

Richmond Public Interest Law Review

Volume 27
Issue 2 2024 Symposium

Article 3

5-17-2024

Letter From The Symposium Editors

Nicole Evans

Erin Sweet

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarship.richmond.edu/pilr>

Part of the Public Law and Legal Theory Commons

Recommended Citation

Nicole Evans & Erin Sweet, Letter From The Symposium Editors, 27 RICH. PUB. INT. L. REV. xiv (2024).
Available at: <https://scholarship.richmond.edu/pilr/vol27/iss2/3>

This Prefatory Matter is brought to you for free and open access by the Law School Journals at UR Scholarship Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Richmond Public Interest Law Review by an authorized editor of UR Scholarship Repository. For more information, please contact scholarshiprepository@richmond.edu.

LETTER FROM THE SYMPOSIUM EDITORS

Nicole Evans and Erin Sweet

Dear Readers,

As you read this Symposium Issue of Volume XXVII of the Public Interest Law Review, we hope to take you on a journey through the complex and myriad issues of special education law. You will see the tensions between federal and state laws, the limits of available resources and protections, and the ways our systems fail in sometimes competing ways. We chose this topic not only because of the salience—as our education system post-COVID-19 feels the ever-growing effects of special education deficits—but also because of our passions. As law students, we could not find these subjects in a single class or club—but sprinkled sporadically throughout—mere blips in the curriculum. We wanted to use our chance, as symposium editors, to bring to everyone’s attention these important and fascinating issues that truly affect us all.

Thank you for reading,

Nicole Evans and Erin Sweet

Symposium Editors