The Wisdom of the Past

Too many of us—complaining of the erosion of individual liberties and the tightening controls of government—have overlooked or forgotten this simple philosophy.

Yet it is as true today in 20th Century America as it was 2,000 years ago in ancient Greece. To remain free, we must be willing to face individual responsibility. To accept self discipline as the only true discipline. To defend—consciously and constantly—the liberties we cherish.

This was the philosophy that guided our founding fathers. Men such as Washington and Jefferson dedicated their lives to creating a nation in which all men could be masters of themselves. Answerable above all to their own consciences. Served by their government—and not its servants.

Their legacy to us was individual freedom. If today it seems in jeopardy, let us remember: No man is free who is not master of himself.

The Little Dean: Ever A Fighter

Mrs. Decker, in her tribute to Dean Keller (Page 2) turned to one of Miss Keller's favorite poets, Robert Browning, in characterizing this rare and wonderful woman: "One who never turned her back but marched breast forward."

Mrs. Decker might also have recalled another line from Browning that would serve as a capsule description of the little dean: "I was ever a fighter, . . . ."

She had to fight for her college and for her girls in an age when many persons frankly felt that woman's place was in the home. They believed, yes, in education as a cultural background, the sort of thing that would fit a woman for a drawing room. But education for a career? Absurd!

And so the little dean who had been the belle of the ball in her young womanhood in Baltimore, and as a graduate student in old Heidelberg, became somewhat stern in appearance as the years passed. Her chin became a bit more stubborn, the line of her mouth a bit thinner.

In her battle for high standards she had the support of President Boatwright whose high standards for Richmond College she was encouraged to insist upon for Westhampton. The fight was not always easy and the little dean sometimes emerged from a battle with head bloody—but never bowed!

With the passing years, respect—sometimes grudging—turned to admiration, and to love. As the seed she planted and nurtured grew into a college without a superior in all the Southland, it became abundantly clear that the little dean knew what she wanted for Westhampton—and what she wanted was right.

She was privileged to live out her years on the campus of the college she loved, surrounded by friends and pleasant memories. With the battle won on the academic front she mellowed, gathering about her an increasing number of friends, but none more loyal, none more devoted, than those of the first years on the campus when she charted the course, set the sails, and braved the storms.

Not only the building that bears her name but all Westhampton is a monument to this courageous woman.
MAY LANSFIELD KELLER
1877 - 1964
A Tribute by Florence Boston Decker, '17

One Who Never Turned (Her) Back but Marched Breast Forward, Never Doubted Clouds Would Break.

It was nature's compensation for a long and rugged life that May Lansfield Keller, dean emerita of Westhampton College of the University of Richmond, quietly died in her sleep on Sunday afternoon June 29, 1964 on her own bed in the Deanery,

As one who wraps the draperies of his couch about him,
And lies down to pleasant dreams.

For 32 of her 86 years she was Westhampton College. When she arrived from her home in Baltimore in the fall of 1914 to occupy the new Gothic buildings set in the sedge grass atop the pine covered hills, she was well aware of the challenge before her. Her brown hair was piled high on her head, her blue eyes sparkled with good health, her back was straight. Diminutive in size, her dream was large for this college a-borning. A graduate of Goucher College (1894) and holder of a Ph.D. from Heidelberg, she knew exactly what type of college she intended to build. To be sure, Dr. Frederic W. Boatwright was president of the coordinate institutions of Richmond College and Westhampton College, but Westhampton was her responsibility and she was ever mindful of it.

She was determined that Westhampton should be a liberal arts college in the true sense of the word. Its entrance requirements, its curriculum, its standards must be of the highest. All over the South were scattered so-called woman's colleges which were "finishing schools" and little more. To these Dean Keller gave hardly a passing nod; her college must stand as tall as the few great woman's colleges of the East and North—colleges like Goucher where she had studied and later taught for eight years. Westhampton would be dedicated to the liberal arts; there would be no nonsense, no domestic science!

Although Dr. Boatwright himself was dedicated to the liberal arts and sciences and had little use for educational frills, he was perhaps somewhat confounded by Dean Keller's demands for Westhampton and for her faculty. He may have wondered if Miss Keller, the first woman dean in Virginia, could hold her own in the world of male educators, administrators and faculty. His fears were soon disabused. Dean Keller let it be known to him and to his trustees that she knew the goals which must be attained for the accreditation of Westhampton College. High standards must be met by the students. The trustees, in spite of the increased expenses attached to moving Richmond College in 1914 from the city to the 300 acres west of Richmond, must be willing to pay the costs in faculty salaries, library facilities and other things necessary to obtain this accreditation. In repeated meetings with Dr. Boatwright and his committees, she refused to compromise. In 1923, nine years after Westhampton had come into existence, it was fully accredited by the American Association of University Women and the Southern Association of College Women. (Even before Westhampton's accreditation, Miss Keller had served four years as president of the Southern Association.) who would follow. Just as she was working for accreditation of their college, so were setting the pattern for the students nevertheless, she made them realize they were politely told there was no place for them at Westhampton College. They were told from the first that the students were not living up to their part her fight for high standards would be on the campus. She discouraged cliques but encouraged drama groups, music clubs, athletic participation in all fields, and a strong student government. The students felt she was fair, even though hard on them at times. They were made aware of the fight she was waging and if they did not do their part her fight for high standards would be in vain. Those who refused to fall in line were politely told there was no place for them at Westhampton College.

They were told from the first that the four years of a liberal arts college were but the foundation stone. From there they should go forward to their professional careers. It delighted Dean Keller’s heart when a graduate of the class of 1916, Maude Howlett Woodfin, entered the University of Chicago to do graduate work in history. Later on she was the first Westhampton alumna to receive an honorary degree from the University of Richmond. She led the long list of Westhampton students who became professors, lawyers, medical doctors and leaders in other fields. To Dean Keller this was the true fruition of a liberal arts college.

Her apartment in the west wing of the dormitory was simply furnished but its pictures, some of which she had brought from Germany, were a never ending source of inspiration and admiration to the students. The faculty of those early years gave Dean Keller their loyal support—Professors Susan Lough, Fanny Crenshaw, Isabel Harris, Caroline Lutz and others. They responded to her ideals and demanded of the students their best. In 1916 very real strength came to the Dean in the person of Miss Pauline Turnbull. Miss Turnbull served Westhampton as secretary, as registrar, and as teacher, but she served Westhampton best as friend, confidant and complement of Miss Keller through all the years until death visited the Deanery. Miss Turnbull was the practical half of the team. It was Miss Keller who commanded Westhampton; it was Miss Turnbull who commanded Miss Keller in such matters as what to eat, what to wear, and when to put on overshoes. They walked the dogs together up Westhampton’s hill, they toured Europe together, and they argued interminably about modern art which Miss Turnbull appreciated and Miss Keller deprecated. When age finally overtook the apparently indestructible dean, it was Miss Turnbull who added to her role of friend and confidant the duties of nurse.

The Deanery was a Mecca for returning alumnae. Just as they had loved her pictures in her first small apartment, now they revolved in the curios and fruits of her many travels abroad. The seniors were given garden parties, alumnae were invited to tea and new ideas for welding the ever-growing alumnae body were discussed at the Deanery. It was she who told them the Alumnae Association had outgrown the local group and must become a national organization with chapters scattered over the states. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, she was delighted when the Virginia Epsilon chapter of this fraternity was installed at the University of Richmond in 1929.

The class of 1932 commissioned a young Richmond artist, David Silvete, to paint her portrait in her academic robe. This was presented to the college and was first hung in the Blue Room. Later it was hung in Keller Hall.

In Keller Hall one finds the recognition of Dean Keller vividly expressed in this combination gymnasium and student activity building which was financed in part by gifts from alumnae. At the insistence of alumnae, who had the vigorous support of alumnae members of the board of trustees, the trustees agreed to name the building after Dean Keller. The portrait was moved from the Blue Room to the spacious reception room in Keller Hall, A bronze plaque to Dean Keller, professors Lough and Cren-

She Made You Stand Tall

Only rarely does there appear on the human scene an authentic personality, one more fashioned and directed from within, and from above, than from around. Every now and again we are given one who is not of a pattern, whose face and sharply sculptured image is not worn smooth by the world, or by the wind, or dark weather or passage of time. Dean May L. Keller was a rare one; a sterling, undistorted person whose impact upon life was firm without being harsh, lasting without being static, because it was the impact of a person.

The memory of her will move with each generation of students, will keep pace even with the flow of time because there was a dynamic quality about her to which each person related differently. A man said to me only yesterday, "After my courting days at Westhampton Miss Keller never seemed so strict again." Of course, and she never was! What appeared as strictness to an undergraduate, was security to a parent, and sheer charm to a contemporary. Who will ever forget that combination of diminutive stature and outsized mind? Here was not only that pursuit of excellence of which we hear so much today; she actually caught the essence of friend and confidant the duties of nurse.

Remarks at the graveside, June 30, 1964, by Vernon B. Richardson, ’35, Pastor, University Baptist Church, Baltimore, and Dean Keller’s spiritual adviser when he was pastor of Westhampton Baptist Church of which she was then a member.
The old grads came back in record numbers for an Alumni week end, May 8-9, which began with class reunions on Friday night and ended with the last note of the Glee Club and Band concert Saturday night.

James B. (Jim) Robinson, ’49, was chairman of the committee which arranged the varied program.

A surprisingly large number of alumni were up bright and early to attend 8:30 classes on the campus but the earliest of the early birds were the alumni of the School of Business Administration who met for breakfast at Nick’s House of Steaks.

There was varied entertainment for the morning hours. The pep band and a unit from the Glee Club made music in the registration area on the Student Center lawn. Many of the old grads wandered over to the Business School building to match wits with the new computer in a baseball game and other exhibitions of mechanical-mental dexterity, while some traveled across the lake to swim in Westhampton’s new pool.

In addition to the traditional induction of the seniors, the luncheon featured the presentation to the University of a portrait of Dr. Woodford B. Hackley, professor emeritus of Latin and secretary-treasurer of the Baptist Historical Society. The presentation remarks were made by a former student and long-time friend, Dr. R. Stuart Grizzard, ’41, pastor of Montrose Baptist Church. (See Page 21.)

Dr. Ralph C. McDanel, ’16, in the role of teller, reported the election of A. W. (Skee) Goode, ’42, as president of the Alumni Society after a nip-and-tuck battle with Dr. Grizzard, and Thad T. Crump, ’48. David Meade White, ’39, Charles G. Motley, ’45, and James Robinson were elected vice presidents. For secretary the alumni chose Wildman S. Kincheloe Jr., ’33. Howard P. Falls, ’33, and Dr. Peter N. Pastore, ’30, were chosen to the executive committee on which retiring president Albert L. Philpott, ’41, will serve as an ex-officio member.

Former football great Warren M. Pace, ’43, was re-elected to the Athletic Council. William and Mary’s Indians, in an uncooperative mood, defeated a Richmond nine that was not quite up to the high standard of teams produced by the “Silver Fox,” the beloved Malcolm U. Pitt, ’18. The score was 10 to 8. Prior to the game a pencil portrait of Coach Pitt, the work of Alumni Day Chairman Robinson, was presented by Congressman J. Vaughan Gary, ’12. Signatures of hundreds of alumni and other well-wishers, including Virginia’s Governor Harrison, were on the border surrounding the picture.

The traditional barbecue beneath the trees at the edge of Millhiser Field and the glee club-band concert ended the day’s activities.

OLD GRADS. A. Thornton Jones, ’07, came all the way from Mayer, Arizona, to shake hands with his friend, James J. Coleman, ’13, of Bellair Beach, Fla.

COMMENCEMENT '64

A crowd estimated at 3,600 persons who came to see the University of Richmond's largest graduating class receive degrees heard President Modlin spell out the institution's needs which he said will cost $13,000,000 over the next quarter-century.

As so often has happened, the threat of showers forced the commencement indoors and it was just as well because the Greek Theater could not have accommodated the record crowd. Families and friends of the graduates filled to capacity the first two floors of the Mosque and there was a scattering of persons on the third floor.

It was an historic occasion, marking the 50th anniversary of Westampton College, and Westhampton appropriately celebrated by graduating the largest class since its establishment in 1914—a class of 147 that was six more than the 141 Richmond College graduates.

Record classes of 94 in the School of Business Administration, 59 in the Law School, and 45 in the Graduate School helped swell the University total to 493 graduates. University College, created to serve metropolitan Richmond, had seven winners of bachelor's degrees and also contributed 26 to the record number receiving graduate degrees.

The total of 493 was 139 more than the previous high—354 in 1961.

President Modlin devoted most of his commencement address to recounting the accomplishments of Westhampton College just as in 1955 he told of the progress of the University of Richmond during the 125 years which had passed since its beginning on Dunlora plantation in Powhatan County, Va.

After saluting Westhampton, the President devoted the closing minutes of his address to a summary of the University's program, its needs and aspirations. He told the commencement audience that the University must have a minimum of $13,000,000 for endowment and buildings over the next 25 years. He proposed that the present endowment of $10,000,000 be doubled to provide "income for higher faculty salaries and other pressing operating needs."

Earlier in the day he had discussed at some length the timing and organization of a fund-raising campaign which will be conducted in the City of Richmond between November, 1964, and April, 1965. Although no specific goal has been announced, it is known that the University hopes to get sufficient funds to make possible the erection of a dormitory for men, a fine arts building, additional facilities for University College, and a building for classrooms and faculty offices at Richmond College.

Other pressing needs, he said, are a University auditorium and an athletic field house.

The 25 years that have elapsed since 1939, referred to by President Modlin as the "expanding years," have been marked by rapid growth in enrollment and substantial enlargement of physical facilities. The enrollment rose from 1,873 in 1939 to 6,238 in 1964, the faculty from 88 to 248, and total assets from $6,000,000 to $20,000,000. In HONORARY DOCTORS. Five of the winners of honorary degrees (left below) were associated directly, or indirectly, with Westhampton College's 50th anniversary celebration. Seated, from the left, are Mrs. Alice T. Schafer, '36, Doctor of Science; Mrs. May Thompson Evans, '21, Doctor of Social Service, and Mrs. Florence Boston Decker, '17, Doctor of Humanities. Standing are Odis B. Hinnant (left), '14, who was graduated on the old campus the year Westhampton was born, and J. Ambler Johnson, an architect who has been closely identified with the building program on the new campus. Right below are C. Robert Stevens, '30, Doctor of Divinity; Garland Gray, '21, Doctor of Laws; President J. Earl Moreland of Randolph-Macon, Doctor of Laws, and R. Carrington Paulette, '37, Doctor of Divinity.

"It is not only the claims of the contemporary world that create problems for women, or the fact of domesticity, either. The education of women has been expanded with breathtaking speed in fifty years, and for the first time in history we have a vast population of women who will still, and still want to, and should want to, be wives and mothers and the keepers of the household; but who are literate instead of illiterate, and so have values, wishes, talents, possibilities, curiosities, interests, that illiterate women do not know. In the first fifty years of this century, while the population of the country doubled, the number of college-educated women increased twenty times.

"It is not surprising that they need to find ways of using the talents and interests they have—not because they rebel against being women, or having husbands to care for or children to nourish, but quite positively because they have more capacities than a purely domestic life uses, and more vision of possibilities for life."

The speaker was Dr. Esther Raushenbush, director of the Center for Continuing Education at Sarah Lawrence College. The occasion was a symposium in Cannon Chapel in connection with the celebration of Westhampton College's fiftieth anniversary.

The celebration made a historic occasion of the University's 134th commencement. It was much more than a review of a half century of glorious achievement. It was an evaluation of woman's role in the community and world in which she lives, it was a challenging declaration of new goals to be achieved, new heights to be reached. And lest there be inclination to sit back with smug complacency, Dr. Althea K. Hotell, a past president of the American Association of University Women, warned that a dismaying amount of female talent is going to waste.

"It is not surprising that they need to find ways of using the talents and interests they have—not because they rebel against being women, or having husbands to care for or children to nourish, but quite positively because they have more capacities than a purely domestic life uses, and more vision of possibilities for life."

Dr. Hotell, a former dean of women at the University of Pennsylvania, insisted that the educated woman can make a better wife, a better mother, and a better citizen of the world in which she lives. There was general agreement that the modern woman need not make a choice between homemaking or a career. She can have both. As Mrs. May Thompson Evans, '21, an outstanding career woman in the national government and a past president of the Westhampton Alumnae Association, expressed it: "Most of us... agree with President Johnson" that 'a woman's place is not only in the home, but in the House, the Senate, and throughout the Government service." Mrs. Evans was moderator for the panel which brought together Dr. Raushenbush, Dr. Nancy Roman of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and Miss Jean Wells of the Woman's Bureau of the Department of Labor.

Mrs. Evans, a member of the President's committee for consumer interests on the staff of the Special Assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs, further quoted Lyndon B. Johnson as saying: "... In the past the capabilities of women have not always been recognized. I intend to see that there is an even greater expansion of opportunities for women in the days ahead."

Mrs. Evans was one of three of Westhampton's daughters who received honorary degrees at commencement (page 5) and one of eleven distinguished graduates of the first decade who received alumnae citations (page 22).

The celebration, which brought back to the campus hundreds of Westhampton alumnae, reflected the careful planning of Mrs. Beecher E. Stallard, '28, Alumnae Association president, the anniversary committee headed by Margaret Leake, '31, and the tireless and effective work of Mrs. Enders Dickinson III, '41, who presided over the symposium on "Changing Opportunities and Challenges for the College Woman."

The caterer cooperated wholeheartedly with the kind of weather Lowell raved about in paying his respects to the month.

Friday night provided a pleasant interlude, particularly for alumnae who came..."
back for class reunions, "Fifty Years in Retrospect," a series of dramatic episodes over a half century. The program was arranged and narrated, in part, by Mrs. Wilmer L. O'Flaherty, '15, Westhampton's first president of College Government and the third president of the Alumnae Association. Seated in the foreground of the grassy stage in the formal garden adjoining the building that bears her name was Dean May L. Keller, one of the two glorious names in the formative years of Westhampton. It was this "dynamic, purposeful" woman, as Editor Virginius Dabney described her in a Times-Dispatch editorial, who teamed with the late President Frederic W. Boatwright in determining the purpose and in giving guidance to Westhampton.

(During the night Dean Keller suffered a heart attack and was unable to attend Saturday's luncheon at which past presidents were introduced and distinguished alumnae awards presented, or the formal dinner.)

Dean Keller undoubtedly would have applauded the remarks of Dean Hottel:

"... The woman who is interested in developing the talents of her family ... has got to be interested in all the talents that her family has. If she is building these with children, she has to do it by the way she lives herself. One does not develop talents by just telling children to do their homework. It is done by the model who sets oneself to continuing education.

"The woman who plays a constructive role in American life today will not be the person all loaded to go off, but not knowing which way to shoot, nor the apathetic or the discontented. She will be the person who because of her education, her clarity of thinking, experience and judgment can raise the cultural sights of her family, contribute to their psychological and emotional development, bring a wider range of vision to her business or professional life, be politically literate and do something about it."

Mrs. Hottel thus described the type of woman that Westhampton has been training over a half century since Dr. Boatwright and Dean Keller agreed that Westhampton would be no "finishing school" but rather a liberal arts college for women with a curriculum in no way inferior to the educational program available in the best colleges for men. To them and to such dedicated members of the faculty as Maude Woodfin, Susan Lough, Fanny Crenshaw, Gertrude Beggs, Isabel Harris, Caroline Lutz and others of the same stamp Westhampton owes her preeminence.

Such names, as Editor Dabney points out, "bring back memories to alumnae and friends of Westhampton and provide a cachet of excellence, as it were, for that institution. May it prosper even more greatly during its second half century!"
Beauty is more than superficial and to assure its continued charm the University of Richmond Lake—the focal point of landscaping for the campus—will have its very foundations renovated at a cost of approximately $100,000 during the summer.

The lake, heavily silted beyond its functional use as a flood control agent, was drained on June 8. Work was started immediately on the project which will include enlargement of the spillway at the lower end of the dam and the straightening of the channel below the dam.

Work on the spillway and dam will be rushed so that a new bridge connecting Richmond College and Westhampton College will be completed before the start of the September term.

What to do about the lake has been a perplexing problem ever since the development of the land above the lake lessened the effectiveness of the watershed. Floods in the summers of 1959 and 1960 did damage totaling $30,000. The floods carried tons of coal from the area adjacent to the powerhouse. The powerhouse stands upon the banks of the meandering creek which serves as an overflow channel from the lake to the James River.

To guard against repeated losses by floods, the level of the lake had to be lowered. This caused some areas of the upper reaches of the lake including the island, to rise from the water as an eyesore to the campus.

The new spillway will permit a flow of 3,850 cubic feet of water per second as compared to the 780 cubic feet per second capacity of the old spillway.

The flow of traffic across the lake will be accelerated with the construction of a two-lane bridge to replace the one-lane bridge in use since 1914.

The draining of the lake opened the floodgates of campus interest. There developed many facets which were not previously considered as by-products of the program. Members of the University's science department found it a source of continuing research. Dredges are busy lifting silt collected on the lake's bottom. At least 20,000 cubic yards of mud and sand will be moved from the 20-acre lake to provide fill for an area adjoining Robins Athletic Field.

Dr. William S. Woolcott, Jr., associate professor of biology, and two of his students jumped into hip-deep mud and silt to collect fish as specimens of biological study. Dr. Wilton R. Tenney, also associate professor of biology, stood by with a camera to photograph the work and catalogue the fish.

Thousands of small, stunted fish—catfish, bream, crappie (silver perch), carp and even goldfish—were permitted to work their way through the small creek to the James River. A few were collected to transfer to a holding pond so they may be used for restocking of the renovated lake next fall.

Dr. Woolcott's groups collected fish to

The Alumni Society's Newest Representative on the Board of Trustees

L. DUDLEY GEORGE

Who is technically number one on the University of Richmond degree parade? He is L. (for Lewis) Dudley George of the class of 1923, who has just begun an eight-year term on the University's board of trustees as a representative of the Alumni Society.

The University was incorporated in 1920, the year that young George, then only 15 years old, enrolled in Richmond College. But George, as always, was in a hurry and completed his degree requirements in three calendar years. Hence, he became the first student to win a University of Richmond diploma with academic credits earned exclusively during the period following the University's incorporation.

Dudley George's accomplishments in business, in the life of his community, and his loyalty over the years to the University, have proved that the first was indeed one of the best of the University's sons.

Mr. Astrop was his favorite professor, and Davis Ratcliffe, '24, George Freedley, '25, with whom he went to grammar school, and Roger Mann, '24, his closest on-campus friends.

Besides his B.S. from Alma Mater, Dudley George won a civil engineering degree from Cornell in 1926.

"Attending the University of Richmond was very much of a family tradition with us," he recalled, "because my father was in the class of '79 and my two brothers were in the classes of '08 and '10. Luther, '10, was killed in a hunting accident while still an undergraduate.

"I am a great admirer of Dr. Modlin as well as of Dr. Boatwright, and I feel that we are mighty fortunate to have them as presidents. It was a wonderful thing to me the way Dr. Boatwright got the money to begin the building of the present campus."

L. Dudley George was born on February 15, 1905 in Richmond and lived at 807 East Clay Street. His parents, Henry H. and Lilian Wright George, sent him to the old Richmond Academy, whose principal was the late William Prince. He finished at John Marshall High School.

In 1935 two great events occurred in his life. On June first he married Sally Barret, Hollins College, '29, of Richmond as Dr. Solon B. Cousins performed the ceremony at the Second Baptist Church on "the hottest night that ever happened." The Georges met while on a city-wide treasure hunt.

That same year he joined the Richmond Guano Company, which sells its products in Virginia and North Carolina. All of his work has been administrative and requires him to read an abundance of trade journals, cutting down on the detective stories and biographies, which he likes.

At Richmond Guano Company he has served successively as secretary, secretary-treasurer, vice president and, since 1961, president. He has been a member of the company's board since 1940.

Mr. George has served as president of the Plant Food Institute of North Carolina and Virginia and has been chairman of the

FOOTBALL

By WALT DREWRY

Coach Ed Merrick believes his Spiders will be better this fall than the 1963 eleven which posted a 3-6-1 record against the strongest opposition in the school's history. Although the schedule is a representative one, schools such as Tennessee, Florida and Syracuse are missing this season.

West Virginia opens the Spider slate at City Stadium on the night of September 19 and V.M.I. comes to town the following Saturday night, September 26. The Spiders hit the road for six straight games (Southern Mississippi, The Citadel, Davidson, East Carolina, Holy Cross and Buffalo) after that before returning for the Homcoming contest with Furman on November 14 and the annual Thanksgiving Festival clash with William and Mary on November 26.

Merrick expects 16 lettermen to return but loses a like number. There's not a letterman among the guards or centers and the Spiders lost their starting tackles. However, the backfield will be faster and deeper and there's a fine crop of ends.

Ronnie Smith, the 6-4, 225-pound quarterback who threw eight touchdown passes last season, should have a fine year hitting such targets as All-Southern End Pete Emelianchik; John Hilton, 6-5 flankman returning from a year's absence; All-Southern Halfback Kenny Stoudt, Norris Aldridge, Kirk Kressler and Sophomore Bruce Soderstrom.

Stoudt, who averaged 5.7 yards a try last season and was a standout on defense, heads a group of experienced backs which include Halfbacks Pete Britton, Warren Hayes and Aldridge and Fullbacks Ron Gordon and Roger Moore. Stoudt, who is co-captain this season with Joe Stromick, who will see a lot of service as a defensive back. Don Matthews, a breakaway runner from Chowan Junior College, and Sophomores Ronnie Grubbs and Larry Zunich provide offensive depth at the halfback posts.

Letterman Mike Smelser and newcomers Bob Crute, a speedster who may see some offensive service, Larry Shotwell and Rick Payne turned in good deepback performances in Spring drills. Soph Doug Davis showed up well as a linebacker and probably will see some offensive duty at fullback. Sophomore Jan Linn, Letterman Bill Silvi and Bob Makowsky back up Smith at quarterback.

With Hilton, the Southern Conference's top pass receiver in '61 and '62, Emelianchik, Kressler and Soderstrom available plus Ed Kullaf, Bob Ring, Soph Don Carfagna and Bob Prince, all fine defensive flankmen, the Spiders may have the best group of ends in the area. Prince, another Chowan graduate, can double as an offensive tackle.

John Deeter and Dick Hodsdon, the only lettermen tackles, move up a notch to replace last year's starters, Larry Duty and Al Mitchell. Having lost four such guards as Joe Kessel, Dick Foutz, Fred Mancuso and Gerald Loefstead, Merrick will have to call on Bob Andrews, promising sophomore, and Bernie Ortwein, for offensive duty at guard. Soph Sam Anderson has the big job of replacing Jim Helvin at center.

John Gillen and Mike Robochik, a couple of big fellows, are slated for defensive tackle posts. Soph Larry Pew, Ray Tate and John junior college transfers Bob Solomon (Gordon Military) and Bill Ballowe (Chowan) should help the guard situation. Terry Smith, another transfer student from Gordon Military, is a fine defensive center.

Defensively Merrick believes the Spiders will be strong. His chief concern is offensive line depth.

SPIDERS NOSED OUT FOR BASEBALL TITLE

For the first time in 10 years the University of Richmond baseball team experienced a losing season, Coach Mac Pitt's 30th Spider nine finishing with a record of eight victories and 11 defeats. The Red and Blue posted a 5-7 Southern Conference mark for a fifth place finish. However, it took a 7-5 Virginia Tech triumph at Blacksburg on the final day of the season to prevent the Spiders from capturing the State Big Five title.

The Spiders, as the result of ace Right-hander Bob Philyaw's brilliant three-hitter, had blanked V.M.I., 4-0, the previous day at Lexington to throw the Big Five battle into a two-way tie. Going into the scrap at Blacksburg, both Richmond and V.M.I. had 4-2 loop marks and Tech a 3-2 mark. The Spiders led, 5-1, after four innings but the Gobblers staged a five-run rally in the fifth that turned the tide and beat Lefty John Snyder. Thus, the Keydets and Gobblers tied for the crown with a 4-2 marks with Richmond third with a 4-3 loop record.

Philyaw, a junior from Alexandria, accounted for five of the eight Spider victories, his lone loss being a 3-0 setback at the hands of West Virginia. G. G. CLARK RETIRES FROM WILLIAM AND MARY

Professor G. Glenwood Clark, '14, retired in June as professor of English at William and Mary College after 40 years of service. Professor Clark has been chairman of the department since 1956, and chancellor professor of English since 1957. A native of Richmond, he received both B.A. and LL.B. degrees from the University of Richmond and a master of arts from Columbia University. He began teaching in the extension division of William and Mary (later the Richmond Professional Institute) and came to the Williamsburg campus in 1925.

From 1919 to 1925 Professor Clark was a featured book reviewer in the Richmond News Leader, and since 1930 he has been in demand as an oral book reviewer for civic and social groups throughout the Tidewater area. He has published several hundred articles and short stories in national magazines.

Among his many publications are a dozen books, many of them aimed at high school and youthful readers. His biography of Thomas Edison has been translated into 19 Asiatic languages, while two other works have been translated into Portuguese.

He is currently president of the North Carolina-Virginia College English Association and chairman of the Virginia Humanities Conference.

He served as visiting professor of North American literature at the University of Brazil in 1953.

Sanford, a member of the Hargrave class of 1925, was presented a plaque by a former student, Col. James R. Nash, a retired U. S. Army officer, at the Hargrave homecoming.

Sanford's father, with J. Hunt Hargrave, founded the academy, where Sanford was a star in football, basketball, and baseball. After graduating from Hargrave he returned for a year of post-graduate work.

Sanford enrolled at the University of Richmond in 1925, and won four major sports letters. He was All-State for two years in football, and All-State in three sports his senior year. He won a total of 13 letters in college sports.

He returned to Hargrave in 1929 where he coached until 1942 when he went to Randolph-Macon College as director of athletics and coach of football, basketball and baseball. During his seven years there his teams won five conference championships.

In 1949, he resigned to go to Wake Forest College as baseball coach and assistant football coach, where he stayed until 1956. After a brief business career he took his present job.

Sanford has been a player and manager in amateur and professional baseball, and has served as a scout for the New York Yankees. As a college coach at Wake Forest, his 1951 baseball team represented the U. S. in the Pan-American games at Buenos Aires, Brazil, finishing in a tie for second place.

The American Association of College Baseball Coaches elected him "Coach of the Year" when his 1955 baseball team beat Western Michigan 7 to 6 for the NCAA National Baseball Championship.

He has served as president of the Hargrave alumni association.

The University’s 1964 Law Day, April 25, was a record-setter for attendance as 448 law alumni and their ladies returned to renew old acquaintances and to tell new tales (some of which were vaguely familiar to regular attenders).

The adage that law alumni would rather eat than listen was confirmed by the record attendance at the evening banquet. The daytime program on the campus was attended by 150 alumni and wives, who filled the Law School courtroom to capacity.

Registration commenced at 11:00 a.m. At noon, the alumni were treated to a highly informative panel giving reports on the “doings” (and the “didnts”) of the 1964 Virginia General Assembly. Three alumni legislators, Delegates George E. Allen, Jr., ’36, Harold H. Dervishian, ’32, and T. Dix Sutton, ’23, composed the panel.

After a luncheon on campus, the alumni returned to hear Dean Charles P. Light, Jr., of Washington and Lee University tell of “Famous Ladies in the Law of Torts.” What lawyer could ask for a more delightful combination of business and pleasure?

The campus activities concluded with the VMI-U of R baseball game. The end result was the low point of the day as the Spider nine finally conceded, 9 to 4.

At the conclusion of the banquet, the baton of office passed from one branch of the State government to another, as Judge Jesse W. Dillon, ’31, of the State Corporations Commission was succeeded as president of the Law School Association by E. Ralph James, ’24, of Hampton, a veteran member of the Virginia House of Delegates. Elected vice-president was Congressman J. Vaughan Gary, ’15, Virginia Ivey, ’48, and Carle E. Davis, ’54, were re-elected secretary and treasurer.

WOODFORD B. HACKLEY

The contributions of the one whom we delight to honor today lie in several realms.

He is a historian:
Everything else about him, professionally and personally, springs from this. His mastery of classical languages of Greek and Latin have come about because he wanted to know first-hand what these writers had to say. Also, he early realized that language unlocks the secrets of the past. Many historians and would-be historians never acknowledge this, and, therefore, never qualify. Dr. Hackley knows that history is an oft told tale; that it repeats itself. But a man must be alert to interpret apparently isolated incidents to see the pattern. He knows that the historian is also an interpreter.

He is a classical scholar:
This means that he studies thought, language, and event, but that does not make him an antiquarian. The classical scholar is a humanist; not in religion, but in the humanities. He is after the order of Erasmas and Aristotle. The true classical scholar in every generation is the only real contemporary man, for he knows the past; therefore, understands the present and is not too fearful for the future. Sciences, philosophies and theologies come and go, but the classical scholar abideth forever.

He is a teacher:
Someone said that his idea of a real university was a student on one end of a log and Mark Hopkins on the other. This extreme statement has some truth in it, if Dr. Hackley were on the teaching end of that log. Three things make a great teacher:
1. Knowledge and love for the subject,
2. Ability to communicate and inspire those who learn,
3. The ability to relate the subject to the whole field of knowledge.

In all of these respects Dr. Hackley measures up with plenty and plus. He knows that education is not only for usefulness, but for enjoyment and enrichment. He has never been hoisted on the petard of pragmatism. He knows that the storehouses of the past contain not only events, but literature, the knowledge of which can give pleasures of the mind forever, and reassurance too.

He knows the difference between history and myth. He knows that both contain truth. He has the patience to do research for the one and the sense to accept the contribution of the other. His ability to ferret out a detail of date or place that completed research is unmatched in my observation.

He is a Christian gentleman:
No evaluation of him would be correct that fails to note his genuine, deep, and unobtrusive Christian faith. To him Jesus Christ is the continuing culmination of history. "The one supreme event toward which the whole creation moves."

He is a warm and wonderful friend:
Even as a teacher he found a way to establish personal relations with those who were congenial without any compromise of dignity or authority.

And so today, not as valedictory, but as a salutatory we gladly present this portrait of one who served our beloved school as ranking member of the faculty in point of service when he retired, as the efficient secretary of the faculty, who found a way to make Catullus, Horace, Ovid, Sappho, and Virgil important; and Livey, Xenophon, Scipio, Hannibal, Xerxes, Julius Caesar, and the Little Fork Rangers starting contemporary.

May God give him many years to enrich our lives.

Thank you for teaching us "ad astra per aspera."

board of directors of the National Plant Institute. He has been a director of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Port of Richmond Advisory Commission, a member of the board of Bank of Commerce and Trusts, a member of the Advisory board of the State-Planters Bank of Commerce and Trusts, and a director of the Suburban Bank.

He is a past president of the Hampton Roads Post of the American Society of Military Engineers.

World War II found Dudley George eager for action. He was commissioned a captain in the Corps of Engineers in 1942; in '46 he was discharged as a Lt. Colonel. For his service with the Engineers he received the Army commendation ribbon.

Fond of watching football and baseball, Mr. George gets his exercise by working on the beautiful grounds of his home at 210 Amphill Road. Other non-business activities for this Byrd Democrat are his membership in the Rotary Club, since 1938, and the Commonwealth Club. He is an active alumnus of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity. The Georges attend the Seventh Street Christian Church which he has served as a deacon and as chairman of the board of trustees.

The invitation to celebrate Westhampton's 50th and 1919's 45th Anniversaries received such enthusiastic response that '19 won the award for the largest percent representation at the Alumnae luncheon on June 6th. Twenty-two members renewed long standing friendships and doted cares and years as a round of festivities unfolded. Audrey Colonna Twyford from West Virginia and I were the first arrivals on Thursday. We were joined on Friday by others who were soon feeling comfortable in familiar dormitory rooms with roommates of college years. In addition to the regular alumnae activities, the members of the class of '19 had three very spontaneous laughter, the thorough enjoyment and appreciation of all, gave eloquent make the attendance 100% in 1964. To those who were mindful of every detail in making this such a happy occasion for us all. It was a pleasure to have Miss Crenshaw with affection. So many happy little anecdotes of our freshman year were related. She our freshman sponsor, whom all of you remember, with the added mathematics major and former teacher in the College of William and Mary. Margaret Fugate was one of the distinguished alumnae honored this year at the Anniversary luncheon. She received a Distinguished Alumna award. Members of '22 present for the anniversary celebration were Mary Fugate, Julia Roop Adams, Jeanette Henna, Alice Garnett Thomas, Eva Timberlake West, Zola Leek and Leslie Booker. Hilda Lawon Jecklin, who has been teaching for 44 years in Washington, D.C., is retiring this year. She was honored by her co-workers at the time of her retirement for her outstanding service during the years.

Following is a list of those present for one or more functions of the celebration: Julienne Brown Carpenter, Virginia Bundick Mayes, Audrey Tolonna Twyford, Anna Decker, Elizabeth Gaines, Virginia Gay, Helen Hancock Hundley, Margaret Hutchinsen Rennie, Virginia Jones Snead, Virginia Karnes Wright, Margaret Lawns Decker, Mildred Lewis McDaniel, Elvia Miller Abernathy, Lilian Robertson Carter, Esther Sanford Jett, Frances Shipman Sutton, Margaret Semmes McKillop, Elizabeth Sydnor, Hester Tichenor Wartfield, Elizabeth Tompkins, Janet Wyatt Foutain, and Virginia Trout Swann. It was a pleasure to have Miss Crenshaw and other friends join us in some of our 'parties.' Thanks to each of you who came and helped make this such a happy occasion for us all.

The 1922 Secretary

Thomas Kent Adams, son of Julia Roop Adams, was married May 9 at four-thirty o'clock at River Road Baptist Church, Richmond to Miss Sara Farley. Many alumnae were at the wedding and at the reception at the Country Club of Virginia. Julia entertained at dinner for the wedding party, families and our out-of-town guests at the Commonwealth Club the night before the wedding and Leslie Booker entertained the day of the wedding at luncheon in honor of the out-of-town guests. Seventy-five guests attended the luncheon.

Mary Fugate was one of the distinguished alumnae honored this year at the Anniversary luncheon. She received a Distinguished Alumna award.

Our deepst sympathy goes to the family and friends of Katherine Hardiman Crowder, who died very suddenly last December. I am sorry not to have informed you sooner, but learned of her passing quite recently. Our sincere sympathy also is extended to Norma Colemaan Broaddudd, who lost her sister in May.

Fortunately, despite death and sadness, life and happiness survive. Both of the latter were evident at our luncheon dinner on Friday evening, June 5. Eighteen of us "girls" attended the dinner—too many to list. Inez Hite and Charlotte Francis Sloan were in town, but another engagement prevented their joining us for dinner. We met at 6:30 in the Hermitage Club for the wedding party, families and our out-of-town guests. Seventy-five guests attended the luncheon. The Alumnae Association previously decided that each class should elect a permanent president, a secretary and a fund chairman. The group nominated and elected the following:

Margaret Fugate Carlton—President
Elizabeth Coceo Carter—Secretary
Hilda Booth Beale—Fund Chairman

The three officers are expected to work together on all phases of class work. I am sure Elizabeth Carver will want news from you for the next issue of the Bulletin, so here is her address: Mrs. Stewart F. Carver, R.D. 3, Lawrenceville, Georgia. Please make her term pleasant by sending her your news items.

So many who couldn't be with us wrote letters bringing us up to date on their activities.
TRIBUTE PAID RETIRING ALUMNA

"Thorough, sincere, and effective," was the tribute paid Hilda Lawson Jecklin '22, by the District of Columbia School Board when she retired in June after teaching for 34 years in the District schools.

Throughout her career her major field of instruction has been mathematics. She has been active in the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, was prominent in curriculum revision in the 1940's, and at the time of her retirement was chairman of the department at Calvin Coolidge High School. She also served as faculty advisor for business affairs of the school newspaper.

Her service has been recognized by the Architectural and Engineers Society of Washington who awarded her a citation for superior teaching.

Mrs. Jecklin holds a master's degree from George Washington University and has done additional graduate work at D. C. Teachers College, American University, the University of Wisconsin, and the University of Virginia. Before going to Washington, she taught in public and private schools in Virginia and for two years in Lander College, Greenwood, S. C.

and happily celebrated with the hope that our next reunion will be as joyful.

Mary Virginia Daughtrey expressed it very well when she said that we had reached the newsless stage of our lives. Evidently most of you think that because you don't write me any news. I'm indebted to Mary Virginia for the only news item I have.

Gene Edmundson Barnay says she stays busy with her two grandchildren whom she enjoys immensely. Margaret Dorscy visits Richmond now and then but rarely ever sees anybody from Westhampton.

Marian Marsh Sale's son was married last summer—or some news to some but new to me. Harriet Willingham still flies around the world with her work.

Mary Virginia did some flying last summer. She had a wonderful trip to the Holy Land and Europe. She attended the Baptist World Youth Conference in Beirut, rode the camel down to the pyramids, and did lots of other things tourists like to do.

1929 Secretary

Thelma Pruden sent clippings and a program of the dedication of the new "Julie" Gymnasium at Newport News High School. "Julie" is Garland January's husband and has taught and coached the boys at Newport News High for thirty-seven years. They have shown their appreciation by naming the new gym in his honor. Garland and "Julie" have two sons; Julie, Jr. is chief resident of New York hospital where he is finishing his internship in surgery. He and his wife have a small daughter Harry. The younger son is a second year dental student at MCV and loves his work.

Marguerite Lacy DeJarnette and Thomas have returned from visiting their daughter, Jean and her family in Miami. Jean has a son "Nicky." Thomas, Jr., his wife and children, Ken and Mickie, live in South Boston. Marguerite wrote that she had heard from Ruth Pickens Sapp whose son had received the D.S.A. award for "Young Man of the Year." Ruth has two grandchildren.

Mary Stevens Jones has won four more awards for her daily news column.

Elizabeth Chandler Cox wanted to come to our reunion but as librarian for Darlington School for Boys she was unable to leave. She did write news of her family. "Thad," her husband, is chaplain of the T.B. hospital in Rome, Georgia. Jane, their youngest child, is a sophomore in high school and has been tapped for National Honor Society; she has also been selected to take the test for the Governor's Honors Program. The older son, Chandler, is teaching Navigation under ROTC at Illinois Institute of Technology and taking graduate courses in Electrical Engineering. Paul is a graduate assistant in English at the University of Oklahoma. He hopes to get his Ph.D. in 1961. Their daughter is married and Chandler has a little girl.

Virginia Snow Richardson and Howard are living in Charlottesville, and attending graduate school. Susan graduated from Hollins in '62, and is teaching in a suburb of Boston. Mary Stevens Jones has won four more awards for her daily news column.

Margaret Flick Clark is being sent to L.S. A. as an A.L.A. Staff Representative late in June. She plans to visit her family in Des Moines before returning home. Bobby graduates from high school June 24.

Sarah Cohn Ettenheim is now President of the M.L.F. the first woman to be chairman of a major policy-making commission for the city. She writes: "I returned to school in February of '62 and received a Master's in Political Science in June of '63. I am now on the staff of the Univ. of Wisconsin in the Bureau of Government doing programming for adults, primarily for public officials. Our children are doing well; George, Jr. is now a well-established research meteorologist; Liz lives in Seattle where her husband is practicing law. We have four grandchildren with a new arrival due in May."

Congratulations to two new grandmothers in our class. Geneva Smellings' granddaughter had a little girl born in April, named Jean after her grandmother. Jessie Miller Turner has a grandson, Lewis John Turner, III. She and her daughter, Jessie Turner, attended a birthday celebration on May 16 for Mr. Turner, at which time John and Ellen brought the baby for his first visit.

Our sincere sympathy is extended to Ruth Powell, who lost her mother this spring.

I received a letter from Bucia Myers recently. They are still enjoying their summer with the College in Fairfield, Iowa. They hope to make a trip back to Virginia by next winter.

Congratulations to Emmett Mathews, Jr. who graduated from Duke University in June.

Weddings and graduations help to fill the days for our class.

Carol Ann Jurgens and Jacob Van Bowen, Jr., son of Polly Madison, were married in March. They are living in Bon Air.

Kay Hardy, daughter of Kat Harris, and Bill Weidell, son of Ann Dickinson, were married in June after his graduation at V.M.I. They spent their honeymoon in Bermuda.

Ed. Jr.'s son, was graduated at Thomas Jefferson. He expects to enter the University of Virginia this fall.

Mary Cornelia Simpson, Mollie's daughter,
Mary Cornelia will appear next time. Finished high school in June. More news of herself had cooked a delicious buffet supper which I wish all of you could have enjoyed. Held on the lawn at Liz Henderson’s home secretary, were present; Ann Wood, Julia Donohue Marlin, Amye Herrin Hill, Nancy Davis Seaton, Billie Allen Geoghegan, Hazel Hemming Seay, Laura Mae Thomasson Leitch, Margaret Proctor Swenman, Katherine Bell, Grace Rowland Wells, Frances Gee, and Cornelia Gould Lutz, and Mrs. Booker; their presence made 1934 · Scott . We were sorry that Penn Shepherd unexpected illness.

Chis day an outstanding occasion . Alumnae College on Friday June 5th. Our have Miss Lutz seated at our table. She had Bell, Billie Allen Geoghagen, Laura Mae Thom­ asson Leitch, and myself. We were glad to have Miss Lutz seated at our table. She had set up an International Puppet Exhibit in Keller Hall especially for the weekend. She told us of her plans to attend the Puppet Festival in Miami during July.

Among the news items gleaned from this reunion were several graduations. Julia Martin’s daughter, Julie, received her BS from West­ hampton this June, and Elizabeth’s daughter, Katherine Sergeant Newby has made her home in Baltimore Md., where her husband is chief of Ophthalmology at the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital. Mrs. Robert Bill, has received an appointment to West Point which he may not be able to accept due to a serious operation. The younger son, Scott, has been a junior at Massanutton Military Academy in Woodstock, Va. this year. Katherine herself has worked as a volunteer at the Baltimore Museum of Art and has been serving as president of the Officers’ Wives Club and as vice­ president of the Westampton Alumnae group there.

Gene Newton West and her husband made a Baptist Mission tour covering 37,000 miles in 49 days. It included the following places: Baltimore, Richmond, Washington, D. C., Annapolis, Maryland, Bermuda, Thailand, the Philippines, Hong Kong, Japan, and Honolulu. After her return to Boston, Gene attended a state Baptist meeting at which one of the speakers was Miss V. Agnes Bill. Gene wrote that she looked charming in her Thai dress and gave a splendid talk.

Katherine Brown Van Allen was in Richmond for the weekend of May 9th while Harold went to his 50th reunion at U. of R. A group of us met her for lunch in town and were shown family pictures including a wedding and a new grandson. Katherine just beamed at the idea of having a visit for Carl Louis Bruhn, born January 18th.

We extend sympathy to Virginia Puckett whose mother-in-law passed away on June 1st. And now, to return to the business part of our reunion dinner, we have new Alumnae rules. Each class will have three officers instead of one, and those we elect are the following: President—Hazel Hemming Seay, Fund Drive chairman—Amye Herrin Hill, and Secretary—Virginia McIntosh Puckett. But don’t think you have gotten rid of me! I shall go on pasting glue. I want to thank each one who has written letters through the past seven years and hope you’ll continue to keep in touch with me and with your new secretary.

Virginia Sanford Brian’s son Dan, 19½, has completed his sophomore year at Rice University in Houston, Texas. Jim, 17, will be a High School senior in the fall. Husband John is a staff engineer at Humble Oil and Refining Co. in Baytown.

Ursula Moredecai Lyle, owner of the Ragged Robin Gift Shop, Virginia Beach, expressed her regrets that she could not attend the reunion because of the demands of business.

Christine Taylor Brown, who lives in Baltimore, Md., was very sorry too to miss our gathering. Nor could Helen Cunningham Laney arrange a trip from High Point, N. C.

We were sorry indeed that Frances Lumsden Gwynn was kept at home by the illness of her husband who has had a stroke. We’re hoping for a complete recovery.

Elizabeth Claybrook Bristow sent us greetings from Urbana.

Marjorie Guest Sparkle wrote a delightful letter about Florida living and how much she enjoyed it. Her future plans may include a return to Virginia when her husband retires. Frances Fokkes Duncan, another Florida resident, reported that Miss Sue and daughter, Barbara, Bryant, and her baby boy (born October 28, 1963) have been spending time with her while Lt. Ray Bryant is on maneuvers in California. Also, daughter Suzanne has been a junior at UC Santa Barbara for the past year, and Butch a junior in High School. In addition, Frances has a very special hobby of her own, namely raising Milanes cats.

Katherine Sergeant Newby has made her home in Baltimore Md., where her husband is chief of Ophthalmology at the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital. Mrs. Robert Bill, has received an appointment to West Point which he may not be able to accept due to a serious operation. WESTHAMPTON’S FIFTIETH

Overheard... As Dean Keller, in familiar cap and gown, appeared amidst a spontaneous ovation to preside over “Reflections”: “She looks ten feet tall.”... Between classes of Alumnae College: “I thought I’d never get out. Now I know I’d never get in.” At a table of guards of the forties during awards presentation: “All right, girls, get busy for the next 25 years.”... One alumna to another, speaking of a third: “She must dye her hair. We were in the same class so she couldn’t be that young.”... Walking from chapel to Keller Hall: “My this hill has grown higher!”... After the symposium where one speaker questioned the currently popular “feminine mystique”: “Now I can go home and admit I’m happy. I had begun to think from reading the latest that I was a traitor to have a degree and enjoy my kitchen.”... From grad, accompanied by high school daughter: “I brought her to expose her to the intellectual atmosphere and she’s impressed. Now she knows how educated I am.”

Bouquets and Boutonnieres to: Margaret Leake ’31 for an excellent job as chairman of the year-long celebration.... President Frances Anderson Stallard ’28 for her skill and grace. Margaret Monteiro ’15 for coming the most miles—all the way from Hawaii. Jean Neasimth Dickenson ’41 and Dean Margarette Roberts for bringing to the campus an outstanding array of guest speakers. Grace Roland Wells ’34 and committee for a heartwarming exhibit of memorabilia... Josephine Nunally ’31 for a proud display of alumnæ publications....

the O’Flaherty Trio—Celeste, Mayme and Barbara—and cast for bringing back memories.... Mary Thayer Holt and Ann Pavey Garrett, both ’42, for many gracious hostess duties.... Jean Tinsley Martin ’50 for decorations. Myra Hudson Martin ’52, Sarita M. Lewis ’53, and committee for a heartwarming exhibit of memorabilia.... Josephine Nunally ’31 for a proud display of alumnæ publications....

Many of you probably have family weddings, graduations, trips and other news to report. Please write and share them with us.

Our class was represented by Helen Denoon Hopson, Marjorie Pugh Tabb, and Frances Williams Parkinson at the alumnae luncheon and fashion show at Willow Oaks Country Club in April.

Lyndele Pitt, chemistry teacher at Thomas Jefferson high school, was the proud sponsor of eight Thomas Jefferson students at the Virginia Junior Academy of Science at Charlottesville in May. These top science students work on research projects throughout the summer.

Also at Thomas Jefferson, Diane Page, Boo’s youngest daughter, was tapped for the National Honor Society, whose selections are made on a basis of scholarship, leadership, service and character.

Wedding bells rang earlier in the year for Hertha Cherryman ’30, who married Adrianne Forst in Portland, Oregon on February 2. Parents, Sue Bonnet and Herbert Chermside got in a western trip in attending the wedding.

Our 25th Reunion is over, leaving us with many pleasant memories of wonderful friendships renewed. We missed all of you who were not able to join us.

Who returned for the dinner at Elizabeth Ashbrook Jackson’s, the tea at Sarah Hoover Jones’, and the enjoyable events at college were: Charlotte Anne Beals, Elizabeth Ashbrook Jackson, Elsie Bradshaw Kinter, Elizabeth Burch Fowlkes, Scottie Campbell Jacobs, Betty Conrey VanBuskirk, Marian Conrey Smith, Christine Duling Spomer, Mary Jones Farby, Martha Elliott Deichler, Anne Eppes Regester, Alice Evans Watson, Evanile Flowe Wells, Margaret Harris Quick, Sarah Hoover Jones, Ruth Houser Kinson, Lois Lyle Mercer, Mildred Markham Jackson, Elizabeth Mitchell Drinkoll, Kate Peterson Klaflky, Cally Ross Lewis, Charlotte Turner Williams, Betty A. Turner, and Dorothy U. Turner. Myself.

We had interesting letters from some of those not present. Cassandra Harmon wrote that she is leader of a Girl Scout troop, to which she has two girls, ages 8 and 11-1/2, belong.

A camping trip kept me busy. Dippy Danner Hryharrow wrote that her son, Jon, was graduating from high school.

To her host, Harris, the University of North Carolina in the Fall. Son, Danner, is a senior at Princeton. Their daughter, Dale, will enter high school in the fall. She says her days are full Maybe Sue will run into Hazel Weaver Fobes in Paris, for Hazel and her family are moving into July from India. John Fobes is now with UNESCO in Paris.

Harriet Walton is beginning her sabbatical by travel during the summer in the British Isles and France. Harriet plans to visit Hazel (her cousin) in Paris.

Rhoda Talley Stewart did the promotion for the Hartford Symphony. I heard Captain Kan-of the usual activities, plus doing pastel and oil portraits.

Marian Wiley Ellett who lives in Aiken, S. C., was also attending a graduation. Son Jim, was finishing high school and will enter Duke next fall. David is a Junior at Davidson and daughter Janet, is a Senior at Midwood High.

Marian Conrey Smith’s son, Rick, will enter Rockford College next fall. She says it’s nice having Betty in Westfield, New Jersey, instead of Texas.

Elsie Bradshaw Kinnier’s daughter, Ann, is a student at Western Reserve.

Elizabeth Kellogg told us about the wonderful trip that she and Norman had to Nassau, aboard the Queen Elizabeth.

Kate Peterson Klaflky stayed with me. She brought her son, Roger, a student at Wesleyan, along and our boys had fun getting to know each other. Kate’s daughter, Lynn, will enter Wheaton in the Fall, after a trip to Europe this summer. Kate says we should all come up to the World’s Fair and please call. They live in Huntington, Long Island.

Juliet Shuck told me that her husband has retired from the Army, and they are now farming, raising cattle. They live about five miles from Augusta, Georgia. They have three children, two sons, ages 13 and 7, and a daughter 12.

I will have two sons at Randolph-Macon College, Ken III, 21, and Bill, 18, and one son, Frank, 18, at Vassar College.

Our questionnaire revealed that our husbands have a variety of occupations: construction, law, business, medicine, science, and engineering. Those who replied have an average of three children. Three of us have earned a Master’s Degree, and one an M.D. Many of us have attended college classes since graduation. We have had many positions, including those as secretary, counselors, librarians, church workers, social service with teaching the most popular. We have lived in 22 states and 7 foreign countries.

At the tea at Sarah Jones’, Anne Scott Campbell Jacobs was elected permanent President for the class of ’39. Pat Walford was elected Alumnae Fund Chairman, and I was elected as Class Secretary. Pat and I will serve for the next five years.

Remember to mark your calendars for the 50th. You know how time flies! Until then, the news will be as good as your letters to me.

As with our last issue of the Bulletin, we start this time with a wedding. Our congratulations go to Tommy Holloway, son of Herbert and Connie Attkisson Holloway, who was married in April to Miss Kathy Rueger. The young couple will make their home in Richmond while Tommy attends the Richmond Professional Institute.

Margaret Ligon Bernhart came to see me on Mother’s Day weekend while she was visiting her mother. Margaret is normally busy as the mother of four. We had a fine time marvelling over the ways of teen-agers, and reminiscing about high school and college days.

Our congratulations go to two high school graduates. Betsy, daughter of Billy and Janet Gresham Manson, and Mabs, daughter of Tony and Dell Williams Smith, graduated from College in Richmond. In April, Janet traveled to Los Angeles for a convention. She enjoyed the week away from routine with husband Bill.

Harry and Saddey Sykes Williams are planning their annual summer trip to Nags Head, N. C., where they loaf whole-heartedly. Sounds lovely!

Robert Winfrey Cannon’s family is planning to attend the Unitarian Church Conference near Asheville, N. C., in July. Her daughter, Henrietta, after studying at Pan-American Business College, is working for two lawyers in Richmond. Son, Arthur, who, according to Mom, is an excellent driver, plans to enter a teen Road-co this summer.

Jane Davenport Reid’s family is making preparations to attend the Episcopal Conference at Shrine Mont, Orkney Springs, Va. Virginia Vaughan Noe has joined the ranks of the gainfully employed. She is a secretary at Morton Northern, Accoustical Flooring. Virginia also reported that the Noe family has moved to 6118 Patterson Ave., Richmond. Please take my address with you on vacation and drop me a card. Your doings are of interest to us all.

It’s particularly rewarding to hear from someone who hasn’t been included in our news recently. “Betsy” Epes Hardy writes, “I’m having an unusually interesting two-year term as the executive of the Women of the Church in our local Blackstone Presbyterian Church. At Massanetta last summer and at various meetings, it has been fun to see Westhampton girls—not all were Baptists!”

“I’m still working as a secretary here in our Transport office. In recent years I’ve taken some art lessons so that painting is my newest, most fascinating hobby.”

Virginia Lee Ball Glover wrote me, “There is an active AAUW group here (charlotte) and I’ve been a member since moving—and have enjoyed it so much. But our energies are aimed at moving and we must build or find a house soon.” She spoke of seeing Dot Roberts, who ‘was mulling over ‘tramp-steaming’ to some place—maybe even a trip to Rome during the summer—how divine! Ho-hum—at least my dreams are technicolor!”

Dotty Hewes McGlnny now has a part-time paid job as Secretary of their Township Republican Party in addition to being a Girl Scout Leader; she is also about to take on some church duties.

Helen Davis Grimm Pence teaches in Robert Fulton Elementary School and so is associated with some of the same people with whom I come in contact in our section of town. She looked fine when I saw her in May—in glowing, happy health.

The two neophyte psychology majors in our home keep us in constant analysis. If you say, “Good morning!” that really is, “What are you trying to tell me?” Patricia has been seeing Jean Neasmith Dickinson, who has truly made a new place for herself on the campus.

Several of you (and the mothers of some of you) offered real comfort when my mother was killed in an automobile accident on May 12. My vague promise to help was suddenly taken up by Joni Johnson Black. So write, you all, WRITE! Anne Byrd Tucker Moore completed her Ph.D. in November! The Moores’ new home is almost finished. Son Billy is a freshman at U. of N. C. and Linda, a ninth grader at Catherine’s. Does ‘43 have any other Ph.D’s?"

Harriett Lewis Goodman is the new president of the Woman’s Auxiliary of the Richmond Academy of Medicine. Her Winnie, 17, is Virginia v.p. of MAFTY (Mid-Atlantic Federation of Temple Youth), Bob, 14, and Mike, 9, are busy with scouts, music, and a new Bassett puppy.

Recently Rose Koltukjian Wallace and family returned from a two-weeks vacation in Sarasota, Florida, with Jim’s parents. With both boys in school this year, she has filled up her time. Dolly Dorsey Garwood’s Dave is now Squadron Commander in the Air Force and she has been substitute teaching in Newburgh, N. Y. She also is a citizenship merit badge counsellor for Boy Scouts and teaches a Sunday school class where all seniors are college-bound and two are going to the Air Force Academy. She is proud of them.

Carolyn Babb Hefflin’s daughter Carolyn has been accepted by Westhampton for next year. Marguerite Shell Ritchie and George are moving to Charlottesville where George is taking a three-year residency starting July 1.

Ann Oakes is meeting her sister, Royette in Geneva for a month's trip to Zurich, Florence, Rome, Athens, Cairo, Beirut, Tel Aviv, and Paris.

Since I scarcely get beyond the groceries and the grocery store, you all do keep me posted on your doings.

Our 20th reunion was the best yet! They came from all directions by all manner of travel. Bussey flew from N. Y., Lois Kirkwood, North came by train from Illinois, and Jinx Thompson Paarhus piloted her own plane from Stuart. Also present on either one or both days were: Mary Alderson Graham, Ann Burcher Stansbury, DeeDee Kirk, Helen Curtis Patrick, Billy Jane Baker, Ann Thurston Filer, Millie Cox Goode, Louise Walters Hill, Betsy Rice and Mary Bowden Felger from Richmond, Dot Linken and Natalie Lum from Petersburg, Ruth Cotton and Norma Saunders Grantley from Arlington and Alexandria, Doris Hedgepeth Neal from Roanoke Rapids, N. C., Mimi Hill Boynton from Roanoke, Lois Hester Blackburn from Waynesboro, and Gloria, Gene and myself from Portsmouth. In all, if my count is correct, 55 children were represented by those of us present. Who said Westhampton graduates are all keenly aware of the absence of Miss Harris, and reminiscing about each one. We had a wonderful week end. The correspondance, scrapbooks, flowers, food and hospitality didn't stop there, and we thank you all!

We were disappointed to miss many of the old faithfuls. Rita Copley and Ann Green were preparing to move, Ellen Mercer readying a trip abroad. The scrapbooks were constantly in demand. We poured through them diligently reading and reminiscing about each one. We had a lovely bouquet of Anthurium sent from Fran and Kay in Hawaii. And, of course, we were all keenly aware of the absence of Miss Harris, our class sponsor.

Friday night we had a delicious buffet at Mary Graham's. Everyone looked so good. The gray hairs and plum faces seemed to soften the haggard look of the "tired thirty-s"

I came away feeling life really did begin at forty!

Sat. night we had an informal party at B. J. and Ballard Baker's. Husbands were included and it wasn't long before they were comparing bankins, business and baloney. Of course, one knew when to go home! But it was such fun; and I hope B. J. will forgive us for staying so late.

This fall more of our youngsters head for college. Courtney Goode graduated with high honors at Collegiate and is bound for Hollins. Al Copley will come south to U. of N. C. Kathy Cotton will go north to U. of Conn., Garland Sheaffer will come east to Randolph-Macon. I am looking forward to Fleet's getting to know her. Ann Stansbury reports Barbie is very happy at W&M.

We were fascinated with Bussey Goldsmith's participation with the theatrical group in Chappaqua, N. Y., and with Jinx Paarhus' tales of her activities which include teaching a S. S. class, PTA, Bloodmobile, heading TWO Girl Scout Troops, and giving flying lessons! I just can't begin to tell you about all.

We are so indebted to the Richmond girls for all the planning and preparation for such a wonderful week end. The correspondance, scrapbooks, flowers, food and hospitality didn't just happen without a lot of hard work, and we thank you all.

Please let me hear from you so I'll have some class news to write about. And don't forget the Alumnae Fund. Incidentally the Alumni Luncheon is BEAUTIFUL! We should be very proud of the small part we were privileged to have in making that dream come true.

1945 Secretary
MRS. HOWARD B. CONE
(Elizabeth Parker)
606 Chandler Circle
Richmond, Virginia

There was so little time between the mailing of the last Bulletin and the writing of this letter that you all just didn't have the opportunity to send me the latest news about yourselves. I have hardly begun this job and now find that I have to pass it on to someone else because we will be moving to Wilson, N. C. around July 1. Howard is going to be the new president of R. P. Watson Tobacco Co. We live what you did in Richmond—hate to leave our many friends here but also look forward to life in Eastern North Carolina. Do you know who your next class secretary will be? But please write to her often so I can keep posted on what you folks are doing.

Jane Wray McDorman is finishing out a teaching term in one of the high schools here for a girl who had to resign. She says she is thoroughly enjoying her work.

If any of you get to Wilson, please come to see us.

My plea for news last issue brought a letter all the way from California: Elaine Well Weinberg (Mrs. Lawrence Weinberg) wrote that "we are now transplanted to California soil and we love it through it was quite a wrench for us at the beginning. We are settled in Palo Alto, about 40 miles from San Francisco and this is an exciting and stimulating area. Larry is working with United Technology Corporation and I keep more than busy with 'ladies organizations' and the children's activities. Amy goes into Junior High next year and has the usual sub-teen passion for horses, swimming and music. Our eight-year-old Julie spends most of her spare time climbing trees, but she does come down occasionally to go to ballet or Brownies. The real ruler of the household is Jonathan whose great adventure at the moment is preparing for kindergarten. We are at home at 3927 Grove Avenue and would be pleased to see any traveling Westhamptonites."

Nancy Todd Lewis wrote a newly note mailed in a previously addressed envelope by Joyce Eubank Todd had mailed her for this purpose. Maybe we could get a bit about everyone if all of our group leaders would try this! Of course, Nancy was babbling about her son whom I told you about in my last letter, but I must quote Nancy: "Had three girls and now (in old age) find a son." She added that she and her husband (Ashton) had just returned from the World's Fair and found it fabulous. It was a surprise trip for her, which was wonderful, but after three days in New York, it was nice to get back to Gatesville, N. C. with its three hundred population.

Not much news this time but by now you should be in the midst of vacationing. Please send your group leader a card and let us know what you did for excitement this summer

Margaret Goode Vicars and Joe welcomed Sarah Woodson on Feb. 25th. She weighed in at Vages and has her mother's dark hair. Higgie wrote that she and Dan enjoyed a night of dining and dancing in the early spring with Martha Edwards Allen and Bobby. Also the lovely Willey Kiser and Avery attended the Alumnae Luncheon in the Tidewater area.

Pat Guild Robertson writes that she and Lois Johnson Willis see quite a bit of each other having young league baseball. They did quite well too—coming in second in their league.

Elise Merer is teaching nine hours of Advanced French this year and planning to take a group to Europe in the Spring. By now they must be enjoying their Junior Year Abroad.

Verda Sletten Hobbs wrote that her Debbie is in Kindergarten now but she is still kept pretty busy with old and new hobbies.

Her husband, Milton, is teaching and doing some writing this year.

That’s all for now. Hope your summer is happy and lazy.

1949 Secretary

MRS. JAVIS ENNIS (Doris Moore) 1772 Old Buckeye Road
Hampton, Virginia

The Richmond girls have made several attempts to get together recently. March the 6th they gathered at Jean Bisceo’s to write the Alumnae Fund appeals to each of us. A card party was scheduled during that week which turned into a gab fest and house tour at Joan Johnson Sandidge’s. She has quite a collection of antiques which she has used skillfully in decorating her home.

We all extend our concern to Sally Taylor Duboise whose father passed away April 19th. Also I received the news that Lois McClanahan Garrett’s husband was in a serious auto accident in late March which hospitalized him for some time.

Several of the girls will be on the move. Ginna Herndon Pugh and Alger are moving to Danville in June. Alger has been appointed head coach at George Washington High School. He has had excellent seasons in Staunton, but he is glad to get into group I-A competition.

Ginna finished out this year teaching a fifth grade class in the same school with Susana Lovern Peeler’s oldest daughter. You may contact her at 167 Melrose Avenue, Danville after July 1st.

Margaret Sabine Brzinden will move to 4008 Stuart Avenue, Richmond in August. That is if she gets over her trip with a troop of twenty Badges on wheels and rolled down the road to a residential development. Her husband is still pastor of the Cave Spring Baptist Church. Her address is 4626 Rosecrest Road, W. Roanoke, Virginia. Bliss Holcomb’s son, Paul, is in the same fourth grade with Patty, Frances’ daughter. Some have made their summer plans. Betty Hardin Elmore will vacation at Myrtle Beach camping. She said they had experienced a busy winter with their family of twelve boys. Both her mother and her father have had health problems this year. Betty has been home twice on emergency trips to help out. Now they are back on their feet. Jim, her second grader, is a real help with little Elizabeth who was born shortly after our reunion.

Margaret Elliott Ownby plans to visit Ralph’s kin in Okla. and get a trip to C.P. in August they will journey to Maine for Ralph to attend a seminar.

Millicent Hutcherson Taylor and family have been to several places this spring. We enjoyed Easter and Mother’s Day together. This summer we plan to attend the World’s Fair together. Also we will go to Nag’s Head for some sun and surf.

Peggy Stone Cunningham has put in her order for a long, hot summer. She and Jerry hope business will be good at their Overhill Lake. Peg is busy golfing and keeping her two boys on time to Little League Baseball games.

When Thomas Jefferson High School had its 20th reunion Betty saw Jackie Jeter Shock. Jackie is still very busy in her job, secretary to the governor of West Virginia.

If you travel west this summer, don’t neglect to let Ann Clark little know when you pass through Chicago. When I received the cards with addresses of all our class, I was amazed to realize that Ann was living in the town with my sister-in-law. We had visited there without knowing that Ann was any place around.

Randel is in research supervision in chemistry for Standard Oil of Indiana, better known to us as American Oil. They have three daughters, Beth, 11; Pat, 9; and Susan, 5 years old. Ann has been active in the local AAUW. At present she is vice president of her chapter. Occasionally, they come East to visit their parents. Randel’s people are in Richmond, and Ann’s parents have recently moved to Martinsville.

Her address—8347 Kooy Dr., Munster, Ind. Ruth Bellwood has had her hands full this winter with a new baby, Linda born in mid-December. David had minor surgery this spring, and the inevitable chicken pox.

Betty Wilcox Ownby plans to visit Ralph’s in March and she had her hat in the political ring this year, too. Both of her daughters are in school politics.

Sally will be sophomore senator at J and Conni will be a student government representative at Westhampton Junior High.

Bish also wrote that she had seen Barbara Dean Kolcum shopping recently. J obbie has been taking a night class at RPI.

This letter has been so fun because I have heard from so many of you who knew something about me this year. I’m glad I can pass on the fun—my mail man never complains about delivering your letters!

1949 Secretary

MRS. WM. K. BANKER (Barbara Rhodes) 1700 Chadbroke Drive
Richmond, Virginia

I got a nice long letter from one of our members who was listed as “lost” in my last letter. Libby Wilensky wrote that she wasn’t really “lost” at all. Since she will be celebrating her 12th anniversary in December, she thought we should know that she is married.

After graduation, she went to Hartford, Connecticut, to teach and met Sam Hendler. After they were married they lived in Connecticut for a few years, then moved to Canton, Ohio, where they now live. She has two boys—David, aged 9, and Bruce, aged 3. She also holds down a full-time teaching position as a third grade teacher. Her address is:

Mrs. Samuel Hendler
206 34th St., N. W.
Canton, Ohio

Jackie Smith Hagan has had an overnight visit from Peggy Reynolds Nolan, Jim and the children in April. Peggy and Jim are living in Little Silver, N. J. They live in a resort town and sail and swim all summer, so they usually take a winter or spring vacation. Her address is:

Mrs. James Nolan
25 Laurelwood Dr.
Little Silver, N. J.

Another lost member was heard from. Maribeth Nichols Turner wrote from California, where she and Tom have been living for four years. In July Tom will be leaving for a year’s tour as the Medical Officer of the First Marine Air Wing. Because of regulations, Maribeth could go for only two months as a tourist, so she will stay in California and continue her studies in Interior Design. Her address is:

Mrs. Thomas Turner
5667 Greenridge Road
Castro Valley, California

Mitzi Verra Williams, Jack and their two children visited in Richmond over Easter and went on to Washington for a sight-seeing tour. They have a new home in Winson-Salem and are enjoying it and the Wake Forest College area.

Rene Calhoun McCarty wrote that Carolyn Bonham Thompson’s family and friends are going to equip a room in the Methodist Church in Marion as a chapel in her memory. It will be a lovely memorial and one of lasting comfort to her family and friends.

Hathaway Pollard Clemans wrote with news of a new arrival. David Justin Clemans was born January 5, 1964, making a neat little family of two boys and two girls. Cheryl Ann, their oldest, is now 5, Susan Hathaway is 4, and Thomas William is 2.

That seems to be all of the news for this time. And this completes my year as your secretary. Your new secretary will be elected at our reunion and I hope all of you will give her your full cooperation and keep the news pouring in.

1951 Secretary

MRS. CHANNING BASKERVILLE, JR. (Libba Eanes) McKennedy, Virginia

Susan Jones Zeller is busy remodeling her home. Her daughter, Katy, is 14 and Stuart is 12. We send our sympathy to Susan in the loss of her father last October.

Marilyn Montague Harper’s new address is 8538 Trabue Road, Richmond. Marilyn and Air Wing. Because of regulations, Maribeth could go for only two months as a tourist, so she will stay in California and continue her studies in Interior Design. Her address is:

Ocean City, Maryland and plan a trip to Maine in July.
Joan Dalvé Heiger and Marshall have bought a cottage at Nags Head, North Carolina and are looking forward to the summer months down at the beach.
Anne Rogers Crittenden and Crit went to Virginia Beach in April for a weekend of golf but most of the time it rained. In spite of the bad weather they enjoyed their stay.
I am sorry that this letter is so short but remember that it depends on you. Please let us hear from each of you in the next issue.

1952 Secretary
Mrs. S. Scott Herbert
(Bettie Snead)
Boydton, Va.
Here is a report from Jeanne Hootman Hopkins' group:
1) Anne Brehme lives at 1300 Park Ave., Richmond and is a lab technician in research at M.C.V.
2) Jane Camlin is Mrs. Norman Miner, 9214 S. E. Lincoln, Portland 16, Oregon. She is a busy housewife who enjoys skiing. Norman is in the U. S. Forest Service, working on his Ph.D. in Forestry at the University of Washington. Their children are Jeffrey Neil, 3 and Gretchen Eve, 2.
3) Kathleen Cole is Mrs. Willard E. Lee, Jr. I appreciate so much the note from Kathy telling us of her plans. She and Stuart are moving back to Richmond this summer. Her new address will be 4604 Hanover Ave. She is going to teach at Collegegate and Stuart will enter first grade there. Kathy has been taking courses in political science and history at Atlantic Christian College. They had a weekend in February in Chapel Hill with Ann and the fourth bedroom.
4) Nancy Gouger is Mrs. Joseph F. Winglewisch, 6407 South Mayfield Lane, Mechanicsville, Va. She is a Research Bacteriologist at M.C.V. and be a Customer Engineer with IBM.
5) Jeanne Hootman is Mrs. Peter H. Hopkins, High Street, Chatham, Va. She teaches first grade in Danville and Peter teaches chemistry and coaches track at HMA. Their children are Alan, 7; Christopher Bruce, 5; Thomas Jarrett, 3; Kimberly Elaine, 1.
6) Betty Jarrett is Mrs. John Nye, 4101 Richmond-Henrico Trpk., Richmond, Va. John is a sales representative for Burroughs Corp. Their children are Alan, 7; Christopher Bruce, 5; Thomas Jarrett, 3; Kimberly Elaine, 1.
8) Liz Kennard (Mrs. Guthrie Kennard, III) lives at 1311 Spring Rd., Richmond, Va.
9) Peggy Lou Whitman is Mrs. Cornelius E. Hoffmann, 620 Yorkshire Rd., Portsmouth, Va. Her husband is Assistant Principal, Cradock Junior High School. Their son, Tracy, 2. Peggy got her Masters at U. Va. in 1958.
Betty Crews Watkins and her mother spent a week in April touring Rome and Venice. A daughter, Ann Lindsay was born March 8, third child of Barbara Cowborne Clarke and Herb. After two boys, they are delighted to have ruffles in their household.
Marlyn McMurray Rishell has a new address, 4390 Alton Place N. W., Washington 16, D. C. Rish has returned from his hardship year in Libya on Jan. 29th so the Rishells are happily together as a "normal family" again. They found a house not far from Murf's parents and Rish is apparently in the Washington area for the next two years. Murf writes that Rish likes to putter around the house and has been busy painting and fixing.
Bev Randolph Shannon has a new address, 516 Lexington Ave., Richmond, Va.
Joyce Bell Cody has just won the election for Democratic Committee-woman in her district in the Pennsylvania Primary. The Codys are buying a house not far from where they now live. New address will be 1629 Princess Anne Dr., Lancaster, Pa. They are pleased, of course, and looking forward to the extra space and the new neighborhood.
Two interesting trips for Dizzy Stuart-Al exander have been one to Lalibella by plane and mule, and another one to a place where she heard there were pre-dynastic man's artifacts at "Lalibella, a place I had never heard of before coming here, is a fascinating old mon­astery-church village. It is situated high up in the mountains on top of its own hill against a backdrop of green and golden encircling mountains, it looks out over about 30 miles of canyons, gorges and intervening ridges, end­ing up against a distant mountain. It is a truly spectacular view and setting. The Tower itself is about 10,000 feet altitude, meaning that the nights are clear and cold, the days hot when the sun is shining, but distinctly cool in the shade. Even olive trees grow up here, but no tropical palms or bananas.
"The historical interest in Lalibella lies in its churches. These are monolithic structures, literally carved down into and thus out of the rock outcrop. The church, and are amazing mixtures of Christian, Jewish, Eastern and pagan designs. All sorts of symbols from the Old Testament are shown. The sun and moon, to the crucifix, are represented. Very fascinating indeed."
in kindergarten, and Stephanie is at home. Steve is very busy with his law practice, civic duties and a dozen hobbies. Pat is superin- tendent of the nursey department at church and plays bridge, which is her contribution to her welfare. Her only contact at the present with W. C. is when she sees Jo Deter Sullivan in Harrisonburg. Since Steve is the local club president.

Janet Francis Midgett writes “As you see, we are now Californians. I was promoted to Assistant to the V. P., International Di- vision of Friden on March 1. We had a wild scramble trying to get away from Mobile, find a home in this huge San Francisco area (in three days), and get here. We all jetted out in the lap of luxury but then had 10 days to kill while the distances are so tremendous here that they say I may join him occasionally on a trip or two. We live about forty miles from S. F. and about twenty miles from Berkeley. Our house in San Leandro. Our house (finally a four bed­ room) is situated near the foot of Mt. Diablo in a picturesque setting of walnut trees and rolling hills; but in the daytime but always under blankets at night). Pets are everywhere. The girls made the school change gracefully and are adjusting nicely to the new neighborhood. Bob has left for Mobile, closing his office building which he never got to use. Then on to Boca Raton, Fla. for the annual convention. Coming home, he will visit Juan, Panama City, Caracas and Mexico City. I had a long letter from Sandy Bakal Cerracc. She and Milt are doing nicely in Allentown, Pa. and their Wendy and Amy keep them hopping.

What a wonderful letter. Let’s hear from some more of you ’53ers along these lines.

From Louise Hodgins McNally we hear that Dr. Marie Joy Mason is now living in Silver Spring, Md. and doing cancer research for the National Institute of Health in Bethesda. She has been traveling a great deal to Con- necticut for data in various hospitals. Joy bought a place near the lake and her winter quarters. Her winters are colder (with snow on top of the mountain) and summers are hotter (in the 100” during the daytime but always under blankets at night). Flowers are everywhere. Bob’s job consists of travelling world-wide, visiting Friden offices or setting up new ones. He will concentrate on the Latin and South American region and the Orient. All of you who feel you’ll never get to travel because you don’t know foreign languages, don’t give up hope. Bob is now refreshing his high school Spanish at Berlitz and knows not a tad of anything else. The McNallys visited him occasionally on a trip or two.

Congratulations were extended to Sue and Bill Cooper on the arrival of Harriette, born April 6th. The Coopers are building a new home and expect to move in by July.

On June 8th Laura Mapp left with some schoolteacher friends for several weeks in California.

From the reunion Nancy Lay left for a week in Florida before returning to teach summer school at the University of Tennessee.

Carol Jones writes of her plans to teach at the largest high school in St. Petersburg, Fla. next year. She is living with her parents at 9726 52nd Terrace North, St. Petersburg, Fla. 33708.

Garnetta Anderson Coates in her letter tells of her activities as the busy mother of Mildred, 7, and Lynda, 3, and the wife of Jim who is pastor of the Baptist Church in Fairport, Va.

It had been some time since anyone had heard from Lola Varney Williams and we appreciate her letter so much. Her son, Rii Owen, was born June 27, 1962, while she and Jim were in Charlottesville. A month later they went to New Orleans for a year.

Their next stop in working their way across the country was Santa Fe. In July they plan to return East where Jim will go to graduate school at the University of N. C. Lola writes that she would appreciate hearing from anyone, especially those in the vicinity of Chapel Hill. Write her in care of her father, W. J. Varney, Williamson, West Virginia.

Nancy Lou Gilbert, now Mrs. Jack E. Griffin, paid a surprise visit to Marcie in Blackstone in April. She was en route to Longwood College for her 10th reunion. She has three children; Larry, 9, Erica Lynn, 3, and David, 2. Her address is 300 Pughsville Road, Portsmouth, Va.

Other new addresses:

Shirley Ward Wingfield
345 Ethlam Court
Hampton, Va.

Barbara Cronin Lowell (Mrs. Robert)
25 Melrose Place
Montclair, N. J.

Miss Mary Jane Miller
9012 Patterson Ave. Apt. #3
Richmond, Va.

We are happy to announce to all those who were unable to attend the reunion that Jane Lanier Synovitz is our new Secretary. Those of us who saw Jane at the reunion assured her that we will send her lots of news to her Municie, Indiana address. We hope the enthusiasm shown over our big weekend will continue through letters to Jane. Be sure to write her of your summer vacation—everyone! Her address is:

Mrs. Robert Synovitz
1505 Riley Rd.
Muncie, Indiana

Our other two newly-elected officers are President, Nancy Graham Harrell, and Alumnae Fund Chairman, Marcella Hanzack.

Did you grab up the Spring issue of the Bulletin, eagerly turn to page 33, and then not find any news for 1956. I certainly hope you were not disgusted. So disgusted in fact, that you decided to do something about the deplorable condition of our class information service.

I've tried everything but sending plastic bombs in the mail to gather news, but nothing moves our class in an attempt to get better coverage. Pat Eanes Jackson and Joyce Still Gibson sponsored a meeting, with delicious refreshment, in May. At that meeting the group decided to try the plan so many of the other classes use effectively.

To try and remedy this situation, a group of brave pioneering people have reorganized our class in an attempt to get better coverage—or at least some coverage. Pat Eanes Jackson and Joyce Stainless Gibson sponsored a meeting, with delicious refreshment, in May. At that meeting the group decided to try the plan so many of the other classes use effectively.

The brave group leaders should be mentioned here as well as Helen Melton Lukhard who has been sparking this plan for a long time. These are the leaders—be kind to them.

The class' newest addition to the population explosion belongs to Helen Melton Lukhard and husband who added the third child, Laurie Elizabeth who was born December 21, 1963, in time for Christmas. Maco Moring Horton has a new daughter also, Miss Martha Macon who was born March 2, 1964. Word comes from Ann Carol Malcolm and Nick of a big (9 lbs. 6 oz.) boy, John McLagan, who was born April 28, 1964.

Two older births that we missed are William Hudson Moore who belongs to Doris Huffman Moore and husband. He'll be one year old on July 2, 1964. Doris has a new address: 1309 Forest Ave., Richmond, Va. Also Pat Ballard Larus told us of a daughter, Elizabeth Dunham, who was born September 6, 1961. Pat is working now with older children in adoptive placement for Department of Welfare, City of Richmond.

Rose Dranchek Martin is doing volunteer work one day a week at Richmond Cerebral Palsy Center.

We were all saddened to hear of the death of Joyce Still Gibson's mother and grandfather in the early spring.

Janet Knoble Jones is moving as soon as her teaching chores are over. Her new address will be 3604 Elmbrook Road, Wistar Gardens, Richmond, Va.

On a personal note, for the first time since their honeymoon, Larry and I finally took a vacation: New York, World's Fair, Broadway Shows, Fancy eating. It was a wonderful week and I hated to come back to an overgrown garden, sewing machine covered with mending and three mean little boys. My only regret—not seeing Liz.

We divided the class into 14 groups of four or five girls and each person at the meeting agreed to become a group leader responsible for collecting news about that group and forwarding it to me. The group leader will contact you when it's time for your group to fill in any items about yourself and then I can write a half-way readable letter from this information.

Also, in the near future, you will be receiving a newsletter, plus questionnaire, from your own sweet group leader, giving details of this grand plan and asking about what you have been doing for the last eight years. Like having five children perhaps? We intend setting up a card file on the class, so the next class secretary, God bless her, won't be so completely in the dark. There is a rumor that if you don't return this questionnaire all your hair will start falling out. At least, that's what the witch promised me when she put the spell on it.

These people are lost! Does anyone have any news, addresses, or clues as to where we can write to them?

Mrs. Rudolph M. Wood, the former Helen Siner (B.A., '56), and her husband were appointed May 14 as the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board's first missionaries to the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg. They will begin their work with an English-speaking congregation started in 1965 by a Baptist engineer from the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood met in 1954 when they did summer mission work in Jamaica, sponsored by the Baptist Student Union of Virginia. They now live in Rustburg, Virginia, where he is pastor of Rustburg Baptist Church. They have two children, Laura Ann, 20 months, and David Malcolm, three months.

They were among 22 missionaries appointed by the Foreign Mission Board in May, bringing the Southern Baptist overseas mission staff to 1,842.

I am very happy to have the opportunity to be a welcome class secretary! It is always fun to have news from old friends. My goal is to print news about each '57er at least once a year and I will need the help of every member. There are many wait to have news of you.

Carol Dickerson Kaufman writes they have decided to spend at least one more year in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania where Chester will take a residency in Internal Medicine. Carol has finished making her first wool suit, did some swimming at the YWCA and is playing tennis now. She expects to spend time in Eagle Mere this summer. Craig, age 9½ years, and Scott, age 5, are a constant delight and challenge to Jim and me.

We are all waiting hear from you. Do write.

Anne-Martin is spending an exciting life in New York City and can now officially be given the title, "published author." Look for her contribution in "WORTH REMEMBERING," which is a collection of stories written by members of the UDC. In addition to her job on Wall Street, Anne-Martin is taking voice and German lessons. She has given several programs this season to private groups. If any of you happen to be in the area of Franklinton, take Dot on the 22nd of June to stop in at the Workshop Gallery to see the pastel portrait of Anne-Martin done by the noted artist, Eleanor Gay Lee.

Ann Holohan writes that she and Curt have been living in Virginia Beach for three years. Curt is practicing dentistry there and they like the area. They have one daughter, Stephanie, age two. Ann is active in the Junior Woman's Club, Jayettes, Auxiliary to the Tidewater Dental Association, and church work, but is never too busy for the beach or a hand of bridge. Ann says she would like to hear from any of you who might be vacationing at Virginia Beach this summer. Their wedding will be June 20. Peggy Ware will be a bridesmaid if she is able to walk after breaking her toe recently. Beverly Coker Hobbs and Don announce the arrival of Donald Arnold, Jr., born April 17, 1964. Kay Crawford Trimble and Bob have another son, Robert Lincoln, Jr., born in May. Kay writes that "Linc" is the world's best baby and one of the fastest. Janie Davies Whelch and Don have a newborn daughter, Laurie Elizabeth, born December 19, 1963. Janie and Don attended the State Dental Meeting in Washington and bumped into Mary Beth Stiff Jordan. ('59) Nancy Eikerman Nicholas and Don have another daughter, Laura Renée, born April 24, 1964. Congratulations to all the new '58 babies.

Sam Beale Swallow is enjoying the sun and surf at Guantanamo Bay and is an active member of a softball team here. Some of our professional teachers are retiring this June. Among them are Violate Moore Nash, Hudson Parsons, Mary Jean Simpson Garrett, Jean Huddings Frederick, and Carolyn Moss Harr. Mary Ellen Thomas will receive her M.S. in Library Science in June. She is employed at the MCV library.

Emily Damerel King and John are settled in Carmel-by-the-Sea, California. They are living right in the heart of Steinbeck country and say they can easily understand his fascination with the area. Emily看望ed Europe June 12. She plans to meet Annette Masters and hopes to see Anne Hite Owen Huband. Janie Davies Whelch will hear more about Nancy Jane's exciting trip in September. Mary Alice Revere was appointed by the Foreign Mission Board in May, bringing the Southern Baptist overseas mission staff to 1,842. Linc, age 5½ years, and Scott, age 3, are a constant delight and challenge to Jim and me. springs as of June 5th and several expected in June and throughout the summer. Four children busy the lives of three of our classmates. Mary Ann Williams Haske, ginny Schracka and Nancy Benec each boast two boys and two girls. We have husbands in all professions that you can imagine, so help them where they may need, a '59er can supply the man to do it. And we are located across the states from California to Virginia and from Maine to Florida. We are abroad in France, Germany, and Okinawa. However, most of us are still in the grand state of Virginia. Nancy told us that Bert's return from his 18-month tour of duty will be on June 5th. We have several 14 classmates who have so faithfully helped where help was needed. Special thanks go again to my group leaders without whom we would never have had a column in the Bulletin this year. They have shown! Stop and think how glad you are to receive the Bulletin four times a year and to keep up with the things that are happening daily at Westhampton. The Bulletin and the mail you receive costs money—and so does the work that goes into it.

Barbara Dulun Polis was between her old home in Hampton, Va., and her new home in San Antonio, Texas, when she attended the reunion. Charlie will move to Roanoke left in June. After finishing his fourth year as chief resident, they plan to go abroad. Bob is taking excess leave from the service and will be short in the story itself. But that is exactly what I must do this time and perhaps the reason is self-explanatory. Our first child, sewing, enthusiasm, and spirit. Always keep that fine, unbeatable '59 spirit! 1962 Secretary

Miss Robin Crum
8602 Bellefonte Rd.
Richmond, Va.

Despite the small attendance at our reunion, that was the highlight of the afternoon, and the exchange of news. I think all will agree that the highlight of the evening was Miss Wright’s impromptu and very entertaining ac­ount of her travels outside the space center in Greenbelt, Maryland by late spring. Lynne is a member of the American Association of University Women and acts as a guide for elementary school chil­dren at the National Gallery of Art.

Marcia Bowman Mosby and Sandy along with their five month old son, Chris, have moved to 1404 Bryant Street in Clifton Forge, Virginia. Sandy is training as the assistant manager of the Leggetts’ store there.

Mary Bucks is busy getting her plans straight for her August 15th marriage to Noland Pipes. Noland will be a senior in Episcopal Seminary at Sewanee in the fall and they will be living in the home of one of the professors who will be on a semester’s leave.

Barbara Case’s engagement to Allen Cobb has been announced and they are planning a wedding on June 20th. They will be living near Washington, D.C. since they both work for the Internal Revenue Service.

Gwyn Barefoot Raper, Jarrell, Porter, and Thomas have moved into their new home in west Richmond on 8512 Rolando Drive. Jarrell has received a fellowship in cardiology at the Medical College of Virginia for this next year.

Louise DeCosta writes that she is now working for the Peace Corps. Her job consists of reviewing applications of those individuals who desire overseas assignments. Louise wants to hear from any of the alumni who may be interested in talking about the Peace Corps.

Margaret Denman has received a Fulbright Summer Scholarship and will spend eight weeks at the American University in Beirut, Lebanon. Margaret teaches at St. John’s High School in Fair­field County.

Evelyn Spivey Drum and John will tour Europe for 58 days leaving on June 23rd. They will visit ten countries and also take time to visit John’s brother and his family in England.

Jennie Stokes is planning a late summer wedding to Bob Howe who is now doing work on his master’s in physical engineering at V.P.I. They are planning to live at V.P.I. this fall and Jennie will be able to finish her master’s in physical engineering. Sally Magruder Rawls will be in the wedding.

Pat Cluverius Goodman and Tim have moved to the west end of Richmond close to the new church Tim is helping to start, Grace Methodist Church. Tim received his master’s in Theology in May.

Barbara Spiers will be spending this summer at the University of Virginia working on her master’s degree in Education.

Dixi Hargrave and Claude Whitehead, Jr. are being married July 11th in Dinwiddie. They will be living in Chatham where Claude will begin his practice as a dentist.

Suzanne Foster Thomas and Bill have moved into a lovely town house on 404 Prince Street in Alexandria, Virginia.

This summer the federal government has saved me from teaching summer school. I have been awarded a National Science Foundation Institute in physics at the college of William and Mary. Jerry will work on his master’s in physics and I am told to arrive by August 15th. Claude will begin his practice as a dentist.

If you have any news, please don’t wait for me to ask, send it in now. News for the fall issue goes in by September 10th.

1963 Secretary

Miss Julia Williams
44 Pearl Avenue
Hampton, Virginia

Many of the class of ’63 returned to West­hampton for the May Day festivities and en­joyed chatting with classmates and catching up on all the latest news. For many, May Day was the highlight of the year and a chance to catch up with their college friends since graduation last June.

Liz Violette became Mrs. Walter Heard, Jr. on April 25th. Wedding bells rang on June 20th for Jean Morris and Talmage Foster. Jean and Talmage will live in Newport News. Aletha Goodwyn became Mrs. John Jenkins on June 27th. Aletha has begun teaching elementary school in Newport News this year. Carole De Rosa was married in June to Michael Lamb­ing. Many other recent engagements and mar­riages are Cecelia Stiff, who will be married to Leland Mahan on July 18th. That same day Judy Barlow will become Mrs. John Forsyth. Kay Blevins will be married to Bob Gillette. Later in the summer wedding bells will be ringing for Charlotte Hines, who is planning and will be married in August. Beth Holland will be mar­ried on September 5th.

Jackie Smithers is enjoying her work at M.C.V. Ann Cosby is now teaching at St. Christopher’s. Jean Copley Forbes recently fi­nished her comprehensive and is looking forward to receiving her degree in August. Grayson Foy is presently working for the Peace Corps and plans to devote the better portion of her summer to this. Foster Robertson is working on his M.A. degree at the University of California.

Gail Lush has returned from New Zealand and brought one of her hostess “sisters” with her. She plans to spend some time touring the United States with her friend. Archer Randle is looking forward to the tour of Europe this summer which will include study­ing in France. Mimi Brent Booker and Judie are planning a trip to East Africa this summer after a lengthier tour. Pam Koch, Joan Bishop, Sandra Nunn and Molly Riggins will be teaching.

Grayson Foy is finishing his degree at Stanford and is planning to take a year off from his graduate studies. She says she is looking forward to spending one more year in the States before heading for Oxford.

We have been informed by a member that the Leggett’s store there.

The Baltimore Club again participated in College Night, held at Eastern High School in Baltimore on Friday evening, November 8, 1963. Mrs. Leslie Booker, alumnae secretary, presented information about Westhampton and showed color slides of the school to interested juniors and seniors in high school and their parents.

The officers chosen at the May meeting to serve for the 1964-65 year are Miss Ruth Latimer, president; Mrs. Katherine Newby, vice president; Mrs. Judy Eastman, secretary; and Mrs. Conway Collins, treasurer.

It was also decided at this meeting to send to the Alumnae Fund one-half of the money in the club treasury.

Richmond Club

President: Mrs. Glenn S. Hesby
(Katherine Roberts)
900 West Franklin Street
Richmond, Va.

The Spring Luncheon Meeting was held at Willow Oaks Country Club April 11 with 110 present. The program was presented by L'Pell's Store with 14 Alumnae modeling.

We were pleased to have as our special guests four members of the first graduating class of Westhampton, celebrating our Fiftieth Anniversary. Their names are: Mrs. J. Sydor Philips, Mrs. W. L. O'Flaherty, Mrs. Bernard Schaaf, and Miss Ethel Smither.

At the Business Session the following were elected for the coming year:
Elizabeth Ramos Dunkum, '59, President
Muriel Webb, '60, First Vice President
Kitty Garber, '50, Corresponding Secretary

We wish them a successful term of office.

We feel we have had a most wonderful year and are happy to turn over to the Alumnae Office the sum of $420.00.

Roanoke Alumnae Club

President: Mrs. Donald R. Divers
(LaVerne Priddy '42)
5709 Littleton Road, N.W.
Roanoke, Virginia

The Roanoke club met at the Feed Box Restaurant on May 11. For our May meeting luncheon we were delighted to have Mrs. Leslie Booker and Miss Mary Ellen Anderson to discuss with us some of the problems of admission and the happenings at Westhampton during the past year.

Our two newest alumnae in the Roanoke area attended, Jean Sellars and Pat Curley.

Tidewater Alumnae Club

President: Mrs. Robert Callis
(Ann Hanbury)
105 40th Street
Virginia Beach, Va.

Our spring meeting on April 25, during gala azalea festival week, was a luncheon in the dining room of the Lafayette Yacht Club.

We were privileged to have Mrs. Booker and Dr. Moncure from the college to speak to us. Leslie reminded us of the busy schedule at school during June and urged us all to attend.

Dr. Moncure spoke to us about the University College and his summer school abroad, using movies to illustrate and giving us a most entertaining program.

We voted on our annual contribution to the school and agreed it would be helpful to have a steering committee meeting this summer to plan our entertainment for the students and an agenda for next year.

Washington Alumnae Club

President: Mrs. T. C. Muse
(LeVerne Priddy '42)
3501 N. Peery St.
Arlington, Virginia

The Washington Club enjoyed a full and varied program of interest in March. It sponsored an organ recital by Miss Suzanne Kidd of the University Music Department at St. Andrew's Church in Arlington. A reception followed in the fellowship room where we had the opportunity to convey our thanks to Miss Kidd for such a pleasant afternoon of music.

In April we united with the alumni of the University for dinner at the Charterhouse. Our guests, Dr. Robert Smart, Mr. Joe Nettles, and Mrs. Leslie Booker, gave us a look at the University today. This was another successful joint meeting assuring the continuance of the annual affair.

The final event was held at the Japanese Embassy in early May. Here we were shown the Tea House and had the ceremonial tea explained. Then we were introduced to life in Modern Japan by a movie. All were somewhat shocked by the extent to which Western civilization has influenced this eastern country.

The nominating committee was not able to present a full slate for next year at this time. However, the officers presented were elected: President, Cora Lynn Goldsborough, '46 and Treasurer, Evelyn Cosby. The remaining officers will be selected shortly.

Necrology

Dr. Walter Ernest Gibson pastor of Broadus Memorial Baptist Church for 35 years, died at the age of 91 in a Richmond hospital.

He had retired from the active pastorate in 1947. A native of Loudoun (Va.) county, he was a graduate of Crozer Theological Seminary, and received the honorary D.D. degree from the University of Richmond in 1915.

He came to Richmond and Broadus Memorial Church in 1912 after pastores in Kansas, Washington, D.C., and Virginia.

He has served on the Baptist Foreign Mission Board and as moderator of the Dover Baptist Association.

1905—
Robert E. Ankers, 81, of Falls Church, Va., died at his winter home in Clearwater, Fla., March 1.

Mr. Ankers was a retired vice president of the Southland Insurance Company. After receiving his bachelor of arts degree from Richmond College in 1905, he continued his education, receiving his master of arts degree in 1906.

He worked for the Life Insurance Company of Virginia for a short time after graduation, joining the Virginia Insurance Department in Richmond about 1912. He joined the Continental Life Insurance Company in 1921 and was vice president and treasurer of that company when it was bought in 1950 by Southland Life Insurance Company.

He was a deacon at Westover Baptist Church in Arlington for many years.

Dr. Julius J. Hulcher, 76, died May 25 in Richmond.

Dr. Hulcher was a graduate of the Medical College of Virginia, a World War I veteran and a recipient of the Purple Heart. A member of the Richmond Academy of Medicine, he was a member of the staff of Grace Hospital and Retreat Hospital.

He is survived by his wife, two sisters, a son, and a daughter.

1911—
John M. Elmore of Richmond died May 1.

He was a former secretary and general manager of the Hermitage Country Club.

1913—
John Walter Carlyle Johnson, city attorney of Clifton Forge, Va., for 37 years, died in that city March 27 after an extended illness.

Mr. Johnson was a native of Louisa County, and went to Clifton Forge in 1915 to begin his law practice with the late state senator Floyd W. King. He was appointed city attorney in 1926.

Mr. Johnson was vice president of the Clifton...
Forge Development Corporation and a director of the Mountain National Bank, the Whiting Oil Co., and a building supply company.

Survivors include his wife, a son, three daughters, five sisters, and 12 grandchildren.

1914—

Philip King Smith of Eustis, Florida died at the age of 71 at his home December 1, 1963. Mr. Smith had retired to Florida after making his home in New Jersey for many years. He was an accountant with a New York law firm. He is survived by his wife, a son and three daughters.

1916—

William Herbert Bahlke, 68, retired director of research for Standard Oil Co.'s Whiting laboratories, died November 29. He was the holder of several patents. Though he was a practicing physician, he continued his research and technical studies. Dr. Bahlke was the author of numerous technical developments in petroleum refining and was the holder of several patents. Though he had been confined to a wheelchair for several years, he continued his research and technical studies. Dr. Bahlke was the author of numerous studies published in technical journals.

An honor graduate at Richmond College, he served with the Navy in World War I, before joining the research laboratories of Standard Oil as a chemist. He rose through research ranks to project chemist, and at the time of his retirement in 1956, has been elevated from director of research to research co-ordinator. Dr. Bahlke was a member of the American Chemical Society, the American Petroleum Institute, Society of Chemical Industries, and the Armed Forces Chemical Association. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Dr. Bernard W. Leonard, 67, died in Washington, D.C. on April 15. Dr. Leonard, a specialist in internal medicine and cardiology during 35 years of practice in Washington, after receiving his medical education and degree from Johns Hopkins Medical School in 1923. He took his residency there and practiced at the Vanderbilt University hospital for many years.

He began his practice in Washington in 1929 and at one time was on the faculty of George Washington and Georgetown universities.

Dr. Leonard served as president of the Washington Heart Association, and was a past president of the Clinical Pathological Society. He served on the staff of Doctors Hospital and the Washington Hospital Society. He is survived by his wife and two sons.

1925—

Word has been received of the death of Dr. E. L. Alexander, on June 23, 1963 in Newport News, Va.

1927—

Dr. Francis Torrence Williamson, 56, a career diplomat, died in Rome February 7.

Dr. Williamson, who had been assigned to the American Embassy in Rome with the rank of Minister in January of 1963, had been a member of the diplomatic corps since 1944.

One of his many accomplishments was the work he did on the Austrian Peace Treaty. So excellent was this work, that at the time of his death, his family received a telegraphic tribute to him from the Foreign Ministry of Austria. It was one of the hundreds of telegrams and letters the family received from all over the world from his many friends.

Dr. Williamson received his Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins University, where he was an instructor in history from 1930 to 1937. He was active in Austrian, Central European and Western European affairs for several years before his first assignment to Rome where he served as counselor for Political Affairs from 1953 to 1956.

Subsequent assignments included special work at the White House, faculty advisor at the Naval War College, and as director of the Office of Research-Analysis for Western Europe, a position he held until his transfer to Bonn, Germany, in 1960. He had moved to his home assignment from Bonn.

He is survived by his wife and two daughters.

1930—

James Meredith Booker of Richmond died January 3. Mr. Booker was associated with Home Beneficial Life Insurance Company, a Richmond firm. He is survived by his wife, two sons, a daughter, a sister, and a brother.

Dr. Ellis G. Winstead of Belhaven, N. C., died February 5.

Dr. Ellis had lived in Belhaven since his graduation from medical school and was a practicing physician, the president of Belhaven and vicinity. An outstanding civic leader of that community, he served for many years as a member of the local committee for the Guaranty Bank and Trust Co.

The Rev. James Berry Dailey, 62, retired supervisor of the New Baptist Home for the Aged in Hamilton, N. C., died March 20 in Murfreesboro, N. C.

Mr. Dailey was a graduate of Hargrave Military Academy, and after attending the University of Richmond, received a bachelor of theology in 1930 at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

He served as an army chaplain from 1934 to 1936, and was pastor of three North Carolina churches for 16 years.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, a son, four sisters, and two grandchildren.

1931—

Word has been received of the death of Thomas J. Capel at Long Beach, California.

1953—

Mrs. Gladys Taylor Dollins, 52, of Quantico, Va., died May 11.

Mrs. Dollins was the widow of Major Raymond W. Dollins, and had been principal of John H. Russell Elementary School since 1953, where she received the degree of science degree at the University of Richmond.

Survivors include a sister and four brothers.

Jesus Christ. Standing in His presence, "we come to know that the call to life does come from the heights where the eternal God dwells in splendor inaccessible, but it arises, too, from the depth of our own being. We may come to see, too, that the pull toward dead irresponsible conformity is the call of the grave, however enticing it may at times appear."

"God has a great investment in you. It is more than the investment of your parents, your nation and your college, for his investment includes all of this and, in addition, that little spark of kinship to himself which we call life and which He intends to fan into life abundant."

Although neither the commencement speaker nor the baccalaureate preacher indulged in any platitudinous references to the glory of being beckoning to the men and women of the class of 1964, there could be no doubt that the outlook was bright. Both Dr. C. J. Gray and Dr. Thomas S. Berry, who have placement responsibilities in Richmond College and the School of Business Administration, respectively, said jobs were available for everyone ready to go to work. Both agreed that employers were becoming more selective and were making their bids for students with the best academic preparation and, hopefully, those who were not subject to military service. Employers were pictured as trying to hold the line on salaries after a period of several years in which the starting stipend has soared, although salaries for teachers were somewhat below that offered graduates going into business and science, the gap was less than in previous years.

The reason for the upswing in salaries can be given in "one of the most elementary of economic laws," Overton said, "the law of supply and demand." He pointed out that the number of students in school today, from the elementary grades through college, is higher than ever before. That means, he said, "more demand for teachers who can now enjoy this bettered competitive position." Placement officers at both Richmond College and Westhampton noted that many of the best graduates were going into teaching, either immediately or after continued education in graduate school. One graduate turned down a $620-per-month job in industry in order to accept a teaching job in the $4,800 range.

Dr. Overton said the range in salaries for starting teachers among this year's graduates is $4,300 to $5,000 with the average at about $4,500. He noted a brisk demand for teachers of English, as well as continued demand for teachers in mathematics, science and foreign languages.

More than half of the graduates of Richmond College will continue their education in graduate or professional schools. One of the Richmond College graduates accepted a job in the $7,000 range with a large company with headquarters in Toledo, Ohio, where he will be permitted to continue his education in graduate school.

Lake

preserve for biological study and some will be held in reserve for a new course of ichthyology to be offered at the University next fall.

The lake was overpopulated. This did not surprise the biologists. The lake has not been used as a fishing pond. There were between 60 and 75 large bass of the four- to five-pound class. They probably were of the original stocking.

"There was only one small bass of about seven inches," said Dr. Woolcott. This would indicate that even though the fish spawn in the lake there has been poor survival and growth for largemouth bass.

When lakes and ponds become overpopulated the fish will be stunted in growth.

A balance must be maintained.

Several huge goldfish weighing three to four pounds each were taken from the pond. Others were permitted to wash to the James River. Goldfish are relatives of the carp and grow rapidly in large bodies of water. They probably were placed in the lake by former owners who kept them in goldfish bowls.

Two carp which weighed 20 to 25 pounds each were taken from the pond. They probably served as a bait during their fledging days and escaped the hook of a poaching angler or, possibly, entered the lake by traveling the creek from the James River and moving over the dam during high water.

Carp make water unsuitable for gamefish by rooting up and destroying grasses which are valuable for sports fishing. They compete for living space and for food with game fish. They roil water and make it unsuitable for spawning for such fish as the black bass and sunfish. They do not eat the spawn of other fish. They can survive in waters not suitable for other fish.

Neighbors of the pond also have released "Easter" ducks upon the pond. Ducks join carp and goldfish in rooting up grasses of impounded waters and often cause stained water and lack of oxygen.

The surprising thing for Dr. Woolcott was a brown bullhead catfish which may be a record for the species. They usually grow no larger than three or four pounds. There were numerous bullheads in the lake. The large fish weighed 12 pounds and measured 23½ inches in length. It was a spent female.

"It had every characteristic of a bullhead," said Dr. Woolcott. "It's head measured 5½ inches across." The biologist is keeping the fish for a more thorough examination to determine that it is a brown bullhead.

"If it is, we have some kind of a record."

Bullheads are not desirable in ponds. They grow slowly but they breed rapidly and may overpopulate a pond or a lake to the detriment of game fish.

Silt and trash fish contribute to the poor condition of ponds. Dr. Woolcott said tests had shown there is very little plankton in the water. Plankton (small, sometimes microscopic plants and animals suspended in water) is an essential food for young fish which are important to pond balance and pure water.

Fishing pressure has very little effect upon pond balance. Over-population is an old problem in Virginia ponds, even in those which are heavily fished. A 1955 report by the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries noted:

"One problem constantly noted in routine impoundment analysis, including the small impoundments of farm pond size, was the usually consistent pattern of decreased fishing success after a period of three or four years. Population data derived from netting samples, rotenone samples, and actual drainage revealed one population characteristic held in common by all such ponds. All contained disproportionate numbers of intermediate-size pan fishes, such as bluegills and crappies."

This held true with the University pond. Dr. Woolcott and his students will study the fish samples taken. Ages of the fish may be determined by examining the scales. Fresh water fish scales are marked, much as the growth of trees are aged, by growth lines upon the scales—a wide band of summer growth, followed by a narrow band of winter growth. Similar marks are found on the scales of saltwater fish but the contrast is not as pronounced because the briny fish will find deep holes during cold water months where the water temperatures are more comfortable.

Restocking of the University lake will be no problem. The Sports Fishing Institute reports that "a female bass in a one-acre farm pond could produce enough progeny so that, if all eggs hatched and all fish survived for three generations, there would be enough fish, at one pound each, to replace the water in the pond and to make a heap, one acre in area, extending over 700 feet above the pond."

A bass may lay 10,000 eggs, a bluegill 20,000 and a trash fish as the carp as many as a million. As the lake has shown, siltation, pollution, trash fish and an overpopulation of sports fish can contribute to muddied, undesirable waters.

With the new spillway, the renovated lake will be subject to better management. The growth of grasses, shrubs and trees in the areas of new construction within the lake’s watershed should eliminate siltation. A pure water will capture the charm enVisioned when the University campus was started upon these rolling, wooded lands in 1914.

Dean Keller

As the years slipped by and Dean Keller saw her ideal of a strong liberal arts college with high standards become a reality, she relaxed somewhat and participated more and more in community life. A faithful member of the Baptist denomination, she spoke over the state at various church and associational meetings in behalf of the college, a church-related school. The Women’s Industrial Farm in Goochland County challenged her; she organized and headed for many years the Elizabeth Kates Foundation which is unique in the work done for these women who have taken the wrong direction in life. For years Dean Keller also worked with the organization which fights cancer. She served on the board of the Collegiate School and was president of the board for several years.

After guiding the destinies of Westhampton College for 32 years, she retired in 1946 at the age of 68. The retirement years were full ones. When 75 she accepted jury duty, saying she felt women were just as capable as men to perform this duty. She thought they were less apt to be influenced by the "sob stories." A person who refused to compromise, she was a woman with few kinks or warps. She expressed her opinion frankly when asked—and sometimes when not asked.

Dean Keller enjoyed traveling. As early as 1911 she had traveled in Russia. On her return she remarked she would not be surprised if revolution came to that country. In 1953 she with Miss Turnbull and others went to Egypt and there Dean Keller sat a camel well. She was then not quite eighty!

She enjoyed the Women’s Club, the meetings of the Richmond Branch of the American Association of University Women and was generous in giving of her time to review books for various groups. Not too long ago she translated an Estonian epic poem from German into English. One of her last official services to the Westhampton College Alumnae Association was to head the special gifts committee for the Emily Gardner Memorial Fund.

Now that she has left the campus she loved, the college she built, there will be many who will echo the words of a dear friend and former president of the Alumnae Association: "Dean Keller was Westhampton."

I see her now in a trim tweed suit, her hair now grey, piled high on her head, her back as straight as always, her dogs frolicking around her feet as she quickly turns her steps into the sunset beyond the pine-covered hills.

CHADWICK COMPLETES STUDY

Robert L. Chadwick, ‘52, has completed his work in Mexico where he has been doing research in archeology, and will begin work on a Ph.D. in Canada in September.

In Mexico, Chadwick was studying the Teotihuacan excavations under the auspices of the Mexican government. His research has been published in the "Tlalocan," a research publication.

Chadwick received his M.A. in March from the University of the Americas, then joined the Tehuacan excavation project in Mexico.

CRITTENDEN WINS DOUBLE HONORS IN SPORTS WRITING CONTEST

John T. Crittenden, ’53, was the only double winner in the 1963 sports writing contest sponsored by the Florida Sports Writers Association. He is a sports writer for the Miami, Fla., News.

Crittenden scored first in columns and features for papers of more than 50,000 circulation.

In Miami, he has covered the major league baseball clubs in spring training, boxing, basketball, horse racing, football, and auto racing at Sebring and Daytona. His winning entries in the contest included features on boxing champion Cassius Clay; Bear Bryant, the University of Alabama football coach, and other football and track stories.

Crittenden’s sports pieces have appeared in national magazines, testifying to the caliber of writing he has developed beginning with his first taste of printer’s ink at the Richmond Times-Dispatch in 1951. He began as a copy boy, then started covering week-end sports. At 20, he became sports editor of the Portsmouth Star, spent three years there and four more on the Ledger-Star in Norfolk. He joined the Miami News in 1961.

Crittenden will add his latest honors to those he has already accumulated—he was winner of first, second, and third place prizes in the Florida sports writers contest in 1961.

KINGERY TO SERVE ON PHARMACY BOARD

Charles F. Kingery, ’45, of Franklin, has been appointed by Virginia’s Governor Harrison to serve on the Virginia State Board of Pharmacy.

Kingery, a 1949 graduate of the Medical College of Virginia, will serve a five-year term in the office.

Kingery has served as secretary, vice president and president of the Tri-County Pharmaceutical Association, and is now a member of the executive council of the Virginia Pharmaceutical Association.

He is a member of the Franklin Baptist Church, Franklin Chamber of Commerce and Franklin Kiwanis Club.
How to sell (softly) a deep belief...

Advertising Associates, Richmond, Virginia was looking for a new theme...

In this day of internationalism in everything from politics to fashions to movies, can the businessman who openly espouses a "sell-American" attitude—even in his product advertising—do so successfully? In at least one instance the answer is yes, providing (a) the conditions are suitable, and (b) it's done intelligently.

A successful "sell-American" advertiser is Noland Co., Inc., Newport News, Va., a large independent distributor of mechanical equipment that specializes as a wholesaler of plumbing, heating, cooling, electrical and industrial supplies.

Advertising Associates was looking for a new theme to inject into Noland's ad program.

It was decided that what was needed to give a little something extra to the Noland campaign was a message shrouded in an element of mystery. The message would be the Noland "sell-American" policy, and it would be symbolized by one of the most American of emblems, the apple.

The campaign was an overwhelming success. Noland has been inundated with letters from customers and suppliers alike, congratulating them on the intriguing promotion and the "sell-American" policy. At least one of the company's suppliers, Bethlehem Steel Co., plans to feature this philosophy in an ad scheduled for national publications early this summer. Perhaps we can help you. Call us (there's no obligation of course).
