The Richmond Intercollegiate Orchestra is an ensemble comprised of students from both the University of Richmond and Virginia Commonwealth University, as well as guests from Richmond area high schools. In addition to tonight's concert, which caps off the Spring semester, the orchestra has recently performed David Diamond's Rounds in the UR dance company's production of Eric Hawkins Classic Kite Tails, and has also accompanied trumpeter Rex Richardson in VCU's annual Scholarship Benefit Concert.

The ensemble is conducted by James Wilson, cellist and Coordinator of Stringed Instruments at VCU. Mr. Wilson would like to express his gratitude to the members of the orchestra, who have made such great music and such memorable moments over the past two years.
