'MAC' AND 'DR. MAC'

A small number of college newspaper editors participated recently in a survey conducted by a national magazine, and one of the questions asked went something like this: "In which colleges are students most likely to lose their religious faith?"

The editors checked two or three specific institutions by name and then added: "Any church-related college."

The answer probably reflected an attempt at sophistication by the young ladies and gentlemen who edit the college publications. But whatever the explanation, their responses ring hollow when one looks at the lives and influence of two men whose forthcoming retirements from the faculty of the University of Richmond were announced yesterday.

For here are two men who not only performed eminently in their respective fields, but whose dedication to Christian principles surely has enriched the lives of thousands of young men with whom they have come into contact on the campus of the church-related institution in Richmond's West End.

Dr. Ralph C. McDanel, chairman of the university's department of history and political science, and Athletic Director Malcolm U. Pitt have given a combined total of 80 years of their lives to the teaching and training of youth. And off campus they have devoted their wide range of talents to countless good causes. Both have chalked up many years of service as Sunday school teachers.

Dr. McDanel's abilities have been recognized far beyond the Westhampton campus. He has, for example, served as president of the Southern Conference, the sports league to which the University belongs, and as national president of the outstanding collegiate leadership fraternity, Omicron Delta Kappa. In the classroom, he has taught history in such a manner as to increase his students' appreciation for, and love of, country.

Mac Pitt once said he took up coaching "because I consider it a calling next to the ministry." He welcomed the "opportunity to apply Christian principles on a field of play."

The contributions of "Mac" and "Dr. Mac" to the University of Richmond are far beyond measuring. It is a better school because they have been there, and Richmond is a better city because of their influence. And dedicated as they are, it is safe to predict that their retirement will by no means end their service to their alma mater or to the community.

University Provost Named

Grigg New R. C. Dean

By EDWARD C. PEPLE, ’32

In one of the most important administrative developments in the history of the University of Richmond, on February 2, 1967, Dr. Robert F. Smart, Dean of Richmond College since 1957, was named by the Trustees as Provost of the University. As the same time, Dr. Austin E. Grigg, Chairman of the Department of Psychology, was appointed to succeed Dr. Smart as Dean of Richmond College. Both announcements were received with enthusiastic approval.

The office of Provost was created by the Trustees, explained Dr. Robert T. Marsh, Rector of the University, "to take some of the administrative burden off the President." Those close to University affairs, especially members of the Faculty and Administration, had witnessed with real concern the increase in responsibilities of the office of the President. During the twenty-one years that Dr. George M. Modlin has held that position, the total enrollment in all divisions has increased from 3,929 in 1946-47 to 7,580 in 1966-67; the School of Business Administration was established as a separate division in 1949; extension courses in Bible and Religion were begun on a regular basis in 1960; a cooperative program was initiated with the Virginia Institute of Scientific Research and the latter organization moved to buildings on the campus; University College was established in 1962; the Institute for Business and Community Development was organized in 1965.

The physical expansion in the same twenty-one-year period is illustrated by the following major additions: South Court (1948), the Richmond College Student Center (1951), Robins Memorial Field at Richmond College (1953), T. C. Williams School of Law building (1954), Frederic William Boatwright Memorial Library (1955), Wood Memorial Hall (1956), Robins Memorial Hall (1959), School of Business Administration (1961), Dennis Memorial Hall and the Fannie G. Crenshaw Swimming Pool (1963), the new buildings at University College (1965), the Fine Arts Building now under construction, and the move of University College to the Second Baptist Church property to be effected in the summer of 1967. The endowment has risen from $2.9 million in 1946 to more than $10 million (including trust funds) in a total valuation of assets of $22.5 million, as reported by President Modlin to the Trustees in June 1966.

There have been parallel increases in every aspect of the University's administration and operation.

The Self Study Report of 1965 brought into sharp focus the administrative problems of the President when it stated, "As the chief executive officer of the University, the President performs an almost incredible number of duties. Many of these are specified by the By-Laws, and many others have accumulated with the expansion of the institution." It is patently impossible to detail these "duties": the report listed 53 specific ones and added, as number 54, "many other duties not specifically counted in the 53 items above." Between fifteen and twenty individuals, deans and chairmen, reported directly to the President. The wonder is not that he developed an ulcer, but that the number was limited to one.

Dr. Smart as Provost becomes the chief academic officer of the University, and reporting directly to him on academic matters will be the deans of the seven divisions, chairmen of University committees, the University librarian, and the University physician. His principal duties will include continuing improvement of instruction and encouragement of research by faculty members, overseeing the operation of the University libraries, general supervision of the health of resident students, and, through the deans, general oversight of student discipline.

His educational background and his ex-
Those Alumni Medal Winners

Most likely to succeed.
That has been the consensus of the committee, which selects the recipient of the Alumni Council medal which is awarded at Alumni Day to the outstanding member of the senior class.

Without exception the men who have received the medal have justified the faith of their classmates, the dean of Richmond College and the committee which makes the selection. Candidates for the medal are the five leaders in a senior class poll.

These names are submitted to the committee which makes its selection on the basis of the academic rank of the candidates, their participation is extracurricular activities and their likelihood of future work.

The procession of medal winners begins with William J. Fallis who received the award in 1936.

Including Fallis, who has combined the ministry with editing as book editor of the Broadman Press for the Baptist Sunday School Board, the occupations of the winners break down this way: 10 in business, five in the ministry, five in teaching, two each in medicine and law, and five who are continuing their education in full-time graduate study.

Twenty-one of the 29 had earned other degrees, and the more recent graduates are working toward graduate degrees.

It appears that one would have advantage if his name is Massie or Dickerson—two each with those names have won medals.

G. Edmond Massie, III, '41, is now vice president of sales of Garrett and Massie, Richmond printers; and H. Stuart Massie, Jr., '49, (no relation) is manager of the Hartford office of the Travelers Insurance Company.

The first Dickerson to win was Lynn C. Dickerson, II, '52, now associate professor of English and chairman of the division of humanities at Brunswick Junior College; his brother, Park P. Dickerson, of the United Church is Johnson, Vt., won the medal in 1955.

The Dickersons missed by a letter joining Alfred J. Dickinson, president of his own real estate firm in Richmond, who won the medal in 1937.

Fallis is the first one who pursued graduate study, earning a Th.M. and Th.D. at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. His editorial duties at Broadman Press include appraising more than 600 manuscripts annually and publishing 50 books each year for the general religious trade.

His books will be read by Park Dickerson and the four others in the active ministry.

They are James A. Payne, Jr., '51, now pastor of Meadows Presbyterian Church in Charlottesville; Luther W. Kersey, pastor of Court St. Baptist Church in Portsmouth; John B. Polhill, '53, pastor of Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church in Owen County, Ky., while he pursues the Th.D. degree at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary; and Maurice Briggs, '57, who has served as a pastor in North Carolina before becoming director of Juvenile Rehabilitation for the Pilot Mountain Baptist Association in Winston-Salem, N. C.

F. Stanley Lushy, '44, earned his B.D. degree at Colgate Rochester Divinity School and completed further graduate work before joining the ranks of college professors. He is now associate professor and chairman of the department of religion at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

Others who returned to the classroom are John E. Jordan, '40, professor of English at the University of California, in Berkeley; Malcolm U. Pitt, Jr., '42, headmaster of the Collegiate Schools in Richmond; and A. E. Dick Howard, '54, associate professor of law at the University of Virginia.

The practicing attorney among the medal winners is William T. Bareford, '46, who has a practice at Saluda, Va.

The business executives include Ralph P. Moore, '38, treasurer of Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company in New York. Maxwell D. Katz, '43, is a sales executive in New Jersey, and Solon B. Cousins, Jr., '47, is general secretary for the Greater Boston YMCA. Thaddeus T. Crump, '48, is southern sales manager for packaging for Dowington Paper Company.

Robert S. Bloxom, '59, is half owner and treasurer of Bloxom Auto Supply Company in Bloxom, Va.

Emory D. Shiver, Jr., '61, is public relations supervisor for the C. & P. Telephone Company of Virginia, an associate of J. Sylphon Phillips, '53, who serves the same firm as district commercial manager in Richmond.

The two doctors are Edwin Wortham, IV, '39, now an eye surgeon in Castro Valley, Calif.; and Philip Frederick, Jr., '50, a Richmond physician.

Ellis M. West, '58, is a graduate student at Emory University; and others doing graduate work are J. Bradley Gunter, '62, University of Virginia; Archer L. Yeatts, III, '64, a senior at the T. C. Williams School of Law; Richard H. L. Marks, '65, Indiana University; and B. Guy Peters, '66, Michigan State University.
Neumann: A Many-Faceted Man

Music Professor Wins Guggenheim Grant

by SUZANNE KIDD, ’58*

Economic analyst, professional violinist, musicologist—these are the three careers that have occupied the life of Frederick Neumann, professor of music at the University of Richmond. His outstanding achievements in his third career were most recently recognized when he received a Guggenheim Memorial Foundation grant for 1967. Only eight awards were made this year in music. Five of these are to composers and three to musicologists. The other two musicology awards went to professors at the University of California at Berkeley and the University of Illinois.

Dr. Neumann was born in Czecho-Slovakia and attended school in Prague. It was in political science and economics that he earned his first doctorate (University of Berlin in 1934) with a dissertation on stock exchange crises and their economic consequences. For several years he worked as economic research analyst for the Skoda Engineering Works in Prague. During this time he wrote many articles on matters of currency and foreign trade for Prague newspapers and economic weeklies.

*Miss Kidd, an internationally known organist, is a member of the University of Richmond department of music.

From childhood Dr. Neumann studied violin, and he and his two brothers were well known in Prague as a performing ensemble. In 1937 he chose music as his new career and left Prague for further music study in Berlin and later with Adolf Busch, world-famous violinist, in Switzerland. In 1939, on the day the war broke out, he received a visa to the United States, and since then America has been his home. He became a citizen in 1944.

Seattle was his first stop in this country. For several years he taught there at the Cornish School of Music and Arts. It was during these years that he began to concertize, and he became well-known in the area as a violinist.

His four years in the Army began with work in the Special Services Division where he could use his musical abilities. But he was soon assigned to Intelligence, where he was actively involved in the Battle of the Bulge in December, 1944.

Following his Army discharge, Dr. Neumann attended Columbia University, where he received a Master of Arts and Ph.D. in Music Education. His second dissertation concerns violin technique, and has appeared as a series of twenty-four articles in the American String Teacher. It is now in the process of being published in book form by the American String Teacher’s Association.

For three years Dr. Neumann taught violin at the University of Miami and was concertmaster of their Symphony Orchestra. Then came several years of professional playing in New York City. His orchestra positions have included first violinist with the New York Symphony, the New York City Opera, RCA-Victor Orchestra, and assistant concertmaster of the Boston Pops Touring Orchestra.

Dr. Neumann came to the University of Richmond in 1955 to teach music education, strings, and music appreciation. He conducts the University Chamber Orchestra and serves as concertmaster of the Richmond Symphony from its beginnings until 1964, when his interest in research launched him on his third career.

Seventeenth and eighteenth century musical performance practice is his particular field of research, and the music of J. S. Bach is the main focal point. Interest in authentic musical performance has occupied American String Teacher. It is now in the process of being published in book form by the American String Teacher’s Association.

University of Richmond debaters traveled more than 10,000 miles this year to 20 tournaments on their way to earning a national reputation.

The giant-killers. That's what teams from other colleges and universities have dubbed the Spider debaters, who have gained their fame by knocking off such top institutions as the universities of Georgia, Maryland, California, Ohio, Miami, Kentucky, and Emory; and Dartmouth College and the U. S. Military Academy, just to name a few.

A high point in the season came in February when the Spider team won the U. S. Naval Academy's invitational tournament at Annapolis. It was the fifth major tournament to be won by the Richmond debaters.

Young Robert Cox of Newport News, the team captain for this year, and Tim Finchem of Virginia Beach were the heroes of that particular day, but they were only carrying on a precedent of winning set by Richmond debaters for the past decade.

On practically any weekend in the school year the debaters come home triumphantly lugging trophies won with their debating skill. It's become a problem to find somewhere to put them. Display cases in the student center as well as the speech department offices are jammed with these symbols of victory.

The debaters agree that it's a time-consuming but rewarding experience to be a member of a major debate team. When the varsity debaters return to the University in September they begin a preliminary analysis of the national debate topic. This year the topic was "Resolved: That the United States Should Substantially Reduce its Foreign Policy Commitments."

By the middle of October they usually have compiled a bibliography of 500 or more entries which provides the basis for documentation of their arguments. Meanwhile, they hold weekly practice debate and analysis sessions where they attempt to find flaws in their own arguments while polishing their speaking ability.

Then they go on the road, reviewing techniques and checking their information while they travel.

But the grueling schedule has proven no handicap to the debaters in compiling top scholarship records. Most of the students have maintained a Dean's List average. In almost every term in the past 10 years one or more members of the debate team has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa or Beta Gamma Sigma as well as Omicron Delta Kappa and Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

After graduation most of the students go to graduate school where their debate training stands them in good stead as they learn to become college teachers, lawyers or other professional persons.

The University's support of debate is reflected in the debate programs sponsored by the University. Each year, the High School Institute of Speech attracts several hundred of the best high school students. In the second semester of each year, the University sponsors the High School Debate Tournament, attracting more than 50 high school teams.

Much of the success of the debate teams is the result of hard work by the University's department of Speech and Dramatic Arts. Dr. Bert E. Bradley, Jr., chairman of the department, has been inspirational in his 12 years at the University. Dr. Jerry L. Tarver, associate professor of speech, assists in the coaching duties.

Debating has brought national honor to the University of Richmond campus. But more important, it has given men and women students an opportunity to learn to organize their thoughts, avoid shallow analysis and to speak clearly and confidently.
THE STORY OF TOBACCO IN AMERICA

By JOSEPH C. ROBERT

A Review By JAMES A. SARTAIN

Did John Hancock's death result from his swallowing tobacco juice because he was too much of a gentleman to spit just anywhere? Will tobacco cure lockjaw? Did the loss of a bundle of cigars result in General Robert E. Lee's defeat at the battle of Antietam? Will smoking cause women to grow moustaches?

Dr. Joseph C. Robert's book, The Story of Tobacco in America, has recently been reprinted by the University of North Carolina Press. Dr. Robert, formerly president of Hampden-Sydney and now Professor of History at the University of Richmond, traces the effect of tobacco on the political, economic and social life of the United States from the arrival of Columbus to the recent Surgeon General's Report. In a rare combination of scholarship and wit, Dr. Robert has skillfully woven history, statistics, and folklore into a highly readable book of interest to the historian and to the general public.

The first section of the book is devoted to the role of tobacco in the development of the American colonies with especial emphasis upon Virginia. Dr. Robert describes the early methods of cultivation and manufacture of tobacco and its significant impact upon the economic and political life of the colonists. He points out that both George Washington and Thomas Jefferson had serious financial difficulties with the English merchants who controlled the export and sale of tobacco. In a fascinating section he tells how Patrick Henry first heard the shouts of "Treason" in the famous Parson's Cause case when he said that the king instead of being a father had now become a tyrant whose bad acts deserved no obedience.

Even in these early days the question of the effect of tobacco upon health was raised. Some claimed that it was valuable as a dentifrice and as a cure for a great variety of diseases. Others viewed tobacco as harmful to health and morality. King James I in his tract Counterblaste to Tobacco asserted that for the user of tobacco, "all his members shall become feeble, his spirits dull, and in the end, as a drowsie lazie belly god, he shall vanish in a Lethargie." In spite of this opposition, however, tobacco became the basis for many of the early fortunes in Virginia. William Fitzhugh, Robert Carter, and William Byrd were among the early aristocrats in Virginia to cultivate tobacco. It is interesting to note that the early financial support for the College of William and Mary came from a tax of one penny per pound on all tobacco exported from either Virginia or Maryland to another colony. After the American Revolution tobacco (Continued on page 39)
Profile: Helen Ruth Henderson

by MAY THOMPSON EVANS

These were some of the headlines in late September of 1946 when Dr. Helen Ruth Henderson, Director of the International Division, Girl Scouts, U.S.A., was one of 17 persons who survived while 27 perished in an airplane crash in the wilderness of Newfoundland.

"I sang the Doxology, but I don't know whether the others who tried to follow me knew what it was," Ruth said later. She was returning home from the World Conference of the World Association of Girls Guides and Girl Scouts, held in France. She was on this particular flight because, characteristically, she had given her reservation of the day before to another person eager to reach home. With critical injuries, including a broken back and a crushed ankle, Ruth nevertheless administered for two days to her fellow survivors. She was cited by the Girl Scouts for her behavior during that tragedy.

The next two years she spent mainly in recovery. More will follow about Ruth's activities during the 14 years of 1946-60, when she was with the Girl Scouts and achieved the recognized status of a world personage.

Today, and since 1961, Ruth has been back in the Southland, in Knoxville, Tenn., except for going around the world in 1963 and for shorter trips. As the Coordinator of the Citizens Foreign Hospitality Committee of Knoxville, she draws upon her world-wide knowledge in arranging for the foreign visitors to the Tennessee Valley Authority to experience also the family hospitality in rural and urban homes. Approximately 3,000 foreign visitors come from 120 countries during a year—kings, queens, premiers, governors, engineers, educators, labor leaders, personnel administrators, businessmen.

She says, "It has been my pleasure to make arrangements for more than 5,000 visitors from foreign lands since I have been the Coordinator."

It seems of special significance that the world relations position of coordinator is funded by six different community groups in the Knoxville area. Ruth works with the TVA, and through a volunteer committee of people whose personal horizons go far beyond their own community.

"Such programs of home hospitality as the one in the Knoxville area are passports to friendship," she pointed out. "In a troubled and ever smaller world, it is possible and probable that such passports make a substantial contribution to peace."

During the years when Ruth served as Director of the International Division of Girl Scouts, she had headquarters in New York, but she worked around the world with the other 51 countries that comprised the World Association. The Girl Scouts numbered 3½ million; the World Association, over 5 million members.

These were the years of 1946-60, when she was spending three months abroad every two years, to attend World Conferences in Brazil, France, Great Britain, Greece, the Netherlands, Norway, Switzerland . . . and to visit other countries during the World Conference focus. Between times, she made shorter trips to other countries, and constantly visited throughout our United States.

Ruth initiated policies and operating procedures for the conduct of official business of the Girl Scouts with the World Bureau and the 51 other member countries of the World Association. She prepared position papers and briefed U.S. delegations to world-wide conferences, as well as attending as U.S. representative. She also administered the exchange program of teen-age and adult Girl Scouts between the United States and other countries. To plan exchange programs and to interpret Girl Scouts, she visited countries in Western Europe, the Near East, and Central and South America. She worked with many organizations having international programs.

Just before she joined the Girl Scouts in early '46, Ruth's wartime concern had taken her to work in Tennessee and in Washington, D.C. She spent nearly two years with the Tennessee-Eastman Company, Manhattan District, at Oak Ridge. She was the Training Supervisor for the Counsellor and Personnel Program. Here she identified and analyzed problems of women workers and made recommendations to management. She prepared training materials for supervisors and assisted in the placement of personnel.

She served a stretch with the U.S. Office of Education as specialist in extended school services. She planned after-school programs for children of working mothers. From the national office, she worked with state superintendents of schools and other officials of the states. To the national Office of Education, she carried wide state experience.

At the time of Ruth's plane crash, the Richmond Times-Dispatch, took the occasion to highlight her state-wide leadership in Virginia, in the following news item:

"She first came to state-wide notice in 1928, when she served a term in the House of Delegates from Russell and Buchanan Counties, taking a seat which previously had been held by her mother, Mrs. Helen T. Henderson [first woman elected to the Virginia General Assembly]. Miss Henderson's ability and personality were highly regarded in the House."

After leaving the Legislature she became still more widely known through the Commonwealth in her capacity as state supervisor of elementary education, a post she occupied most competently for 12 years.

During these years, Ruth kept in teaching practice by conducting summer courses at the Universities of Virginia and Stanford.

Special groups with whom Ruth served during those years included: the Virginia Liberal Arts College Commission; National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy; and the International Social Welfare Committee of the National Social Welfare Assembly.

Through her years in State education, Ruth contributed to numerous journals, yearbooks, and handbooks. In recognition of her writing, the Eugene Field Society conferred honorary membership upon her.

The two years immediately prior to Ruth's state position in education, she had spent at Columbia University, taking her master's at Teachers College, and her doctorate at the University, with a major in rural sociology and curriculum. The coveted honor of the Frank R. Chambers Fellowship, awarded to Ruth for 1950-52, enabled her to continue her education and writing.

Ruth's earliest career years had won for her the justified recognition of the Columbia Fellow. She had been Assistant Principal of the Buchanan Mountain Mission School at Council, Va. (a position held by her mother previously) and Field Representative of the Virginia Cooperative Education.

Bob Crute: He's The Greatest

By WALTER DREWRY

Bob Crute is making sweet music for Coach Fred Hardy's University of Richmond track team. The five-foot-eleven, 160-pounder, who has a fine tenor singing voice, has established himself as the greatest sprinter in University of Richmond track history.

Bob, a senior from Radford and the son of a Baptist minister, is the premier dashesman in the Southern Conference and is undefeated in the Virginia State Meet (outdoor and indoor) competition. Bob came to Spiderland as a football halfback but has concentrated on track after his frosh season.

Crute, co-captain of this year's Spider squad, holds every school sprint record. Outdoors he's run the 100 in 9.6 seconds and the 220 in 21.2 seconds. Indoors his marks are 6.2 in the 60-yard dash (tied with Sam McCormick), 22.2 in the 220, 35.6 (Southern Conference record) in the 330 and 50.3 in the 440. His outdoor mark of 49.3 in the 440 is only one-tenth of a second off the school record.

Crute, who also plays the piano and trumpet, qualified for the nationals at Brigham Young University June 1-3 in the 220 by running a 21.3 on a curve against Duke.

"Bob is excellent in the 100," says Hardy, "but he's best in the 220. I believe he's in the top five in the country in this event."

Crute, who's majoring in voice music with a minor in sociology and plans to further his education with a master's degree in church music at Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville, also believes the 220 is his best event because "it takes time to get into second gear."

Bob acquits himself as well in relays as he does in individual sprints. He's a member of the school record setting 440 relay (41.6) and mile relay (3:18.9) outdoor teams and 440 relay (43.3, VMI Relays record) and mile relay (3:25.1, State Meet record) indoor teams.

In the State Indoor Meet he has won the 60-yard dash four consecutive years in the 1964 frosh division and in all three varsity meets. Outdoors he will be shooting for four-in-a-row this spring in both dashes. As a sophomore he set the State Meet record of 9.7 and 21.3.

Last year in the Southern Conference Meet Crute tied the century mark of 9.7 and set a new 220 (around a curve) record of 21.6.

In addition, he anchored the winning 440 relay team and ran the first leg on the victorious mile relay foursome. His 12½ points led the Spiders to a surprising tie for third place in the meet with 35 points.

Crute, who has accounted for 204¼ points in two varsity seasons, has a chance to score more points in a career than any Spider trackman in history. The long standing mark is the 278½ points scored by Virgil Goode in 1924-26. Bob scored 12½ points in this season's opening win over Washington & Lee, 113½-40½. On a cold wet track he won the two dashes in 9.8 and 21.8 and ran on both winning relay teams. The Spiders have five more dual contests plus the State and Conference meets.

At his best in big meets, Crute set the Colonial Relays record of 9.8 seconds for the century last year. He also won this event as a sophomore and freshman. Bob competed in the NCAA Indoor Meet held in Detroit in 1966 and 1967, finishing in the top ten both years in the 440. As a junior he won the Chicago Invitational Indoor Meet 220 in 22.6 seconds and was second in the 440.

Another Winner for Mac Pitt

Baseball Team 8-4 at Halfway Mark

Senior Southpaw Jack Hellemms, another Richmonder, has earned the No. 2 spot on the inexperienced mound staff. Jack stopped Davidson, 8-0, on four hits in his last start for his second triumph in three games.

Pitt is hopeful his light-hitting outfield of Louis Carro in left, Ernie Weatherholtz in center and either Jim Cliborne or Mike Garrett in right will provide more punch as the season progresses.

The Spiders won their first five games, beating Bucknell and taking a pair from both Vermont and George Washington. Then they hit a slump and dropped games to Virginia Tech, Ashland (Ohio) College and a twin bill to East Carolina. In an about face the Pittmen banged out 27 hits and scored 20 runs while allowing the opposition only two runs as they defeated The Citadel and swept a twin bill from Davidson.

The Year of Johnny Moates

The 1966-67 basketball season was the year of Johnny Moates, the Southern Conference Player of the Year. Not only was he the 6-1 Spider captain and guard the first University of Richmond cager so honored, but Moates earned numerous honors and broke several school scoring records as he led Coach Lewis Mills’ team to a fourth place (9-7) finish in the conference regular season race and the semi-finals of the loop tournament.

Moates, also named to the All-Southern and all-tournament teams by a landslide and chosen Virginia Big Five Player of the Year, scored a career high 39 points as the Spiders defeated The Citadel, 100-98, in the thrilling overtime first round game of the Southern Conference tournament at Charlotte, N.C. The Spiders lost to West Virginia, which went on to win the title, by 82-70 in the semi-finals but Moates scored 27 points.

Johnny’s 25-point average for 23 games was tops in the Southern Conference. His 574 points for the season broke his own school record of 501 points set last year. His 219 field goals also bettered by 15 his old school mark of a season ago. During his three-year career Moates averaged 20.8 points; Gene Clemons, 6-6 forward from Norfolk who had an 11-point average; Richmonder Buster Batts, the 6-8 center with a 10-point and 7.5-rebound average; Richmonder Buster Batts, the 6-8 center with a 10-point and 7.5-rebound mark; Billy McCann (5.0), six-foot guard from Richmond and reserve Butch Renaldi from Easton, Pa. and Robbie Baldwin from Roanoke.

Next season’s team will have to be built around Larry Patterson, Bobby Ukrop, Terry Burgess and Wilton Ford, reserves this season; Picot Frazier, the fine freshman guard from Bristol, averaged 20.2 points for the Spiders and pulled down a dozen rebounds a game. Other seniors who will be missed next season are Harvey Roberts, 6-4 forward from Norfolk who had an 11-point average; Richmonder Buster Batts, the 6-8 center with a 10-point and 7.5-rebound mark; Billy McCann (5.0), six-foot guard from Richmond and reserve Butch Renaldi from Easton, Pa. and Robbie Baldwin from Roanoke.

Standouts for the Baby Spiders were Richmonder Kenny Foster, 6-2 guard who averaged 22.1 points; John Holmes, 6-3 forward from Wilmette, Ill., who averaged 20.8 points; Gene Clemons, 6-6 forward from Welsburg, W. Va., who averaged 17.3 points and a dozen rebounds; Richmonder Frank Owen, 6-7 center with a 14.2-point and 13-rebound average, and playmaking Guard Kent Greenway, a six-foot Richmonder.

PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION—Dr. and Mrs. George M. Modlin 5:00 P.M.
2 Bostwick Lane to University of Richmond 7:00 P.M.
Dr. Smart’s wife, Eleanor, as a charming and gracious hostess.

As Dean of Richmond College, Dr. Grigg will head the oldest division of the University. He himself is a two-time graduate, having earned his B.A. in Richmond College and his M.A. in psychology in the University of Richmond Graduate School. He continued his graduate work at the University of Iowa and at Vanderbilt and was awarded his Ph.D. by the University of Iowa. After serving as Assistant Professor of Psychology at the University of Richmond, and as Psychologist and Assistant Director of Education at the Bancroft School for Nervous and Retarded Children at Haddonfield, New Jersey, he taught at the University of Texas and there directed the graduate training program in clinical psychology. His professional career was interrupted by military service in World War II, during which he was clinical psychologist in the AAF Convalescent Hospital Program. He returned to the University of Richmond in 1960.

Active in professional groups he has been president of both the Psychology Section of the Virginia Academy of Science and of the Virginia Psychological Association. He was a member of the Governor’s Mental Health Study Commission and has been psychologist for the Virginia State Department of Corrections, consulting psychologist for Tucker Hospital, member of the State Board of Examiners for certifying clinical psychologists, member of the staff of the Medical College of Virginia as instructor in clinical psychology, and consultant to the Richmond Public Schools and to the National Parole Association. His research articles have appeared in numerous professional publications.

He is an active member of River Road Baptist Church, where he serves on the Board of Administration and the teaching staff of the Sunday School.

This varied professional and academic background along with Dr. Grigg’s natural sympathetic interest in people will prove invaluable for a dean, who has to be a kind of father-confessor to both students and faculty and who must at the same time insist on high standards, both professional and personal.

Dr. Grigg and his wife, Helen, have a ten-year-old son, Kenny, a student in Southampton School.

In the few short weeks that Dr. Smart and Dr. Grigg have held their new offices there has been neither time nor opportunity for radical innovations even if they should be intended, but the faculties have already seen evidences of increased efforts toward the continuing improvement of the University’s contributions to its students and its constituency.

the larger American public’s attention only since World War II. This interest has resulted in widespread use of old instruments formerly relegated to museums, and to an enormous amount of research which tries to provide answers to the questions of how music written before 1800 was performed. Dr. Neumann’s interest in historically correct performance first led him into research, and he feels that many twentieth century writings about performance are illogical and the result unmusical—so he decided to “take a crack at it” himself.

People outside the field of music would probably be amazed at the enormous excitements created among musicologists and performers by a scholarly article which presents a “new” idea regarding interpretation of “old” music. In the last two years Dr. Neumann has published five major articles in leading journals of the United States, England and France. Three others will soon appear. His ideas regarding Baroque music performance have stirred up the proverbial hornets’ nest, and are the object of both enthusiastic praise and noisy disagreement by other leading scholars in this country and Europe.

The articles have led to lecture invitations from the Cincinnati Music Conservatory, the University of Illinois, Princeton University, North Carolina, Mary Washington College, and The Woman’s Club of Richmond. Dr. Neumann has been invited to present a paper for the New York Chapter of the American Musicological Society next January and to speak at the national meeting of the Society next winter in Santa Barbara, California.

Much of the material for his articles and lectures were collected in 1964–65 during a sabbatical leave when he went with his wife and son to Europe. Dr. Neumann worked in libraries in Germany, France and England, and presented papers at the national meeting of the Society next winter in Santa Barbara, California.

His plans also call for a trip to Italy to “fill in the gaps” in his research. We look forward to the publication of Dr. Neumann’s book, Doubtless it will have an important influence on the study and performance of Baroque music and will further secure his place in the front ranks of American Scholars.

Immediately out of College, she had taught history and economics in the Franklin (Va.) High School.

About herself, Ruth says, “My experience indicates that my primary interest lies in problems of social development. Working with people, their problems and their interests has always given me satisfaction. I have, as a side issue, participated in politics for a brief period, studied music and voice, ridden trained and untrained horses, followed the theatre with interest, played bridge, grown flowers, taught a Sunday School class, attended forums, and kept house.

“I am greatly concerned with events in this country and abroad. I have tried to apply in my relations with people the principles of understanding which seem essential in a community-wide or world-wide organization.

“I have deep respect for the personalities of all people.”

Today, Ruth is still being felt in international friendship. Instead of other countries welcoming her arrival in their lands, she, with the TVA, is welcoming officials from the countries of the world—right there in Knoxville . . . and at such a pace that Ruth says, “I sometimes declare that I shall retire from retirement since I stay so busy.”

BOYCE LOVING, '19, of the Charlottesville Daily Progress, received from Governor Godwin the Governor's Conservation Communications Award for his editorials, feature stories, news reporting and press photography relating to conservation and wildlife.

THE ALCOHOLIC BASS

Do you know how the expression "Drink like a fish" started? Boyce Loving, '19, state desk reporter for the Charlottesville Daily Progress, knows.

It was his tale of an alcoholic bass, hooked by a fisherman, revived with a drink from the fisherman's flask, tossed back in the pond only ultimately to die an untimely death, that earned for Loving the first place award in feature writing from the Virginia Press Association.

Though it was not mentioned in his story, Loving would probably be the first to say that it's all right to drink like a fish—if you drink what a fish drinks.

DR. ADAMS AUTHORS BOOK ON FOREIGN BAPTISTS

In his book Dr. Adams gives character sketches of native Baptists from Nigerian, Germany, Poland, Russia, Yugoslavia, Brazil, Haiti, Burma, Hong Kong, India and other countries. He traveled widely as president of the Baptist World Alliance from 1955 to 1960, and has written about some of his experiences with Baptists from different countries.

Dr. Adams has been a member of the Baptist World Alliance executive committee since 1954. He is a vice president and member of the board of directors of CARE, and a member of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Council. He is a member of the University of Richmond board of trustees.

anniversary present from their church—a trip to Europe and the Holy Land.

Beginning their trip on October 31st, the Wileys visited England, Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, Israel, Greece, Italy, Switzerland, and France.

Among those who aided the Wileys on the trip were Mr. and Mrs. J. Carlton Duke, Southern Baptist missionaries in Beirut, Lebanon. The Dukes had an anniversary party for the Wileys in Beirut, then guided the Wileys on their tour of Lebanon, Syria, and Jordan.

In Israel, the Dukes and Wileys met former major league baseball player Ken Aspromonte and his wife, who joined the Wiley party for a tour of the Jordan side of Jerusalem.

The trip was a surprise to the Wileys. On the first Sunday in September, following the close of the service, the chairman of deacons asked to speak and made the announcement.

Before moving to the Arlington church in 1941, Rev. Wiley was pastor of Spurgeon Memorial Baptist Church in Norfolk.

Campbell served previously as supervisor of the administrative section of the Personnel Trust department, and Peters was manager of the bookkeeping junctions in the trust division.

Einwrick was formerly assistant trust investment officer.

Alumni in Action

Radiating northward from the Arc De Triomphe in Paris is Avenue de Wagram. Grover Benjamin McClure, Jr., ’39, lives at 121 and works at 135, where he is president and general manager of Vick International, Division of Richardson-Merrell of New York. Since 1960 he has been in charge of Vick’s world operation outside of the U. S. and Canada with his office in France. Two thousand employees are under his supervision. He speaks French plus some Spanish and German.

Ben and his wife, Helen, live in a four-story apartment from which he walks to work. Paintings, prints, and objects d’art, gathered from all parts of the world, complement their beautiful furniture. The dining room’s crystal chandelier was purchased in the Paris Flea Market. An oil portrait of Helen McClure hangs in the living room.

At Christmas they held a family reunion including their poodle, Francois. Carroll McClure Pastor, 24, their older daughter, came with her husband from Brandeis University in New York State. They are both doing graduate work in anthropology. Their other child, Susan, 22, was enjoying a vacation from a Paris art school, where she is a preparatory student for the Beaux Arts. One evening during the holiday all the family entertained Mildred Chappell Allen of Richmond and Huémoz, Switzerland, and the writer with stories of their love of Paris and Ben and Helen’s safari to French Equatorial Africa in March.

McClure entered the University of Richmond from Thomas Jefferson High School in Richmond, where he was born on October 15, 1918. From Richmond College he received a B.A. in Liberal Arts. This Phi Gamma Delta as an undergraduate was tapped for Omicron Delta Kappa, Pi Delta Epsilon and Tau Kappa Alpha; he was later initiated into Phi Beta Kappa scholarship fraternity as an alumni member.

Entering the Vick organization as a trainee upon completing college, McClure was allowed to stay but a short time. He served in the Navy during World War II, was in charge of a division of PT boats in the Pacific, and was discharged a Lieutenant Commander. It was on a naval trip to Europe that he met his wife.

In 1946 he again joined Vick Chemical in sales and marketing. His efforts have always been in an international trade. Besides Paris he has lived in New York City traveling all of Europe plus Russia, Latin America and Africa. In his business he has met such notables as Kosygin, Mikoyan, and Gromyko of the Soviet Union, M. Pompidou of France, Harold Wilson of Great Britain, Dr. Ludwig Erhard and Walter Hallstein of Germany, the latter associated with the Common Market.

McClure is an avid reader. He does a large amount of reading other than business writings. Scientific books and novels get his main attention along with Le Figaro, the Herold Tribune international edition, and the National Geographic.

Photograph in the 90’s, he has played golf all over the world. He belongs to the St. Nom La Brette Golf Club in Paris. For squash, he is a member of Jeu De Paume. For tennis, which he has continued to play since being a member of the U. R. team with friends Bobby Leitch and Al Dickinson, he belongs to the Polo Club. His 60-foot yacht, Fair Morn, on which he cruises the Mediterranean, is moored at Malta.

Archaeology, however, is his chief hobby. He and his wife have visited Roman ruins in North Africa, the Maakapan Caves near Pretoria, Africa, Mexico’s Aztec ruins, and explored in Peru and Egypt as well as other areas.

Living in France, Ben McClure naturally has a definite opinion of President Charles De Gaulle. “I think,” he states, “that De Gaulle has done an amazing job in France. Until he came to power for the second time, France had been continuously at war for 15 years, and when he solved the Algerian problem he changed everything for the better. De Gaulle has done a fabulous job for France.”

To the younger people just beginning careers or in college McClure speaks out with some advice. “In my opinion,” he said, “business is a worthwhile and dignified profession and is the backbone of our society. I think that college grads should consider that all business will be world-wide, and that young people should think in world-wide terms.”

Greetings, once again! Remember me? From time to time, I will “pop” up. Do hope to have a regular correspondent for you before too long. To this end, I want to thank Virginia Snead for writing for us for several years. Her letters were always interesting.

Esther Jett and I have just finished our letters to all of you reminding you of the need for our gift to the Alumnae Fund. I thoroughly enjoyed my part of the correspondence. Felt as though I'd had a real chat with each one to whom I wrote, howbeit, a one-sided chat. How about making it complete, and drop us a line to let us know what you are doing. In case I find someone who will do this job, I will send your letters along for their information.

I enjoyed receiving letters from Mildred McDaniel and Virginia Snead, both with reference to the letters to be written. It is good to have alert scouts who keep you in touch. Virginia also wrote that the dinner meeting held in the old dining hall on Feb. 23 was attended by a goodly number of class representatives, including Virginia, Mildred, Tommy, Elizabeth Gaines, and Frances Sutton. Some of the activities which are occupying Virginia's time since retiring from her teaching are the Homemakers' Club, Garden Club, D.A.R., substitute teaching when she can, Anti-Poverty Program, plus a few other things, in addition to being concerned with the 'sick and ailing' family connections.

Mildred seems to have been a "busy little bee" also. She writes that she has knitted 34 sweaters! She also tells us that Ralph will retire in this time. I still have the "travel urge", and last Sept., I had about a 4,000 mile trip by the time Norfolk was reached, and it was fun!

The idea of close-ups of members of the Class of '21 came from the small attendance of our 45th Reunion last June. The enthusiastic reception of Theresa Pollak's discussion what she has been doing in her painting and teaching (Full Bulletin) indicated that renewing ties with our classmates would be welcomed.

We began, therefore, with a Class Profile in the Winter Bulletin. Close-ups start with this issue. Our spotlight falls on our Class President, Alice Williams Whitley; our Medical Doctor, Virginia Lane; and our world-minded Ruth Henderson. Other close-ups will follow as we plan to spotlight each—if life lasts so long.

MRS. HILTON IS 'SOCIAL WORKER OF THE YEAR'

Mrs. Sidney J. Hilton (Margaret Harlan '26) was chosen 'Social Worker of the Year' by the Central Virginia Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers.

The Whitleys bought the property.

Alice and Fair operated Whitwil as a dairy farm until a residential subdivision in 1965 came encroachingly near. They sold their acreage, but kept the home and the adjacent property.

Now Alice teaches Latin at nearby Loudoun Valley High School, having given up her earlier subject of mathematics. Fair cures hans commercially, using his own combination recipe. He grew up in the famous area of Smithfield.

About teaching, Alice says, "The most convincing evidence that we believe in the permanence of our world is that we continue the effort of educating youth... We of today draw our greatest inspiration from our heritage of the classics... From those who have gone before us, we have gained the knowledge that enables us to see the future."

Many pictures of Alice's sister, Jo, and her family are at Whitwil. Josephine and her husband, Frank Sant, died several years ago. At the time of his death, Dr. Sant was Rector of the Church of St. Michael and St. George in St. Louis. Two fine sons, Bill and John, and their families are continuing the Williams-Sant heritage.

In the community life of Loudoun County, the Whitleys are active in church, hospital, and educational activities; in the historical society, the association of the arts. As for living, Alice says, "There is no place like Loudoun County," and you agree, as you enjoy her hospitality in airy and spacious Whitwil with its shaded lawn, great trees, and quantity of boxwood, magnolia, and holly.

What does Dr. Virginia Lane say about women doctors? "Not anywhere near enough of them. Women have great capacity for this field. Intellectually, they are well equipped. Emotionally, they are exceptionally fitted for the human demands of the doctor's life. Furthermore, in this, as in other fields of endeavor, women should pursue career and marriage—or course, adjusting career activities to the needs of the family."

In her junior year at Westhampton, Virginia knew she wanted to dedicate her life to helping people—physically and spiritually. Becoming a medical missionary seemed to be a way to achieve that goal. Also, she thought about being a nurse, training at Johns Hopkins School of Nursing. Back in '21, however, funds for continuing education were not available as they are today.

The summer after graduation was one of fun and relaxation. At the Newton girls, Varina Elliott and girls from other colleges were "in" by waiting on tables during their college days at Blue Mountain. They enjoy traveling and seeing the wonderful places they might be interested, as they are thinking of retirement years and feel that they may like visiting in our homes. They had a tight schedule impacts to students an exceptional spirituality during their training in the ways and the wisdom of Christ.

Highly committed to the purpose of the College—to prepare women for Christian motherhood—Dr. Lane, Virginia to us, is herself a motivating influence in the lives of the students and faculty members. This institution, Virginia points out, imparts to students an exceptional spirituality during their training in the ways and the wisdom of Christ.

Free now from full-time professional activities, Virginia continues those of her church and her vegetable-azalea-chrysanthemum gardening. Hargrove Middle Atlantic Regional School to be including from major surgery and doing fine.

I note that the present address of Miss Gary Turner is unknown. If a member of '25, or anyone else, could furnish the Alumnae Office with Gary's address, I know that it would be appreciated.

Jane Smith and Virginia Yeaman, who have recently lost their mothers. Virginia is recovering from major surgery and doing fine.

It has been a real treat to have Elizabeth and her time was limited, but she gave generously of herself in the time available. We wish her Godspeed as she leaves for Malaysia

it was written in a "quiet distinguished fashion."

How does it seem to head the list in amount of contribution to the 1965-1966 Alumnae Fund? Wouldn't it be even better if we could increase our percentage of participation? After the work of Margaret Oliver Saunders and others, let's hope we will.

Frances Willis Overton hoped to have all her family together for Christmas. However, she has learned that Dorothy Abbott Wood's daughter, Lee, has been named as Freshman representative to the Mary Court at Salem College in N. C. Dotie's son, Nat, was home from Viet Nam for the holidays.

Grace Watkins Lawson's daughter, Margaret, was married last October 22 to Richard Chandler. They are living in Shelbyville. Del Miles is still at Lehgh working toward his Ph.D. From Margaret Lowe Logan has come the news that John joined the University of Tours on a Fulbright. He received that while he graduated from Princeton in June, along with a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, a Summa Cum Laude citation and a Phi Beta Kappa key. Elsa transferred from Lake Erie College to Goucher at the end of her freshman year. She has been elected to the student council and made the grade club for a tour of three universities. Pris has become a co-ed at Boston University and is working toward an M.A. in creative writing. Hase completed the work on his dissertation at Penn State and is teaching Physics at Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind. You all know where I live. Surely you must have some news to send to me?

All of you will be distressed to learn of the death of Mary Hicks in Feb. She was ill for only a short time and we were all so surprised. Her brother lives in Richmond and I wrote to him expressing love and sympathy from you all. The last Bulletin also carried news of Dot Lee Van Dusen's death during the summer. I wrote to her husband expressing our sympathy. Until recently there were two unsolved mysteries involving absences of Catherine Seay Spencer and Nina Brenner Smith during the 35th anniversary. Both had signed up for the various events and then did not appear. Cath­erine's mother and sister were back of this and Nina's husband suddenly became quite ill. Both stories have a happy ending and we want them to know that their absences gave us great con­cern.

A new date for Alumnae Weekend—May 12-13—may get some folks back who can't come in June. Hope it will be you. And do help 1931 bring money to the Alumnae Fund. We are 41% and you might be the one to help us over the 50% mark.

MRS. MARGARET LEAKE 40 B. Meadow St., Richmond, Va.

Zephia and Charles Scarborough are thrilled over the birth of their first grandchild, a son, born January 5, to Charles Jr. and Nancy (Westhampton '64), who make their home in College Park, Maryland. Charles Jr. is finishing up his requirements for his Master's Degree in Comparative Literature. Equal joy was shared by her parents when their daughter, Zephia, a senior, went to Bryn Mawr High School in Rich­mond was the winner of both the W. C. Reading Room and the National Council of Teachers of English award for excellence in writing. There were nine Virginia winners and Zephia was the only one from the Richmond area.

We extend our deepest sympathy to Elizabeth Cone Brumbaugh in the loss of her father and also to Betty Perkins Meyers in the loss of her mother. Buena flew home from Portland, Oregon for the funeral. Hugh is on sabatical leave and was in Portland lecturing. He is due to join

MARY C. GOTAAS: SCHOLAR-TEACHER

By JEAN GRAY WRIGHT

Those of us who used to hear every day the hurrying footsteps of Mary Gotaas along the corridors of North Court knew that there was never enough time for her to carry out the intense purpose that drove her rapid footsteps. Her bubbling speech whose current rushed headlong over all rocks of interruption sometimes made astounded Freshmen wonder whether this was French, English, or a new language created by this slim, blond lady who still seemed borne along by a strong wind from her native Dakota.

For thirteen years Mary Gotaas was a vital force in the Modern Language Department of Westhampton College. Perhaps some intuition that her life would be broken before completion made her drive herself and her students toward a goal of scholarly perfection. This goal kept many a French major breathless en route but deeply grateful to a prodding professor when she realized in the first throes of graduate work or teach­ing how well armed she was in both method and material.

Although the Library was in Mary Gotaas’ mind the central powerhouse of a university, so much so that it seemed to us sometimes that like Montesquieu nothing could distress her so much that an hour of good reading could not console her, yet she had also a real interest in human beings. Toward the student who was too lazy or aimless to realize her potentialities, she was implacable, but to the girl ambitious though limited by training, ability, or personal problems, she offered gladly spontaneous and vigorous aid.

Toward the student who was too lazy or aimless to realize her potentialities, she was implacable, but to the girl ambitious though limited by training, ability, or personal problems, she offered gladly spontaneous and vigorous aid.

The Library was in Mary Gotaas’ mind the central powerhouse of a university, so much so that it seemed to us sometimes that like Montesquieu nothing could distress her so much that an hour of good reading could not console her, yet she had also a real interest in human beings. Toward the student who was too lazy or aimless to realize her potentialities, she was implacable, but to the girl ambitious though limited by training, ability, or personal problems, she offered gladly spontaneous and vigorous aid.

The growth and improvement of the Modern Language Department of the college was a major concern. Honors work was organized for those who might profit from it. Establishing procedure in the newly set up language laboratory, supervision of this program, procuring annually foreign students as laboratory instructors, all this occupied much of her time. It was often time that she would have preferred to spend on scholarly research or keeping up with the latest publications.

Betterment of the whole University was just as much a concern. Miss Gotaas was an active member of the W.C. Reading Room Committee, the University Library Commit­tee, and had devoted much time to the Self-Study Library Committee. A lasting evidence of her realization of an important need of the University will be the large portion of her excellent French library which she has left to the W.C. Reading Room. For two years she was deeply involved in the University Curriculum Committee, urging a better balanced choice of required subjects.

Her own range of interests was wide: theatre, music, travel, public affairs. During her recent stay last Paris, days were spent in the National Library mostly, with visits to exhibitions, museums, or those beautiful and historic spots along the Seine which she loved so well. Evenings were spent at the opera, concerts, theatre, seeing the latest plays of Onesco, Anouilh, or the classics of Molière and Racine at the Comédie Francaise. When we travelled one summer in Portugal, I remember what pleasure she derived from the elaborate baroque architecture, the picturesque fishing villages along the rocky coast, and how much enjoyment from her efforts to speak Portuguese. Other summers she visited relatives in Norway, where again she spoke the tongue Language everywhere meant special adventure for her. No one will of course be able to fill the place she made for herself at Westhampton through her energy, her lively interest in all phases of the college, her efforts to attain scholarly perfection for herself and her students. It is fitting that in accordance with her wishes her family is establishing a Modern Language Scholarship at Westhampton with the hope that Mary Gotaas’ ideals of character and scholarship, of purpose in life, may be carried on.

Bueno later and they have plans to fly to Europe for a spring vacation. During her stay Mary Matthews, Helen Deck, Buena and I had lunch together.

Don't forget our big Reunion coming up. Yes, it is our 35th. The date is May 12-13 and 14th. We hope as many as possible will make every effort to get to Richmond. We have plans for a big dinner on Friday, May 12th. See you then.

This year we are aiming for 100% from 1933 in the Alumnae Fund drive! Hope we make it. Virginia A. Napier spent Christmas in Silver Springs, Md. where daughter Mary Beth and her family are living while Mike is a resident at Walter Reed Hospital.

R. H. and Carolyn C. Powell had a wonderful trip to the West Coast last fall. Bob Powell is in his last year of law at W & L. . . . he has passed the bar! Charles is at Freder­ick College.

Jane and Jack Merchant had a two weeks trip to Rio last spring. Edna Earl had a visit with Martha before Christmas. Mrs. Tish, Fred and little Molly were with her for the holidays.

Marjorie O'Riordan has joined the grandmothers club Maureen had a boy in Jan. Daughter, Marjorie was married in Nov. Son Jack is at Fort Campbell taking his six month's training.

Hope to see you at Alumnae Week end, May 12-14.

Miss GERTRUDE DYSON 1500 Wilmington Ave., Richmond, Va.

You should have been asked by this time to make your 1966-67 contribution to the Alumnae Fund. Will not be too long, so dig in! Frances van Heuveln, Virginia Puckett, and I attended the fund raising dinner at Westhampton in February, and enjoyed it very much. I hope next year the others who write letters will attend. It is always fun to go back to college and it is especially pleasant when such a delightful meal is served.

Cornelia Gould Scott saw Billie Allen Geog­hagen and Mariada Comer Aremensburg recently. Mariada is in Washington working for Free Cuba.

Katherine Van Allen has a new grandson, Mark Carl Bruhn, born November 11, in Miami. Virginia Watkins Ellenberg and her husband are building a new home in Tennessee, and plan to move there soon.

Everyone has been saddened to hear of Mr. Jesse Wood's death. Our very deepest sympathy to Ann at this time.

Mrs. A. TAYLOR SKAY, Jr. (Hazel Hemming) 1410 Palmyra Ave., Richmond, Va.

A local news story reporting on the students who were on the Richmond College Dean's List included Charles and Frank Foley. I believe they are Marian Allport Foley's twin sons.

Mary Pat Early Love, Sue Whittet Wilson, Betsy Marston Sadler, Billy Rowlett Perkins, Jean Shafer, and I have written letters to all of you in behalf of the Alumnae Fund. We hope that all will contribute this year.

Betsy Marston Sadler has just begun college and she states that there is nothing new about math, that it is the same math as school math, and she states that there is nothing new about math, that it is the same math that Dr. Gaines taught when we were in college.

Billy Rowlett Perkins is counseling in the New Kent County Schools and also doing graduate work at the University of Virginia.

Sue Whittet Wilson's son has completed his tour of duty with the State Department in El Salvador. He enjoyed travel in South America. He is now in Washington. Susan's daughter is in California while her husband is studying there.

Contribute to the Alumnae Fund—and send me news about yourself and family.

Mrs. C. M. Tatum (Gladys Smith) 336 Lexington Road, Richmond, Va.

We tried to have our usual holiday gathering of Richmond area '36ers the Wednesday after Christmas at my home, but the weather was against us. A snowstorm in the morning kept all but Helen Denison Hinson, Mariada Bowers, and Boo Owens Page and her delightful grandson away.

Lou Whitton Winfree has a new grandson, the son of her daughter, Edith Wold, and her husband. The new arrival was born Feb. 16 in Indiana.

 Boo Page and Sidney are back from Palm Springs, Calif.

Helen and Monny, in the course of their work with the Society for the Prevention of Blindness, ran into Nancy Lee Codd, who does volunteer work for the Society in her home community, Portsmouth, Va. Nancy Lee, who was a classmate in our early years at West­hampton, is now Mrs. Thomas Walsh.

One of Martha Riis Moore's twin daughters, Greencastle, was married Dec. 15 to Anthony William Cooke of Ashland, Va. Martha's son, John, is in training at Fort Stuart, Ga. with the Special Forces, hoping to win his Green Beret.

Our sympathy goes to Monny Bowers, whose brother, George died last summer.

We also extend our sympathy to Helen Falls, whose father died in Dec. and whose mother died in March.

1937—
By the time you receive this issue of the Alumnae Bulletin we will probably be having our 30th reunion. I do hope that many of you are able to attend. For the benefit of those of you who cannot be there, however, here is some news.

Betty Pleasant Pitts is working as a full-time church secretary now and likes her work very much. Her daughter, who is now 19, is also in the business world. Betty still lives in Richmond.

Jane Carroll Slusser wrote that Tom's golf team at Pennacola High was state champion again last year, so they had a nice trip to Gainesville in Aug. for him to receive the "Coach of the Year" award. Their son, Bill, is now teaching high school English in Jackson­ville and the other son, Jim, is a senior at Florida State.

Dot Hall Sheppard is still living in Elmhurst, Ill. She was transferred to Chicago by International Harvester Co. in 1962. Their daughter, Barbara, who is 16, hopes to go to Ariz. in June to teach in a Vacation Bible School for Indians. She wrote that she is working two days a week as church secretary at the First Baptist Church of Elmhurst.

I am sure that all of you have heard from our Alumnae Fund chairman, Virginia Lee Priddy, or one of her helpers. Since this is our reunion year for us, let's strive to have 100% contributing to the Fund. Last year we had 38% participation with a total of $470.00 given by our class. This year's fund closes June 30th, so send in your contribution if you haven't already done so.

Miss POLLYANNA SHEPHERD 1053 Naval Avenue, Portsmouth, Va. 23704

Kate and Al Klaflky have a granddaughter born last Aug. Kenny is now a lawyer and lives in Hopewell. Al recently resigned from the Mobil Oil Co. and is now a professor at Aldephi University teaching in the graduate school and loves it.

Evelyn and Ken Angus are looking forward to two new daughters-in-law. Son Frank will marry Cheryl Barnes in June and son Billy will marry Judy Coleman in Aug. Frank will enter the MCV dental school after three years in college while Billy will finish next year at Randolph-Macon. Evelyn tells me that Kate and Al's son Roger is at the University of Chicago's graduate school. He was graduated magna cum laude from Wesleyan last June.

Daughter Lynn is a junior at Wheaton College.

Bernice Smith Murdock called me one day when she was passing through Richmond. She has a married daughter and two grandchildren and lives in Silver Springs, Md. Bernice is now taking classes at the University of Md. in her spare time. Her younger daughter is a senior at Towson University studying in England and Germany during her junior year.

Marion Wylie Eilett's oldest son, David, is in graduate school at MIT. Jimmy goes to Duke, and Sarah is still in high school in Aiken, S. C.

I talked to Dot Shell Wood, who teaches 4th grade at the Collegiate Lower School. She and Charlie are looking forward to a nice trip to Los Angeles soon. Betty graduates from College in June and son Dick will graduate from VMI in 1968. Jack is a student at the Collegiate Boys' School.

Hennie Hatrell Smith and I attended the Alumnae Dinner at Westhampton and enjoyed it very much. If you haven't sent your 1967 contribution in, please do it right away. I am ashamed to report that our class had only 29% contributing.

Our son, Malcolm, is in graduate school at Indiana University and plans to teach French next year at Abilene Christian College in Abil­ene, Texas. Our younger son, Lucky, is a sopho­more at the U. of S.

Pat Metz Kelly's son, Mike, is a freshman at Mt. St. Mary's and played on the varsity basket­ball team there. Son Robert graduated from Notre Dame last year and is working on his Master's degree at N.Y.U. At home with Frank and Pat are the three youngest, Reid in the 8th grade, Colleen in the 5th grade at St. Benedict's, and Mary Pat, who goes to St. Gertrude's.

Hermine Hoen Phillips moved to Florida last fall when her husband was transferred there by Bendix Avionics. They moved into their new home at 2145 North East 67th St., Fort Lauderdale in Dec.—just in time to get settled before Christmas. They have three children—Sarah, 14, Mary Anne, 11, and William, 8. Hermine says they are all very happy with their new home.

Substitution! Emma Lou did not feel she could write the letter this time, so it is my pleasure to bring you the news she collected from our class.

A letter was received from Dell Williams Smith of Yerington, Nevada, from which I quote, "Tony was transferred out here to build a power plant and he’s finding the work quite interesting. We have four of us doing our part leisurely, via the northern route, truly fascinating and beautiful country. We’re settled in a small town in a fertile valley. The people here is very friendly. One writes that Brag, a mail boy, is so welcome, already becoming involved in some of the activities. We’re about 80 miles south-east of Reno—which is as fabulous and exciting as all you’ve heard, but our fascination is mainly over the unusual beauty of the surrounding desert-like area and all the scenery around here, including the old ghost towns, reminiscent of the gold and silver boom days. Mabs and Carter are in school in Virginia. Mabs is a junior at Mary Baldwin and Carter is a senior at Collegiate. We’ll be here for a couple of years, and will try to take in as much of the area as we can and still have Tony do a good job at work."

A card from Libby Johnson Alvis tells us that she and Alvis have had a catatonic operation and has another one pending. We all wish her a speedy recovery.

Our thanks to Kitty Lyke, who headed up our 1941 Alumnae Fund Drive and helped us this year were Jane Reid, Maude Jurgens, Helen Moss, Myra Ann Crump, Sadie Williams, Margaret Berthart, Madeline Cosby and Connie Holloway. Be sure your name is among those contributing.

Your substitute was Connie Holloway.

Kenneth and Mary Owen Bass will be transferred from Wilmington, Del. this summer to Geneva, Switzerland, where Kenneth will be Director of Marketing for du Pont’s European operations. Mary had been appointed by the Governor of Delaware for a post on education in Delaware. Their son has entered Yale Law School.

Ray and Libby Henry Belcher have built a new home at Sandbridge, Virginia Beach.

Julia Ann Dickinson, daughter of Enders Jean and Ethel Dickinson, will be married in Aug. Her lovely picture announcing the engagement was in the Richmond News-Leader. A senior at William and Mary, she will represent her college at the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival at Winchester May 4-6.

Patsy Garrett Kokincas sang as a "church lady" in "Requiem for a Ranger" on ABC’s colorcast of “Rango” in Feb. She’s doing some of the current Lilt and Crest television commercials. She had a part in the Dick Van Dyke-Debbie Reynolds movie, “Divorce, American Style,” which released this summer. Patsy & Nick Kokincas live in Northridge, Calif., with their three children, Jeff, 16, who is a high school football star, and Kathy, 11, who goes to dance school. Patsy has a full sack of Girl Scout merit badges.

Stuart and Frazier Drumwright Catron and daughters spent the week between Christmas and New Year’s in New York City.

Margaret Brittingham Curtice writes from Calif. that her son Jim is going to the U. of Calif. at Santa Barbara where he was the freshman quarterback in football.

Barbara Eckles Graham extended a message of congratulations to oldest C. Geoghegan Smith. Cecile says, "We are busy winding up our two-year stay here in Costa Rica. Over the holidays we went to Guatemala, seeing market day at Chichicastenango; Antigua, etc. and by driving could also see some of El Salvador, Honduras and Nicaragua. Last spring we flew to Panama and came back to Tica-Bus. Patsy graduated as valedictorian of her class from Colegio Lincoln. She also got the English award and U. S. History award. She is now attending Spanish Language School, David, alas, probably has the best collection of comics in Spanish and English. Nancy and Kathy are progressing in piano and ballet.”

When four of us (Betsy Woodson Weaver of Midlothian, Ann Marie Rue Stringfellow of Culpeper, "Its" Holden Sipes of Richmond, and I) attended the Alumnae Fund dinner at the college February 23, we had an added treat when we chatted in the Blue Room with Rue’s daughter Charlene, a sophomore making the Dean’s List again this year, and with Bob and Ann Woodward Courtney’s daughter Edee, a freshman. Edee told us that her older brother will graduate in June from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute with a double major of physics and math. He will go to the North Pole for three months this summer for a geographic survey; then he plans to go graduate work in geophysics next year.

Betsy Woodson Weaver said that her husband Monk had an interesting tour of duty in the Army for a month in Penna. He visited the Andrew Wyeth exhibit in Philadelphia. Betsy teaches the fourth grade in Midlothian.

Anne Addison Bowling was Rue’s partner in the Culpeper member-guest golf tournament last summer. She writes that Brag, a dentist, is moving into a new office in Arlington.

Our thanks go to Betsy, Rue, "Its,” Jean Neasmith Dickinson, Gin Omohundro Purcell, Anne Addison Bowling, Mary Alice Smith Tillotson, and Lois Campbell Herlong for helping our fund drive by writing personal notes to the members of our class. Can we increase our last year’s 38% participation to at least 50% this year? Please let us know the addresses for the following: Flopsy Laffoon Carnwell, Mildred Owen Stanley, Evelyn Pomeroy Umstattd, or Tamis Wilson Leonard.

Biggest news of course is that a letter has gone out to all of you (in the fund drive one) outlining our plans for reunion. We’ve had fun getting together here in Richmond for coffee meetings at May Holt’s, Harriett Byrider’s, and Ann Garrett’s. Now we’re sitting back waiting for reservations to pour in! Send along any newspaper clippings for the class scrapbook, and I will try to get it up to date before our 25th.

Ann Smith Palazzo’s son, Edward, is a merit scholar at Dartmouth, and they’ve recently returned from an interview at Dartmouth. He will graduate from Douglas Freeman High School in June. Ann is room mother for Clay who is in third grade at Maybeury School, and Lisa who is in first grade at Collegeville. She is also vice president of Women of the Church at River Road Presbyterian and teaches Bible study in circle. Ann currently serves as vice president of Richmond Club of Westhampton Alumni Association.

I don’t know how many other distinguished classmates we have, but Ann Gwaltney Hardwood has a granddaughter, Natalie, born Dec. 30, 1966. Ann’s daughter, Jacqueyn, graduated from Mary Washington College in June. She and her husband both work with Richmond Public Schools. He is coach and teaches at Thomas Jefferson.
Working and no children."

From Peggy Kyle Anderton, in Toronto, Canada: "Roland was transferred to Toronto in June, 1964. He is now in charge of his company’s claims offices for all of Canada and thus travels considerably. Donna, our oldest daughter, spent the summer as a camp counselor in Maine, and is now in her senior year at Drew in Madison, Wis. Alice, the youngest, spent part of last summer studying Spanish and living with a native family in Millboro, Va., having recently returned from Mexico. Barry, our son, has graduated from high school and is studying electronics at a provincial school in Canada."

Evelyn Allen Krause writes from Bon Air, Va.: "Charles is now principal of the Charles City High School and I am teaching English there. Young Charles is at RPI School of Music. He toured Europe last summer with the U.S. All Student Band, playing the tuba."

Kathryn Stone writes from Richmond: "We spent a wonderful summer at our New England home this year, where three of my sisters (one from Taipei) and families were together with my parents for the first time in ten years. Priscilla Anne is a freshman at West­hampton, as are the daughters of Louise Wiley Willis and Jayne Mair Messey. I am still teaching science at Collegiate."

Evelyn Flax Mirmelstein writes from Newport News, Va. that her son John is a junior at the University of Richmond, and her daughter Jean is in the seventh grade. "Participation in mansion life is increasing in Cyrill’s office when needed, and keeping house have been my agenda for the past 25 years."

Lowita Rowland Martin is now living at Millboro, Va., having recently returned from Calif. She writes: "If anyone is out here, in the depths of the mountains, I’d love to see them. However I understand that we are pretty well buried in Dec. through Feb." Her son, 13, is with her.

Jo Smith Parker, in Greensboro, N. C., is also deeply involved in PTA, Sunday School, and Glee Club. Ann, who is a one year old daughter, Anne, writes "I must add that I do enjoy it after so many years of working and no children."

Barbara Krug Evans, whose husband works for DuPont in Kinston, N. C., now has five children: Fred, a sophomore at Duke; Steve, who is in the running for a Morehead scholarship for UNC; Robbin, an ardent sportsman in Kinston Junior High School; Jean, a young but devoted horsewoman, and David, three, who is in nursery school.

Kay Christian sends a long letter from Garden City, N. Y. She and her husband, who is with Texas Gulf Sulphur Company, had just returned from a trip to the company’s eastern sales center, S. C. plant, and Kay was full of enthusiasm for the sights of the Carolina coast and the future of Texas Gulf Sulphur in that area. She also writes that her daughter, Kay, is a sophomore at Allen College in Allen­town, Pa., and that Kay, herself, is constantly involved in community, church, and school affairs like every good Westhamptonite.

From the Stansbury family in Richmond comes the news. Our beautiful class of ‘43 still teaching science at Collegiate."

Wendy Cline wrote from Sarasota, Fla. that she and B.G. were there soaking up the sun for a few days and enjoying it thoroughly. Here is the second installment of the flood of news that has come in since October. Though some of it may be a bit old by the time you read it in the Bulletin, at least it will be new to most of you.

One final item for this newsletter: Fay Carpenter Kirkman writes from Dayton, Md., to report that she sent the scrapbook on to Aldhea Johnston Black in Richmond in Nov., 1964, and she has the insurance receipt to prove it. I think that this is the first time we have heard from Fay in some time and when she finally gets the scrapbook, it was good to make contact with an important member of the class of ‘44.

This almost exhausts the supply of news that came in last fall. I still have a few letters and cards that have not been reported on, but now is the time for the rest of you to send in that last card. I plan to be in Richmond for the May alumnae meeting and hope to see some of you there, but most of you will need to write to communicate. Please don’t wait too long. The next letter is due on June 16.

According to how old it makes you feel today our letter brings exciting (depressing) news. Our beautiful class baby Barbara Louise Stansbury is now Mrs. Robert Purks Mac­kubbin. Barbie was married in Bruton Parish Church, Williamsburg, on Jan. 28 and Ann (Burcher) says, "Believe me—it is aging to be mother of the bride." Her husband teaches English at William and Mary and she will graduate in June. Warren, of course, gave her away and Susan was maid of honor and Elizabeth Ann was her sister’s junior bridesmaid. Ann and Warren’s son, Whinn, who is 19, is now a Marine and Susan, 17, will be at Westhampton next year.

Ann and the other Richmond ‘44’s have begun working on Alumnae Fund letters. Do wish you would get your contributions in early this year and make their job easy. We had a rather poor 37% participation last year; so let’s see if we can’t improve on that. I know from experience that we often fail to con­tribute because of procrastination so how about sitting down now and writing your check.

Christmas mail was full of notes from you and last week here came another nice letter from Dot Hill. Now don’t forget me in July. I plan to be in Richmond for the May alumnae meeting and hope to see some of you there, but most of you will need to write to communicate. Please don’t wait too long. The next letter is due on June 16.

A move from Paducah, Ky., to Cumberland, Md., where Stewart is employed at Celeneis Fibers is the news from Mary Ellen Tucker Lowry. Best wishes to the Lowrys at 1066 Braddock Road, Cumberland, Maryland 21502. E. P. and Roy Blackwell's family still love Hawaii and their fine group of friends there. The three children are happy in school and the oldest son, Bill, will be ready for college when they return to the "mainland" in 1968. The Yanceys still have an "Hawaii piggy bank," Ellen.

Janet Hurt Willis' lovely and talented daughter, Mary Bolling, graduates with honors from Westhampton this June. Remember Janet left us to marry Gordon in 1945? Isn't Mary Bo the first nostrae filiae of '45 to graduate? Many thanks to Connie Richards, "our gal in Richmond," and others from whom you'll be hearing soon. Won't you respond generously?

I'm sorry to have missed getting the second installment of our 1966 reunion notes in the last Bulletin. We had three addresses in as many weeks, having sold our old house before the new one was completed, and my notice of the deadline did not reach me until it was too late.

This "news," will therefore be nearly a year old by now, but because it is still interesting, and so many of you asked for every scrap of information, I'm going to share with you more of the letters and talk from last May.

Elaine Weil Weinberg wrote from Palo Alto, Calif. that she now has her California Teaching Credential in case she wishes to substitute, but since Palo Alto has a waiting list of qualified substitutes, it isn't easy to be called. Elaine's husband is at United Technical Center, devotes great deal of his spare time to their synagogue, and to enjoying a small dinghy the family has acquired. Elaine has three children, Amy, 14, in 9th grade, Julie, 11, who plays the flute and climbs trees, and Jonathan, 8. Elaine has taught in religious school and worked with the local Headstart program.

Eleanor Potratz Beeth, who was with us for one year, wrote from Taiwan, where her husband is a S.S.A. representative. Eleanor was due back in the U.S. last summer for a visit, and has doubtless returned to Taiwan by now, for two more years. Two of Eleanor's six children remained in the U.S., the oldest, Kathy, at Furman University, and her other daughter, Nida, at Marion Junior College, Marion, Va.

The four boys are in Taiwan, where the third oldest boys attend Taipei American School.

Alta Ayers Howard lives in Cincinnati, where the Howards have a farm with tobacco and a farm creek with fossils—Trilobites. She has three children, Dowell, III, 13, Susan, 15, and Edward, 10. Dowell, who is in charge of college recruiting for the engineering division of Proctor & Gamble, finds the time to be captain of a 50-foot boat at Cowan Lake. Alta works with the International Visitors Center, an interest she developed after hearing Cora Lynn Chaffee Goldsborough tell about it at a previous reunion.

Faye Clark Randle wrote to us from Bucklin, Kansas, where her husband is the only doctor. The Bucklin High School Band, in which two of Faye's children play, was in the Tournament of Roses Parade. Faye's youngest child, Craig, will be six this June. Faye is a District Officer of Federated Women's Clubs and State Rural Health Chairman for the Kansas Medical Auxiliary. Her husband Jack is a trustee of Dodge County Community College, and near Cay, Faye says her house is roomy and she would love to have any of us stop for a visit. Their vacation plans included a week in the Colorado mountains last summer, and a trip to Boston in the fall.

Two young children keep Frances Newman Stevens on the go. Brent, 8, is a second-grader, and Marla is an active 3-year-old. Frances and Bill have a new home in Hollins, Va., with a view of the mountains, and do a lot of yard work. Bill is with a bank, and Frances is active in Beta Sigma Phi, an international cultural society.

Mary Tuck Echols has of necessity become a linguist over the 20 years. They are now in Santiago, Chile, where Jim is Public Affairs Officer for Chile and Mary is renewing her Spanish. Over the years she has had to learn French, Portuguese, and Italian as well. Mary's oldest son Rob is a student at Middlebury College in Vt., and Jack is a student at a private American high school in Santiago. Mary paints, and before Chile, taught art in a high school in Annapolis while Jim worked in Washington as Advisor on Cultural Affairs for the U.S. Information Service.

Virginia (Ding) Shotwell and Ralph are in Harford, Conn., where Ralph is pastor of Center Baptist Church. Over the last year Ding entertained all 1300 members of the church in her home! Ding wrote at Christmas of her interest in work with drug addicts and the Southwest is happier with a Narcotics Anonymous group in Hartford, and still finds time to do church teaching and be mother to her two teen-age daughters.

Peggy Clark Bawdier lives in Washington, D. C., where her husband is on the staff of the National Security Council. Their oldest son, Jim, is a student at Chichester, and his other children, Ann, 11, and Charles, 7, attend a small public school which Peggy says is almost an international school—last year she worked as a volunteer giving eye tests in Spanish.

Betsy Bawdier Muirden lives in Conn, where her husband James is the new chairman of the Romance Language Department at Hartford University.

Frances Bleight Elliott and her husband Dick journeyed from Potsdam, N. Y., where they live, to Augusta last June, for the Masters Golf Tournament. Frances has two daughters, 17 and 14, Sally, the oldest, went to the Girl Scout Roundup in Idaho, a rare privilege. Dick's golf course has expanded to include a vennier business and warehouse in High Point, N. C. Frances invites us all to visit.

Billie Springton Winn, who spent her freshman year on Rat Hole, wrote that her daughter was married last June. Her other three children are boys, 20, 19, and 17. Billie is a student at Chichester, and her other children, Ann, 11, and Charles, 7, attend a small public school which Peggy says is almost an international school—last year she worked as a volunteer giving eye tests in Spanish.

Virginia Gibson Stewart is taking night courses in stenography and investment counseling, still works at the V.A. Hospital in Richmond, and keeps house for her daughter, Susan, 1946—

YOUELLS HONORED IN PHILIPPINES

Capt. and Mrs. R. M. Youell (Lillian Bell '46) have both won new honors during a current tour of duty with the U.S. Navy in the Philippines.

Mrs. Youell has been elected president of the Sangley Point Officers' Wives' Club.

Capt. Youell will be co-chairman of the Phil-Am Cavite Lawyers Association. The group is composed of civilian lawyers from the Cavite area and Naval Law Specialists from the Sangley Point base. Monthly meetings are held to exchange ideas on the best manner of doping with legal problems involving the two communities.

With a Filipino as co-chairman Capt. Youell will lead the Association in fostering mutual understanding among all judges and attorneys in the area.

The four boys are in Taiwan, where the three oldest boys attend Taipei American School.

Alta Ayers Howard lives in Cincinnati, where the Howards have a farm with tobacco and a farm creek with fossils—Trilobites. She has three children, Dowell, III, 13, Susan, 15, and Edward, 10. Mary Frances Bethel Wood stopped by our house a few weeks ago. She and Buddy had been attending a Southeastern Theatre Conference program in Greensboro. N. C. Buddy is present from Miller Theatre at the Virginia Museum of Art in Richmond.

And we are finally in the new house. For the first few weeks after it was all completed, I felt as if we were living in a hotel. We lived for six weeks downstairs, with only an electric skillet and a hot plate for cooking. All of those years of camping experience paid off.
I am currently working on a Woman's Club project to study the mental health problems, needs, and community resources to meet the needs of the community. I would appreciate any material available from any of you who have labored in the same vineyard in your community.

If you lived nearby so we could talk about our doings, but we don't. So write and let me have some fresh news for the next bulletin.

reunion, ground was broken for the swiming pool wing. Now that we have our 20th you can see the completed beautiful pool and the three wings of the gymnasium.

I sold the house I was in before the grand, long awaited and much needed Fine Arts Building. You can help in this endeavor by giving generously to the Alumnae Fund. We are committed to help provide the furnishings for the new building. By now you have heard from an alumnae worker with facts and figures.
Please heed her plea! We do so want our class to move forward so we are not left behind.

I had such a nice letter from Helen Conant
Grinnell just after I sent in the last letter.
She regrets that she will be unable to attend this reunion but hopes to make the 25th in Grinnell just after I sent in the last letter.

Ann Wiley Kelly wrote that she had gone to work as librarian in one of the York County

Betty O'Brien Yeats' Christmas card tells that their annual move was to have been in Feb. this year. They have been in Europe for two years. Recently they have been to Berlin to see the sights and were planning to take the children to Paris. She wonders if DeGaulle is ready for the Yeats entourage.

Ollie Menefee Stirling wrote that during the Christmas holidays she saw Beth Decker Kimball and met Bob and Robbie. Beth’s practice is somewhat limited now. She acts mainly as a consultant in children's neurological problems and in diseases. She has a combination maid and sitter for Robbie. Ollie said that Robbie is a very sturdy young man, just starting to walk, a real charmer. Beth hopes to make the reunion.

College is costly enough without high insurance premiums . . . yet students should be insured. Life of Virginia now offers a way to give students ten thousand dollar coverage, for only thirty dollars a year, with no medical examination. Both full-time college students up to age 27 and high-school seniors who will be in college within six months are eligible. And the insured may convert to permanent insurance at any time the Student Life Plan is in force, without evidence of insurability. 8-year-old daughter is a member; a co-leader of a Girl Scout Troop that her 10-year-old daughter attends. She is a Sunday School teacher for the five year kindergarten class that her son, Jon, attends. Her mother is spending several months with her and they just recently visited Hollywood and Los Angeles. In her free time Thursdays working in the school library.

December was a busy as well as an unpleasant month for Josephine Martens. The holidays always find Jo busy at work addressing cards for her blind friends as well as sending greetings to them herself. On Christmas Eve, Jo slipped on the ice and broke and two knuckles on each side of her right wrist. This meant that Jo and her mother spent most of Christmas Eve in the hospital while her wrist was being X-rayed and set. At the time the doctor put a cast on from the hand to a couple of inches above the elbow and that was in a bent position. In Feb., it was shortened to below the elbow and then it was removed in March. She has to go to the hospital now for whirlpool treatments to loosen the wrist. After missing ten weeks from work, the doctor has allowed her to return. We are so sorry to hear of your troubles, Jo!

leader and in charge of finances. Her son, Gary, attends the new elementary school near their home and he is learning to play the clarinet. Libby and her husband, Bob, are still “hip-deep” in the coin-laundry business. They opened their third Maytag laundry last spring.
Bea and her husband, Billy, had an enjoyable trip in the fall to French Lick, Ind. Their children, Deedi, 12, and Jeff, 14, are very happy in their new school. In fact, Jeff made the Varsity Basketball Team! Bea was in the Back in the winter, Anne Gibson Hutchinson spent a week in N. Y., shopping and theater-going. She also spent a couple of days in Pa. with Barbe C. Cawn and Betty O’Bannon Culp, who is publicity chairman for the Chapel Hill House Tour on April 16 and is handling statewide publicity, TV programs, etc. Also she had been elected president pro tem of the new Triangle Westphalton Alumnae group and is planning a luncheon on April 22 for girls in the Raleigh-Summit Hill High School. We visited Earle and Betty Crews Watkins in South Hill and they have almost doubled the size of their home. It is very nice and I know Betty will enjoy all the space.

Sue and J. B. spent July at Va. Beach and enjoyed it very much. Then in Aug. their 10-year-old daughter contracted mono and was in for four weeks. Sue and J. B. chaperoned a group of St. Catherine Seniors on a trip in March.

Mary Ann Edel writes that she has been busy substituting at the children’s parochial school and teaching volleyball to the 5th grade.

Georgia McTeer Cooke writes that Morris must go to Viet Nam in July. She will wait it out in S. C. with her parents.

We had a short visit from Lacy Mahon, Walt and children when they came to Boydton to attend the wedding of Lacy’s cousin.

Many have written asking information on the Reardon’s. They began teaching Jan. 9 in one section of an 8th grade and this helped our four boys adjust quickly. Annette is four now and began teaching Jan. 9 in one section of an 8th grade. Is there more of a conflict with schools being in session in May than in the first part of June?

Phyllis Marie Dwyer received her master’s degree in education from Emory University. She served three years in Japan as a short-term missionary and two years as director of Christian education at the Westminster Hills church.

She served as head of the English Department at the University of Tokyo and was appointed by the Japanese government to a special teaching assignment in southern Japan. She also edited an English textbook for the University.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sparks of 1417 Westbrook Ave., Richmond.

DOROTHY SPARKS IS COMMISSIONED AS MISSIONARY

Dorothy Sparks, ’52, has been commissioned a full-time missionary to Japan by the Board of Mission of the Methodist Church.

The commissioning service was conducted on Jan. 8 at Westover Hills Methodist Church in Richmond by the Rt. Rev. Walter C. Gunn, presiding bishop of the Virginia Conference of the Methodist Church.

After graduation from Westminster Miss Sparks earned her master’s degree in education from Emory University. She served three years in Japan as a short-term missionary and two years as director of Christian education at the Westover Hills church.

She served as head of the English Department at the University of Tokyo and was appointed by the Japanese government to a special teaching assignment in southern Japan. She also edited an English textbook for the University.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sparks of 1417 Westbrook Ave., Richmond.

News of three little newcomers has come to me recently.

A daughter was born to Susan Kegan Nurtile and Mike on Nov. 25, 1966. Much happiness has come to the whole family! I haven’t heard the baby’s name yet.

A third name was added to the Christmas card from Marcella and John Bullock this year. His name is John Boyd Bullock, Jr. (“Boyd”). He arrived on Dec. 27, 1966. Congratulations!

Little Susan Elizabeth Allen was born on Jan. 16, 1967. The happy parents are Betty Rosenberger Allen and Joe. A genuine 1954 welcome to the new Miss Allen.

New locations have been reported for Garnetta Anderson Coates, Peggy Brown Hantzmon, Jane Gill Tombs, and Carol Livesay Bittman.

Garnetta Coates now lives at Schuyler, Va. where Jim is the new pastor of the Schuyler Baptist Church. The Coates family will be enjoying the mountains this spring in their large new home. Just prior to the move, Garnetta was busy directing the Youth Choir and filling in as organist at Fairport Baptist Church, Fairport, Va. One of her prize Sunday School students there will be entering Westminster this fall to study pre-law. Garnetta has taken up knitting as a hobby and knits sweaters for Millie (10), Lynda (6), and Rod (2). She also sees Mary Helen Stewart Lawrence and her four boys occasionally.

Peg Brown Hantzmon and Van have moved into their lovely new two-story, nine room house at 1413 Foxbrook Lane, Charlottesville, Va. They have been planning the house for three years and are very happy with it. Congratulations, Hantzmons! Clark (4) and Mutt (2) are well and active, so Peggy has been well-occupied.

Jane and Averett Tombes and their four children are back in Clemson, S. C. this year. Their address is 201 Thomas Street, Clemson, S. C. The Tombes spent last year in Charlotteville, Va. with two weeks on a “memorable trip to Europe without children,” writes Jane. Averett was invited to a meeting and Jane went along. The first real doll appeared under the Tombes Christmas tree this year. Needless to say, they are really enjoying their little girl.

News of Carol Livesay from her mother is that Carol is Mrs. William J. Bittman, 7298 Chetbert Drive, Cincinnati, Ohio. Carol is teaching music in Cincinnati's public schools and is planning to go to the World's Fair in Canada this summer.

The Robert Callis family is five. Ann writes that the children are crazy about the baby. They all took a trip to Washington, D. C. last fall to enjoy a football weekend.

"Everything is status quo" at the home of Felice Abram Stern and Harold. Felice is busy with two children and school work. When I heard from her, she had just completed a paper that was due that afternoon.

Linda and Denby Lewis had a nice trip to New York last fall. Denby took a class and Linda helped write her reports.

Myrle Fred Bowman Smith and Ed stopped by here en route to a meeting in Chicago in Jan. The two children, Fred and Ann, are the ages of our older boys and we all had a marvelous time.

Nancy Graham Harrell, Jane Betts Schmitt, Bev Burke Dunklee, and Marcella Hammock Butts. They've left Ohio and are living in Virginia. Judy keeps busy with her new home, apartment of Psychiatry of the University of N. C. Judy keeps enjoying her new home, two little girls, and two classes she's taking at the University.

News arrived from Brigitte Zickmantel Reimer who lives in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. Brigitte is still enough of a "southern" to be cold from Nov. until March, but Douglas, 5, and Elizabeth, 3, don't mind the cold at all. She is working on her M.A. in history, but in Canada it takes two full years of study from a B.A. to an M.A. Her husband Howard teaches at one of the Winnipeg schools and is just finishing his M.A. in English.

A new address for Ann Carroll Yeaman Malcolm is R. D. #1, Sunbury, Pa. 17801 where her husband John is a pathologist at the Lancaster General Medical Clinic in nearby Danville, Pa.

Carolyn Baker reported that she keeps busy with teaching a full load and working on her M.A. in French at U. of Pittsburgh. She is busy with activities that revolve around the children—Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, choir, and P.T.A. She also belongs to the Junior Woman's Club and is active in the church (including five children, ages 10 years down to 4 years old) enjoyed a visit with the Andersons (Nancy and Claude have four sons) of Buckingham, Va.

Betsy Holland Turner and Bernie live at 429 Valley Road, Ga. 30305. They have one son, "Bee" who is three years old.

Bev Ambler Richardson and Charlie are at 1812 Mignon, Memphis, Tenn. 38107. Charlie is working on a fellowship in cardiology. They have one son, John, who was two in Dec. Bev teaches Sunday School and is an officer of the Interns and Residents Wives Organization.

Lovey Jane is treasurer for the Garden Club for the second year. They have two sons: Randy, 5, in kindergarten, and Paul, 2, usually "in trouble."

Carol Dickerson Hauflman has enjoyed a double week with baseball, reading, bowling, and volleyball. She and Chester have had a little remodeling done—a new family room and a powder room.

Jennie Sue Johnson listed in ‘Outstanding Women’

Jennie Sue Johnson ’57, director of student activities at Bluefield College, Bluefield, Va., has been chosen for listing in the 1966 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America."

The book is an annual biographical compilation of 6,000 outstanding young women between the ages of 21 and 35 who have distinguished themselves in civic and professional activities.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson is honorary chairman of the publication’s board of advisory editors and Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, honorary president of the General Federation of Women’s Clubs, is chairman.

A transfer from Mars Hill College, Miss Johnson received her B.A. from Westhampton in 1957 and her M.A. from Carver School of Missions and Social Work in 1961. She has also attended summer schools at Peabody College and at Indiana University.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Johnson of Bedford.

Laverne Watson Edwards and Bob are really enjoying their home at 206 Point Drive, Smithfield, Va. 23430. After living in aps for so long, at last, a yard! Bob is practicing law with his father and has already established his office. Becky celebrated her first birthday Feb. 26 with four admiring grandparents looking on.

Beverly Davis Floyd writes that, "In June J. P. was appointed to serve Oakland Park Methodist Church in the suburbs of Ft. Lauderdale. This is an exciting area to explore and we’re enjoying a lovely, spacious parsonage. Miami Beach—just a 45-min. drive away—is all it claims to be—plush!"

Zilpha (Z. B.) Bowling Black says she is quite pleased with her teaching job at Episcopal School in Corpus Christi. Her class consists of 17 bright 6th graders—sounds ideal. She is taking her final education course at the University of Texas and is due to leave again in March. Sue is provided with a car pool.
in January by Howard and Carol Snellenberg Kaufman, who were in New York for a few days. They talked for hours and thoroughly enjoyed you, you've seen these books and work and recently received a nice promotion. Amy, 5, is eager to enter nursery school in Sept.

Arlene Olson Jones is boning up on all kinds of Latin American geography this year to keep up with Russ. We have not heard of his mother, has it that her last year's contempt for the California school system has mellowed slightly.

Jackie Connell Atkinson is "teaching a Sunday School class of eighth grade girls this year. Their pseudo-sophistication is making old women out of them before their time! My year as Ways and Means Chairman of the Jr. Women's Club is approaching its end. Hallelujah!" Jackie is such a lovely young lady water J.W.C. and on March 11 are having a luncheon-fash show (11 stores to participate) to honor Waysboro's Outstanding Woman."

A nice long letter came from Mary Marlowe Price. She's Membership Chairman in her J.W.C. and they've taken in 20 new members this year, "so it's been quite difficult to get everyone active and to feel at home. Jay and I are staunch VPI fans. We traveled to every football game last fall—from New Orleans to Memphis, We've been to the home basketball games this winter. Jay stepped down as judge in July for the local law firm. No, both like this arrangement better—no more 2 A.M. phone calls or people telling me their problems every time I answered the phone. Right now we are . . . 4 1/2 million school bond issue. Jenny was four in Sept., '66, and Kim was 3 in Feb. '67. I hope to get them really swimming this summer. We have a marvelous new swim club and the kids love the water."

Eileen McCutcheon's engagement to Harold Hollans has been announced. They met several years ago at Becky Keller Ottinger's wedding. Harold's from Cleveland.

Margaret Griffin Thompson and Art have signed up for a garden plot on the base "but it's been so cold we haven't been able to work on it. I haven't had much luck with growing flowers so I don't know how a vegetable garden will turn out."

Eileen Cordle visited with Peggy Yarbrough Boulben the first of the year and got to see Edward and Dick in full regalia, red fringe and all. They are in Indian Guides and really enjoy it.

Peg and Mr. and Mrs. Dulin were in Texas in Feb. for a couple of weeks' visit with Barbara Dulin Polis and Charlie. Barb writes, "Well, like I told you, our 1975 was a good one with my grandma spoils me on them. Wish I could find one with 'My aunt spoils me'! We did have a great time. Chuck is a real cowboy, having lived most of his life in Texas and being born a Texan! Laurie is a doll—black hair and brown eyes—looks no kin to Chuck with his blue eyes and brown hair. I am still bowling and we're planning to have been appointed treasurer of our hospital wives group from Welford Hall Hospital."

Ten of us enjoyed a coffee at Bonnie Lewis Haynie's on March 6—Bev Eubank Evans, Nancy Phillips, Mary Elizabeth Dulin, Miriam Rothwell, Caroline Massey Shreve, Julia Jett Shepherd, Ruth Adkins Hill, Lilacu Guernet Dollard, Frankie McCagovan, and me. Elizabeth Ramos Sykes ran into her while shopping. The Weems are settled in Brunswick, Ga. "We especiaIly enjoy going to Daytona Beach several weekends a year," writes Sue. Edwin is in general practice with two partners and they are among the opening of their new office building on the first of April. The Mayos are also building a new house which they will move into in May. Melissa announces that this will be a permanent address for them at last: 2910 Wildwood Dr. Elizabeth Mayo is 5 years old and enjoys kindergarten. Laura, 3 is the lovely one in the household. The Mayos hope to come to Va. in June since Edwin's medical school celebrates a 5th reunion then. Melissa says she wants very much to talk with some old classmates while in Richmond."

Good news! We have found Nancy Rosenberg Weems. Just by chance, Peggy Gere Sykes ran into her while shopping. The Weems have moved back to the Washington area and are at 7202 S. Lee St., Va. Eddie is working with a consulting firm in Kensington, Md., working with computers. Peggy says she keeps busy with home and church work and finishing a CPA firm, Reitz & Dible.

Now let's hear from the West Coast. Skiing seems to be the favorite sport out that way and we are trying their thing here. Dru Young skied at Squaw Valley early in the season.

STUDENTS CELEBRATE
FINE ARTS FESTIVAL

Spring '67 brought another first to the University of Richmond as the students presented a fine arts festival April 3-8.

Inspired by the rapidly-rising Fine Arts Building on the Westhampton campus, students planned a week of cultural activities under the leadership of Mrs. Jeanne Begien Campbell of the University art faculty.

Musical events ranged from an organ recital by Miss Suzanne Kuid of the music faculty to a folk concert and a jazz mass.

The film "Orpheus," a surrealist adaptation by Jean Cocteau of "Orpheus," two student produced plays; a modern dance performance by Orchesis, and a panel discussion on "What's New in the Arts" were other highlights of the week.

Special art exhibitions featured photographs by Neil Beitzel; graphics by Fred Brandt, Harry Robertson and Sister Mary Corita; and paintings by Bill Slater as well as a showing of faculty and student work.

Culminating the festival was an avant-garde film presented by faculty members from Richmond Professional Institute. Entitled "Bird Park Lake," the film used three screens simultaneously plus live actors.

Mrs. Campbell commended the students for their "vision and hard work" in bringing a full week of special cultural events to the campus.

I traveled with my parents to the Holy Land, Egypt, Istanbul, Athens, Rhodes, and Crete.

I liked the Mediterranean through a movie set—only it was real as can be," says Dodie. "Saloons, hotels, the sheriff's office, boarding houses, general store, and ice cream parlor--that was the Wild West of the late 19th century. The ski runs themselves wind down through the deserted mining complex on the mountainside and past the crumbling, boarded up buildings where the miners lived. It was quite a different place to ski!"

Dodie also plans to ski at Yosemite. She reports that Californians have enjoyed a very pleasant winter.

Jean Chou Lee made a trip to Santa Barbara to visit her sister and Tung are planning a visit to the mountains in the next few weeks to give B.J. his first experience with show. Jean visited with Lynn Stephenson Cox 61 recently and the two girls attended an AAWU luncheon together.

Ruth Greenfield Zinn and Steve made a recent trip to Washington D.C. so that Steve could talk with Public Service officials. Ruth is scheduled to enter that Service in July. The Zinns combined business with pleasure by staying with Kitty Whitty Fiege and John for four leisurely days in the nation's capital. They will return next year and the Fiegues visited with the Zinns and Gloria Vieguer Price and George skiing at Mammoth Mountain in the Sierras where Robley attended biochemistry meetings.

Dean of Women at Miami University where 11,000 students keep her busy. Her address is 215 N. Campus, Apt. 5, Oxford, Ohio 45056.

Joyce Davidson Wasserman has a new address in Calif. and a great deal of news. “The life pool apartment. I have been a ‘lady of leisure’ since we got here the end of June. We spent the 4th of July weekend in Las Vegas. We saw Security. She says that even though Wheeling the 4th of July weekend in Las Vegas. We saw the Johnny Mathis show at the Greek Theatre and went to Disneyland. I'd love to hear from some of our classmates. If anyone comes out here, please tell them to let me know.

Ann Peavy stays busy working for Social Security. She says that even though Wheeling is “Kind of small there is always something to do and somewhere to go. And when all else fails I can always go to Pittsburgh which is only an hour and fifteen minutes away. In fact, I never seem to have a free minute. My sister and her husband are living in New York City, and I've spent quite a few weekends with them.” Jane Pitts McAllister writes: “Jack and I have been living here in Germany since Sept. '65, Jack being stationed at Sembach Air Force Base. We will return to the States in the summer of '68, when Jack will begin a residency in neurosurgery, location undecided. This town is fabulous, giving us a wonderful opportunity to travel. Sembach is approximately a 90-min. drive southwest of Frankfort, on the autobahn, in case any W.C. friends are in this area. We have two children John, 3, and Sarah Baie, 2.”

Sandy Walker is working in the offices at American University instead of in the classrooms this semester. But as her work toward an M.A. in Public Administration is almost complete, she plans to be a full-time student again in the near future.

Bonnie Cox Womeldorf and Raymond have wonderful news, a daughter, Carole Ann, arrived on Jan. 8, to join them at 3706 Reno Road, N.W., Washington, D.C.

“Luigi” (Louise DeCosta) recently had a well deserved vacation from her busy Peace Corps duties in Bombay. She spent “a marvelous week” in Goa (formerly Portuguese India) where the people have retained all the “old country” traditions and customs including the Portuguese language. She reports this territory to be “truly a paradise, one of the few areas in India that is free from hunger.” Luigi sends her greetings to the class. Until her return home sometime next fall, her address is: Family Service Center, 5 Convent St., Fort Colaba, Bombay, India.

Mary Burks Pipes writes that their little Sarah Burks is a red-head with brown eyes and will be a good match for Suzanne and Don's red-headed Matthew. Noland is working hard during Lent, but they love New Orleans. During the Mardi Gras activities people in the church sent them many invitations to the balls which they thoroughly enjoyed.

Nancy Edwards Battenner and Brantley took an early “summer” vacation to Daytona Beach, Fla., because they are building a house this spring and Grantley’s busy season (he is in the tobacco business processing, P. Lorillard Co.) starts July 1.

Minna Wilson Hall and Bill sent news of a son, Michael Wilson, who was born on Jan. 24.

Jennie Stokes Howe writes: “We've been in and out of Philadelphia a lot in the past few weeks, but with just enough time to stop and pay the tolls. Bob came back from Viet Nam on Feb. 11, and since then we've been visiting between Va. and his family in Collingswood, N. J. We are now all packed and awaiting our port call, expecting to fly from McGuire AFB to Sandhofen, Germany any day now. We are both looking forward to this assignment and are so glad we are in such a perfect area for sightseeing—right near Heidelberg. If any Westhamptonites are touring Germany within the next year or two, we'd love some visitors. Our address will be: 65-Ath St. Det., Sandhofen, Germany, APO 09028.

Lyne Stephenson Cox and Skip report the birth of their second son, Douglas Price, on Jan. 24. Lynne and Skip have taken up Greek folk dancing, and Lynne is also studying international cooking through the University Women's Group. Skip continues night school at UCLA and was recently promoted to Field Engineering Supervisor for Bendix Corp. Lynne is Prize Chairman for an AAUW Fellowships fund-raising fashion show in April.

Betsy Wade Hanton Jones writes that she stopped teaching the end of Jan. and is having a great deal of fun outside during the lovely spring weather. She and Jerry went to New Windsor, Md., to visit Marcia Bowman Mosby and Sandy in Feb. Betty Wade and Jerry loved Marcia and Sandy's big, old home and their son, Chris, 3, and daughter, Laura, seven months.

Barbara Ross Cobb and Alan have been transferred to Philadelphia and have bought a four-bedroom home. Barbara says she is so excited to be having some roots (and a washer and dryer that don't eat quarters). Their new address is 101 Rodney Circle, Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Lillian Subley writes of three trips to Washington, D. C., in two weeks. Two were for... fun, but one was a field trip taking 45 students to the National Gallery of Art, then out to dinner and then to see Moliere's Les Femmes Savantes performed in French by a French company. Lisa says she will look forward to a week end with Irene Bambuces Rouso and Bill during which they plan to see "The Inspector General."

Suzanne Dupey Black and Don had a nice week end visit with Gwynn Barefoot Raper and Jerry and two of their children when the Rapers visited Acacoma.

Kitty Horburn Neale and Hoby welcomed a baby girl on Feb. 11. They have named her Frances (Franny) Anne Roper.

Mary Catherine Sellers Dunn is rather involved in the Thomas Jefferson Junior Woman's Club, including teaching knitting classes at the Bon Air School for Girls. She would like to thank the following girls for their help in the 1967 Alumnae Fund campaign: Lillian Subley, Jean Stenestreet Mann, Sandra Smith Young, Betty Pritchett White, Cynthia Deelhouser Foltz, Joyce Slaven Scher, Betty Miller Morris, Judy VandenBoegh Carroll, Sallie Magruder Rawls, Pat Cluverius Goodman and Betty Wade Blanton Jones.

Jackie Thomas Thomas and Jake keep busy with their daughter, "Christy." Jackie also does some tutoring and helps out in the "Bargain Shop" near their home.

We owe many thanks to Robert Carroll, manager of Richmond's Willow Lawn Everett Waddell. He has given the class of 1975 a beautiful black leather scrapbook with Class of 1961 printed in gold on the front. Thank you sincerely, Robert.

We need pictures for our scrapbook. Please send them to Mary Catherine Sellers Dunn. Do not send them to me.

Don't forget the Alumnae Fund. We need to up our percent of members contributing. If you wish your contribution to go toward our Carole Johnson Fund, then mark it accordingly. Let's be sure to remember our Carole Johnson Fund.

Please send all address changes to Mrs. Booker and to me. We need the correct address for Anne Mason if anyone knows it.

Charlotte (Adams) Higgs writes from Anchorage, Alaska that she and Wilson are the parents of a girl. David Wilson, born in Dec. Big sister Kathryn is attending a preschool nursery which Charlotte feels is one of the best programs she has ever seen. They have enjoyed the winter in Anchorage, and are avid ski fans. No longer do they have to wait in line for they have their own equipment now. Charlotte says it's a great sport and could be a deciding factor in which they settle one day. They have another year and a half duty in Alaska, and then four years of eye, ear, nose and throat residency.

Another medical wife and happy mother is Sheila Shochat who, along with husband Steve, is delighting in the birth of daughter Francine Jarrett. Sheila says that after six years of marriage, they are terribly excited parents. They will be in St. Louis, Missouri for another year and a half, at which time Steve will complete his training in general surgery at Barnes Hospital. From St. Louis, they will go to Boston where he will be a resident in pediatric surgery at Boston Children's Hospital.

It was nice to hear from Iris (Credtcel) Jarrett who is now in North Wilkesboro, N. C. Husband Doug, was transferred from South Hill, Va. to elect new officers at the vet. They are close to Charlotte and Winston-Salem and would love to see any Westhamptonites who might be in this area. They have moved into a house and Iris says she thoroughly enjoys it but it surely keeps her busy. Her letter sent news that Gail (Glover) Chaneille and Bill have a little girl born last May. They, too, have bought a house and are living in Newport News.

Other news from Newport News comes from Melinda (Holden) Haid. Her husband, Bob, is stationed at Fort Eustis, Va., but just returned there last Aug. after a year in Vietnam. While in Vietnam, he was promoted to captain and now has to decide whether or not he is going to stay in the Army. Melinda had a visit from Anne Marrow Donley and also from Sharon Alderson O'Connor when she and Tom were home for the Christmas holidays. Melinda and Bob are living in a house about five minutes from the post.

I had a nice chat with Libby (Wampler) Jarrett on the phone. Harry has two more years of obstetrics at M.C.V. and Libby stays busy at home with her two children, a German Shepherd dog and a Siamese Cat. She says it's like a zoo in their apartment. Besides household and family duties, Libby was in the production of "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off!" at the Banksdale Theater in Hanover, Va., and thoroughly enjoyed it, in spite of the hectic schedule it demanded. She also sings with the College Alumnae Chorus here under the direction of Mr. Erb. She said she hoped to attend a part of the class reunion, but both of her sisters will be married in May and one of those will marry the week-end of the reunion. She hopes to make it to the dinner, however. Libby told me that Cathy Carr, still in New York city, is production editor at Fawcett Publications and loves the job.

All of you, I hope, have received the letter about our reunion. Please make an effort to come and make it a real success. If you cannot come, send news or photographs to me before May 1. I'm sure everyone is looking forward to seeing former college friends and it will be a fun time for husbands and dates also! And don't forget, we are meeting the week-end of the reunion. Come to the reunion! May 12-14, 1967.

Babies seem to dominate our news this time. Dennis Michael Rozum, Jr. made his appearance on Oct. 4, 1966. I never realized one child could alter a household so much! It seemed at first that all I accomplished during the day was feeding and diapering little Mike. Since then we both have adjusted somewhat to a routine, and I'm getting a little bit more accomplished.

Gail Marcus Genderson and Sam welcomed their first child, Howard Shawn, on Nov. 8, 1966. On comparing notes with Gail on our new roles as Moms, I was a little relieved to hear she was experiencing the same problems of organization and time.

The Hullie Moores (Nancy Delano) reported the birth of a daughter, Sara Delano, on Oct. 20, 1966. They are living in Charlotteville, Va., where Hullie attends the University Law School and is a member of the Editorial Board of the Virginia Law Review.

While Christmas shopping I saw Joan Lee Wright Myrick at Miller and Rhoads. She is back in Richmond and again working at the Federal Reserve Bank. Darryl and she spent about six months at Fort Campbell, Ky, before he was shipped overseas. He is serving at a supply depot in Viet Nam. During Nov. he was given a week's rest and leave so he met Joan Lee in Honolulu. She is eagerly looking forward to June when he returns.

On Oct. 15 Sally Clark became Mrs. Joseph Harrington Crooker in Farmville. Joe is a native of Maine, works for AT&T in White Plains in the engineering department. Sally is still working there as a programmer. She writes that they had a wonderful honeymoon in Bermuda and are now renting an apartment in Harrison, N. Y. She hopes anyone visiting the New York area will stop by. After graduating from W. C. in January '63 Jeanie Harrison Fisher joined her husband George at the University of South Carolina. She worked in the acquisitions department of the graduate library at the school and really loved it. She dealt with publishing companies here and abroad and handled all the Spanish orders. By the time she left she could also get along pretty well in French and German and could make heads and tails of Russian. After George graduated in June 1965 they returned to Norfolk where he joined Colonial Stores as the assistant advertising manager for this division. Jeanie worked for the Norfolk Public Library as an assistant to the librarian in the Young Adult Department. Last June

In examining the latest address run-off from the Alumnae Office, I see that many of you have moved to new areas. I am anxious to know how you are finding your new group leaders. I am also looking forward to hearing from all who will be completing their graduate work in June. Many thanks to our alumnae group leaders and to others who helped out on the Alumnae Fund drive. Just think of all that could be accomplished if each one in our big class of ’64 gave just five dollars.

It seems that very little has been happening with the girls of our class during the long winter months. It is always good to receive the news from the class, however, so that we can pass it on to everyone.

Nancy Curtis Wood has recently been made a supervisor in the Computer Room at C&P Telephone Co. She and Ken are still in Rich­mond. Nancy is busy now with the plans for our first class reunion which will be held in May. We do hope that a large group will plan to attend.

The “ski bug” seems to have gotten to several of the girls in the class. Cheryl Kerr and Mary Ellen Kyle have done lots of skiing in Vermont this winter. Even some of the Richmond girls have the “bug.” Dianne Minter and Wanda Fearman have done the same and union ski trip to Bryce’s Ski Lodge at Bryce, Va.

I recently received a newsy letter from Pattie Wood Tiller. She is living in Franklin and still teaching first grade in Newcoms with second grade reading and phonics thrown in for good measure. She and Billy recently attended the Southeastern Conference of Optometry in Atlanta, Ga. Margie Moreau and Medie Sims Wiley, a two year member of our class. She is doing secretarial work while Andy finishes school at Georgia State.

Another two year member of the class, Patsy Saifelle Ferguson, had a daughter, Carole Vin­cent born Oct. 12.

Engagements still take a place in the life of our class. Susan Darden is engaged to Larry Forberger, a sophomore from our class who will graduate from medical school at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn. in June. A June wedding is planned for July 8. Congratulations!

Linda Jones is planning a June wedding. She is engaged to Lindsay Wood of Cleveland, Ohio. Linda met “Ship” at N. C. State while he was working on a Ph.D. in zoology and is planning to attend.

Linda is working on a M.S. in entomology. They plan to honeymoon in Scotland.

Janet Renshaw is engaged to Dr. Robert Carnighan who has a Ph.D. in chemistry and will graduate from medical school at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn. in June. A June wedding is being planned.

Linda Webb Tallafarco is teaching seventh grade at the Lincoln School in Chesterfield County. Bill has recently returned from Viet Nam and is now doing post graduate work at the School of Business Administration at the University of Richmond.

Elizabeth Harrison is now student teaching in Hanover, Ind., where Richard is a physics professor. They have a most interesting home, a houseboat. Of course, during the winter they had to move out, but they planned to move back in the spring.

Linda Holt Lilly and Eddie recently attended an AMA convention at the Homestead. Linda, too, has been to a language convention at Washington.

Susan Gunn Courrow now has a job as a programmer analyst with Systems Engineering Corporation in Richmond. Her husband, Randy, is doing the same type work with Baker Equipment Engineering Company.

Frances Caudill is in Aschoffenburg, Germany, where her husband is stationed with the army medical corps. They have a son, Mark, born Sept. 26.

Pam August Leicht and Philip are the proud parents of a girl, Deanna Lee, born Feb. 20. Philip is going into military service in Louisiana for six months and then into the reserves. During this time Pam will be at home with her parents in Silver Spring, Md.

Carolyn Jackson Mears and Gerzy have a daughter, Liana Lynn, born Feb. 15. Congratulations!

I am sure everyone has received a letter concerning the Alumnae Fund. Let’s all keep this in mind and not forget to make a contribution.

Nancy Saunders Pierce and Will have a daughter, Charlyn Scott, born Dec. 4. They are now in Arlington and Will will leave for military service in April.

Barbara Royster and her husband are now making their home in Burlington, Vt.

The marriage of Linda Daye Davis to Paul Michael Roane took place this past Jan.

Carol Bashaw Collins and her husband, Bill, are now living in Carbondale, Ill. Carol is working in chemical research and will not be involved with statistics; Bill is working toward a Ph.D. in economics at Southern Illinois University.

Faye Dixon Taylor is employed as a research assistant on the organic laboratory at the American Tobacco Company.

Linda Hyman passed the actuarial exam in Statistics which she took in Nov. Congratulations, Linda!

That’s all the news for now. May Day is May 6th; I hope to see all of you there. Don’t forget the Baby Cup. As this is our first year as Alumnae, let’s support the Alumnae Fund and have a high percentage of participation.

Judith Mae Eastman was married to James Rex Britton, Jr. on Dec. 30, 1966. Judy and husband are staying in the Richmond Symphony and teaching private music lessons.

Brenda Ellis Nuara is teaching at Varina High School, Varina, Va., while her husband, Joe, is attending M.C.V.

The marriage of Linda Daze Davis to Paul Michael Roane took place this past Jan.

WESTHAMPTON ALUMNAE LOCAL CLUBS

Atlanta Alumnae Club

The Atlanta Club of Westhampton alumnae gathered at the Sheraton-Emery Inn the evening of Feb. 4 for a dinner meeting. We were joined by Mrs. Leslie Booker, Alumnae Secretary, and Mrs. Betty Ann Allen Dobb, Alumnae President. After an enjoyable informal evening with news and conversation about college and alum­nae activities followed by a showing of slides of today and yesterday on campus.

Inquiry cards were sent out by Mrs. Booker, Alumnae Secretary, to investigate the feasibility of starting a Westhampton Alumnae Club for the campus. The response was sufficient to have Mrs. Booker come to Baltmore for the first alumnae meeting held at the home of Gevie Nager Windle, co-hosted by Lauretta Taylor Sullivan, and attended by 12 alumnae. Mrs. Booker showed slides, old and new, of the campus which brought back fun memories and brought us up to date on the progress being made.

As there are 22 former Westhamptonites living in South Florida, we hope to have a bigger turnout for our next meeting.

The Martinsville area alumnae met Feb. 1 for a luncheon in the home of Mrs. Virginia Barnes (Mrs. Lewis Neal, ’57) in Bassett. The above co-chairmen were elected at the meeting and Polly Newman Smith (Mrs. John R.) was elected secretary-treasurer. Mrs. R. E. Booker Windle was kind enough to make the trip from Richmond to be with us, and also to bring Westhampton’s lovely Dean of Students, Miss Keith, with her. We spent the too short time more enjoyably while being informed of all the latest campus news and activities.

A dinner has been planned for March 28 at the Forest Park Country Club, with Martinsville’s current Westhampton students, next year’s freshmen and prospective Westhampton students as guests.

Peninsula Alumnae Club
Chairmen: Mrs. Douglas Powell (Harriett Smith, ’49)
4 Club Terrence, Newport News, Va.
Mrs. Arthur G. Lambotte (Susan Rife, ’59)

On March 3 the Peninsula Westhampton Alumnae Club had a joint dinner meeting with the University of Virginia alumnae at El’s Restaurant in Hampton. Dean William Muse of the T. C. Williams Law School was the speaker for the occasion. There were 62 people attending.

The annual spring luncheon meeting is planned for March 28 at Swift Creek Mill Playhouse. There were 108 alumnae and friends who enjoyed dinner and the play, “Tchin-Tchin,” and a profit of $104 was earmarked for the Alumnae Fund. Phyllis Lewis Neal, ’57, was chairman.

The Richmond Alumnae Club has a most successful theater party Feb. 6 at 5806 Franklin Ave., McLean, Va.

1894—
William Eife Long, former commissioner of accounts for Albemarle County Circuit Court and a Charlottesville lawyer for almost 70 years, died in Charlottesville in March. He was 93.

Long was a veteran of the Spanish-American War and began practicing law in Charlottesville in 1897.

1905—
Rev. C. B. Falls, retired Baptist minister, died January 2 at the age of 89.

Mr. Falls was ordained into the ministry in 1905 and served as pastor of churches in Richmond as well as in Maryland, Texas, Florida, South Carolina, and Washington until his retirement in 1949.

He attended the University of Richmond from 1901 to 1904 and then went on to the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky., to further his training in the ministry.

He had also served as president of ministerial associations in Richmond and in Washington.

He had resided in Richmond since his retirement.

Jesse F. Wood, a retired vice president of State-Planters Bank and Trust Company in Richmond, died February 15. He was 80.

Mr. Wood began his career with the former Richmond and Trust Company in 1912. He joined State-Planters Bank in 1918 and served as manager of the savings department, assistant cashier, vice president, and vice president and cashier. After his retirement in 1951, he was associated with the real estate office of Elam and Funsten for 10 years.

Mr. Wood was a former president of the Richmond chapter of the American Institute of Banking, former chairman of the Virginia Bankers Association committee on banking education and public relations, as well as chairman of the VBA committee that inaugurated the first summer school for bankers at the University of Virginia. He served as the first president of the Richmond First Club and was campaign chairman of the Community Fund in 1939.

He was a member of Grove Avenue Baptist Church and taught the Jesse Wood Bible Class of 100 men from 1938 until 1962, when poor health forced his retirement.

He is survived by a daughter and two sisters.

1910—
Judge Leon M. N. Bazile, died in March at his home near Atlee, Hanover County, at the age of 76.

Judge Bazile was a retired Circuit Court judge and an authority on the history of his native Hanover County. He had spent a lifetime in public service in the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of the state government.

After having served for 14 years as assistant attorney general for the state and for six years in the House of Delegates, he was appointed to the judgeship of the 15th Judicial Circuit in 1941. He retired from that post in 1965 because of ill health.

Judge Bazile wrote many historical tracts, particularly about Hanover, and had compiled a history of the county which was unfinished at his death.

He is survived by his wife Mrs. Virginia Bowcock Bazile and a daughter, Mrs. John E. Miller of Melbourne Beach, Fla.

Dr. John Wesley Elliott, a leader in national and international Baptist activities and a former president of Alderson-Broaddus College in Philippi, W. Va., died January 23. He was 75.

At the time of his death he was serving his third pastorate at the Millers Mills Baptist Church at West Winfield, N. Y. He held degrees from he University of Chicago, and Colgate University in addition to the University of Richmond.

After his ordination in 1917 at the First Baptist Church in Canton, N. Y., he served as pastor of the First Baptist Church at Haddonfield, N. J. and Central Baptist Church at Wayne, Pa. He was appointed president of Alderson-Broaddus College in 1939. Prior to his college post, Dr. Elliott was affiliated with the American Baptist Publication Society and traveled extensively throughout the country to promote its activities.

Dr. Elliott also held official positions with the Federal Council of Churches, the International Council of Religious Education and the International Reform Federation.

He is survived by his wife and three children.

Dr. Harry Lee Claud, a founding member and vice president of the board of directors and former head of the Department of Surgery at Doctors Hospital, in Washington, D.C., died on September 6. He was 68.

Born in Southampton County, Dr. Claud received his medical degree from the Medical College of Virginia. He interned at the Richmond General and was an associate surgeon to the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. from 1922 until 1924. A past president of the Washington Academy of Surgery and the Southeastern Surgical Congress, he was a former chairman of the Council of the Southern Medical Association and former vice president of the American Therapeutic Society.

Dr. Claud is survived by his wife, and two daughters.

Rev. Thomas P. Reynolds, of Cumberland County, Va., died at the Virginia Baptist Hospital on November 27. He was 62.

Mr. Reynolds served a field of churches in the Virginia county for nearly 34 years. He was a former secretary for the Baptist Training Union and a member of the Baptist General Board.

He received his education at Southern Baptist Seminary and the Union Seminary in Richmond in addition to the University of Richmond.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD FOR COL. JESSE MABREY JOHNSON

A memorial service for the late Col. Jesse Mabrey Johnson, a devoted leader in the Baptist denomination in Virginia, and a Richmond Attorney, was held at the Mt. Zion Baptist Church in New Canton, Va.

Col. Johnson, who held several important positions in Baptist organizations, received his early Christian training at the Mt. Zion Church.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church in Richmond and a teacher of the Austin-Wright Bible Class there. He served as moderator of the Dover Baptist Association, president of the Baptist General Association of Virginia, and as president of the Virginia Baptist Foundation, Inc., the financial organization responsible for the investment of Baptist funds in Virginia. He was a member of the Board of Trustees for Virginia Baptist Home, Inc., and the Virginia Baptist Hospital.

Col. Johnson did his undergraduate work at Washington and Lee University, and his LLB degree from the University of Richmond in 1922.

At the time of his death in June of 1966, Col. Johnson had been in the practice of law for 45 years.

He saw active service in World War I and concluded his active duty in World War II as Judge Advocate General of the IX Corps in Japan. He spent nine months on active duty in the Korean War and retired in 1960 as a Colonel in the Air Force Reserve. became an increasingly important crop and manufactured item in Virginia and North Carolina and soon spread to other states. It was during this period that trade names were developed, especially for chewing tobacco, and brands such as Lone Jack, The People's Choice, Cherry Ripe and Diadem of Old Virginia became famous all over the land. One of the most famous of all the mid-nineteenth century tobacco manufacturers was James Thomas, Jr. of Richmond, who subsidized the struggling institution, Richmond College.

The War Between the States brought disaster to the tobacco industry. Tobacco lands were needed for other crops, warehouses were looted, and export trade diminished, but there was one ray of hope. The same northern soldiers who had looted the warehouses and had developed a taste for the southern product wrote back after the war seeking more of this superior product. They became the "salesmen" for this product of the New South.

Many of the earlier manufacturers of tobacco products never resumed production after the war, but a breed emerged from the ruins. The most famous of these was Washington Duke, a member of the independent, small-farmer class, the backbone of the anti-bellum South. With only a fifty-cent piece, a pair of blind mules, an ancient wagon and a small quantity of cured Bright Tobacco, he and his sons, Buck and Ben, set out to market their new smoking tobacco Pro Bono Publico. Through hard work and shrewd business they built the company into one of the giants by the end of the century. Years later, Buck, now known as James B. Duke was to give Trinity College millions of dollars. This Trinity College was the beginning of Duke University.

The later part of the twentieth century saw a shift from snuff, chewing tobacco, and pipe tobacco to cigarettes. The famous brands of chewing tobacco such as Kohinoor, Zuleika, Limited Plug, and Marrowbone, were being replaced by Bull Durham, Fatima and Zaubela. With the rise in the popularity came new attacks upon the tobacco industry. Some of these attacks were on the basis of health. Men such as Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford condemned the cigarette and some states passed laws restricting the use of tobacco. Other attacks were against the companies for violation of the Sherman Anti-trust Act. The most famous of these resulted in the dissolution of the American Tobacco Company.

In spite of warnings against smoking as a health hazard, increased taxation, and governmental regulations on production and manufacturing, the tobacco industry has prospered during the twentieth century.

Dr. Robert has done an excellent job. Any man who can weave Benjamin Latrobe, Mike Fink, Charles Dickens, Gilbert Stuart and Madame Chiang Kai-shek into a book on the history of tobacco deserves to be read.

Crute

60-yard dash. Trying to defend his title this year he ran a sizzling 22.2 to win his heat but was second in the final won in 21.8.

Bob has been a major factor in the Spiders’ domination of the sprints in the state, starting with McCormick’s victory in the 100 in 1963. Richmond has won this event every year since as well as the 220 since 1964. Rod Cameron, a junior, ran a strong second to Crute last year and sophomores Dave Smith, Ted Bisterfeld, and Tyron Aron give the sprint corps exceptional strength this spring.

Crute and his co-captain, Allen Saville, give the track team outstanding leadership. Saville, ace middle distance runner, won the 600 in both the State and Southern Conference Indoor Meets (school record 1:12.5) this winter and also competed in the NCAA Meet. He ran a blistering 1:53.0 for a school 880 record in the Washington & Lee outdoor opener and anchors the crack mile relay team.
