5-2004

Acknowledgements

W. Alexander Burnett

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarship.richmond.edu/lawreview

Recommended Citation

Available at: https://scholarship.richmond.edu/lawreview/vol38/iss4/2
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The 2003–2004 staff is pleased to present Volume 38 of the University of Richmond Law Review. The publication of Volume 38 marks another successful year for the Law Review and evidences the continued rise of the journal. As each new staff strives to improve the quality of the publication, it is appropriate to take a brief look back at our accomplishments in 2003 and 2004.

In November 2003, we published the eighteenth edition of the Annual Survey of Virginia Law. This issue continued in its tradition of providing Virginia practitioners with an update of the developments in Virginia laws. The 2003 Annual Survey also celebrated the life of John W. Edmonds, III, a dedicated member of the Law Review’s Advisory Board for over thirty years and a leader of the Virginia bar throughout his career.

The January 2004 issue reflected a national scope with an article about state corporate governance, liability waivers in tort claims, and Internet sting operations. Based on the 2003 Allen Chair Symposium on Judicial Independence, the 2004 Allen Chair issue featured remarks by Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist, the Honorable Kenneth W. Starr, Professor H. Jefferson Powell, as well as articles by Professor Penny J. White, Professor Michael G. Collins, and Professor W. Hamilton Bryson. Finally, the May 2004 issue features general articles about Internet pornography laws, the international regulation of price controls on pharmaceuticals, age discrimination, and English divorce law.

Our success this year would not have been possible but for the unwavering effort of our Editorial Board and Staff. Despite inevitable time constraints, we printed all four issues on time or early, and that is a tribute to all of those who volunteered their time. In particular, the Law Review is grateful to our faculty advisors, John Douglass and Carl Tobias, for their invaluable advice. Brent Timberlake, Jaime Henshaw—and most of all Cheryl Call—deserve special thanks for working overtime and asserting leadership throughout the year to ensure our success. Finally, without the hard work, guidance, and patience of Glenice Coombs, our transitions this year would have been difficult and our work would not have been as prompt or precise. Thank you, Glenice—we could not have done it without you.

We hope you will continue to read the University of Richmond Law Review. Thank you for your support and patronage.

W. Alexander Burnett
Editor-in-Chief