bells of recollections. While Miss Keller's anecdotes and reminiscences evoked thoughts of the past, the speaker did not neglect the present and the future of the growing University. The up to the minute color slides by Miss Turnbull also served to bring the University-picture as a whole into true focus.

Presiding at the meeting was Dr. Clarence De-noon, retiring president. Narcissa Daniel Hargroves "introduced" the speaker of the evening and expressed the general happiness of those present again "to sit at the feet of Miss Keller."

Officers selected for 1951-52 are Leonora Johnson, president; Robert W. Neathery, Jr., vice-president; Betty Acker Gillespie, secretary; Albert C. Barnett, treasurer; Dorothy Hewes McGlinchey, Narcissa Daniel Hargroves, Luther B. Jenkins, Edward G. Tiedemann, executive committee.

MARK LUTZ, '26.

Washington

A joint picnic dinner with the Westhampton alumnae and election of new officers wound up a busy year for the Washington Alumni Chapter on May 14.

R. E. Booker, '24, journeyed up from Richmond to tell the "old grads" about plans for Alumni Day and to describe just enough of the new Student Activities Building to make mouths water.

Technicolor movies of the Spider gridders' final practice game were shown and numerous comments on hopes for an improved season in '51 were heard. Alumni expressed extreme disappointment that Coach Ed Merrick, '40, was prevented from making the trip and giving a play-by-play description.

Dr. Sidney T. Mathews, '36, was chosen unanimously as new president of the graduate group, succeeding Charter Heslep, '26, who received plaudits for guiding the chapter during the past year. Vice-President is Dr. Edward B. Willingham, '21, and secretary-treasure is J. Earle Dunford, Jr., '48.

James Ceranton, '31, was named to head a prospective placement committee, which will be charged with trying to locate jobs in the nation's capital for graduating Spiders.

A week before the final dinner, the Richmond College Glee Club gave a concert for alumni and their friends at National Baptist Memorial Church. Those who attended confessed that the aggregation surpassed anything on the campus in "their days." The glee club also set some type of record for Richmond student organizations by appearing on a half-hour television show in the morning.

J. E. DUNFORD, JR., '48.

Necrology

1916—

Lewis G. Pitts of Bowling Green, Va. died in a Richmond hospital on May 19. Burial was at Sparta, Va. He is survived by his wife and two daughters.

1926—

J. Moyer Mahaney died at his home in Clarke County, Virginia on Sunday, June 24. He had been in the teaching profession for twenty-five years and only last year returned to Virginia to serve as headmaster of the Blue Ridge Country Day School at Millwood.

After his graduation he joined the faculty of Christ Church School in Middlesex County, Va., where he served for three years while winning his master's degree from the University of Virginia. In 1929 he went to Columbia University. Later he joined the staff of the Haverford School outside of Philadelphia where he remained for eight years as a teacher of English and Latin and as athletic coach. There followed a stint as a trainee instructor in a large shipyard but in 1944 Mac returned to the teaching profession as a teacher, coach and member of the executive committee of the Montgomery Country Day School near Philadelphia. His next post was that of headmaster of the Fairfield Country Day School at Fairfield, Conn. Last July he returned to Virginia to the Blue Ridge Country Day School, not far from Winchester, which had opened the year before with eleven students. Under his direction the school grew to 48 students and he was confident of 70 students next year and 100 the following year.

Henry Satterwhite Johnson of Hylas, Va. died in a Richmond hospital on May 23. At the time of his death he was executive secretary-treasurer and public relations director of the Medical Society of Virginia. He had formerly served in the Virginia House of Delegates and was prominent for some years in the Young Democratic Clubs of Virginia. After graduating from the University he attended the University of Virginia where he received his master's degree. He also took further graduate courses at the College of William and Mary and New York University. While an undergraduate he starred in athletics and is remembered primarily as a baseball pitcher. He is survived by his wife, five sisters, and three brothers.

LENA FRAZER LOVING

Mrs. Lena Frazer Loving, wife of Dr. R. E. Loving, '96, professor emeritus of physics at the University, died in Charlottesville on May 11. She suffered a stroke in her home at the University in 1943 and for the past eight years had been an invalid in the home of her niece. She was born near Fredericksburg, Va. on September 10, 1870, and her preparatory education was received in private schools. She attended Hollins College and in her senior year won the music medal.

She married Dr. Loving on July 1, 1903 and continued her study of the piano at the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore while her husband completed his doctorate at Johns Hopkins University. When they came to Richmond from the Midwest, where Dr. Loving had taught at the University of Missouri, she became an active member of the Grove Avenue Baptist Church and served as organist for its missionary society. She also served on the board of the Baptist Home for Ladies, the Musicians Club of Richmond, and the Every Monday Club.

She was buried in the Loving family section of the cemetery at Wilmington in Fluvanna County on May 14. Among her survivors, in addition to her husband, is a brother, the Rev. Goodwin Frazer, '02, of Glen Allen, Va.
