GUEST ARTIST

Laura Ann Singh is a multilingual American singer, recording artist and composer, often associated with música popular brasileira and Latin boleros. A founding member of the ensemble Miramar, she has performed internationally in Europe, Russia, and South America, as well as the Tiny Desk concert series on NPR, and headlined the annual Globalfest festival in New York City. She has recorded music for Daptone Records, Barbés Records, Electric Cowbell, and Venus Records. In 2023, she was the featured vocalist on the Doug Richard Jazz Orchestra’s album Through A Sonic Prism and Scott Clark’s Dawn and Dusk. Her repertoire pulls from all over Latin America, especially Brazil, but includes American Songbook standards, women composers, and original music. She graduated from the University of Richmond in 2002.
