

11-2002

Preface

Heather King Hays

University of Richmond Law Review

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarship.richmond.edu/lawreview>

Recommended Citation

Heather King Hays, Preface, 37 U. Rich. L. Rev. xvii (2002).

Available at: <https://scholarship.richmond.edu/lawreview/vol37/iss1/3>

This Prefatory Matter is brought to you for free and open access by the Law School Journals at UR Scholarship Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in University of Richmond Law Review by an authorized editor of UR Scholarship Repository. For more information, please contact scholarshiprepository@richmond.edu.

PREFACE

The University of Richmond Law Review presents the 2002 Annual Survey of Virginia Law. This edition continues the seventeen-year tradition of providing insightful analysis of the legislative, administrative, and judicial developments in Virginia over the past year. Each article is authored by a practitioner or professor who is an expert in his or her field and provides not only a summary of important legal developments, but offers practical commentary from each author on the ways in which these changes may affect practicing attorneys in Virginia. In addition to covering traditional legal fields, the 2002 Annual Survey of Virginia Law also includes a Foreword by the new Governor of Virginia, the Honorable Mark Warner.

The 2002 Annual Survey of Virginia Law could not have been published without the hard work and dedication of many individuals. The Law Review extends its great appreciation to all the authors for the time and effort they expended in writing their articles. I would like to personally thank the Law Review Staff and Editorial Board for their time and effort over the summer and fall semester. My thanks to Georgia Hamilton and Larry Parker, who served as a constant resource and whose diligence and steady work ethic eased the book through all of its deadlines. My immense gratitude to Glenice Coombs whose valuable insight, possession of many years worth of institutional history, hard work, and unflagging sense of humor smoothed the rough edges of the publication process. Finally, I would like to thank Alex and Sharon Hays, Ti and Kathrin Hays, and Greg Pimentel for their steadfast support of me and my work over the past year.

It has been such an honor to serve as the Annual Survey Editor. Thank you for your support and patronage.

Heather King Hays
Annual Survey Editor

