The Individual Is All-Important

We commend to all alumnae and alumni the tributes to Professors Wiley (page 3) and Wright (page 8) who end their teaching careers at the University this year.

Both were outstanding teachers, both were devoted to the institution they served, and both were wedded to the belief that God is no respecter of persons. In their youths both had their horizons broadened in their contemplation of mankind, Miss Wright on the campus of Lincoln University where her father was president, and Hun Wiley in his long years of service to the University of Shanghai.

To each of them the individual was all important. And students, recognizing a genuine affection as well as a genuine concern for their welfare, came to them with their problems, ofttimes problems of such an intimate nature that they could be confided only to someone who cared.

Not only students but faculty members found Jean Wright understanding and sympathetic and also discreet. “She not only knew the right answers,” an admiring colleague said, “she knew how to respect confidences.”

Certainly no pollyanna, Miss Wright’s occasional cynicism was never marked by acidity or cruelty. She could laugh at the foibles of the human race, even her own foibles; but there was never anything funny in the misfortunes of her friends. Dr. Wiley never could hide his light under a bushel, despite a modesty that he tried to make effacing. Many men with much less talent and a good press agent would have made the headlines more frequently. He never cared for headlines as he went about doing good, like the Master he served.

He had his share of adversity, as all men do, but one who never would know that misfortune had ever crossed his path. As an admiring colleague said: “When you’re with Hun Wiley you think you are home on the range, there is never heard a discouraging word.”

Colleagues and former students of these two great teachers and outstanding persons will wish them an abundance of life’s good things in the years ahead.

Hundley Wiley: Scholar, Teacher, Friend of Man

He Made Learning An Exciting, Vital Experience

by R. INMAN JOHNSON, '15

James Hundley Wiley can say, as did Abou Ben Adhem of old, "Write me as one that loves his fellow-men."

A scholar, a teacher, a minister of God, he is a devout follower of the Master who held no man common.

Most of the life of this distinguished member of the class of 1915 was devoted to teaching, first at the University of Shanghai and since 1944 at the University of Richmond.

The individual was always his first concern. He has always been interested in what he has described as "the other side of the teacher's desk." He would throw out a question to a sociology class, meditate for a moment while perhaps glancing out the window, and then ask, almost casually, "Bert Jones, how do you feel about that?"

His students say that he was an unusually effective lecturer whose statements and observations reflected his scholarship and dedication to a science that is concerned with all mankind. But he was an even better umpire! He liked to throw out the ball and let the players take it from there. If some times they seemed to be wandering from the playing field, a skillfully phrased question, a gentle suggestion would bring them back.

The baseball analogy is not inappropriate for Hun Wiley, a demon shortstop, a letter winner for four years and, in his senior year, captain of the Spider team that won the State championship. His love for baseball, it might be added, has diminished but little over the years. A classmate, David Nelson Sutton, relates that in Japan he met a Chinese who spoke almost perfect English. When asked where and how he learned the language so well, he replied, "A man named Wiley taught me English and baseball in Shanghai University."

When, at the age of fourteen, he roomed in the attic of the Wiley brothers' residence, a gentry suggestion was repeated, "Listen to the players. When they make the throw, it will take you a moment while perhaps glancing out the window, and then ask, almost casually, "Bert Jones, how do you feel about that?"

A Summary of Twenty Years:
Report by President Modlin

As this meeting of the Board of Trustees marks the end of two decades under the present administration of the University, a brief twenty-year summary of the institution’s operations might be appropriate and interesting. This is not in any sense presented as a record of achievement by the president but rather as a statement of growth during these years resulting from devoted efforts and loyal cooperation of the faculties, the administrative staff, the Trustees, alumni, and friends of the University, the support of the Baptists of Virginia, and the favorable economic and educational conditions of the period. Of the forty members of the present Board of Trustees twenty-eight have been newly elected during these two decades.

Enrollment

The total enrollment of students during the twenty years increased, primarily because of the influx of World War II veterans, from 2,296 in 1945-46 to a peak of 4,794 in 1948-49, then declined to a low figure of 3,452 in 1953-54. Since then attendance has gradually increased each year to the current record of 7,593.

Faculty

In 1946 there were 73 full-time and 38 part-time members of the faculty, compared with 161 full-time and 113 part-time teachers this year. During the two decades 375 full-time and 165 part-time faculty members have been employed, resulting in an average-turnover of approximately 18 per cent a year. Of the present full-time faculty of 161, there are 23 members who were also on the full-time faculty of 73 in 1946.

Early in the period the administrative operation of the faculties and academic offices was reorganized, with the placing of greater responsibility upon the deans and departmental chairmen. There has been a steadily increasing interest in research on the part of faculty members, encouraged by the establishment and gradual expansion of a program of faculty research grants. Most of the faculty have also been active in professional, community, religious, and public affairs. The quality of teaching has been stressed, with emphasis on individual counseling and guidance of students, culminating in the formation of the University Center for Psychological Services. A policy of providing travel allowances to faculty members attending professional meetings was early adopted, and a program of sabbatical leaves for the faculty was instituted, with 47 members having been on leave. The group hospitalization plan was expanded, with the University providing major medical benefits to all faculty members. The University’s contribution to the T.I.A.A. retirement plan for the faculty was increased, and the University has just adopted a plan of total disability insurance without cost to the faculty. Salary scales for the various professional ranks were established, and thirteen general increases in faculty salaries have raised salaries approximately 325 per cent in the twenty years.

Realism and Courage*

The greatest revolution of our time is found in the proliferation of freedom. Men in every part of the world have heard about freedom. They will never be the same again. They dream of fulfillment through freedom. They demand equality from men and nations, totally unmindful of the testing through time and training it entails. Twenty new republics in Africa have been born in this decade. The United Nations provides a forum for amazing demands. Younger nations which have known freedom for a mere moment in time claim privileges normally attained through centuries of experience. Many of these younger nations seem to think they can leap from illiteracy to learning overnight. Why talk of reason, rights and responsibility! Yet, to be realistic in our time seems to look clearly at the proliferation of ideas about freedom and its benefits.

* * * *

Another reality needs no elaboration—the confrontation of communism and western democratic free society. Leaders in both camps now know that each has the power to incinerate the other. The resultant threat to the extinction of the species is no idle threat—it lives with us daily in our power confrontation.

* * * *

... the way of life we want to preserve cannot be defended by weapons, guns, tanks and plans. Rather must its strength be built and retained upon the firm foundation of a moral order. We can’t retain the fruits without watering the roots.

* * * *

Supremely we can have courage because we know, if we are true realists, that this is still God’s world. He made it. His laws inhere in it ... It is pitiable for a man to think for a moment that he can break God’s laws. When he tries, he soon discovers that he can break himself over those laws. The strongest power in the world still works toward righteousness. Man can ally himself with that power—and become conqueror.

*Excerpts from commencement address by President J. Earl Moreland of Randolph-Macon College in the Richmond Mosque on Monday, June 6.
Those who love the University of Richmond could find cause for rejoicing at commencement. The largest graduating class—514 men and women—received degrees at exercises in the Mosque. President Modlin gave the Board of Trustees at its annual meeting a heartening report of progress during the 20 years of his stewardship. The Junior College, which has more than lived up to the most enthusiastic predictions, graduated its first class. The Board of Trustees, disappointed but not dismayed by rising building costs, gave the green light to the president to go ahead with the construction of a fine arts building at a cost of approximately one million dollars.

As for the graduates, a record number (100 in Richmond College alone) will go on to graduate and professional schools, some will go into the military service, others will launch immediately upon careers in business and other activities. For those who sought jobs, placement directors at Richmond College, the School of Business Administration and Westhampton College were in agreement: "They never had it so good." Balding alumni comparing their own starting stipends might be forgiven an incredulous whistle at the starting salaries of the class of 1966. The range was from $450 (very few that low) to $750 a month for graduates with bachelor’s degrees, up to $6300 a year for those with master’s.

President J. Earl Moreland of Randolph-Macon College told the graduates they must take a realistic look at a world in turmoil and prepare to meet each crisis with courage and faith. He suggested that they not waste time feeling sorry for themselves and further that they might emulate their Elizabethan forebears who "could face both life and death with a cheerful spirit," could go to their deaths "with a jest and a prayer; they never groveled with self-pity."

The previous evening, the Rev. Richard M. Stephenson in his baccalaureate sermon told the degree candidates that they couldn’t expect instant success and that even college graduates might cultivate a reasonable degree of humility. "If ever you are tempted to think of yourself as a self-made man," he said, "call yourself over to a corner and have a good talk with your memories. Of course, if one could really be a self-made man it would relieve the Almighty from some mighty embarrassing responsibility."

He reminded the graduates in the words of President Hopkins of Williams College that "every student . . . is a charity case." University of Richmond graduates, he pointed out are indebted not only to the founding fathers, the teachers and administrators who have built the University over the years but also to "dedicated men of industry and commerce who have invested some of their profits" in the institution and to the Baptists of Virginia for their substantial financial support.

In addition to the 514 who received bachelor’s and master’s degrees, the University conferred four honorary degrees, the Doctor of Divinity degree on Mr. Stephenson. Three alumni also were honored: David Nelson Sutton, ’15, of West Point, a past president of the Virginia Bar Association, who received the degree of Doctor of Laws; W. Braddock Hickman, ’33, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, Doctor of Commercial Science, and William L. Lumpkin, ’37, pastor of the Freemason Street Baptist Church in Norfolk, Doctor of Divinity.

Although the commencement exercises were moved into the air-conditioned Mosque by the University administration which had tired of trying to guess the weather which was a constant threat to commencements in the Greek Theater, there was no commencement nonetheless on the parent campus. University College, the youngest division of the University’s seven and created to serve Metropolitan Richmond, had its first graduating class. Twenty-one students who had successfully completed two years of college level work—17 in the Junior College and four in the evening division—received associate of arts and associate of commerce awards.

The University College commencement was held in Dennis Auditorium of the Business School but two years hence probably will be held in what is now the sanctuary of Second Baptist Church. Because of University College’s expansion, the trustees acquired the sanctuary and educational building of the Church at Franklin and Adams streets. Conversion of the two church buildings to educational uses should be completed before the start of the 1967-68 session.

No date has been set for the completion of the Fine Arts building, one of three buildings made possible by the successfully completed $1,500,000 campaign. It will enable the University to house under one roof activities of the drama, music, fine arts and speech departments now occupying six buildings ranging in elegance from Cannon Memorial Chapel to quonset huts.
Alumni came back on May 14 to salute a beloved professor, hear a discussion of the University's future in intercollegiate athletics, and watch the baseball team wrap up another State championship.

Dean Martin L. Shotzberger, '48, of University College spoke for all alumni who have been privileged to know Herman P. Thomas, '17, when he proclaimed him: "Great and inspiring teacher and exemplar of the Christian faith." The occasion was the dedication of the portrait of Dr. Thomas who has reached retirement age but will continue on next year as teacher and chairman of the department of economics.

It was a moving occasion for Dr. Thomas whose devotion to the University has been unbroken since he came to the old campus, green as the grass on his native southwest Virginia hillsides. Although he has given almost 40 years of his life to the service of Alma Mater, he has said repeatedly that he still considers himself deeply in debt to the University which "took me in when I was poor in this world's goods."

This son of a dedicated Baptist minister and alumnus of the University, was an honor graduate of Richmond College and an honor graduate of the University of Virginia where he won his Ph.D. degree. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Omicron Delta Kappa.

Dr. Thomas' memory will be perpetuated at the University through the establishment of a $10,000 scholarship to which reference was made by Dean Shotzberger. Scores of persons who sat in his classrooms and others in the Richmond business community have contributed to the scholarship.

Alumni day began on a dark and dreary note with a cold drizzle falling. But that didn't deter Business School alumni from attending their annual breakfast in town where they applauded an address by David E. Satterfield III, '43, Virginia's Third District Representative in the national Congress.

The weather was not much better when alumni began assembling in Dennis auditorium of the Business School to hear a panel discussion of the question: "Where Do We Go from Here—Athletically?" They came also to meet the new football coach, Frank Jones, who is attempting to lead the Spiders out of the football wilderness after a season in which they won no games.

President Modlin assured the alumni that the University was interested in fielding "representative" teams in all sports and was giving "generous" and "increasing" support to the intercollegiate program.

Coach Jones, who took over his duties with a limited supply of talent and a major recruitment problem facing him, was understandably guarded in his predictions. He said, however, that he hoped to build a team that could represent the University creditably and win perhaps half of its games with Southern Conference foes, most of which have more resources.

More optimistic was Basketball Coach Lewis B. Mills whose team last year showed lots of hustle in winning the State championship. Pointing out that the City of Richmond seems committed to the construction of a multi-million dollar coliseum, Mills said he hoped to build a team sufficiently strong to draw some of the nation's outstanding teams to the coliseum.

Athletic Director Malcolm U. Pitt, '18, in response to questions from the floor concerning relatively few home games in football, said that the University did not have funds available for grants-in-aid comparable to those of most other Southern Conference schools; hence, he said, it was necessary to schedule away-from-home games where attractive guarantees were offered.

Later in the day, Coach Pitt demonstrated again that whatever the fortunes of the Spiders in other sports, a winning performance could usually be expected on the baseball diamond. His team downed William and Mary, 2 to 0, to give the Spiders under Pitt's tutelage 16 state champions over a period of 32 years!

All Alumni Day activities were conducted under the direction of a committee headed by Rawley Fleet Daniel, '41, A. P. Gates, '48, Alumni Society president, presided.
Cousins, Davis New Alumni Presidents

Solon B. Cousins, Jr., '47, winner of the Alumni Council medal as the member of his class most likely to succeed, is the new president of the Alumni Society. A Student Government president and varsity basketball player at the University, Cousins is now general executive of the Boston Y.M.C.A.

Appointment of his election was made at the Alumni Day luncheon at which his predecessor, A. P. Gates, '48, a vice president of the Mobil Chemical Company, presided.

Earlier in the day the Alumni Council, the fund raising arm of the Alumni Society, had elevated first vice president Carle E. Davis, '54, Richmond attorney and accountant, to the presidency. He and other officers of the Council will be charged with the responsibility of guiding the 1967 Alumni Fund.

NOW WHEN I PLAYED TACKLE . . . Senator A. Willis Robertson, '07, dropped in on Alumni Day to greet his college mates of yesteryear and to do a bit of campaigning in his bid for re-election to the Senate. He spoke briefly to alumni assembled for the panel on "Where Do We Go From Here Athletically?"

over the events of the day, including the luncheon. At this luncheon the Alumni Council medal was awarded to Brainard Guy Peters of Richmond who was adjudged the outstanding member of his graduating class. The presentation was made by William J. Falls, '36, book editor for the Broadman Press in Nashville, the first in his bid for re-election to the Senate. He spoke briefly to alumni assembled for the panel on "Where Do We Go From Here Athletically?"

Inspiring Teacher . . . Christian Exemplar

It was reported that a portrait of Herman Pollard Thomas, retiring professor of economics, would be presented to the University today. Let me say to those students who have taken Money and Banking only twice that I have good news: You will be able to take it a third time next year! President Modlin informs me that Dr. Thomas, although technically at the retirement age, has been persuaded to remain on next year as chairman of the Department of Economics.

When Dr. Thomas read the article he is reputed to have said, "Some one is a literalist in the Biblical sense. Three score and ten add up to 70 all right but not senility. "Moreover," he stated, "they were not real good mathematicians in those days and even worse as economists. If that old curmudgeon Ralph McDaniel (to use Harold Ickes' word) can teach 18th Century Conservatism, I can still teach the Gold Standard—and I will."

Thomas Carlyle referred to economics as the "disanal science." This he did because he was familiar only with the works of such early economists as Parson Thomas Malthus. He did not, however, know of such economists as Herman Pollard Thomas.

This gentleman has dedicated his life to two key principles. He has devoted his life to two important institutions. He has given himself to thousands of people directly and hundreds of thousands indirectly.

The principles to which Herman Thomas has dedicated himself, his words, are "The worth of Christian education and the worth of the American enterprise system." These principles led him to a rigorous study of economics and a full career of teaching in the University of Richmond. The University which he said "took me in when I was poor in this world's goods" and the Christian church are the two institutions to which he has devoted his life.

In almost four decades he has influenced immeasurably the lives of thousands of students in the classroom where his sharp finger rent the air asunder as his Southwest Virginia twang opened eyes and ears, so that his keen analyses of economic issues, Principles and problems did not fall upon

The Girls Don’t Argue Enough with Professors

She Never Got Properly Regimented

by RHEA TALLEY STEWART, ’35

If it is necessary to choose one adjective for Dr. Jean Gray Wright from the language which she has taught for 36 years at West­hampton College, it would have to be "sec." That is, "sec" as applied to a fine wine, with plenty of sting to set off other flavors, nothing sweet that cloys. There is even a "dryness" to her appearance; smooth clear skin and bright brown eyes and hair that has been shining white since she first came to Westhampton, and never one of those hairs out of place.

French is an appropriate language in all ways for Dr. Wright to have taken as a career. In the first place, French is the "lingua franca" of nations, which has held the rank, more than any tongue since Latin, of a universal language, vital to diplomats and travellers. Likewise, there is a universalism to Dr. Wright’s outlook on life, and she started with it in childhood.

For Dr. Wright was far ahead of the rest of us, who today are newly aware of integration among races in schooling and in life. Her father was a professor at Lincoln University in Pennsylvania, a college for Negroes, so she grew up among ambitious young men who were also remarkably advanced for their era. Some Africans came here to study, and one whom she remembers was Nkrumah, who not long ago learned that he was no longer head of Ghana in a situation that must have appealed to Dr. Wright’s sense of irony, while having lunch in Peking with Mao Tse-tung. She recalls Nkrumah as endowed even in college with his Messianic complex which later led to enormous statues of himself all over Ghana. Also alive in her memory is his reluctance to bathing, and she tells of the time a commotion was heard in Lincoln University dormitory, which proved to be a group of fellow-students forcibly giving Nkrumah a bath. "Perhaps," she comments, with her dry—that word again—sense of humor, "he felt it only fitting that other people should bathe him."

It was in this unusual milieu that Dr. Wright received her early education, for the children of faculty members did not attend public school but were taught by the professors, so in a way she went to college before going to kindergarten. "When my father taught me mathematics, he launched me into algebra and trigonometry without bothering about anything so elementary as simple arithmetic." Some day she must be asked to speculate on what would be her chances in this day of "the new math."

So when Dr. Wright finally got to college on her own—and the lucky institution was Bryn Mawr—she was baffled. "I don’t think I ever got properly regimented. If you once get started wrong, it’s hopeless."

Bryn Mawr gave her a bachelor’s degree and, after she had acquired a master’s from the University of Pennsylvania, a doctorate. Shortly after graduation she made the first of a dozen trips to Europe, this time to study at the Sorbonne and to continue the pursuit of French which her mother already had inspired. Home was in a 16th Century palace, so drafty that when she and a roommate caught the measles, the doctor pr-

FRAGILE—Handle With Care!
UR Nine Wins State Championship

by WALTER DREWRY

Staging a whirlwind finish by sweeping a doubleheader from Virginia Tech and defeating William and Mary on Alumni Day, Coach Mac Pitt's baseball team captured the State Big Five crown with a 5-2 loop mark. Overall the Pittmen had a fine 17-6 record and were 7-5 in Southern Conference play. The state championship was Pitt's sixteenth in 32 years of coaching.

The Spiders, who had lost their first Big Five game to W&M, 5-2, at Williamsburg, evened their loop mark at 1-1 when Lefty Dick Dickinson beat Virginia, 7-5. However, Richmond was no better than 2-2 after splitting a twin bill with V.M.I. Sophomore Dick Balderson, who had blanked West Virginia, 1-0, to give the Spiders a split with the Mountaineers in his previous mound appearance, hurled a three-hitter at the Keydets and won, 3-2. V.M.I., however, captured the nightcap, 2-1.

The Gobblers were leading the Big Five when they came to town for the doubleheader with the Spiders. Balderson, who hails from Portsmouth, and Dickinson, a pair of five-hitters. Spider Catcher Emory Maiden batted in four runs with four hits from Portsmouth, and Dickinson, a red and Hardy has only six tuition scholarships to offer, he persuaded 73 varsity and more scholarships but he does a remarkable job with what he has. There are no indoor track facilities so Hardy and his hearty lads practice outdoors for the winter indoor campaign. Often, when the lake is frozen, his boys will practice running on the ice.

This season the Spiders won four dual meets, lost one and tied one and captured four events (the 100, 220 and 440 and mile relays) in the Southern Conference Track Meet in which the Spiders finished in a tie for third place with West Virginia much to the surprise of everyone.

"Six or seven boys had to carry the load," Hardy reminded. "We didn't have much depth. We should be better next season since we lost only one man and some of the upcoming sophomores should help in the distances."

Bob Crute, the brilliant young sprinter from Radford, had a fine season. He won the Southern Conference 100 and 220-yard dashes in 9.8 and 21.6 seconds, respectively. The latter was a SC record. Earlier in the year the youngster with the fine tenor voice shattered the school 100-yard dash mark when he was clocked in 9.6 seconds against Virginia Tech. Bob, who owns the school record of 21.2 seconds in the 220 set as a sophomore, tied the SC 100-yard mark in the upcoming season.

Jones Faces Rebuilding Job

Gridmen Will Be Well Conditioned, Hard Hitting

Frank Jones, assistant head coach at Mississippi State for the past four years, is the University of Richmond's new head football coach and faces the challenging task of building the Spiders into a winner. Jones, who produced a Tangerine Bowl team at Presbyterian College before taking the post at Mississippi State, insists he's no miracle man but guarantees the Spiders will be a well conditioned, hard hitting team that will play exciting football.

There's a depth problem this season, which means that a number of players will have to play both offense and defense, and the team faces a rugged 10-game schedule that includes six Southern Conference foes. Four of the Conference opponents, however, will be played at Richmond City Stadium.

The 1966 slate includes home games with V.M.I. on October 7 and Davidson on October 22, both at 8:15 o'clock (EDT), the Homecoming game with Furman on November 5 at 2 o'clock (EST) and the traditional contest with William and Mary on November 19 at 1:30 o'clock (EST). The Spiders play their first three games on the road against the University of Dayton (Sept. 17), The Citadel (Sept. 24) and rugged Mississippi State (Oct. 1). Other road tilts include West Texas State (Oct. 15), Southern Mississippi (October 29) and East Carolina (Nov. 12).

Quarterback was a problem spot last season, the Spiders' inexperienced signal callers having 26 passes intercepted. Jones hopes Buster O'Brien, 6-1, 187-pound former Princess Anne High star from Virginia Beach who transferred from Notre Dame last season, will help solve the problem. Although the Spider mentor says O'Brien still has a lot to learn, he completed nine of 17 passes for 152 yards and two touchowns without an interception as the Blues edged the Whites, 12-6, in the final intra-squad scrimmage. Larry Shotwell, 6-2, 196-pound senior who divided time with Jan Linn last season, tossed a touchdown pass for the Whites in the final Spring drill.

Larry Zunich, 190-pound senior who was the team's leading ground gainer last season, and Jim McKenna, 178-pound junior letterman, showed up well at the halfback posts in the practice sessions. Frank Fleischman, 174-pound sophomore from Pittsburgh, and Senior Rick Payne (171) are their replacements. Senior Letterman Doug Davis (212) and Bob Popalo, 202-pound sophomore from McKeesport, Pa., probably will battle for the fullback post. Richmonder Bob Easterling (177) and Tommy Johnson (165) from Raleigh, N. C., are promising sophomore halfbacks.

The kicking game is in the capable hands of Mike Bragg, who averaged 41.7 yards on 67 punts last season which ranked him tenth in the nation in this department.

Jones says Larry Pew, 205-pound senior guard from Lancaster, Pa., could play for anyone and he'll team with Don Attaway, 203-pound senior. Senior Bob White (221), a defensive back last season, also will see duty at guard as will Richmond Sophomore Pat Rice (201) and Junior George Fisher (205).

Bob Andrews (223), a two-year letterman, and Terry Crum, 223-pounder who lettered as a guard as a sophomore, are the No. 1 tackles. Backing them up are Chuck Coster, 235-pound sophomore from Solon, and...
So They Say

Less and Less Work, More and More Leisure

Are most of us 'feather bedders'? Are most of us paid for doing less work? These are two questions that were raised by Dr. Martin L. Shotzberger, Dean of University College, in a speech before the Richmond Chapter of the National Association of Accountants. His speech, "The Nature of Fringe Benefits," compares the worker of today with the worker of a century or more ago. He points out that workers today receive more real income for working fewer hours and for doing less physical work than did the worker in the 19th century. The combination of improved technology and more formal education has resulted in more pay and less work.

In looking to the future Dean Shotzberger predicts that 'less and less work will be required of us, except for certain professions, more and more leisure will be available to us, more and more goods and services will be ours to use, and more and more economic capacity to enjoy this leisure and these goods and services will be at our command.'

Education will become more important in the future. Only the educated will be able to achieve these economic rewards and only through education will the worker be able to prepare for his role as a consumer, citizen, and intellectual. The university, then, is the source for true knowledge on how effectively to utilize this wealth and leisure.

In a burst of enthusiasm, Dean Shotzberger concludes, 'Hail to the feather-bedder—the people, men and women, who will work less physically, produce more, enjoy economic rents and fringe benefits beyond current imagination, and have ability, time and resources to enjoy more and more of life. Such a person will be individually free from autocracy, free from poverty, free from drudgery and above all free from ignorance.'

God is Dead? Face the Issue

In a most provocative article written for The Religious Herald, Dr. Robison B. James, of the Religion Department, has attempted to clarify for the layman the 'God is Dead' controversy. In his article, "The Theologians of The Death of God"', Dr. James says... many readers may feel that too much space has already been given to this theological madness. To such readers I can only say that 'turning off the television' seems to me an inadequate response. The 'God is dead' movement is important. It is important not perhaps because of the numbers of genuinely convinced adherents—they seem to be few at present—but because the movement has such inadequate theology and such widespread influence. Can we ignore it then? It is never graceful to stick one's head in the sand, and where important matters are at hand it can be disastrous to do so.'

Dr. James feels that it is important that we understand exactly what these men are saying in order that we may not be misled by catchwords and slogans and implies that an understanding will also reveal the weaknesses of their theological position.

The main body of the article is devoted to a summary and analysis of two of the writers in this field. It would be unfair to Dr. James to attempt to summarize his scholarly comparisons. Those interested should read the March 17, 1966 issue of The Religious Herald.

In conclusion, Dr. James states, 'But over and above understanding we have wished also to criticize these theologies. Actually our criticism is implicit already in the explanation itself. Perhaps all that needs to be added, further, is the belief that this theology is not enough.'

Pigment Cell Invasion From Host Environment

Dr. Willie M. Reams, Jr. of the Biology Department was one of thirty scientists from all over the world recently invited to present a paper at the Symposium on the Biology of the Skin—The Pigmentary System. The Symposium was sponsored by the University of Oregon Regional Primate Research Center.

Dr. Reams' topic was 'Pigment Cell Population Pressure Within the Skin and Its Role in the Pigment Cell Invasion of Extra-epidermal Tissues.' He pointed out that in order to have a tissue of the body invaded by pigment cells either in normal development or in abnormal situations (as in cancer), there must develop within the skin a population of potential pigment cells which reaches a critical level and then erupts out of its host environment. The population density is regulated, in most cases, by the chemical environment of the host tissue and by the structural density of the tissue fabric. The role of chemical irritants, traumas, and radiations—X-ray, cosmic and ultra-violet—in influencing the population of pigment cells was discussed in the light of research being conducted currently and from information gleaned from an extensive survey of both academic and clinical literature.

The pigment cells involved in the research are of general interest from the standpoint of their role in the coloration of the skin and hair, and in sun tanning. These cells normally contribute granules of pigment to surrounding cells but, under abnormal conditions, the pigment cells can divide at a rapid rate, invade tissues in which they normally do not reside and create a melanoma, a pigmented cancer. Dr. Reams is continuing his investigations at the University and also in the Department of Dermatology at the Medical College of Virginia.

The paper will be published in Vol. VIII of Advances in the Biology of Skin.

Educational Program

The establishment of the School of Business Administration in 1949, the formation of University College in 1962, and the creation of the Junior College in 1964 have constituted the most significant expansion of the University's educational program during the two decades. The addition of the Army ROTC program in 1951 was also of major educational importance. The total curriculum of the University has been enlarged and strengthened, with most departments and divisions stronger than ever before. Five new degrees have been offered: Bachelor of Science in Music Education, Bachelor of Science in Teaching, Bachelor of Commerce, Master of Commerce, and Master of Humanities, the last three in University College.

During this period the University extended its instructional program beyond the campus. In 1951 the School of Christian Education was organized to offer courses in Bible and religions throughout Virginia, and during fifteen years 6,807 persons in 51 cities and towns have been enrolled in the program. The University's first television course was offered in 1960, and now courses are telecast in five Virginia cities. In the summer of 1963 a Summer School Abroad program was organized and has continued successfully. The Business School's Executive Development Program for business executives has been in operation for twelve years, and the Management Center of University College was created in 1963. The Virginia Institute for Scientific Research moved to its new building on the University campus in 1962. Throughout the period the University Center in Virginia has demonstrated the benefits to be achieved through cooperation among educational institutions.

Physical Facilities

Approximately 50 acres have been added to the University campus during the two decades, bringing it to a total of 350 acres. Twelve major buildings and fifteen minor buildings have been constructed, and other physical improvements made, at a total cost of $6,978,351, as follows: South Court dormitory, Court Dining Hall, Crenshaw Swimming Pool, and an enlarged kitchen at Westhampton College; five temporary wooden dormitories and a classroom-office building on the Richmond College campus; six bungalows on the campus for faculty; the Student Center for men; a quonset hut for speech and drama and a similar building for the musical groups; remodeling the power plant; Robins Field for men; Law School Building; a warehouse; Boatwright Memorial Library; utility tunnels; Wood Memorial Hall; Robins Memorial Hall; Business School Building; Dennis Memorial Hall; Lombardy Building; new dining hall and enlarged kitchen for men; Freeman Memorial Hall. Twenty faculty homes have been constructed on or added to the campus during the twenty years.

Finances

The cost value of the University's grounds, buildings, and equipment has increased from $2,706,606 in 1946 to $10,258,352 this year. The 1946 endowment of $2,852,275 has increased to $10,093,166 of endowment and trust funds, and the total assets of the University have risen from $7,188,180 to $22,531,404 in the two decades. The annual operating budget has increased from $648,729 to $4,063,427 this year. Much of this increase, of course, can be attributed to the inflation of prices during the period.

In 1947 the University of Richmond Alumni Fund was inaugurated, and the Alumni Bequest Program was launched in 1960. The very successful Progress Fund Campaign for $1,500,000 was conducted in 1964-65.

Other Developments

Among other significant events and developments during the two decades have been the establishment of the fraternity lodge policy and the subsequent construction of twelve lodges, the A. D. Williams bequest of $2,700,000 and the consequent expansion of the scholarship program, the formation of the Virginia Foundation for Independent Colleges, the L. U. Noland bequest of $223,000 toward the erection of a Business School building, the celebration in 1955 of the 125th Anniversary of the founding of the University, the creation of the Parents Organization, the celebration of Westhampton College's Fifteenth Anniversary in 1964, the Self-Study Report in 1964-65, and, the accreditation of the School of Business Administration in 1965. The Institute for Business and Community Development was formed this year as a division of University College.

Conclusion

The steady growth and encouraging progress during the last twenty years provide a sound basis on which to move forward to new accomplishments. Despite the serious problems facing all private institutions of higher learning, a bright and secure future is assured for the University of Richmond. With its fortunate location, with the many evidences of progress and growing strength, with the continued loyal support of its alumni, and friends, and with the devoted efforts of its faculty, administrative officials, and trustees, the University can look with confidence to a future of rich service to its students, its constituencies, and its community.

closed minds. One had to listen attentively to a man of such immense mental capacity. Many of his students hold positions of national prominence in industry, in banking, in education and in religious life. Reflected glory often is looked upon as ostentatious but if ever a man deserves to take glory in his own produced fruits, Herman Pollard Thomas does. I trust that at this moment the names and faces of his students are passing through his mind and he is saying to himself there are some great ones! A banker is he! An industrialist is he! A minister is he! A public servant is he! Until almost literally all the world's disciplines are covered. If he begins this process it will take a long time and if he does so his heart will burst with pride. As these faces are vicariously conjured, and names remembered, each one, I know, speaks to him a word of gratitude.

Herman Thomas is noted for his classroom humor, most of it at the expense of the gracious Mary Stokes Thomas. She is as patient with him as the three-times-around Money and Banking students.

Everyone who knows him, loves, admires, and respects him. Many honors have been bestowed upon him. His social fraternity (Sigma Alpha Epsilon) has paid him tribute as has Alpha Kappa Psi. In 1957 the Web was dedicated to him. The Economics Society is honored by bearing his name. Last fall, under the leadership of Dr. George Jennings, the Herman P. Thomas Scholarship was established. This society and scholarship assures for the future our consciousness of his having been here. All of these actions speak to Herman Thomas of our deep and profound feeling for him. Herman Thomas a man of gentleness, of kindness, of compassion. A man who loves God and loves man. Herman Thomas beloved teacher, serves God by serving men through Christian Higher Education. If his great character were subject to being captured in a phrase it may be Herman Pollard Thomas, Great and Inspiring Teacher and Exemplar of the Christian Faith.
SANFORD, GASSER HONORED BY BASKETBALL OFFICIALS

Taylor Sanford, '29, and George Gasser, '50, have received awards from the Central Virginia Board of Basketball Officials. Sanford, head of the athletic department, coach at Ft. Lee, was given an award for outstanding contributions to basketball, and Gasser a 25-year service award for officiating.

Sanford, the first to earn four major sports letters at the University of Richmond, has been a coach for many years. He coached seven years at Randolph-Macon College, and seven at Wake Forest College. As Wake Forest, his baseball team represented the United States in the Pan-American games at Buenos Aires, finishing in a tie with Mexico for second place. In 1955 his team beat Western Michigan for the NCAA National Basketball Championship.

He delivers many lectures, including those at Columbia University where he teaches theatre librarianship and literature.

Cabell Phillips Analyzes Truman's Years In Office

Harry S. Truman was all but unknown when he took the Presidential oath in the spring of 1945. Yet seven and three quarter years later, writes Cabell Phillips, 26, in The Truman Presidency (published by Macmillan May 31), "he had put an indelible imprint of greatness on both the Presidency and the history of his time.

Cabell Phillips is a veteran reporter of 20 years' experience with The New York Times Washington bureau. His new book chronicles and analyzes President Truman's growth and development from the apparently ordinary "haberdasher from St. Louis" into an extraordinary chief executive who "left the American Presidency a stronger, more effective instrument for human governance."

The late Speaker Sam Rayburn, one of Truman's oldest and staunchest friends, is credited with saying Truman was "right on all the big things, wrong on most of the little ones." Guided by uncomplicated moral precepts, Truman demonstrated a strong sense of duty and the courage to fight for his beliefs, the ability to weigh the pros and cons of a situation, make a decision and then act on it. He was capable of sound judgment and a tempered, conscientious approach to the office of the Presidency.

The other side of the Truman character was given to snap judgments, an acrobatic ability to wind up with his foot in his mouth and a blind, and thus sometimes misplaced, faith in the loyalty and honesty of the people around him.

Through the Potsdam Conference, the awesome decision to drop the atom bomb, the beginning of the Korean conflict and subsequent insubordination of MacArthur, the dark days of the McCarthy power play, Truman dug in with characteristic rocklike determination and hung on.

But Truman did more than endure. With at least three achievements—the Marshall Plan, NATO, and the Korean intervention—he established his claim to rank as one of the "great" Presidents in American history. Under Truman's guidance the United States established her role in the post-war world and policies were set, such as the containment of Communist nations, that have been followed by every President after him.

Marquis Childs, noted political affairs columnist, commented on The Truman Presidency: "Cabell Phillips has written the first really trenchant and valid book about the Truman presidency. His book puts in clear perspective both the Truman achievements and the Truman faults thereby serving as an antidote to much of the muddy writing about this important period in our post-war development."

During his long tenure as a reporter in Washington, Mr. Phillips was intimately acquainted with many of the key people of the period. He has had access to files of correspondence, memoranda, reports and diaries—and from his vantage point as a trusted reporter has been able to assess the behind-the-scenes realities and maneuvering of the Truman administration.

Harold V. Chisolm retired as a commander in the U. S. Navy in 1964 and is associated with the Department of Defense at Ft. George G. Meade, Md., where he commutes from Alexandria.

Fred L. Morewitz of the Jack E. Smith, Inc., real estate firm in Hampton, has received the valedictorian's certificate at the New York News, Hampton Board of Realtors education course graduation.

Paul W. Nye of New Matamoras, Ohio is pastor of the New Matamoras and Center Valley Baptist Churches. He has served for nine years as clerk and assistant secretary of the Ohio Baptist Convention.

John E. Walker, Jr., an investigator with the U. S. Department of Labor, has been transferred to Greensboro, N. C. He joined the Wage and Hour Public Contracts Division staff in 1951.

James M. Johnson, an auditor for Caltex, travels the world in pursuit of his duties. This year he has covered Germany, Spain, Bahrain, Hong Kong, and Bangkok. He writes that he is now headed for Australia.

Dr. Samuel L. Cooke, '27, a Louisville ear, nose and throat specialist completed a two-month tour of voluntary service on the S. S. Hope, the hospital ship, on a mission to Nicaragua.

Dr. and Mrs. Cooke lived in a house nearby the Hope, which was moored at Corinto, Nicaragua; While Dr. Cooke performed many operations, Mrs. Cooke assisted in the Ear, Nose and Throat Clinic and helped in other duties aboard ship. The floating medical center arrived in Nicaragua on January 19, and was met by thousands of Nicaraguans lining the shore as ship eased into her berth. Within a week, 40 Nicaraguans in medicine, nursing and paramedicine had reported on board for training. More than 1,000 patients were treated and more than 100 operations performed in the ship’s three operating rooms. Dr. Cooke performed the first operation, a nasal submucous resection and reconstructive surgery of the nose on a 15 year-old boy.

When Dr. Joseph H. Cosby became president of Hargrave Military Academy in 1951 there were only three buildings on the campus. Today there are eight.

When the eighth and most pretentious of them was nearing completion, Hargrave's trustees voted to name it for the man who has been a superb builder at that institution.

At Homecoming on April 30 the Joseph H. Cosby Science-Humanities Building was dedicated with Col. Vernon T. Lankford, '42, delivering the dedicatory address. He made it abundantly clear that the man the students fondly if irreverently call "Holy Joe" Cosby behind his back was the man Hargrave needed to bring it out of the doldrums. Indebtedness as a result of a fire in 1950 and the apparent reluctance of the Baptist denomination to provide substantial additional funds were the principal discouraging factors.

Although his background has been in the ministry, Cosby soon demonstrated that he had both the appreciation of an educator's role and sufficient zeal to convert dreams into realities. Everyone agrees that his administration has been one of the most fruitful in Hargrave's long history.

Dr. Cosby's philosophy was expressed early in his administration: "We shall not change for change's sake but we shall not fear breaking away from the past if there is a better way to do something. If there is a better method, we can scrap the one we are using and try it."

The newest Hargrave building has two dormitory floors, an infirmary, a library, three science laboratories and 12 classrooms, as well as a fall-out shelter.

Dr. Cosby went to Hargrave after serving as pastor of Branch's Baptist Church near Richmond. Other pastorates, all in Virginia, had been at Irvington, Crozet, and Lexington. His ministry also included a tour of duty as an Army chaplain in World War II.

If students in academic difficulties find him sympathetic, it may be because he remembers his own difficulties during his first year as a student in Newport News High School. He dropped out of school at the end of that year. The following year he was persuaded to go to Fork Union Military Academy where he was graduated in three years—the number one man in his class. It took him only three years to win his B.A. at Richmond College—with Phi Beta Kappa honors.

His work in the Baptist denomination has been widely recognized. Perhaps one of the most significant honors paid him was the action of one of the two mission churches he founded in changing its name to Cosby Memorial Baptist Church. He has served on the Executive Committee of the Virginia Baptist Board and was chairman of the committee that recommended the purchase of Eagle Eye by Virginia Baptist.

He has just retired as president of the Southern Association of Independent Schools and has served on the policies and functions committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and on the Administrative Committee of the National Study of Secondary School Evaluation which edits and publishes each decade The Evaluative Criteria.

of Alumnae Association

It was a warm, June morning—the kind that Westhampton students always take advantage of to sit around on the campus enjoying the sun, or to stroll through the pine trees and over the rolling hills.

This morning was June 4—Alumnae Day—and the alumnae returning to Alma Mater were filled with memories as they gathered in Keller Hall to begin the day's activities. First on the agenda was an alumnae gov-

Professors Address Alumnae College

Genetic Control of Population Explosion?

In a world in which society may be producing increasingly inferior persons, the human race may have to be genetically controlled, a biologist told Westhampton College alumnae who filled the classroom for Alumni College on June 3.

Dr. Nolan Rice, professor of biology at the University of Richmond, was one of four faculty members who addressed the more than 100 alumnae. In his lecture he asserted that a curb on the population of the world will be a necessity of the future and improvement of the human race by genetic control "may be a part of it."

He said that people of the highest genetic endowment tend to have fewer children than others while those of relatively low genetic endowment generally have larger families. Although medicine is able to control some conditions of faulty genetic origin (such as diabetes), persons in this category continue to procreate and transmit these defective genes.

One method of heredity control would be by "parental selection," he said, in which artificial insemination or the mating of genetically superior persons would be used. He added that this method would "bring up tremendous social, religious, and political problems."

Dr. Rice's lecture followed that of Miss Betty Jean Seymour, director of religious activities for women. In the afternoon session, the alumnae heard Dr. Marjorie River-civic service.

The award was presented to Mrs. Barlow

by the Smithfield Junior Woman's Club.

She is the fourth recipient of the annual award.

Mrs. Barlow was first president of the Smithfield Parent-Teacher Association and was active in that organization for 25 years.

She has also served two years as welfare chairman of the Smithfield Woman's Club and later as assistant chairman. She is presently serving the club as historian.

Other activities include member of the

Patrick Henry Hospital Auxiliary where she helps prepare bandages and dressings for cancer patients and works with the hospital's annual bazaar.

She is a member of Smithfield Baptist Church where she has been president of the church's Woman's Missionary Union for 20 years. She also has worked as a committee chairman on the district level and was a Sunday School teacher in the junior

Our deepest sympathy goes to Louise Hardway Boswell who lost her husband the first week in May.

Virginia Perkins Yeaman is back from Denver, Colorado and a visit with Ann Carol and her three children. Dr. Malcolm, Ann Carol's husband, has accepted a position with the Geisinger Medical Center and the Malcolms will be moving east to Danville, Pennsylvania in July.

While in Denver Virginia talked to Louise Black who is math and physics librarian at the University of Colorado.

Mary Wilson MacGregor has gone back to working in statistics again and loves it. Elizabeth Talle should be home by the middle of June. She should have much to tell us.

The time for the next Bulletin is right upon us so I will give you very briefly some of the news from our reunion. We had a grand time and missed all of you who didn't get here. Louise Waller St. George, Johnnie Adams Ibel, Elizabeth Gill Minor, Mildred Bingham, Virginia Beck from her Florida home and was detained there by the birth of a grandson. You see, we are getting into the third generation. At one time it was the children who kept us at home. Jo Nunnally, Lucie Francis Samuels, Helen Pollard Deck's daughter, Margaret Anne, has been in Austria on a three-week's vacation. She continues to make her home in Boston, Mass., where she is employed as a bank examiner for the Federal Reserve Bank.

Helen's youngest son, Jimmie, 18 years old, has just finished his training school at Aberdeen Proving Ground, where he stood highest in his class and now awaits his orders for overseas.

Jessie Miller Turner has a granddaughter, Mary Lamb Turner, born April 1st at Fairbanks, Alaska.

Evelyn and Pete Ward's son, Nat, is in Korea. Nat's wife and son are staying in Richmond with her parents.

Eleanor Powell Ewell has just returned from a trip to Puerto Rico where she attended the Annual National Traveler's Aid Association Meeting at San Juan. While there she flew over one evening for shopping and dinner in St. Thomas.

Those attending the Spring Luncheon of the Richmond Club heard a delightful talk by Bev Andy Coddington, Charlie and Carolyn's daughter. She also showed slides of their home and experiences in Vietnam.

Emmet and Mary Mathew's daughter, Sara, graduates from Averett College, June 1966. Emmet Jr. will be in Richmond this summer for the next five years. I do hope that you will let me hear from you. And since I am one of the few people who still live at the same address, you will remember the letters from 408 N. Meadow which have come to you throughout the years.

Louise Sanford had planned to be with us but went to the hospital on Friday and was operated on Saturday morning was one of our nicest affairs. Will relay all the news to you in the next issue.

Laura Thornhill was elected second vice-president of Rho Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma Society (an honorary society for key women in education) at its meeting in Charlottesville in May.

Martha Lipscomb Walsh
Wins Teaching Award

Mrs. Martha Hollind Lipscomb Walsh, '25, has been presented with the 1966 Distinguished Service Award in Science Teaching. The award was given by the Virginia Society in recognition of her outstanding contributions to the teaching of high school chemistry in Virginia public schools.

Mrs. Walsh began her teaching career upon graduation from Westhampton, and since 1925 has been at McLean High School in Fairfax County. In 1963 she introduced and taught the first advanced placement chemistry course in Fairfax County. She sponsors the Science Club and the Science Fair in her school.

She holds a master's degree in biology from the University of Virginia and has received summer chemistry fellowships from Brown University and Bowdoin College.

She was one of the evaluators for the Chemical Bond Approach to the Teaching of Chemistry Program in 1961 and has been invited to be a "reader" for the Advanced Placement Chemistry Examination in 1966.

Other activities include editor of the Virginia Junior Academy of Science Proceedings, chairman of the Science Teachers Section of the Virginia Academy of Science, and membership in the National Science Teachers Association, Virginia Academy of Science, American Association for the Advancement of Science, New England Chemistry Teachers' Association, and the American Chemical Society.

In addition she is an active member of the Altar Guild at St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church, and is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma and the Irvine-Welles Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Queen's Guard and so attended the Apple Blossom Festival in Winchester.

It was grand to hear from Helen Wilkenson with news of her children. George is living in Richmond and is a pharmacist at the Mayberry Pharmacy. Millie is at V.P.I., and Stuart, Stuart, Stuart has graduated from high school. After teaching the seventh grade for years, Helen is now teaching the fourth grade. She has also been working this year, on an evaluation committee for the Nottoway County schools.

We saw that Cornelia Gould Scott's husband, George, took part last month in the Phi Delta Phi initiation ceremonies at the law school.

Ammye Thornton Hill was in the news in March when her contributions were rated Most Outstanding in the Fine Arts category at the Tuckahoe Woman's Club art show.

Two daughters are graduates from Westhampton in June. Betty Puckett, Virginia's daughter, and Lou Van Heuveln, Frances's daughter.

Betty Puckett, already a member of Mortar
Board, was tapped for Phi Beta Kappa this year. Betty is going on the University of Rich­mond Scholarship Committee.

Our class sponsor and friend through the years, Miss Jean Wright, retires in June. Did you know that she came to Westhampton shortly before we entered college? We wish her health and a long and happy retirement years. We look forward to her participation in our next reunion. (Her address is 39 Old Mill Road.)

Bev Bates, Mary Anne Guy Franklin, Ellen Barnard Wallinger, and I had lunch with Sue Cook McClure Jones. She was in Rich­mond following the illness and death of her mother.

The next day after I had lunch with Sue Cook and the others, I became ill with the mumps. I hope I did not contaminate any of them.

Sue Cook won a trip to Florida in a contest sponsored by the Los Angeles newspaper. Her article dealt with real estate as the best family investment. Her husband is working on the Apollo Moon Project.

Ellen Barnard Wallinger was excited about a trip that she and Melvin were planning to England and the continent.

A recent news story described honor paid by VPI to Jackie H. Gilmore’s father, Mr. J. Ambler Johnston, who, in my opinion, is one of Richmond’s most public spirited citizens.

Sue Whittet Wilson is the proud grand­mother of a second grandson, John Gordon Boling.

Lottie Britt Callis’s son, Steve, was injured seriously when his Honda and an automobile were involved in an accident. He spent many weeks in the hospital and required additional weeks of convalescence.

By the time this news is in print I hope to have seen many of you at our 30th reunion. Helen Falls has been promoted to a full professorship at the Baptist Seminary in New Orleans. Also, it is interesting to note that she is the first woman in a School of Theology of the six Southern Baptist Seminaries to achieve this status. Quoting from her letter: "I only hope that I may have pioneered in such a way that others may not have to wait so long for this recognition." Helen has been doing the work of a full professor for many years. Congratulations to you, Helen.

We are thinking of another one of our college students plans and sending our best wishes as she sails for India this summer on a teaching mission—Mary Ellen Stephenson.

A newsy letter came from Judith Hodges Schultz. She has been vice-president of the P.T.A. All-City Council of Mishawaka, Indiana, and was therefore program chairman of a city-wide Founders Day, which sounded most exciting.

The Schultz’s oldest daughter, Katherine, graduating from the University of Indiana this June, has a job this summer at Whelalbrator’s license in Schaffhausen, Germany. She will also tutor her hostess in English. Her trip flight is by University-chartered plane and the group will do some traveling in England and the continent.

We are proud of Helen Deenon Hopson’s son, William S. Hopson, who has received an award in the Raven Society, honorary or­ganization at the University of Virginia. He was elected president of the Society. Among his activities are the positions as editor of the student newspaper and president of Pi Delta Epsilon honorary journalism fraternity.

I am leaving in mid-May for Portland, Ore­gon as a delegate from our Richmond District Woman’s Society of Christian Service to our Assembly of Methodist Women. This meeting includes delegates and visitors from the 50 states and some from other countries. It meets once every four years. So, I am busy in prepar­ation.

Christine Duling Sponsler writes that her daughter, Kristin, a Westhampton graduate, is reaching Physical Education in Rockville, Mary­land. Her son, Bill, is a freshman at Union College in Schenectady, New York and very active in campus life. Daughter, Susan Lee, 9, studies piano. Christine teaches piano privately in Baltimore and leads a very busy life.

Jessie and Bill Junkin continue to do won­derful work in Taiwan. There were 300,000 people present for a service just before the China New Year began.

Our son, Malcolm, will receive his M.A. in French Literature from Indiana University in June. He hopes to continue toward his Ph.D. next year at Indiana.

Evelyn says she cannot continue with the news. She is very busy as head of the Middle School at St. Catherine’s plus going to school at night and planning to commute again this summer to William and Mary. I’m glad that she and Ken had a nice spring vacation trip to Miami which she says they both needed badly. She has certainly been faithful sending the news in and I will be happy to do it if you will just write me a few lines once in a while. Maude Smith Jurgens’ son, John, entered the Marine Corps in April. Our good wishes go with him. We wish to know if there are any more servicemen to report.

We have discovered another daughter at Westhampton, and shame on Dorothy Grant Ivey for not telling us about her. Dorothy’s daughter, Suzanne, a history major, is com­pleting her junior year with an outstanding record. She was treasurer of College Govern­ment this year and is a member of Morr­an Board. Congratulations to Dorothy and Su­zanne. Sorry we didn’t know of this before.

Barbara Gregg’s son enters Richmond College in September.

Our sincere sympathy is extended to Kitty Lyle whose mother died in April; and to Shirley Bradley Jenkins, whose husband, Woody, died suddenly, also in April. Shirley was at Westhampton only for her junior year.

Frances Bailey Gill and family spent their spring vacation in New Orleans—a lovely place at a lovely time.

Pauline Cortopassi has been installed as pres­i­dent of the Sacred Heart Parish Council of Catholic Women, and looks forward to a busy year.

Roberta Winfrey Cannon reports that she has been substitute at the treasurer of the Richmond Public Forum; that Dell Williams Smith is on the board of the R.P.F. as well as being a member of the panel committee; and that R.P.F. is the second largest night forum in the U. S.

Dell had a brief visit in March from Mary Scott Campbell, daughter of Louise Scott, Gene, with daughter Mary, were visiting relatives in Virginia and stopped off for a few days with Dell.

Twenty-five years ago we were all in the throes of preparing for our graduation, and looking forward to the wedding of Jeanne and George Waite on the following day. Does that sound a great deal longer than it’s ac­tually been?

A welcome letter from Sue Trussell Wright reveals that “several years ago I completed my educational requirements for New York Certi­fication at Queens College in Flushing and am now enjoying substituting in the elementary schools. When I wake up in the morning I can never be certain of my plans, as a principal might need a substitute at any hour of the day.

‘My daughters are quite independent now.”
Carol, 21, is working on Long Island and finds that her M. G. B. is just the car for the job. Pam, 17, is anxiously awaiting news regarding acceptance at college. She is planning a nursing career and has been a volunteer in a local hospital for many months.

"My husband, who is a C. P. A., is on the road a good deal; therefore, I try to travel with him on occasion. We had a marvelous trip to New Orleans in November, and most of my time was spent in the French Quarter.

"If you or any of my friends are ever in the New York area, please give me a call (area 516-PO7-8964)."

We join in extending sympathy to Betsy Epes Hardy in the recent death of her sister. Evelyn Cosby has a friend who is going to Aruba; so Evelyn called me for Eleanor Kindell Miller’s address, in order that the friend might communicate with her.

I just heard that Kay Levinson Krug and Robert gave a beautiful faculty party for George Mason College.

This is my final effort on these pages. This has been a means of reestablishing contact with many of you, for which I’m grateful. The time spent struggling to amass news items and compose these letters has not seemed a bit longer—well, than five years! I have many good wishes plus $25.80 to waft towards my blissful success.

News is slack this last round. I haven’t heard from a soul so I’ve dug up what little is here. A call to Genie Shepard Keever revealed she’s sufficiently recuperated from the political race. She says that contrary to Dick’s wishes that defeat would cure her it has made her all the more determined. She has many an experience to relate and says to tell you, “It’s not at all like Miss Woodfin said it would be.”

Fleet went home last weekend for a family reunion honoring my grandmother’s 100th birthday. She was thrilled at having spent a week at Duke as part of a Student Exchange Program. She was selected to live in Patillo House next year and will serve as Junior Representative to Student Government. She tells me Garland Green Sheaffer is transferring to Northwestern. I have been sorry Fleet and Garland have lived at opposite ends of the campus this year.

Marry and Bill Oast’s oldest son is a Junior in High School and they had a taste of chaperoning at the Junior-Senior. What fun!

I called Evermond to see if she had any more news of the new so she assumes her official role as class secretary. She is enthusiastic and begs for your help and cooperation. Lindsay has accepted her admission to Hollins, and as this was her first choice, they are very happy. She is looking forward to knowing Millie Goode’s Courtier, who (like myself) has been elected president of the junior class. One of Lindsay’s best friends, Kit Spooner, from Florence, S. C. is entering Westmount.

This has been a real “fun” job and I shall miss it. Thanks for all your help and interest. Be sure and write Evermond or send her a postcard while you’re vacationing so she’ll have some news. They are very happy. She is looking forward to the Junior-Senior. What fun!

It was wonderful to hear from Ruth Maris Wicker and Tivis, who teaches at the College of Albermarle, Elizabeth City, N. C. Ruth is teaching in the local high school, and they all three (including Maris, 13 and Jay, 11) enjoy water-skiing, swimming, and boating at Nagshead, the Outer Banks beaches or on their own river at the end of Main Street. Tivis and Ruth hoped they would conduct an area tour to Europe in July and August.

Liz Parker Cone should be a member of the Mexican Chamber of Commerce. She and Howard had a marvelous trip to Mexico City and Acapulco. They recommend this trip to travelers. Liz talked with Chatty Thomas Raines and Jack Patrick for the first time since college. Howard caught a 118 lb. sailfish, but Liz says her got away just as she was ready to boat him! When Liz wrote in March, Howard was off to the Far East on an annual trip and she was enjoying some new families in town, one of whom happens to be Betty Lawson Dillards’ sister and husband, Frances and Tom Spencer.

My year as class secretary has flown by so quickly it is the time to report. I have been busy organizing another house, which means staff, equipment, etc. Betty had a visit from Sally Taylor Dubose and her 4 and 3 year olds. With Betty’s 2 year old, they toured zoos and other places of interest to the children.

Virginia Kreyer wrote that she continues to stay busy with social work and ministerial activities. She serves on her church’s Board of Deacons. Sorry to hear her mother was quite ill early this year.

Betty Ellett and Marion Collier Miller spent a few days at the Williamsburg Inn on an Educational Guidance meeting. They had a nice visit with Mary Cox Anderson. Mary is usually here with her children and their activities, plus her own as president of her garden club.

Marion Miller’s older son, John, will finish high school in June. He has been accepted at Washington & Lee for the fall term.

I’m just finishing my first year teaching in the kindergarten department at St. Edward’s in Bon Air. It has been fun but I’m looking forward to a summer of leisure.

Please let me know what you have done and are planning for vacations. Have a happy summer.

I’m dashing this off while throwing clothes in a bag, to meet two deadlines—Mrs. Booker’s and a flight to California, where my sister, mother, and I are going to have a reunion. With 6 children, it’s sure to be a loud one!

Betty Hickerson Butterworth, Jack, and their 2 oldest children “painted” New York City last Spring. It was a nice trip. John and Ann were old enough to appreciate and enjoy the sights. Betty and I attended the annual Richmond Alumni Club Spring Luncheon, which was very nice.

Virginia Kreyer wrote that she continues to stay busy with social work and ministerial activities. She serves on her church’s Board of Deacons. Sorry to hear her mother was quite ill early this year.

Betty Elmoo and Jim are still doing their wonderful work at McKinn Boys’ Haven. Jim is busy organizing another house, which means staff, equipment, etc. Betty had a visit from Sally Taylor Dubose and her 4 and 3 year olds. With Betty’s 2 year old, they toured zoos and other places of interest to the children.

Betty Wood Rooback and her 2 daughters visited Johnny Johnson Sandidge here in Richmond. On Betty’s return trip, she went by to see Ginny Smith Kynett in Pennsylvania. Sorry she wasn’t here for our 48 Bridge Club so we could all have seen her. If any of you are in town any 3rd Wednesday, give me a call so you can join us.

Janice Conant McCoy lives in Petersburg, Virginia, and wrote that she is a social worker, periodically in addition to mothering her 3 children, ages 17, 14, and 10. They are proud of their oldest’s achievement which was being elected SCA President. Janice sees Wilma Lunn occasionally. Helsinki Butler and Jack visited in January, but Janice didn’t give any details or vital statistics.

Lois McClanahan Garrett, who’s currently hobbling around on a sprained ankle, joined Mrs. Taylor Snaid for a trip to Washington, D. C., where they met Betty Rackley Root, who was there from Coral Gables for the O. A. R. Convention. You may remember, several had a big welcome planned for Betty last year, but her trip had to be cancelled at the last minute. Please add Betty to your mailing list:

Just a couple of notes this time. Although she hasn’t heard from Bev for a long time, Bev Parson Brown has a new address—something about new streets being cut through. The number is 10216 Maplestead Lane, Bon Air, Virginia.

Elliott and Marion Collier Miller spent a few days at the Williamsburg Inn on an Educational Guidance meeting. They had a nice visit with Mary Cox Anderson. Mary is busy with her children and their activities, plus her own as president of her garden club.

Greeting from Florida! This year the Martins missed the lovely Spring season. It snowed the day we left Richmond and summer was well on its way when we arrived in Florida. Florida has been a popular spring vacation spot for many of our class members. My home is located in central Florida, but do come away from the excitement of the costs towns and pay me a visit. This Spring found Joanne Wor- ing Kargol and Bill visiting Marineland and St. Augustine as well as other points of interest in Florida. Margaret Alexander Anderson also vacationed in Florida with some of her bridge club friends. Grandma Tal had a grand trip to Miami. While there, they went on a yacht cruise and toured the tropical gardens.

William Balderson, Doris Balderson Burbank and Libby Givens Pierce attended the annual spring luncheon of the Richmond Club of Westhampton College in April. The beautiful weather allowed them to take a day trip to Sarasota, but do come away from the excitement of the coast towns and pay me a visit. Mary Sue Mock Milton and her husband have a home in Charlotte, North Carolina. She is busy getting it decorated as well as refinishing furniture for it.

Wilda Whitman Oakley and Bud were in Richmond in April and took their son, Brett, out to see the campus of the University of Richmond. Wilda talked to Doris Balderson Burbank by telephone and said that Bud had been transferred to Tulsa, Oklahoma and tendered his resignation at the school.

Barbara Covington O'Flaherty and Billy have purchased a tri-level home in western Henrico County and are planning to move in July. Brett has been working at the store in Richmond for a few weeks now and she is planning to move in July. They are looking forward to their move.

and we had breakfast with her each morning. She looked grand and loves her work at William and Mary.

After getting three children to the age where they can dress themselves and make their beds, I decided it was time to renew my acquaintance with the University. My enthusiasm carries me away at times but I am fortunate to have a husband to pull me back to earth and remind me that I have a family. When I talk about going on a "dig," he tells me that he will fix up the sandbox in the backyard! And so I go about my housework with my nose in books about Schilman and Troy. Oh well, after Lass and Mr. Ed, etc. anything would be inspiring.

Carolyn Carter Birdsong and Wilton announce the birth of their first daughter and second child, Ann Carter Birdsong, on May 10, 1966. Their son, Bill, is now 8 years old, quite helpful and very protective of his little sister. The Birdsong residence is at 9504 Richmond Road in Richmond.

Louise White McConnell was on WTVR television in May on the Dandy Doodle show. She brought a runner of Siamese kittens and explained about the care of kittens to children who were prospective owners of same.

I have now completed three years as your secretary and find that in many cases, my records and those of the alumnae office differ. And so I am taking a census. All of you who receive this issue of the Bulletin, please send me a postcard with your address, number of children and ages, employment or studies. If you do it by return mail there is less chance of your forgetting. Thank you for your cooperation over the past three years. We missed only one deadline and had only one or two brief letters. This is to your credit since you make the news.

If any of you come to Richmond this summer, call me at 282-0575 and we'll chat. Happy vacation everyone.

News is really scarce this issue, but the blame is on me for not contacting the group leaders soon enough. My excuse is the arrival of James "Jay" Emerson White in our family on March 25th. I'd forgotten how much they change the routine in one's household. I promise to do better in the future. Ginnie Swain Saunders and "Pot" are keeping up with us well for their first year. Susannah Bakerville Saunders, was born on April 15th.

Virginia Murden writes that she attended a State Welfare meeting in Roanoke in April and enjoyed visiting with Mary Anne Logan Mongan and her sister. They are a busy family with two "darling active boys" and with Mary Anne teaching school this year. Jean Crittenden Kauffman and her family will be moving to Lexington, Kentucky in August where Myron will have the job of directing the Kidney Transplantation patient and research work at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, as well as of teaching at the hospital and doing private practice. Jean was especially anxious to know of any W.C. girls who might be there.

Our sympathy is extended to Ann Cohen Schiff whose younger brother died on April 1st after a short illness.

Let's all work on having more news next issue.

1956 Secretary

Mrs. Philip Frederick, Jr.,
(Ann Peery)

Richmond, Va.

The class of '56 had a wonderful ten-year reunion on June 3 and 4. The biggest reason it was such a success was the grand attendance we had at all the events.

On Friday night, June 3, we had a buffet supper at Anne Jennings Vaughan's home, with the Richmond girls bringing the food. From Richmond we had Gwen Haley Gregory, Anne Stuart Harriz Hill, Rose Dranchak Martin, Helen Melton Lukhard, Pat Eanes Jackson, Shirley Garrett Massxon, Joyce Still Gibson, Ann Peery Frederick, the Pat Ballard Larus, Charlotte Hart, Janet Knobel Jones, Macon Moring Horton, Edna Wagstaff Warnke, Doris Huffman Moore, and Winkey Gray Steinnis. From out-of-town we had Mary Lee Kingery Divers (Roanoke), Dottie Stiff Price, Helen Kinnett Peach, and Virginia Jones Miller (Newport News), Carol Brooks Jennings (Williams AFB, Arizona), Jane Bowles Hurt (Portsmouth), Ann Pope Kitchen (Yale, Va.), Mary Lou Watson Lamb (Woodstock), Phillips Gee Wacker (Hampden-Sydney), Helen Crittenden Culberson and Pat McElroy Smith (Dahlgren), Evelyn Moore Werner (Chattanooga, Tenn.), Diane Brown Higgins (Cupper), Jeanne Branim (New York), and Nancy Moore Wilkinson (Petersburg). Mrs. Eunice Foy, our class sponsor, was out and we all gathered that night. Thirty-three women were present for the lovely dinner and our class business meeting. The following new officers were elected to serve for the next five years: President—Helen Melton Lukhard, Alumnae Fund Chairman—Anne Jennings Vaughan, Secretaries—Pat McElroy Smith and Doris Huffman Moore.

We read letters from those who could not attend, and passed around pictures Mrs. Boatwright had sent, taken during our college days. We discussed the Martha Boatwright Rice Memorial fund, which had a total of $135 to date. We voted to let this fund grow until the Fine Arts Building is completed, and to purchase a work of art at that time. Mrs. Frederick will be in charge of this. We had $15 left from our reunion which we will add to the fund for a total of $150. If you send in your contribution to Mrs. Booker's office for the Alumnae Fund marked for the Rice Memorial, you still get credit for contributing to the regular Alumnae Fund. If we add to the Memorial Fund all next year, we will be able to donate a worthwhile art work at Westhampton from our class.

On Saturday, June 4, at the Westhampton luncheon we had 20 classmates present. Lillian Stephenson Stroud (Suffolk), Carolyn Baker (Richmond), Barbara Pratt Willis (Fredericksburg), Jean Burroughs Mathews (Front Royal), and Betty Brickley Hayward (Medina, Pa.) joined us for that occasion.

On Saturday night a party was held at Ann Peery Frederick's home. Forty-seven, including husbands, attended. Margie Kantrner Snader and George arrived in time for this party, coming from Collegeville. A total of thirty-nine classmates came to at least one of our get-togethers, which we thought was a wonderful percentage. We hope to see the rest of you on the fiftieth!

We have several new addresses as a result of reunion search:

Bev Drake (Mrs. Owen Shull)
278 Alabama Drive
Herndon, Va.

Angela Groth (Mrs. Richard Guenther)
5160 Tiberan Way
San Jose, California

Nancy Moore
(Mrs. Leon Anderson Wilkinson)
2905 Rolyart Rd.
Petersburg, Va.

Helen Kinnett
(Mrs. William F. Peach, Jr.)
118 Lougwoon Dr.
Newport News, Va.

Helen Kinnett Peach was in Richmond for eight years during Bill's medical training. Bill is a neurosurgeon in a group practice with two other doctors. They have four children, Cheryl (6) and Billy (3½). Helen is active in the Medical Wives Auxiliary, Symphony Guild, Garden Club, and church work.

Lois Reamy is working for the New York
Times, editing free-lance travel news. She returned to the States in December '65 after spending fifteen months abroad.

Virginia B. Steven Miller lives at 1840 Yearle Drive, Newport News, Va. Her husband, Bob, is manager of the James River Country Club.

Carol Brooks Jennings and Curly have a new son, George Brooks Jennings, born in late January '66. They anticipate the fall and the children will be living in Norfolk for a year while her husband, Capt. H. L. (Curly) Jennings, will be in F-100's in Vie-Net NATO.

Jane Anderson Jennings (Mrs. Leon) had her fourth boy, born on our reunion date, June 3, 1966.

Roei Drachman Martin and Charles have adopted Kathy. Louise Martin, born on March 14, 1966, and they have had him since he was six weeks old. Their daughter is fifteen months older than her new baby brother.

Betty Brinkley Hayward (Mrs. John N.) lives at 17 Lincoln St., Media, Pennsylvania. John is director of personnel at Temple University, and Betty is an occupational therapist, commuting to Wilmington, Delaware. We were pleased to meet John at the reunion party.

Jane Bowles Hurt and Iris visited Judson and Anne in New York, and Ann and Mary work in Washington as legal services, as receptionist to the President of G.E., and at the G.E. Pavilion at the World’s Fair. Now she is working with the manager—purchasing service at G.E. Jean sings with the Collegiate Choir, and her picture appeared in the N. Y. Times with this group. They recorded Bach’s St. Matthew Passion and Mahler’s Second, conducted by Leonard Bernstein, for Columbia Records. The Chorale sings three concerts, one with the Philharmonic each year. In November they will sing Beethoven’s Ninth with the Philharmonic. Jean has also sung in Gilbert and Sullivan operettas; with a string quartet; as well as for several churches.

Thelma Flynn Helm had planned to come to the reunion, but had to cancel her plans as Marshall was transferred from Atlanta to Greensboro, N.C., and they will move in July. Thelma and Marshall were both born on April 30, 1914. Between being born in New York without the children, visiting art museums and seeing musicals, Phil was taken as in a Fellow of the American College of Physicians, which was the occasion for the trip.

Edith Borjes Greer (Mrs. Harold) also had moving to spoil her reunion plans. Harold has accepted a position as Rate Officer with the Southern Railway, working in Washington, D. C. They have moved from Jacksonville, Florida; their new address is: Apt. 103, Pine Spring Village, 7609 Lee Highway, Falls Church, Va., 22040.

Eliza Hubble Severt wrote a newsy letter which we read to the reunion group. She has a new baby boy, William Lawrence Severt, born on May 8, 1966. The Severts live at 15 Bondurant St., Martinsville, Va., and have another son, Jimmy, 4 years old. Jimmy said he was “just what he wanted.” They have just bought about six acres of land in Martinsville, and plan to start a new home next year. Eliza writes that she stays well occupied with the children, Charity League, Book Club, Garden Club, and the usual woman’s activities.” Eliza called the day after the reunion to catch up on the news. She had tried to call during the Saturday night party, but couldn’t get a line. She was thrilled to hear what a good time we all had.

Ann Carroll Yeaman Malcolm sent a reunion letter and picture which we all enjoyed. The Malcoms are moving to Danville, Pennsylvania in July where Nick will be on the staff in pathology at Geisinger Medical Center. He has been chief resident in pathology in Denver, Colorado. Ann Carroll described her three children, Ann Rose (7), Johnny (2), and ethernet (11 months). Her activities include sewing, gardening, P.T.A., and occupational therapy committee work. Ann Carroll had seen Betty Lou Kendall West, who also lives in Denver. Betty Lou is very brown from lots of skiing on the week-ends.

Leta May Tucker Hodge (Mrs. Edward), 1321 Pollock Rd., Mexico, Missouri, sent a special delivery in time for the reunion. To quote from her interesting letter: "Ed is a lawyer with a firm here in Mexico, and it looks like we are here to stay, which suits me fine for I am becoming quite fond of Missouri. We have just bought a new home, although it is an older house, and will be moving by the first of August. This has us all a little excited and the summer pretty well taken up with moving, getting settled. Susan Randolph is four years old, just out of nursery school and keenly interested in everything. Our second daughter was born on February 7, 1965, and believe me, Rebecca May has been one large handful since she arrived. Both Susie and Becky are blonde with blue eyes and plump (which I still am not); I am working three afternoons a week as historian for our county historical society and museum. It is a perfect job for a history major, and I am finding it really fascinating. Only those of you who live away from Virginia could guess how eagerly I grab the Alumni Bulletin out of the mail box. I'll be looking forward to hearing about the week-end and also about the latest news from many of you.

Don’t be bashful about writing letters; they mean a lot to our class mates, even if they sound routine to yourself. Your new class secretary is Pat McElroy Smith (Mrs. Steve), Box 95, Dahlgren, Va. Pat would like your cooperation and help by sending the news to her regularly.

Now a student life policy a father can afford!

Insurance: $10,000
Premium: $30

College is costly enough without high insurance premiums... yet students should be insured. Life of Virginia now offers a way to give students ten thousand dollar coverage, for only thirty dollars a year, with no medical examination. Both full-time college students up to age 22 and high-school seniors who will be in college within six months are eligible. And the insured may convert to permanent insurance at any time the Student Life Plan is in force, without evidence of insurability. For information on Student Life Plan, Call a Life of Virginia representative today.
Kinter has become a Yankee! John began in Feb. to establish an Angus cattle farm at Kent Hollow Farms, New Preston, Connecticut. To top that, Katherine Miller Kinter put in her appearance on March 28. Betsy is 4, Robbie, 23/2, Judy "loves Vermont" (?). If you're touring New England this fall look them up!

Dee Austin Alevizatos has moved to 1877-B Glick Place, Fort Detrick, Md., 21701, where she and Ted are enjoying army life." Dr. Ted has finished his residency and is serving two years in the army. They are big husky boys and look older than they really are.

Shirley Gordon Highfill and Jerry have happy news. They are adopting a baby, Anne Elizabeth, who was born January 30. She has red hair and blue eyes and has completely taken over their household since moving in March 18.

Sue Sybert Ritter and Fred proudly announce the arrival of Lynne Bartlett on March 9. And Nancy Kipps Hughes and Ray finally decided on a name for their daughter, also born March 9—Jo Anne. "She's a good baby and Mike, 4, is spending a lot of time talking to her and entertaining her in various ways," Ray bought a tractor in the spring to "help with the task of mowing our 5 acres," and spent a couple months after Christmas building a partition between our kitchen and dining room. The whole wall is one big china closet on the dining room side." Kippy resigned as WMU president but Ray, who is chairman of the Board of Deacons, keeps them busy with church work. They are watching the construction of their new church building.

Gary Hancock Gilmer's progress report was brief—"house going fine."

Janice Dowdby Briggs and Ed's new tri-level is near completion in May. Ed loves being near the lake and works in educational TV on Fridays. The Chatterbox, their school newspaper, won Medalist Rating (the highest!) from Columbia Scholastic Press Assn., "the first rating of the year and the most important of all." Now we can breathe freely before we start to worry about next year. We've been celebrating all day."

Margaret Griffin Thompson has been teaching since the first of April, "and have I been busy! I signed up to substitute and in less than a week they had me full time in a hospital."

Margaret and Jess got snowbound this winter when a blizzard sneaked up on them while they were at a bridge party. "I spent the night on the sofa of our friends' living room," but Jess had to hike about a mile home through the snowdrifts on foot. By the time the snow plow cleared the road and Margaret got home the following evening "Jess and the children had really had one big picnic all day long!"

"Sounds like we're developing a strong breed of fathers! Beth, nearly 3, sleeps with a book and pretends she's reading in bed, and Brian, 5, "wants a paper airplane—a jet, naturally!"

A letter from Laverne Watson Edwards arrived too late for the last Bulletin, but disclosed the arrival of Rebecca Brooks Edwards, on Feb. 26, "with no consideration for the duty officer at the dispensary, ruining his Saturday by assigning the 45-mile trip to the Frankfurt hospital."

Margaret Tabor Small's family enjoyed visiting with Mike's parents in Columbus, Ohio, in April. After Mike's week in El Paso, Texas on active duty, they took advantage of the warm spring weather by painting the interior of their house, while Tracey and Mike relaxed, and Medal from the National Board.

Margaret Rutherford Compton and Delano had two nice trips—one to a lumberman's convention in Cincinnati, and also to the Masters Golf Tournament in Augusta, Georgia. Peg and Vic were busy with their own affairs and spent the 4th of July weekend at the beach during a hospital association convention. Peg is busy with his wife's sewing, and Merrill is coaching little league baseball. Peg said Martha Jordan Chukins, Warren, and the children get to Warren's home rather frequently, according to the Culpeper newspaper. Not a word of news came from the Danville area this time.

I did get an exuberant note of March 17 from Michael Cordier, whose school newspaper, the Chatterbox, won Medalist Rating (the highest!) from Columbia Scholastic Press Assn., "the first rating of the year and the most important of all." Now we can breathe freely before we start to worry about next year. We've been celebrating all day."

Bev Brown Floyd's husband, J.P., has been substitute teacher at Elkins Elementary School and professor of philosophy and religion. Alison is 2 1/2, Paul will be a year old Oct. 3rd.

Margaret Griffin Thompson has been teaching since the first of April, "and have I been busy! I signed up to substitute and in less than a week they had me full time in a hospital."

We've been celebrating all day."

Bev Wine Bowers says, "I'm enjoying my work and also a class I'm taking at East Tenn. State U. Bristol has been beautiful this spring."

Sue Riley Lambiotti's letter was a "communication from W. C. Peninsula Chapter is raising money by selling "double deck of playing cards with 'Westhampton College' printed on them in gold"—one red deck, one blue, very pretty, costing $4.50 for the set. 'I'd try most happy to . . . mail them to anyone who sends me a check.' (214 Plez Ave., Newport News, 23601)

Julia Jett Shepherd spent two weeks in Roanoke while Bob was at camp, and both the children came down with the measles at Grandma's. Julia got to see Gary Hancock Gilmer, and ran into Nancy McCall Pollock Pickards, '60, in M.A.R. Tea Room. Nancy's husband teaches at V.P.I. and their little boy will be year old this summer.

The W. C. Richmond Club had a lovely spring luncheon with 120-or-so people attending including Elizabeth Rams Dunkum, Jean Margaret Wyndham, Margaret Dorseý Fussell, Bev Eubank Evans, Ruth Adkins Hill, and Eleanor Dickson Campbell.

Elizabeth's term as president of the Richmond Club is over and Jean Hudgings Frederick, '58, succeeds her, but Elizabeth will be a member-at-large of the National Board. She is busy sewing clothes for David, and she and Ellis went with her family and David to N. Y. for a few days, taking in the opening game at Yankee Stadium. Elizabeth, Bev, Bonnie Lewis Haynie, B. B. Harvey Caroll, and Maggie's husband, are spending the 4th of July weekend near Staunton at Ingleside, a "resort motel" with a beautiful golf course. The girls are planning to go "antique-ing" while the men play golf. The progeny will stay behind with babysitters.

R.B.'s husband, Sherwood, has passed the real estate exam and became associated with Slater & Vaughan in June.

Eleanor Dickson Campbell's picture has been in the paper several times lately as one of the Ashland Junior Woman's Club team, which has been successful on a local quiz show.

Mary Trew Bubblebich Lindquist and Jerry are packing for a trip to Texas this summer to visit Jerry's parents, who recently moved to Texas. "Our" Texans, Barbara Dulin Polis, Charlie, and Chuck, made another trip to "Six Flags Over Texas" in May during a week's leave.

It is our pleasure to announce the marriage of Mary Lee Fountain to Don Ward on November 2.

Bec~y Webb Moran came by recently—first time since July '61 (isn't that disgraceful?)—and filled me in on all the trials and tribulations of getting a dishwasher. Everything happens to Bec~y, just everything!

That's about it. I stay awfully busy, and try frantically to keep organized, (That's to allow me plenty of time to fool around!) I was too busy thinking about the warm spring weather to phone all the local girls for news this time, but I have no real objection to your calling me, you know!

Our sympathy is extended to Margaret Ruthford Compton whose father passed away January 30, three hours after a sudden cerebral hemorrhage.

Next deadline is Labor Day weekend.

1960 Secretary

Mrs. Robert H. Lemmon
651 Andrews Road
Aberdeen, Maryland

Many of my secretaries are a little discouraged by a lack of response from some of their girls. If you are guilty of neglecting to return that stamped post card listing your latest accomplishments, please try not to forget the next time! It's very disheartening to the secretaries who spend their time and effort to get your news in print. Thanks to those who did remember!

Congratulations to Sandra Hood Repass and her husband, Tom, on the birth of a daughter, Annabelle Ruth, on February 14. This is one Valentine's Day the Repasses will long remember.

Louise Deaton Meyers writes that she visited her parents in Virginia this summer while husband Bob was in summer camp with his ROTC. Before this, Louise kept busy with her home and two boys, while Bob took on the dual role of student at Dayton U., and coach of the rifle and pistol teams. He is working toward his Master's in Business Administration.

Anne Loving Fenley and Tom have left Highsmith Farms and moved to a farm near Spring house, Pennsylvania. Tom is now employed by Moore Products Company in Spring house. Since we haven't heard from Anne in a while, let me bring you up to date on her activities. She is now the proud mother of two children, Katherine Anne and Edward Anthony. Before retiring to motherhood, Anne was a computer operator at the Hollins College computer center, having taken special training in programming. Anne says they were delighted when Pat Crawford Lucky called. Bob's husband dropped in to visit them last summer.

Word from across the seas from Pat Hunt Worthington. The Worthingtons are in a perfect location for travel: 60 minutes from Heidelberg and 45 minutes from Munich, then only three hours from ski resorts. Another of our far-away classmates is Cynthia Barrow who resides in Honolulu. She and her husband vacationed in and around the islands of Hawaii and Kaerai shortly before Christmas. Cynthia is presently a temporary Navy widow, as Randy left for a cruise as of February.

Jeanne Kosko Light writes about the show-stopping antics of her little son. George Evans modeled in a fashion show and was doing beautifully until he decided to sit down right in the center of the runway! The audience was in an uproar until a 6 year old managed to prod him into continuing down the ramp. Jeanne's latest endeavor is that of playwright, having written a play for her 6 year old church school children to perform.

Sally Evans Hayes reports that she has fallen in love with her new home town of Marblehead, Mass. One good reason is that there are lots of antique shops within walking distance. Sally is enjoying staying at home, but will teach again next year. She and Jim have met many nice couples who live close by. Sally made a trip home in April to attend a wedding and enjoyed a reunion and gab session with Anne Paige Jones Hunt and other old friends.

Clare Earl Ahlers and children also enjoyed a trip home to Newport News in June while husband Dave worked in New York. Clare spent the entire month relaxing and visiting and doing "nothing more strenuous than taking the kids to the beach!" The Ahlers had a busy and trying winter nursing a 2 year old with a broken leg, the result of a sled-riding accident.

By the time this Bulletin reaches you, I will have lost a secretary and Hawaii will have gained a new city, Loretta Huddins and her roommate plan to drive to San Francisco on the first of August and fly from there to Honolulu where the girls will live next year. When not teaching school, Loretta will enjoy the beach or perhaps learn the hula. Our best wishes go with Loretta to her new home.

After the April 15 tax deadline, Rosy Weintz, Rottenberg and Maurice "got away from it all" by going to New York City for a fun-filled weekend. Rosy reports that she has been cultivating a green thumb and couldn't wait for spring to arrive so that she could plant all the seedlings she had been nursing. Her house had begun to resemble a greenhouse.

On April 2nd the Richmond Club of Westhampton alumnae held their spring luncheon at the Willow Oaks Country Club. Our class was proudly represented by Maggie Donald Miller, Josephine J. Rudgey, Meurial Webb and Becky Grissom Van Ausdall. The highlight of the affair was a talk by Brokenshaw, mannerman who showed slides on Saigon. Betsy spent 4 months there while her husband was serving as civilian advisor. It was well attended and our girls enjoyed being together for an afternoon.

Becky Grissom Van Ausdall decided to give her government classes a first hand look at democracy at work by taking them to Washington, D.C. Jerry went along to help chaperone the group of 41 students. They saw the Supreme Court in session, met Mr. Satterfield, the Congressman from Richmond, sat in the House of Representatives and went to the Smithsonian, all in one day. The climax of the trip was meeting John McCormack, Speaker of the House, who shook hands and talked with them briefly. Becky writes that it was a re-warding experience for her as well as her students. She will be teaching history and government next year and will work with a special pilot program in Humanities.

Another pilgrimage to Washington, D.C. was made recently, this one by Millie Bagley Bracey and Penny whose primary intention was to introduce Karen, their four year old, to the zoo. However, the weather man just wouldn't cooperate, and the rains kept coming, so the Braceys cut the zoo visit short and went to visit Peggy Gore Sykes and family. Millie is teaching third grade this year, but is moving up high school government and history this fall. Peggy reports that her young daughter, 10 month old Suzanne, is a regular little Linus with her thumb and blanket.

Jeanette McWilliams Welsh writes that she and Jack are delighted to have joined the Judges of Home Grown this year. They will reside at 802 Hepler Drive as of June 15th. Jeanette and tyre Hurd Parker have joined the choir being organized for alumni and friends of the University and directed by Mrs. James Kilr. Anne is teaching fifth grade in Chesterfield County.

April 12th saw the arrival of Howell Keith Brinkley at the home of Kay Lacy Brinkley and husband. Congratulations to all of us. Congratulations also go out to Lanetta Ware for her promotion to assistant professor of physical education at Hollins College where she has been a member of the faculty since 1962. It was a real treat to see one of our classmates' photo and write-up in the spring Alumni Bulletin. Em St. Clair Key and Wayne took a trip to California in June and enjoyed three weeks of fun and sight-seeing.

Phyllis Jenkins Polhemus and Bob attended the opera in February at the Lyric Theater. Phyllis reports that it was indeed a grand occasion. While we were in New York, Phyllis and Bob met us for lunch at Delmonico's and took a quick look at the stock market. Phyllis and I spent the rest of the afternoon wearing out our shoes on Fifth Avenue.

I need correct addresses for Frances Templeton Latham, Nita LeSeur. Please notify your secretary or me if you have any information.

I enjoyed taking part in a Sacred Concert by the Sanctuary Choir of our church. We sang the Requiem Mass by Faure. Thanks to Uncle Sam, Bob and I were able to take a trip to California in June. Bob spent two weeks of Reserve Training at Camp William in Utah, while Paige and I visited with friends in San Francisco. He joined us at the completion of his training and we stayed another week to do some sight-seeing and touring together.

Have a happy, safe summer. Be sure to report all your vacation adventures and trips, too, to your secretary for the fall issue. The deadline is September 15th, but if you should happen to miss it, send the news on anyway so that it can be put in the next class newsletter. Another request: if you have a new address, please notify me. Thanks to all those who helped with this issue.

1961 Secretary
MRS. JERRY H. JONES (Betty Wade Blanton)
1104 Johnson Avenue
Petersburg, Virginia

As I write this column we are busy completing plans for the reunion in June. When you read this, the reunion will be just a memory and I hope you enjoyed it. I have enjoyed being your class secretary for the past five years and I hope you will give all your support to your next class secretary.

Sandy Gott Gilliam and William have wonderful news. Their daughter, Melissa Leigh, arrived April 6th. She arrived a little early due to an accident Sandy had but mother and daughter are just fine. Their dog, Cleo, had seven puppies on March 4th and they have managed to sell most of them. Sandy says she has been kept pretty busy this spring with new puppies and dogs.

Sylvia Thompson Carlton writes that Ash has a number of golf tournaments this spring and they get to see a lot of old friends around the area.

Lynne Stephenson Cox and Gene have settled in Canoga Park, California. Lynne wrote that Shirley Fish Kirchner that she shared a ladies room with Kim Caplan—both trying to carve their hair. The Coxes just love being in California.

Tish Kinchlo Welland and Fred are living at 35 Sylvan Way, Los Altos, California and they have been joined by Mary Randolph (Molly). Molly arrived April 14th, weighing 7 lbs. 2 oz.

Betty Pritchett White and Ray attended the International Association Dental Research meeting in Miami Beach the last week in March. Betty returned with a really beautiful tan.

Gwyn Barefoot Raper and Jarrell traveled to Michigan in April to visit the Rapers. They traveled by train taking the three children with them.

Kitty Borum Fitzhugh and Parke are planning to move to Coral Gables, Florida. Parke is beginning work on his doctorate in Clinical Psychology at the University of Miami. Kitty says she hopes to find related work, preferably the kind that allows long hours in the Miami sun with some time left for the pool as fringe benefits.

Barbara Bertsch Cox and Bob will be back in Virginia this fall. Bob has accepted a position teaching English Honors, working with a Johnstone-Robinson Collection, and coaching at Woodberry Forest.

I know this is short but I decided not to make up any news this time. Please take just a few minutes to write a note to your new secretary. Thanks again for all your help.

1963 Secretary
MRS. DENNIS ROZUM (Margie Burkeit)
1303 Grumman Drive
Richmond, Virginia

As you noticed, Denny and I have a new address. We moved this summer from our apartment and are temporarily renting a house as we plan to buy our own home.

Other members of our class were also busy moving or planning to move. Marcia McMullen Cantrell and Bill were this spring moving into their new home near Chester, Virginia. Their new address is 7508 Springbook Road, Chester, Va.

Par Kirby Percy, Sue and their children moved from Ambler, Pennsylvania back to good ole Richmond in June. Also moving back to Richmond is Grace Phelps Rhinemann and her husband, Don. Don will be doing research for the University of Virginia Extension here and Grace hopes to take a job doing research work similar to hers.

Jon and Judy Barlow Bolling had a chance to combine business and pleasure this past spring in a trip to Florida. Jon works for Frieden's and Grace handles the company's annual convention in Miami and they drove down a few days ahead of time to bask in the sun.

Josie Rogers Lovelady wrote to fill us in on what's she been doing since graduating. She has been teaching in Chesterfield for four years and is presently at Meadowbrook High with many other Westhamptonites. Her husband, Don, is engaged in a problem. They are trying excited about being in a house and enjoy planning their garden. Josie's new address is 3831 Woodside Road, Chester, Va.

I was really delighted to hear from Susie McAffer who will soon be joining the 'matron' ranks. Susie's all caught up in making plans long distance (an unenviable task!) She is busy training her replacement for her Detroit job, planning her June wedding for Roanoke and taking shots and getting papers ready to go overseas. Her husband-to-be is Jerry Guerre, an army captain who is being sent as military advisor to Taiwan for two years. They will be living in Taipei and are looking forward to seeing the Orient and also having a spare room for any '63ers visiting in Formosa!)

Frances Pitchford has been busy teaching but planned to become a student again this summer and take courses in education and library science. Her future plans include moving into the library end of school work. She also reported that Doris Joyner Robertson and her husband were transferred to Florida this past winter. Before moving to their new base, the Robertson's took a trip to California and were amazed at the breathtaking sights.

From California, Griff Mahan to say that she and Leland were still stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base and probably would be there until Leland gets discharged in August 1967. He is in the Judge Advocate General's Corps and was promoted in February to Captain. Cecelia was busy this past year graduating from a local high school. In April they spent 9 marvelous days vacationing in Hawaii and returned convinced that it deserves the title 'vacationer's paradise.'

Helen S. Brewer Glassman and Dave are leaving Richmond this summer after three years. Helen has been teaching history at Tucker High School and was junior class sponsor. Dave graduated in June from the Dental School at MCV and is now planning to specialize at Tuft's. They are looking forward to their two year stay in Boston and the change of scene.

As you can tell by the news, the trend with this class this year has been moving to new places. I'm sure there are many more of you who have made moves to new towns or homes. Please do let me know your new address! I hope I can let you know soon an area group leader to whom you can report your news and addresses.

1964 Secretary
MISS CYNTHIA MORGAN
1011 Robroy Drive
Silver Spring, Md.

Since this is the last issue in which I will be writing the news of our class, let me say how much I have enjoyed keeping in touch with so many of you these last two years. Especially I want to thank the group leaders who have been responsible for sending me all the interesting news items. I look forward to keeping in touch in the future via the creative style of the newly elected secretary.

Two January weddings have not previously been included: Glen Chastain became Mrs. Edward Post and is now living with his husband in Lanham, Maryland. Also Walker Glen was married to John Weigel, a law student at the University of Virginia this fall. Bob has accepted a position in New Orleans with Paul, Peres & Simmons and his husband and then returned with Nancye and her husband to visit in Orlando, Florida.

Jo Anne Barco Daughterty recently returned from Italy after visiting her husband who is in the navy and on a Mediterranean cruise. She visited Anne Baylor at the University of Madrid on her way back.

Another who seems to make a habit of traveling is Sally Abel. In February Sally flew to New Orleans with Paul Peres & Simmons and her husband and then returned with Nancye and her husband to visit in Orlando, Florida. Jo Anne Barco Daughterty recently returned from Italy after visiting her husband who is in the navy and on a Mediterranean cruise. She visited Anne Baylor at the University of Madrid on her way back.

Speaking of San Francisco, Ellen Clute is teaching English Honors, working with a Johnstone-Robinson Collection, and coaching at Woodberry Forest. is now working for a British reinsurance company, Sterling Offices, Ltd.

Mary Teene Rainey will continue to teach biology at Kellam High School in Virginia Beach. She has been advisor to the National Honor Society this past year.

Cape Beirne will receive her M.A. in June and will be teaching at the University College in Richmond.

Helen Flynn has been promoted to Staff Assistant at the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company in Richmond.

Ann Blitch Siler will be teaching third grade at Samuel Chase Elementary in Prince George County this fall. After July 3 they will be living in Oxen Hill, Maryland where Russ will be an interim pastor in a nearby Lutheran church.

Ann Gay Widmer Parker and her husband are now living just north of Boston in Stoneham, Massachusetts.

On April 4, Kathy White officially became the Secretary for the Sussex County Education Association for 1966-67.

July Zuck, Joyce Stephens and Susan Pepper are all working on their Master's degree at the University of Virginia. Elizabeth Morris Meador has been working in Floyd County, Virginia since February as a teacher-librarian, a position in which she works with students grades 1-7 who need help in reading. This is a federal government sponsored program in remedial reading. She seems to find her work most challenging and rewarding.

Doris Joyner Robertson and her husband are now living in Key West, Florida as a result of "Uncle Sam's Orders." I can't say that I feel too sorry for them!

Emily Ayers Gray writes that Bill will graduate from MCV June 4 and they will be moving to San Francisco where Bill has an internship at the U. S. Public Health Hospital. They seem to be doing quite a bit of traveling before leaving for the West Coast.

Brenda Falls Holland gave birth to a 9 lb. 12 oz. baby girl, Catherine Lynnette in March. Brenda's husband, Henry, will be graduating from MCV this June and will be doing his internship in Norfolk.

Lety Sloan Mallery gave birth to a little girl, Tammy Elizabeth on April 7th. Also Linda Averill Venturo recently gave birth to a little girl.

Gay Frith Thompson is now a child welfare worker in Halifax County, Virginia. Her case load involves about 70 children, but she seems to enjoy her work a great deal.

Bonnie Brooks Redditt will receive her Master's in Religious Education in June and hopes to teach in the fall.

Marcia Roiter Williams and her husband, George, may be moving to Utah for awhile since George has been commissioned to write a book on Mormonism by the Baptist Home Mission Board. Both Marcia and George are exploring the possibilities of graduate school in the fall at the University of Iowa. Marcia would be studying in the field of Social Work and George in the area of Comparative Religion.

I have one more year before receiving my M.A. in Rehabilitation Counseling from the University of Kentucky. This summer I am enjoying working with mentally retarded children in the D. C. area.

1965 Secretary

Mrs. Barbara C. Vaughan
403 Westover Hills Boulevard, Apt. # 203
Richmond, Virginia

Well, girls, how does it feel to have been graduates of Westhampton College for a year now? We can no longer claim to be the youngest graduates, for the class of 1966 has now joined us.

May Day was quite a reunion for our class. It was so good to see so many of you back on campus. I can't begin to tell those of you who were unable to attend just how much fun it was. I just wish all of you could have been able to enjoy the fun.

Wedding bells have again been ringing for the girls in our class. Susan Grable became Mrs. David D. Ryan on June 25th.

The Road to Freedom

JACK JOUETT'S RIDE

The road to freedom was really no road at all for little known Virginia hero Captain Jack Jouett. It was a punishing, 40-mile, cross country ride; a desperate, dead of night gallop to warn Governor Thomas Jefferson and the Virginia legislature that the British were coming.

No one ordered Jack Jouett on that ride. He saw his duty—and did it. Forty miles—from Cuckoo Tavern, in Louisa County, to Monticello, near Charlottesville. As Tarleton’s redcoats trotted along the road to Charlottesville, Jouett cut his own road to freedom—through the fields and woods of the rough Virginia countryside. To his dying day, Jouett’s face bore the scars of tree limbs. To this day, the nation bears him a debt of gratitude. For Jefferson and the legislature escaped. A disaster in our fight for freedom was averted.

The road to freedom is seldom a highroad, with bands playing and flags flying. It is more often a rough way, unmapped, through darkness and danger. It has not been the way of ease and expediency, but the way of individual initiative and determination, that has paved our long American Road to Freedom.
Brenda Netherwood is to be the bride of George M. Gibrall on July 2nd. They will make their home in Richmond.

I am sure of all you remember Mary Evans who attended Westhampton for two years. She was also married on June 25 and I understand her occasion was celebrated with considerable enthusiasm.

Jane Lasley becomes Mrs. Kevin W. Quinn on July 30th. Her wedding, as true as most of our class, will be a big one with our class. Mary Ellen Harvey became Mrs. Ralph H. Johnson, Jr.

May 7 was the wedding day for Sallie Berkeley. She became Mrs. Donald Richard Wende. Sue and her husband are making their home in Richmond.

The engagement of Janet Taylor to Wayne Adams Fuller has been announced as well as the engagement of Joanne Marshall to Sherman Ammon Witt.

The summer has brought changes to some members of our class. For example, our classmate, Nancy Curtis Wood at the University of Denver, Colorado in 1966. She has been announced as the advisor for the class of '66 at the University of Virginia.

Diana Ryan sent her engagement to Sherman Witt.

The Atlanta Club was fortunate to have a visit from Dean Mary Louis Gehring. We took this opportunity to extend an invitation to alumni throughout Georgia to join us at a dinner meeting the evening of April 5 at Mammy's Shanty. For all who attended, it was a pleasure to meet Dean Gehring and to learn from her the latest news of the students, faculty and campus at Westhampton.

Baltimore Alumnae Club

President: Miss Ruth Latimer
Westernly Fairwinds on the Severn
S Evening Park, Maryland

The Baltimore Club met three times during the year 1965-66.

In August, we had a picnic at the home of Ruth M. Latimer, on the Severn River. Baltimore and the Westhampton alumni and their mothers, were our special guests. We enjoyed an afternoon of sailboat rides, swimming and water skiing, followed by a pot-luck picnic supper.

In November, we held a joint alumna-alumna dinner meeting at the Park Plaza Hotel. A special feature of the evening was an arrangement of red and blue carnations, complete with a spider web and spiders with red and blue eyes! Everyone had such a good time that we hope to make this an annual event.

Our spring meeting was held in conjunction with a luncheon at the Courtyard Restaurant, the Hoot Company, Baltimore. Kitty Whitty Fiege, '59 was elected president and Katherine Newby '34, vice-president, both to serve for two years. (Mildred Slavin Cordish, '42 and Mariah Chisholm Hasker, '55, continue as treasurer and secretary, respectively, filling out the second year of their term of office.)

The Baltimore Club has an active membership list of sixty-five, with an average attendance of forty-five. We are especially pleased to have several new members.

Peninsula Alumnae Club

Co-chairmen: Mrs. Stuart Atkinson
(Barbara Hasker '63)
121 Keith Road
Newport News, Va.

Mrs. James B. Thomas, Jr.
(Elizabeth McRae '51)
1425 Monterey Ave.
Norfolk, Virginia

President: Mrs. Roy Dudley
(Elizabeth McRae '51)
1425 Monterey Ave.
Norfolk, Virginia

On April 16, 1966, the closing affair of the 1965-66 season of the Tidewater Chapter of Westhampton Alumnae was held: a buffet luncheon at the Lafayette Club in Norfolk. Several members of the Franklin and Suffolk Chapter were also present at what was, in effect, a combined meeting.

The feature of the afternoon was the introduction, by President Elizabeth McCrae Dudley, of Mrs. Leslie Booker and Miss Marjorie Rivenberg, speaking first, gave us in broad outline what has been happening at Westhampton in recent years, and then filled us in on the delightful details behind those headlines. Mrs. Booker then completed a most enjoyable luncheon by speaking on plans for the next year at Westhampton Alumnae Weekend. Miss Rivenberg, speaking second, gave a report on new building plans, including the Fine Arts building; on faculty members new and old; and on developments in the admissions and academic programs at Westhampton.

Leslie Booker, Alumnae Secretary, spoke of events planned for Alumnae College and Alumnae Day.

Tidewater Alumnae Club

President: Mrs. Roy Dudley
(Elizabeth McRae '51)

WASHINGTON CHAPTER NAMES GRIZZARD NEW PRESIDENT

Dr. R. Stuart Grizzard, pastor of National Baptist Memorial Church in Washington, D.C., has been elected president of the Washington chapter of the Alumni Association.

The meeting was held in May at the Tom Sarris Orleans House, with 42 members attending the meeting.

Others elected at the meeting were T. Jack Gary, '31, a CPA in Washington, vice president; J. Bernard Bradshaw, '24, a counsel with the Department of Justice, secretary; and Forest Persons, '52, of Washington, treasurer.
SAN FRANCISCO ALUMNI TO FORM NEW CHAPTER

It's a long way from the Westhampton Lake to the Golden Gate, but Lt. Dalton A. Parker, '62, of the U. S. Navy and other University alumni have sown the seeds of an Alumni chapter in San Francisco.

Eight turned up at the initial meeting, held at the Admiral Nimitz Officers Club on Treasure Island May 26, and for a second meeting at the apartment of S. P. Lee in San Francisco.

A nominating committee was appointed, and the alumni hope to get the chapter underway in early September.

GATES ADDRESSES ROANOKE CHAPTER

The Roanoke chapter of the Alumni Society held a luncheon meeting on May 6 at the Patrick Henry Hotel, President Robert M. Stone, Jr., '50, was the presiding officer.

Guest speaker for the meeting was A. P. Gates, '48, then president of the Alumni Society, who spoke on the athletic program at the University. Alumni Secretary Joseph Nettles discussed Alumni Day plans.

Twenty-six alumni were present for the meeting.

Necrology

Dr. Monte Lewis Rena, a retired Charlottesville physician, died in May at the age of 89.

Dr. Rena was born in Crozet, and received his M.D. degree from the University of Virginia after graduating from Richmond College. He spent five years in New York as an intern and resident before returning to Charlottesville to practice.

For thirty years he served as surgeon for the Southern and Chesapeake and Ohio railways. During World War II, he was the only surgeon at Martha Jefferson Hospital, where he often contributed from his own pocket to provide equipment that the hospital needed. In 1954, he estimated that he had delivered more than 6,000 babies in three generations.

Survivors include two half-sisters.

J. Half Moore, a representative of the Equitable Insurance Company of the U. S., for 66 years, died in December, 1965. He was 99.

Mr. Moore was still active in selling insurance up to two years before his death. He began with the firm at the turn of the century because it was an occupation that would keep him outdoors rather than behind a desk. He moved from Richmond to Ashland in 1921 and remained there the rest of his life.

Even in his twilight years, he was outselling the youngsters in the business, and won the respect and admiration of his fellow salesmen. He served third and fourth generations of his first clients.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Emily Moore.

1903—

Word has been received of the death of C. Newton Hudmon of Opelika, Ala.

1905—

Word has been received of the death of Walter D. Wildman, Sr.

He had worked for many years as an accountant, with individual businesses.

1906—

More than 100 members of the Sunday School class he taught at Grove Avenue Baptist Church in Richmond assembled on June 19 at the church for Jesse Wood Day. Mr. Wood taught the class from 1948 to 1962 when bad health forced his retirement. For 39 years he was a banker in Richmond and was vice president of State-Planter's Bank and Trust Company at the time of his retirement in 1951.

1907—

Claude H. Elsom, a retired electrical engineer, with homes in North Carolina and Florida, is dead.

Mr. Elsom was a Richmond native. He organized and incorporated the West Virginia Engineering Company at Charleston, W. Va. He was an organizer and secretary of that firm and Union Power Company, United Light and Power Company, Inez Car Water Works, War Light and Power Company, and Glen Company.

He was a 32nd degree Mason, a Shriner and a member of many professional organizations. His hobbies included golf, chess, fishing and photography.

Word has been received of the death of Mahlon A. Ankers of Sterling, Va. He died October 26, 1964. Mr. Ankers was a dairy farmer in the Sterling area.

Professor Horace R. Eckles, former principal of Robert E. Lee School in Richmond, is dead. He retired in 1957 after 42 years in public education, 36 of them in Richmond. On his retirement, a portrait of Mr. Eckles was presented to the Lee school by the Parent-Teacher Association there.

1914—

Albert L. Steel, a retired real estate executive, died November 12, 1965 at Virginia Beach, where he and Mrs. Steel were making their home.

1915—

Word has been received of the death of Dr. E. V. Long, a physician and surgeon of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Edward B. Dunford, a former Richmond attorney, died June 13. Mr. Dunford practiced law in Richmond, later specializing in the law relating to intoxicating liquors. He was attorney for the prohibition commission of Virginia from 1917 to 1921.

He left Richmond to go to Riverdale, Md., where he served for 30 years on the city council and as the town's attorney. He was a member of Central Methodist Church in Richmond.

1917—

C. B. Green, of Boydton, Va., died November 2, 1965. He was retired Superintendent of Schools in the county.

Herbert Witt Harris, 74, of Richmond, an insurance executive, died March 11.

Mr. Harris was with Davenport Insurance Corporation for more than 40 years. He had also been a commandant of the Benedictine High School cadet corps.

He was graduated from American Academy and Virginia Military Institute. He was an officer in the Richmond Light Infantry Blues from 1912 to 1941.

1918—

Dr. A. W. Richerson, a professor of mathematics in Washington, D. C., died in February. He had taught for more than 50 years at the University of Maryland School of Pharmacology. He lived in Adelphi, Md., for the past five years. He was awarded his doctorate at Johns Hopkins University. During his residence in Baltimore, he was a member of the Church of the Reformation and a number of scholarly works. Dr. Richerson completed a major research work shortly before his death. It is scheduled for publication by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and entitled "History of English Land Measuring to 1800."

He is survived by his wife, a daughter and three grandchildren.

1922—

Carroll D. Hagan, 83, a Richmond attorney, died April 6, 1966 in Orange, Va.

Col. Jesse M. Johnson, prominent Richmond lawyer and a past president of the Baptist General Association of Virginia, died June 14 at the age of 66.

He was a former director of the Richmond Department of Public Welfare.

Col. Johnson's activities also included service in World War II in the Judge Advocate General's Corps of the Army and won a commendation for distinguished service. In 1950 he transferred from the army to the air force. Later he was to serve as commander of the 9109th Air Reserve Group of Richmond.

During the Korean War he served on a board to decide whether to grant deferments to air force reserve personnel being called up for active duty.

A native of Buckingham County, Va., he attended Washington and Lee University before enrolling in the University of Richmond.

1926—

F. Ralph Swanson, Baltimore business man and a prominent lay leader in the Southern Baptist Convention, died on May 5. His death came after a long illness that followed a heart attack in 1964.

He had been for many years associated with the Western Electric Company.

Devoted to the University of Richmond and its activities, he had served on the Alumni Council since its organization and was a former member of its executive committee. He was a past president of the Baltimore Alumni Chapter.

A devoted member of the Eutaw Place Baptist Church where he was a trustee and deacon, he was a member of the Maryland State Mission Board of the Baptist Convention of Maryland, the executive committee of the Baltimore Baptist Church Extension Society, and was for six years the Maryland member of the executive committee of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Raymond O. Denham, manager of Lawyers Title Insurance Corporation’s Miami office, died January 21.

He entered private practice of law and later became Municipal Judge of Bartow, Fla. From
JOHN LANGDON MOSS

Bereaved friends of Langdon Moss, '37, carefully recalled a verse by Edna Vincent Milhay: "My candle burns at both ends/It will not last the night/But ah, my foes, and oh, my friends/It gives a lovely light."

Among the hundreds who filled the capacity of the sanctuary of Seventh Street Christian Church where the funeral was conducted were harassed businessmen who recalled occasions when Dr. Moss patiently explained to them that they would have to take it easier, slow down a bit if they hoped to live out their allotted three score years and ten.

But he never slowed down. And those who applied to him the adjective, "tireless," after the first stunning shock of the news of his fatal heart attack at the age of 50 realized that no man is tireless.

Langdon Moss was tired, very tired that early morning when he finished his ministry—and a ministry it was as he devoted himself to alleviating the physical and oftentimes the spiritual ills of those who were his patients. In addition to a large private practice, he was a University of Richmond physician and also physician for St. Christopher School.

Michael M. Foreman, '63, now a graduate student at the University of Virginia, recalls with affection and appreciation his student at the University of Virginia, re­ came branch manager. In 1960 he became branch manager.

He is survived by his wife, a stepson, and several grandchildren.

Rev. Gordon L. Price, 64, died at his home in Roanoke Rapids, N. C., March 8. For the past 32 years he had served as pastor of First Baptist Church in Roanoke Rapids.

He was native of Amelia County. He received his Th.M. degree at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. His first pastorate was at Courtland, Va., serving Tucker Swamp and Sycamore Baptist churches. Four years later he went to Roanoke Rapids.

He is survived by his wife, a son and daughter.

"Juvenal had been in exile and he was poverty stricken when he returned to Rome," Dr. Rivenburg said, "He had to put up with insults from many foreigners and that's why he was so indignant."

In the final class, Jack Walsh told the alumnate that the new 'theater of cruelty' exemplified in the current play "Marat Sade," written to act as a catharsis for the hostility of the viewers, may represent a completion of the cycle in drama.

"It may represent a return to the 'theater of communion' of Greek and Roman drama which is akin to a religious experience," Walsh said. He added that the 'new theater' is an outgrowth of the "theater of revolt" of Western Drama.

Welsh termed the history of western drama "a process of gradual disenchantment." He continued: "There is the Messianic revolt against God, the revolt against social ills of Ibsen and Chekhov, the existentialist revolt of Tennessee Williams and Edward Albee."

In swinging back to communion in the­ er, Walsh said, "some playwrights are beginning to regard the theater as a temple and their plays are becoming more ritualistic.

The alumnae gave their instructors their applause, and departed for their homes, many to return the following day for Alumnae Day activities.

evening board meeting followed by coffee and doughnuts in the Reception Room.

Lillian Belk Youell, '45, national alumnae president, presided over the annual alumnae business meeting. Local clubs gave their reports and a discussion was held to change the date of Alumnae Day to the spring of the year. No final decision was reached.

In an election of officers, Betty Ann Allen Doub '49, Richmond, was elected president to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Youell, who is going to the Philippines to join her husband at Betty Camp Smith '18, of Franklin, Va., was elected to serve as vice president until 1967.

Also elected were five members-at-large for terms from 1966-1968. They were Elizabeth Cosby Carver, '24, of Atlanta, Mildred Harrell Clinkscales, '38, of Norfolk, Margaret Brinson Reed, '40, of Washington, Barbara Moore Flannagan, '54, of Richmond and Elizabeth Ramos Dunkum, '59, of Richmond.

They newly elected president is not only a graduate of Westhampton, but also earned her master's degree there. Since 1962 she has been consulting psychologist at the State Farm For Women. The mother of two girls, Betty Ann is a member of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, Richmond Ballet, and Richmond area chapter of the American Red Cross. She has also served as state treasurer of the Virginia Psychological Association for the past four years.

Mrs. Smith has been a leader in community affairs in Franklin since her graduation.

Speakers at the alumnae hour following the business meeting were Bobbie Lee Brown Yigel, '51, and Patricia MacDonald Allen, '59. Both presented interesting talks on their careers in the advertising field and retailing for youth.

At the luncheon, held in Keller Hall gymnasium, many faculty members were recognized for anniversaries. Miss Helen Monsell was presented with a 50-year pin.

The class of '41 was recognized for having the largest percentage of their class present at the luncheon. They also presented a silver plate to the college in observance of their 25th reunion.

Dr. Jean Wright received special recognition at the luncheon upon her retirement after 36 years as professor of French at Westhampton.

She Never Got

scribed fresh air but would not let them open the windows.

During her sabbatical year of 1956, she stayed on an island in Finland with a Finnish family who were the island's only inhabitants. She has had a private tour of the caves in Lascua, France, to see the prehistoric drawings that are closed to the public now because the elements are doing damage that 22,000 years of history left undone. Once in Paris, spying a poster advertising a bus tour into the Pyrenees, she went along with it to study medieval architecture and sculpture. During the past summer she drove into Iran in a Volkswagen, a journey that was pretty rough going once the car got into Asia, but in Tehran this was compensated by the Indian nursenmaid in the home she visited, for the nursemaid, in the absence of her small charges, led Dr. Wright by the hand through the streets of Tehran.

The second time she went to Europe, it was for study in medieval drama which led to her doctorate, and her dissertation on the medieval French theatre demanded hours of reading manuscripts in Paris libraries. One result of this study is her need to wear glasses, but she says that medieval manuscripts are fascinating. "You never know when you're going to turn a page and find the writer has got tired and inserted something else he was thinking about, like a love song, or a recipe for keeping the teeth white."

Mention of recipes bring up another bond between Dr. Wright and the language she has taught, for French provides the vocabulary of food, when it reaches the height of its culinary art, and simple cooking. In her own cuisine, in her small house tucked away in the woods off a road named with suitable whimsy Old Mill, she can qualify for the used noun "Gourmet."

That most French of animals, the cat, also figures in her life, for she shares the white cottage with Pandora, who once let a whole box of troubles loose in Dr. Wright's living-room when a gentleman friend visited her via the chimney.

French is the language of swordplay, and, in a clash of verbal blades Dr. Wright has made many a Westhampton student cry, "Touche!" In a recent interview with the Richmond Collegian, she said, "The girls don't argue enough with their professors. Of course, you must know something before you can argue intelligently. But professors like to be challenged. They don't want to feel that they are simply pouring information in." She also wishes that Westhampton girls had more curiosity about the world, and she doesn't think they relate college to the interests developed after graduation.

As for her own interests, Dr. Wright is so deeply in the habit of developing them, and has so many of them, that after her retirement she will simply follow an exhortation heard over and over by 36 years of Westhampton girls learning to read a second language, "Continuez, Continuez."

Crute, along with Richmond Allen Saville, will co-captain the Spiders next season. Saville set a school record 1:54.7 in the 880 during the season in the meet with East Carolina.

Two school records were established as the Spiders won the 440 and mile relays in the Southern Conference Meet. Rod Camden, Elliott, Don Everett and Crute ran a 42.3 in the former while Crute, Elliott, Camden and Saville set the latter in 3:18.9.

Although he did not set any school records, Bruce Soderstrom, versatile junior from Eastville, was the leading scorer. He participated in the high jump, triple jump, shot put, discus, javelin and pole vault.

Ohio, and Robin Worth (215), who lettered as a sophomore, Mike Robochik (228) is likely to see defensive duty at the tackle spot.

Sam Anderson, 206-pound senior letterman, returns at center with Bill Roberts, 215-pound junior who did not play last season, in reserve. Mike DeNoia, another 215-pound junior who hasn't played since his freshman year, and Dave Delgado, 196-pound junior shifted from guard, may see service in defensive roles.

Junior Letterman Bill Hay (6-4, 214) will open at one of the end berths (if he recovers from a knee injury suffered in Spring drills) and will team with Jerry Wilson, a six-foot, 187-pound sophomore from Solon, Ohio. Jim Close (6-3, 202), a junior who saw little service last season, returns at end. Jim Berwick, 175-pound sophopomore from Berkeley Heights, N. J., is slated for a defensive role. Other sophomore ends battling for jobs are John Good, 6-2, 182, from Middletown, Pa., and Dick Allan-son, 6-1, 204, from Winchester.
